Big Rock Concert At Sears Point

The Rolling Stones' search for a place to stage an enormous concert — free to the public — has ended.

Spokesmen for the Stones announced yesterday that the British rock group, together with the Grateful Dead and the Jefferson Airplane, would perform from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday at Sears Point International Raceway in Southern Sonoma County.

More than 100,000 young people could swarm to the sprawling race track, and the California Highway Patrol is planning for a huge traffic jam.

The Stones are staging the free concert as a "thank you" for the crowds that have jammed auditoriums in East and West Coast concerts in their recent first tour of the United States in three years. Saturday's performance will conclude the tour.

Craig Murray, president of Sears Point, said as many as 200,000 rock fans may show up, but Rock Scully, Grateful Dead manager and principal organizer for the extravanganza, said he doesn't expect more than 100,000 because of the late announcement of the concert.

The biggest crowd for a race at Sears Point has been about 35,000.

Original plans had the Stones performing at Golden Gate Park, but denial of a permit because of a huge crowd was a virtual certainty. And, said Scully, spokesmen for the Stones had notified him they were negotiating with Filmways Inc., owners of Sears Point, for use of that facility.

Organizers also were reportedly seeking a site near Black Point.

Although the concert will be free to the public, possible revenue from the sale of television or movie film and recordings probably would be donated toward creation of a music center in the Bay Area, Scully said.

Although Sears Point spokesmen said they have been led to understand proceeds would go to Vietnam War relief and various charities in Sonoma County, Scully said that the Stones have expressed an interest in benefitting a center which could be used free by budding musicians.

But he added that no revenue has been assured. Negotiations are continuing for filming of the concert and, although recordings will be made, it is up to the performers to negotiate contracts for release of records, Scully said.

Scully said the Stones preferred contributing to one cause rather than dividing any proceeds.

The race track has given free use of the facility, but Scully said organizers will spend about $30,000 on insurance, building a bandstand in a bowl north of the

Fatal Dope Trial Stalls 14 Months

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Bill Yager of Corte Madera plans to make his 37th trip to the San Francisco Hall of Justice on Monday, hoping that the court will at last set a trial date for Everett LeForrest Hill.

Yager has a deep personal interest in what happens in the case of 41-year-old Hill.

Yager's son, Richard Kenneth, 20, home on furlough from an Army base in Georgia, died on Sept. 27, 1968, after hours of convulsions and hallucinations following an injection of methamphetamine ("speed"). He had attended a "speed party" in San Rafael at which the injection was given.

There were three others at the party, one of them a juvenile.

The following day, Hill was arrested in San Francisco and charged with being the supplier of the drug for the party. Inspector William Burgess of the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau said methamphetamine and film developer — which is sometimes used by "pushers" to "cut" the drug — were found in Hill's apartment by arresting officers.

Since the sale was made in San Francisco, according to Burgess, the case was turned over to San Francisco police and courts.

That was 14 months ago.

Hill made his first appearance in the case in San Francisco Municipal Court on Oct. 3, 1968. Bill Yager was there.

There were a few delays in municipal court. Yager made the trip across the Golden Gate Bridge seven times to that court. Finally, on Jan. 17 of this year, Hill was held for trial in San Francisco Superior Court on two counts of violation of Section 11913 of the Health and Safety Code: furnishing dangerous drugs.

Bail was set at $2,500. Hill posted a surety bond in that amount from Stuyvestant Insurance Co.

On Jan. 28, the case was assigned to Judge Bernard B. Glickfield. He set arraignment for Jan. 31.

The progress of the case since then has gone like this:

Jan. 31 — Arraignment continued to Feb. 7 to allow defendant to obtain counsel.

Feb. 7 — Continued to Feb. 11, same reason.

Feb. 11 — Hill appeared with Albert M. Bendick as attorney and pleaded not guilty to both counts. Case continued to Feb. 25 for setting trial.

Feb. 25 — Counsel failed to show in court. Case put over to next day.

Feb. 26 — Bendick filed a motion to set aside the charges. Case continued to March 19 for decision on motion.

March 19 — Motion denied. Case continued to April 16 for setting trial.

April 16 — Setting of trial

Unruh Tosses Hat In Governor Race

Criticizes Reagan's Friends

LOS ANGELES (UPI)— Assembly Democratic leader Jess Unruh today became the first candidate to formally enter the race for governor of California, describing Gov. Ronald Reagan as a puppet of millionaires and himself as a poor boy from Texas.

The former "Big Daddy" of the state Legislature chose a family gathering on the front porch of his suburban Inglewood home to officially launch a 1970 campaign for the office he has eyed for years.

A long-time friend of the Kennedys, Unruh faces probable opposition in the June 2 Democratic primary from San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, who last year in Chicago placed Hubert Humphrey's name in nomination for the presidency.

30 YEARS AGO

"I hitchhiked here from Texas nearly 30 years ago with little more than the clothes on my back," Unruh said in a prepared statement. "California has kept the promise it held for me.

"I run for governor because I want to keep the promise of California alive and growing for everyone."

The 47-year-old son of illiterate sharecroppers charged a "handful of half hidden millionaires call the shots in Sacramento" and must be told, "You cannot buy our government like you bought a mansion for Ronald Reagan."

BIG MANSION

Fourteen of Reagan's wealthy political and social friends early this year purchased a $150,000-plus Tudor-style mansion which the governor rents for $1,250 per month.

In a swipe at Reagan's advocacy of tuition for state college and university students, the former Assembly speaker said, "I believe that we can provide each of our children with all of the education he can use—not just what he can afford."

A recent convert to conservation, Unruh added, "I believe we can preserve and protect our natural beauty and resources and cleanse the air we breathe."

'INCOMPETENCE' CHARGE

Smog Watchdogs Twice Lambasted

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Scathing charges of "incompetence and total abuse of public trust" were leveled at Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors yesterday by a Point Richmond woman who said she had to wait four years to get a response from the district to her complaints of air pollution.

"Gentlemen, please stop choking our children," pleaded Katherine Lord. "You are on the public payroll, not industry's," she said.

"You have ignored the state Legislature's strong mandate to control air pollution, and instead passed a small handful of regulations of doubtful effectiveness, which you seem loath to enforce.

"There is much you could be doing to improve the condition of the air we breathe, but instead you continue to act as an apologist for the industrial polluters who, you know as well as I do, destroy my right to clean air at my home," Mrs. Lord declared, interrupting her attack with occasional gentle coughs.

She also criticized the 12-member board for spending time on annexing Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties "instead of working on the dreadful pollution that we have right here in the district."

Backed by about 100 muttering citizens, many of them carrying signs condemning the district, Mrs. Lord warned that "our tempers are getting short. For 14 years (the age of the district) we have heard excuses. For 14 years we have heard promises. Now, for a change, we would like some action."

Bagley Sees Reagan Truce On Withholding

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Republican chairman of the Assembly tax committee said today he won't push for income tax withholding this year if Gov. Ronald Reagan makes certain tax reform concessions.

"We're trying to look for areas of agreement," Chairman William T. Bagley of San Rafael told a reporter as his committee and its Senate counterpart opened a two-day hearing on tax reform.

Bagley said he hopes the two committees and the GOP governor's office can work together "to put together a consensus-type package which I hope we can move with in January. That is our aim."

Today's hearing explored various initiative tax reform or tax shift proposals that might go on the 1970 election ballot.

The bond crisis will be discussed tomorrow and specific tax reform topics will come under examination at further hearings in Los Angeles Dec. 16-17, Bagley said.

Bagley was the chief proponent this past year of payroll withholding of the state personal income tax — something the governor adamantly has opposed.

Asked if he plans to push withholding this session, Bagley said: "If the governor will agree to some other concepts, if the governor will back away from some of the things we found inpalatable and impossible, I certainly will withhold on any withholding."

He declined to go into specific parts of Reagan's plan last year that he found "inpalatable and impossible," but indicated a major problem was raising enough new money to offset any significant cut in property taxes.

"Property taxes in California total about $4.5 billion. If we're going to have a meaningful shift away from the property tax we've got to be talking about a package in the magnitude of a billion dollars or more," Bagley said. "Otherwise we're kidding ourselves."

The hearing came the day after the secretary of state formally approved distribution of petitions seeking ballot spots next November for two tax cut initiatives.

State officials estimated that one initiative, sponsored by the County Supervisors Association and the California Teachers As-

Year's Delay Possible In New Commute Plan

Another year's delay in setting up a new bus system for Marin commuters loomed today before a committee of the Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

The district board previously voted to set up a joint commuter bus and ferry system, predicting operation of the bus system by mid-1970.

Today, however, Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring raised the possibility of using buses powered by gas turbine engines.

He said that such buses will have "considerably more power and are therefore attractive when considering air conditioning and the Waldo Grade, are much quieter, nearly vibrationless, virtually smog free, and are expected to have almost comparable fuel consumption" as the diesel-powered bus.

However, he reported, despite hopes that gas turbine engines would be in production this coming year, it now appears production will not begin until mid-1971.

Luehring added that buses delivered next year could be converted later to gas turbines.

Luehring's report was made to the district's transporation committee, which took no action.

But Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum said he felt many people would prefer to wait an extra year rather than buy diesel buses. Several district directors murmured their agreement with Wornum's statement.

In other business, the committee recommended the hiring of a naval architectural firm to design the commuter ferry system.

The firm, Philip F. Spaulding and Associates of Seattle, Wash., was recommended for the $92,500 contract. The recommendation will go before the full board for its approval on Dec. 12.

The naval architects are to do a complete engineering study to include selection of a vessal, refine traffic projections, select ferry routes, set schedules, and prepare a cost analysis.

The work is to be done in two phases, the first within 120 days and the second 90 days later.

Cease-Fire Set For Yule, New Year's

SAIGON (AP) The South Vietnamese government today announced cease-fires of 24 hours each for Christmas and New Year's. As usual, the U.S. Command said it would go along. (See war story, page 2.)

President Nguyen Van Thieu's office said the Christmas cease-fire would begin at 6 p.m. Dec. 24 (5 a.m. EST) and end at 6 p.m. Christmas day. The announcement said the New Year cease-fire would run from 6 p.m. Dec. 31 to 6 p.m. Jan. 1.

Both sides annually call cease-fires for the Christmas period. Action drops off substantially during these cease-fires even though each side accuses the other of violations.

Last year, the South Vietnamese announced a cease-fire for Christmas but refused to call one for New Year's Day.

With memories of the big enemy offensive during the 1968 Tet cease-fire still fresh, the government did not want a New Year's truce because that would commit it to a cease-fire for Tet, the lunar new Year.

62 Perish As Jetliner Crashes Near Caracas

CARACAS (UPI)— Investigators said today the last words of an Air France jetliner pilot indicated that mechanical failure and not sabotage or a hijack attempt caused the plane to fall into the sea last night with loss of all 62 persons aboard.

"I am losing altitude and I cannot control the plane," Capt. Henry Valter radioed the control tower from 4,500 feet two minutes out of Maiquetia airport on a flight bound for Paris. The Boeing 707 plane fell four miles from the airport and exploded in an orange fireball.

The disaster was witnessed by another pilot, Capt. Jose Cabezas of the Venezuelan domestic airline Aeropostal Venezolana, who was flying 2,000 feet above the Air France jet.

"I could make out the lights of the plane as it began to rise from Maiquetia and then, suddenly, it started downwards," Cabezas said.

Robert McNamara, president of the World Bank and former U.S. Secretary of Defense, was aboard Cabezas' plane and saw the crash. He had no comment.

Investigators at the scene said "there appears to be no reason to believe the crash was caused by a hijacking attempt or sabotage."

They cited the pilot's last words as evidence of mechnical failure.

Rescue workers removed 23 bodies from the water and said they had not been mutilated, indicating the plane had not exploded in flight. The search was hampered by treacherous currents and by fears of sharks which infest the area.

No Americans were reported aboard the plane which carried 41 passengers and a double-size Air France crew of 21.

Air France said the plane was Flight 212, which originated in Santiago, Chile, and was headed for Paris with stops in Lima, Peru; Guayaquil, Ecuakdor; Bogota, Colombia; Caracas, Pointe-A-Pitre, Guadaloupe and Lisbon.

Air France said the plane carried 41 passengers and a double crew of 21.

It was the second crash of a jetliner near Maiquetia in less than a year. On Dec. 12, 1968, a Pan American World Airways jet crashed into the sea as it approached the airport, killing all 50 persons aboard.

Big Rock Concert At Sears Point

The Rolling Stones' search for a place to stage an enormous concert — free to the public — has ended.

Spokesmen for the Stones announced yesterday that the British rock group, together with the Grateful Dead and the Jefferson Airplane, would perform from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday at Sears Point International Raceway in Southern Sonoma County.

More than 100,000 young people could swarm to the sprawling race track, and the California Highway Patrol is planning for a huge traffic jam.

The Stones are staging the free concert as a "thank you" for the crowds that have jammed auditoriums in East and West Coast concerts in their recent first tour of the United States in three years. Saturday's performance will conclude the tour.

But Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum said he felt many people would prefer to wait an extra year rather than buy diesel buses. Several district directors murmured their agreement with Wornum's statement.

In other business, the committee recommended the hiring of a naval architectural firm to design the commuter ferry system.

The firm, Philip F. Spaulding and Associates of Seattle, Wash., was recommended for the $92,500 contract. The recommendation will go before the full board for its approval on Dec. 12.

The naval architects are to do a complete engineering study to include selection of a vessal, refine traffic projections, select ferry routes, set schedules, and prepare a cost analysis.

The work is to be done in two phases, the first within 120 days and the second 90 days later.

Cease-Fire Set For Yule, New Year's

SAIGON (AP) The South Vietnamese government today announced cease-fires of 24 hours each for Christmas and New Year's. As usual, the U.S. Command said it would go along. (See war story, page 2.)

President Nguyen Van Thieu's office said the Christmas cease-fire would begin at 6 p.m. Dec. 24 (5 a.m. EST) and end at 6 p.m. Christmas day. The announcement said the New Year cease-fire would run from 6 p.m. Dec. 31 to 6 p.m. Jan. 1.

Both sides annually call cease-fires for the Christmas period. Action drops off substantially during these cease-fires even though each side accuses the other of violations.

Last year, the South Vietnamese announced a cease-fire for Christmas but refused to call one for New Year's Day.

With memories of the big enemy offensive during the 1968 Tet cease-fire still fresh, the government did not want a New Year's truce because that would commit it to a cease-fire for Tet, the lunar new Year.

Adultery Law Void

ROME (AP) — In a landmark decision, Italy's Constitutional Court today voided the law making adultery a punishable crime.

The court declared "illegal" Articles 559 and 560 of the penal code.

The first article provided jail sentences of up to one year for wives convicted of a single instance of adultery. This was modified a year ago to make it equivalent to Article 560, which punished husbands only if they were convicted of living in open and continuous concubinage.

The Constitutional Court is Italy's highest. The decision is effective immediately.

New Redress Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal courts should be empowered to block demonstrators or others from interfering with "the fundamental right to free expression," the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence says.

The commission proposed yesterday that President Richard M. Nixon ask Congress to give U.S. district courts injunctive power "against the threatened or actual interference by any person . . . with the rights of individuals or groups to freedom of speech, freedom of the press, peaceful assembly and petition for redress of grievances."

Recession Fear Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon says the world economy may be plunged into recession if the United States fails to halt inflation.

Dillon, secretary under President Kennedy, told the Senate-House Economic subcommittee yesterday continued U.S. inflation threatens the stability of the dollar.

Arab Planes Duel

ADEN (AP) — South Yemen and Saudi Arabian planes dueled in the skies yesterday while troops from the two nations clashed on their border again. The fighting has been going on for a week at the southern end of the Arabian peninsula.

A military spokesman for South Yeman said today that Saudi Arabian casualties so far were 50 men killed or wounded and 13 captured. He said South Yemen antiaircraft gunners have brought down four Saudi Arabian planes, including a Hawk fighter-bomber yesterday.

The spokesman said South Yemen casualties were three men killed.

There was no word from Saudi Arabia on casualties.

NEW COMMANDMENTS DELIVERED BY AGNEW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew outlined what he called the ten commandments of protest in a speech to the nation's governors at a White House conference on drug abuse.

Agnew said the commandments, which he said were advocated by an "outspoken minority," tell the majority "Thou shalt not:

"Allow thy opponent to speak.
"Set forth a program of thine own.
"Trust anyone over 30.
"Honor thy father or thy mother.
"Heed the lessons of history.
"Write anything longer than a slogan.
"Present a negotiable demand.
"Accept any establishment idea.
"Revere any but totalitarian heroes.
"Ask forgiveness for thy transgressions, rather thou shall demand amnesty for them."

White House Swings For The Governors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House was swinging with jazz and pop music. And there was a plentiful supply of drugs and the tools of the addict.

It was the windup to President Richard M. Nixon's one-day governor's conference on drugs and narcotics last night.

The drugs were an educational display to show the 41 governors and their wives and children the folly of addiction.

The group clapped, stomped and sang to the music of New Orleans trumpet player Al Hirt and the pop recording group "The 5th Dimension."

Nixon told the governors "our greatest challenge is to provide some sense of idealism—some sense of challenge to our young people so they can be proud of their country."

He said he would propose to the National Governor's Conference in February steps to clean up the nation's air and water and improve its environment.

Hirt told reporters that performing artists should preach against the use of marijuana.

"It never appealed to me," he said. And, he added, if anyone in his band ever used it, "he'd be looking for a new job."

The musicians were surprised at the reception to their performance.

"I was expecting stuffed shirts," said bass player Ron Brown. "I see the White House really swings."

The governors' children talked with Tricia Nixon about the problem of being the offspring of celebrities. The President symphathized with them.

When Former President Harry S. Truman wrote scathing letter to a critic for his review of Margaret Truman's piano performance, "I was with him all the way," Nixon said. If critics ever wrote anything about his two daughters, he added, "I'm going to be up and at them."

Doctors Held Untrained In Sex Problems

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — It is a myth that the average physician is well trained to deal with his patients' sexual problems, a Texas psycholigist says.

Dr. James Leslie McCary, professor of psychology at the University of Houston, spoke yesterday about sex myths and fallacies to doctors attending the American Medical Association's clinical convention.

"It is a sad and unfortunate truth that except for adequate knowledge of reproductive processes, physicians as a group are grievously ignorant and actually rather prudish in matters of sexuality," he said.

Another fallacy, he said, is that sex desire and ability decrease markedly after age 40 to 50.

Sexual intercourse among the married elderly "occurs considerably more frequently than is commonly realized," he said, and quoted statistical studies to support his contention.

He said a statistical study showed: "Seven out of 10 healthy married couples who are 60 years of age or older are sexually active, and the consistent clinical observation is that of both men and women, the ones with the strongest sex drive during youth retain the greatest sex drive and virility in old age."

Another myth, Dr. McCary said, is that persons who commit sex crimes are highly dangerous, oversexed and usually get involved in progressively more serious crimes.

The sex offender "is rarely involved in nonsexual crimes," he said, adding that "only a small percentage use force or duress on their victims."

"Homicide seldom occurs in conjunction with sexual offenses," he said. "When homicide does occur in sex crimes, the offender is usually insane as well as sexually deviated."

The typical sex offender is undersexed rather than oversexed, Dr. McCary said, and is likely to be afraid of normal sexual contact.

Yank Toll Low For A Week But Casualties At 300,000

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command said today that 70 Americans were killed in Vietnam last week, one of the lowest weekly death tolls in the war. But the 1,049 Americans wounded pushed total U.S. battlefield casualties in the war past the 300,000 mark, to 300,829.

The 70 Americans killed was the lowest death toll in the past two months and was 46 per cent less than the previous week's 130 dead.

South Vietnamese and enemy casualty totals also were down last week, with the government reporting 373 of its soldiers killed and 953 wounded.

The allied commands said 2,177 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed. The week before these death tolls were 567 government soldiers and 3,220 enemy.

Explaining the reduction in battlefield deaths, the South Vietnamese military command said enemy activity last week was at its "lowest level since the beginning of the Communist winter-spring campaign" a month ago.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Command announced that American planes attacked North Vietnamese forces in Cambodia today for the second straight day, and the south Vietnamese government said its forces joined in the attack.

A U.S. spokesman said American fighter-bombers crossed Prince Norodom Sihanouk's frontier again to attack North Vietnamese forces firing 122mm and 82-mm mortars into the Cai Cai and Hong Ngu district towns and a U.S.-South Vietnamese Special Forces camp near the border about 80 miles west of Saigon.

Twenty miles closer to Saigon along the border, South Vietnamese artillery fired into Cambodia after North Vietnamese forces on the other side renewed their attack on the border town of Tuyen Binh with a barrage of 50 to 60 rockets and mortar rounds. On Wednesday, U.S. planes bombed North Vietnamese troops in Cambodia as they fled after a combined rocket, mortar and infantry assault on Tuyen Binh.

American sources in the town told Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett that the bombers killed 65 of the North Vietnamese more than two miles inside Cambodia and also smashed a Cambodian mud fort which the North Vietnamese were believed using as a spotting post for mortar attacks on Tuyen Binh.

The U.S. Command said the planes both yesterday and today were returning "enemy-initiated fire attacks originating from within the Cambodian border territory" and were exercising their "inherent right of self defense." But according to the account given Arnett of the raids yesterday, the Americans then were exercising the right of hot pursuit.

Scott, Baker Feuding Over Taxes Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans are feuding over who's to blame for an administration setback on tax legislation. And there's a hint of a future challenge to the party's leadership.

Principals in the dispute are Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott and Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, once rivals for the top GOP job.

Baker, who ran against Scott little more than two months ago, accused the Pennsylvania senator of improperly airing GOP family differences on the Senate floor.

The issue surfaced yesterday after the Senate approved an amendment sponsored by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., to boost the personal income tax exemption from $600 to $800.

President Richard M. Nixon opposed it as too expensive, and the administration insisted the Senate should stick with the terms drafted by its Finance Committee, offering a reduction in tax rates, but no increase in the personal exemption.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., came up with what he thought was a compromise, raise the exemption, but in slower steps to minimize the money loss.

When the role was called, Percy lost, Gore won, and Scott blamed the administration.

"The Treasury has gone down to a resounding, and I suppose glorious, defeat," he said. "I don't know how many Phyrric victories of this kind the Treasury is willing to risk."

Scott's complaint drew a Baker rebuttal on the Senate floor, and a stiffer one offstage. "The important part is we've got no business washing dirty linen in public, particularly on the floor of the Senate," he said in an interview.

Treasury Department tax experts, working in Scott's office near the Senate floor, helped draft the Percy proposal—but never endorsed their handiwork.

They said their role was that of technicians.

But Percy and Scott considered their participation at least tacit approval. The administration sent word it was not.

"These shots weren't called down town," Baker said. "You can't call Senate strategy and tactics from down town. It's got to happen right here."

When the role was called, Percy lost, Gore won, and Scott blamed the administration.

"The Treasury has gone down to a resounding, and I suppose glorious, defeat," he said. "I don't know how many Phyrric victories of this kind the Treasury is willing to risk."

Scott's complaint drew a Baker rebuttal on the Senate floor, and a stiffer one offstage. "The important part is we've got no business washing dirty linen in public, particularly on the floor of the Senate," he said in an interview.

Treasury Department tax experts, working in Scott's office near the Senate floor, helped draft the Percy proposal—but never endorsed their handiwork.

They said their role was that of technicians.

But Percy and Scott considered their participation at least tacit approval. The administration sent word it was not.

"These shots weren't called down town," Baker said. "You can't call Senate strategy and tactics from down town. It's got to happen right here."

Supreme Court Asked To View 'I Am Curious'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Distributors of "I Am Curious (Yellow)" have sent a copy of the Swedish sex film to the Supreme Court along with a plea that would make legal history.

Grove Press, Inc., asked the justices yesterday to conduct their own private showing of the erotic hit and conclude it is not obscene.

Beyond that, though, the American distributors asked the justices to rule that no official may prevent adults from seeing any movie in an American threater—whether it is obscene or not.

EXPANSION SOUGHT

This plea seeks to expand a major free speech ruling by the court last April that possession of obscene films or printed matter in the privacy of a man's home cannot be considered a crime.

"There is no rational distinction," attorneys for Grove Press said, "between the right of a person to satisfy his intellectual and emotional needs in the privacy of his own home and his right to satisfy those needs in the privacy of a movie theater."

Besides, they added, "only adults who voluntarily elect to see the film will view it, and they are free to leave the theater at any time if it does not meet their expectations."

The Supreme Court, in 1961, ruled the Constitution permits officials to censor films before they are shown publicly. Since then, however, the court has upset various film bans and warned that distributors must have a chance to test the censors' rulings quickly.

OPPOSE CENSORSHIP

Two justices, William O. Douglas and Hugo L. Black, are on record against movie censorship. "I would put an end to all forms of censorship and give full literal meaning to the command of the First Amendment," they said in a 1965 decision.

Customs officials seized "I Am Curious (Yellow)" when it was first imported from Sweden at the end of 1967 . The U.S. Court of Appeals in New York City ordered it released for distribution in November 1968.

Since then more than 2.5 million Americans have seen the movie in 25 states and the District of Columbia. But the film has been banned in several other states and is the subject of lawsuits in 13 states.

The current case comes to the high court from Maryland where the Court of Appeals decided in October "the dominant theme of the film, taken as a whole, appeals to a prurient interest in sex and is patently offensive."

The Marquis de Lafayette, hero of both American and French revolutions, sent the key to the Bastille to his friend George Washington, who hung it up in his house at Mount Vernon. It is still there today.

U.S. Battles Sierra Club Injunction On Mineral King

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Ninth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals will consider Monday a motion by the federal government asking the court to move faster in settling a dispute that has halted the $35.3 million Mineral King winter sports resort development in Sequoia National Forest.

The government wants the appellate court to dissolve a U.S. District Court injunction which has stalled the Mineral King project of Walt Disney Productions, Inc.

The Sierra Club, a conservation organization, obtained the injunction in August on grounds the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and the Interior failed to hold public hearings on phases of the development.

Justice Department attorneys said in their motion that the case "directly challenges fundamental management decisions" made by the Interior and Agriculture Departments.

"Delay will not only impede the ability of executive officials to manage federal land, but will cause considerable loss in revenue to the local economy, which stands to reap substantial economic benefits from the project," attorney Jacques B. Gelin argued.

An affidavit supporting the government motion was offered by Edward P. Cliff, Federal Forest Service chief.

Cliff said the injunction had held up expenditure of $22 million for an access road which was to have been started last summer.

He said Disney Productions had spent $750,000 on a master plan which the Forest Service approved last January. Continued delay, he said, could mean that Mineral King will not be developed.

"If Walt Disney Productions withdraws, it will be many years before the combination of private and public endeavor, particularly needed funding, could be brought together again," Cliff added.

Woman To Head Churches Council

DETROIT (UPIK(—Dr. Cynthia Wedel, an outspoken advocate of women's rights, today was elected the first woman president of the National Council of Churches.

Mrs. Wedel, a 61-year-old Episcopalian from Washington, D.C., defeated Rev. Albert B. Cleage Jr., a Detroit Negro pastor, in secret balloting at the NCC's triennial general assembly.

She will serve a three-year term in the highest office of the nation's largest cooperative religious body. The NCC is composed of 33 Protestant and Orthodox denominations with 45 million members.

Four Booted Over Loyalty Oath Refusal

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The University of Florida has fired three faculty members and another employee for refusing to sign a loyalty oath, and a philosophy professor says the move "accounts for why Florida has a second class university system."

The dismissals, effective Nov. 26, were confirmed yesterday by Stephen O'Connell, university president, who said he had extended the deadline for the oath signing three times and had waited "as long as is wise and loyal."

O'Connell acted in the wake of a federal court's denial last month of a temporary injunction barring enforcement of the state law requiring the oath. The injunction had been sought by the American Civil Liberties Union on behalf of 11 faculty and staff members at the university.

IDENTIFIED

Those dismissed were identified as Leroy Lamborn, an assistant law professor; Evan Suits, an intern instructor in psychology; Jerome Miller, an architecture instructor, and Ann Bardsley, a clerk in the school of journalism library. University officials said they were the only members of the staff who had not signed the oath.

Suits said he was told to sign the oath, "but for reasons of conscience I could not do so."

"The university was asking too much," Miss Bardsley said. She said it expects loyalty "on top of a lousy $277 a month take-home pay."

Dr. Thomas Hanna, chairman of the philosophy department, said 18 faculty members picketed the law building for an hour Wednesday protesting Lamborn's dismissal.

WRITES NOTE

Hanna said he signed the loyalty oath, but also wrote a note on the other side of the card.

"I signed the one side, then turned it over and wrote 'That which is signed on the reverse side I deny,' " he said. "I only signed the specified side to draw my salary and play the legislative game."

"There are no Communists here. This is merely a popular political issue which accounts for why Florida has a second class university system," Hanna said.

The loyalty oath says: "I support the Constitution of the United States and of the State of Florida. I do not believe in the overthrow of the government of the United States or of the State of Florida by force or violence."

Official Of U.C. Deplores Late-Day, Weekend Classes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Scheduling more classes in late afternoons and on weekends is not the best answer to the demand for classroom space, says a vice president of the University of California system.

Fred. E. Balderston, vice president for planning and analysis, spoke yesterday at an Assembly subcommittee hearing on space utilization in California colleges and universities. The hearing wound up today.

Balderston noted that only student working in the mornings would find it advantageous to take classes at odd hours.

Scheduling on weekend and at the dinner hour lessens a student's opportunities for part-time work and in some cases increases his commuting costs, Balderston said.

He said students should have time for athletics, student government and other activities normally scheduled in late afternoon or in the evening.

He pointed out that in the 10 years prior to 1968, total space per fulltime student in the U.C. system fell from an average of 159 square feet to 156, new campuses.

The average includes campus residential space as well as classroom and laboratory space.

The nine U.C. campuses have a combined enrollment of 106,000, 90 per cent of whom are fulltime students.

Balderston also noted that time spent in the classroom is not the best measure of teaching time and space used.

The trend is for science students to spend more time in the laboratory, and for students to work in the field for parts of their courses, he said.

Old biplanes, survivors of wartime flying schools and now much modified and pampered by their pilot-owners, account for about half the 6,000 aircraft used in modern crop dusting.

Bereaved Father Still Awaits Trial Start

postponed to May 14.

May 14 — Counsel absent again. Case put over to June 4 for setting trial.

May 26 — Bendick filed a petition for writ of prohibition, which was subsequently denied.

June 4 — Bendick again absent from court. Case continued at his request to June 25.

June 25 — Bendick again absent. Case continued at his request to July 2.

On the night of June 26, San Francisco police arrested Hill again, on a charge of selling methamphetamine to a state narcotics agent. They reported finding $1,000 worth of "speed" in his apartment (the same apartment which had yielded the earlier supply) when making the arrest. There was no mention this time of film developer.

On July 2, an indictment was filed on the second offense, alleging two more counts of drug sale; a bench warrant was issued, and bail on the new charge was set at $25,000.

On the same day, Hill appeared in court for setting of trial in the earlier case, but arrived late. Trial setting was continued a week.

On July 9, Bendick was relieved as defense counsel, at his own request. Hill was given two days to obtain new counsel.

July 11 — Hill was given three more days to obtain counsel, with July 14 set for the setting of trial in the first case and arraignment in the second.

July 14 — Hill was arraigned on the two counts arising from the June 26 arrest, with Terrence Hallinan as attorney. Hallinan moved for reduction of bail and it was reduced to $3,750. Setting of trial on the earlier charges was postponed one day because of change of counsel.

July 15 — Both cases were transferred to the court of Judge Francis McCarthy.

July 16 — Hill appeared before Judge McCarthy. Asst. Dist. Atty. Thomas F. Norman moved to have trial of the two cases consolidated. Hill pleaded not guilty to the two later charges. Setting of trial was continued to July 22.

July 18 — Judge McCarthy canceled bail on the second case and released Hill on his own recognizance.

July 22 — The motion to consolidate the two trials was granted. Setting of trial was postponed to Sept. 29.

Sept. 29 — Setting of trial was postponed to Oct. 10.

Oct. 10 — A defense motion interposed and setting of trial was put over to Oct. 17.

Oct. 17 — Defendant failed to appear in court. Setting of trial was postponed to Dec. 1.

Dec. 1 — Case was scheduled for 2 p.m. but was called up during the morning court session, with Hallinan present but Hill absent, and was continued to next Monday. Hill arrived at 2 p.m., left again.

There were some other sequels to the "speed party" which took young Yager's life.

San Rafael police were called to an apartment on Woodland Avenue by one of three others who had participated in the party, after young Yager collapsed and appeared lifeless. They arrested the three: Monty Leon Miller, 19, and Loreen Gail Edwards, 21, of San Rafael, and Kathleen Ann Oatis, 18, of Novato. All were charged with being present where narcotics were used.

Four days later, Judge Alvin H. Goldstein of Marin Municipal Court ordered Miss Oatis turned over to the probation department after her father, Paul A. Oatis Jr., said he had three younger children to rear alone and could not keep her at home. Cases of the others were continued until Feb. 11 of this year, when all three were dismissed for "insufficient evidence," at request of the district attorney's office.

As to the trial of Hill, accused as the seller, Assistant District Attorney Norman of San Francisco said today: "We're ready to go. We have been ready for a long time."

He — and Bill Yager — will be in court again Monday, hoping a date may be set for starting the trial of Everett LeForrest Hill on charges which were filed 14 months ago.

Army Probers Quiz Captain On Massacre

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capt. Ernest Medina underwent Pentagon questioning today about the alleged My Lai massacre. His lawyer said there has been "no coverup" in the case. as far as Medina is concerned.

F. Lee Bailey, representing the former commander of the Army company involved in the controversial incident, also said he has found no evidence a massacre took place at My Lai.

Medina was brought to Washington from Fort Benning, Ga., where he is stationed, to be quizzed in an Army probe of the original 1968 field investigation of the alleged mass killings.

Medina has not been charged in the incident.

Medina was the immediate superior of 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr., the Army platoon leader charged with premeditated murder in the deaths of at least 109 civilians at My Lai March 16, 1968.

The inquiry is an attempt to determine if a brigade-level investigation last year into reports civilians were killed unnecessarily was whitewashed. Interviewed yesterday were five officers who were in Vietnam at the time of the incident.

In New York, a group of former diplomats and State Department officials, including former Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, called today for an investigation of "unquestionable impartiality" into American conduct in Vietnam.

Scully scotched rumors that 100 off-duty New York policemen who patrolled New York's Woodstock Festival would be flown out. He said nonuniformed security agents would be hired locally, however.

"We think we can manage the crowds and the automobiles," Scully said. Sears Point spokesmen said the track could accommodate up to about 18,000 cars for the performance.

CHP headquarters in Santa Rosa said six traffic officers normally assigned on race days at the track would be on duty Saturday. The Sonoma County Sheriff's office said it will have extra men at the track.

Sears Point officials said no one will be allowed to sleep overnight at the track, and gates will not open until 7 a.m. Saturday.

No food will be available at the concert, officials said.

The Weather Bureau said no rain is expected Saturday, but there may be early morning fog.

Woman Is Found Dead In Apartment

The body of a 36-year-old Sausalito woman, dead for at least two days, was discovered last night in her hillside apartment.

The death of Jarmilla C. Von Kleinow of 35 Crescent Avenue was under investigation today by Sausalito police, who said the case was being treated as an "unattended death" since there was no indication of violence, Police Capt. R. D. Malkin said. A pathology report should be completed this afternoon.

Miss Von Kleinow's body was discovered, according to police, at 10 p.m. yesterday by her landlord after her former roommate called him saying she suspected Miss Von Kleinow might be dead.

The roommate, Wyoma Kerns, 44, a hostess at the Valhalla restaurant in Sausalito, had moved out of the apartment Monday evening and she returned to the apartment yesterday afternoon to pick up some of her clothes, according to police. When she entered, she glanced into Miss Von Kleinow's bedroom and saw her lying on the bed, apparently asleep.

However, when she tried later to telephone Miss Von Kleinow and got no answer she began to worry. She then called the landlord, police said.

The blue-eyed, blonde Miss Von Kleinnow was found lying face down on the bed wearing black boots, stretch pants and shirt.

According to the Marin County Coroner's office the only marks on her body were two small scratches on her right knuckle and wrist.

A native of Illinois, Miss Von Kleinow, a divorcee, was employed as a photo developer. She had lived in Sausalito for one year, police said.

She is survived by a brother in Redwood City.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley.

Lagunitas Fund Woes Group Forms

Citizen committees to look for a way out of the Lagunitas School District's financial woes were formed last night at a special meeting of the district board.

Supt. Marshall J. McCunniff told an organizational meeting that district reserves at the end of the school year would be dangerously low — about $8,000 or $10,000, down from the $15,000 estimate given at the beginning of the year.

McCunniff said committees were formed to investigate possible economies in district spending and possible reduction of the educational program. A full committee would then investigate ways of obtaining more funds, either through increased state aid or a local tax rate increase or decide whether to cut expenditures.

McCunniff said he would meet with the teaching staff next week to ask where possible reductions in the instructional program might be made.

About 25 persons attended the meeting. McCunniff said letters of invitation were sent to about 250 parents.

Nixon Extends Food Stamp Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Jean Mayer, President Nixon's food expert, told a news conference today the President had ordered the food stamp program extended to 350 counties which do not presently operate such a program.

The news conference was called in connection with the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health, of which Mayer is director.

He said the food stamp extension order had gone to Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin.

POLLUTE

down polluters "until they clean up the mess."

Ralph E. Warner, an attorney for the Contra Costa Legal Services Foundation, threatened court action against the district unless it treats the problem of air pollution "seriously and takes steps to improve conditions."

Noting the district board blames the automobile for most smog, Warner said, "Perhaps the degree to which a person worries about pollution from automobiles is some measure of how affluent he is. In North Richmond, where people live with the rotten smelling brown air dumped out by neighboring industries, they don't worry about pollution from automobiles much."

He called for "an immediate investigation" of Chevron Chemicals' Ortho Division, asserting it consistently violates district regulations. Allied Chemical Company's emissions "permeate everything," he added, and also should be subject to the new state standards.

Jesse Holoman, speaking for the North Richmond Neighborhood Council, said air pollution was so severe in his poor community that "the flowers just won't grow."

Shirley Madison, a community organizer in the council, told the directors that asthma was common in the area because of air pollution. She presented a petition signed by 50 people demanding the same quality of air as in white, more prosperous areas.

The board also was urged by Warner to meet in Richmond. "For poor people, it's very difficult to get to San Francisco," he said.

The only positive response from the directors was from San Rafael City Councilman John A. Miskimen, who said the speakers "have a very legitimate complaint."

Miskimen's support of holding a board meeting in Richmond drew applause from the audience, but a cool response from board chairman Laurence D. Kelly, a councilman in Piedmont.

Callaghan promised to report back to the board at its Jan. 7 meeting — in San Francisco, not Richmond.

Mrs. Lord, then presented the directors with Christmas cards soaked in carbon disulfide to show them that her neighborhood "smells like an open sewer pipe."

Kelly and San Mateo County Supervisor Robert B. St. Clair objected especially to Mrs. Lord's attack, and Kelly urged her to try "legal action against us.

"It's easy for you to step up and be an expert overnight," Kelly said to her.

Another director, Belmont City Councilman Morton L. Podolsky, who noted he had worked for years in the petrochemical industry, objected that her attack was not substantiated. A study of California children by pediatricians found them to be 10 per cent healthier than children elsewhere in the nation, he said.

The angry attacks on the board came after Callaghan issued a statement rebutting other recent citizens' attacks on the district, which he termed "an organized attempt to embarrass and discredit this district." He offered no motive for such an attempt.

He reiterated district statistics which he said showed "this district has done, by every objective criteria, an effective job of controlling air pollution." He argued that "there has been measurable improvement in air quality during the past 10 years."

Turning to the past weeks' poor visibility in the Bay Area, the district's director of technical services, Dr. Milton Feldstein of San Rafael, said the air only looked dirty, but added that "the health danger is low."

Unusually stagnant air has trapped pollutants all over this part of the state, he said, but most of the reduction in visibility is caused by condensation of moisture on particulates, he said.

OBITUARIES

Eleanor M. Katz Dies

Eleanor M. Katz of 224 Devon Drive, San Rafael, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

UNRUH

I can be that kind of governor."

Nowhere in his official announcement did Unruh refer—directly or indirectly—to Alioto, who has indicated he will declare his candidacy in mid-January.

Reagan is expected to announce his candidacy for a second four-year term in March. He faces no major opposition in the Republican primary.

Right now Reagan leads both Unruh and Alioto by nearly 2-to-1 in public opinion polls, with the assemblyman faring slightly better than the mayor. In a head-and-head primary race, polls have shown Unruh beating Alioto by about 2-to-1.

Unruh for years has desired the governorship. In 1966 he hoped former Gov. Edmund G. Brown would step aside so he could run. Reagan beat Brown by a landslide.

Unruh also told friends he had grown weary of the legislative process. He first was elected to the Assembly in 1954 and served as Speaker from 1961 through 1968—longer than any man in California history.

In late 1968 he trimmed off 90 pounds in an effort to shed his nickname of "Big Daddy."

The USC graduate, whose major legislative efforts have been in the fields of education, civil rights and consumer protection, decided to announce six months before the primary to dispel rumors he might not run.

McCormack Tiffs With Liberals On Poverty War

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bitter struggle over antipoverty legislation has widened the split between Speaker John W. McCormack and liberal House Democrats.

Over McCormack's strenuous objections, liberals yesterday forced postponement of the controversial antipoverty bill moments before it was due to be called up.

The almost unprecedented action was designed to give backers of the bill, which would continue the present antipoverty program with only minor changes, more time to line up support.

Otherwise they feared defeat at the hands of a Republican-southern Democrat coalition backing an alternate proposal to shift major responsibility for the antipoverty effort from the federal government to the states.

McCormack, under pressure to wind up the current House session by Dec. 20, refused at first to consider demands for a delay. But he was forced to yield during a stormy meeting in his office yesterday morning.

Volcanic eruptions have enriched El Salvador's soil with lava and ashes to make it ideal for growing staples such as corn, rice, beans, and sugar.

Bereaved Father Still Awaits Trial Start

postponed to May 14.

May 14 — Counsel absent again. Case put over to June 4 for setting trial.

May 26 — Bendick filed a petition for writ of prohibition, which was subsequently denied.

June 4 — Bendick again absent from court. Case continued at his request to June 25.

June 25 — Bendick again absent. Case continued at his request to July 2.

On the night of June 26, San Francisco police arrested Hill again, on a charge of selling methamphetamine to a state narcotics agent. They reported finding $1,000 worth of "speed" in his apartment (the same apartment which had yielded the earlier supply) when making the arrest. There was no mention this time of film developer.

On July 2, an indictment was filed on the second offense, alleging two more counts of drug sale; a bench warrant was issued, and bail on the new charge was set at $25,000.

On the same day, Hill appeared in court for setting of trial in the earlier case, but arrived late. Trial setting was continued a week.

On July 9, Bendick was relieved as defense counsel, at his own request. Hill was given two days to obtain new counsel.

July 11 — Hill was given three more days to obtain counsel, with July 14 set for the setting of trial in the first case and arraignment in the second.

July 14 — Hill was arraigned on the two counts arising from the June 26 arrest, with Terrence Hallinan as attorney. Hallinan moved for reduction of bail and it was reduced to $3,750. Setting of trial on the earlier charges was postponed one day because of change of counsel.

July 15 — Both cases were transferred to the court of Judge Francis McCarthy.

July 16 — Hill appeared before Judge McCarthy. Asst. Dist. Atty. Thomas F. Norman moved to have trial of the two cases consolidated. Hill pleaded not guilty to the two later charges. Setting of trial was continued to July 22.

July 18 — Judge McCarthy canceled bail on the second case and released Hill on his own recognizance.

July 22 — The motion to consolidate the two trials was granted. Setting of trial was postponed to Sept. 29.

Sept. 29 — Setting of trial was postponed to Oct. 10.

Oct. 10 — A defense motion interposed and setting of trial was put over to Oct. 17.

Oct. 17 — Defendant failed to appear in court. Setting of trial was postponed to Dec. 1.

Dec. 1 — Case was scheduled for 2 p.m. but was called up during the morning court session, with Hallinan present but Hill absent, and was continued to next Monday. Hill arrived at 2 p.m., left again.

There were some other sequels to the "speed party" which took young Yager's life.

San Rafael police were called to an apartment on Woodland Avenue by one of three others who had participated in the party, after young Yager collapsed and appeared lifeless. They arrested the three: Monty Leon Miller, 19, and Loreen Gail Edwards, 21, of San Rafael, and Kathleen Ann Oatis, 18, of Novato. All were charged with being present where narcotics were used.

Four days later, Judge Alvin H. Goldstein of Marin Municipal Court ordered Miss Oatis turned over to the probation department after her father, Paul A. Oatis Jr., said he had three younger children to rear alone and could not keep her at home. Cases of the others were continued until Feb. 11 of this year, when all three were dismissed for "insufficient evidence," at request of the district attorney's office.

As to the trial of Hill, accused as the seller, Assistant District Attorney Norman of San Francisco said today: "We're ready to go. We have been ready for a long time."

He — and Bill Yager — will be in court again Monday, hoping a date may be set for starting the trial of Everett LeForrest Hill on charges which were filed 14 months ago.

Army Probers Quiz Captain On Massacre

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capt. Ernest Medina underwent Pentagon questioning today about the alleged My Lai massacre. His lawyer said there has been "no coverup" in the case. as far as Medina is concerned.

F. Lee Bailey, representing the former commander of the Army company involved in the controversial incident, also said he has found no evidence a massacre took place at My Lai.

Medina was brought to Washington from Fort Benning, Ga., where he is stationed, to be quizzed in an Army probe of the original 1968 field investigation of the alleged mass killings.

Medina has not been charged in the incident.

Medina was the immediate superior of 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr., the Army platoon leader charged with premeditated murder in the deaths of at least 109 civilians at My Lai March 16, 1968.

The inquiry is an attempt to determine if a brigade-level investigation last year into reports civilians were killed unnecessarily was whitewashed. Interviewed yesterday were five officers who were in Vietnam at the time of the incident.

In New York, a group of former diplomats and State Department officials, including former Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, called today for an investigation of "unquestionable impartiality" into American conduct in Vietnam.

Woman Is Found Dead In Apartment

The body of a 36-year-old Sausalito woman, dead for at least two days, was discovered last night in her hillside apartment.

The death of Jarmilla C. Von Kleinow of 35 Crescent Avenue was under investigation today by Sausalito police, who said the case was being treated as an "unattended death" since there was no indication of violence, Police Capt. R. D. Malkin said. A pathology report should be completed this afternoon.

Miss Von Kleinow's body was discovered, according to police, at 10 p.m. yesterday by her landlord after her former roommate called him saying she suspected Miss Von Kleinow might be dead.

The roommate, Wyoma Kerns, 44, a hostess at the Valhalla restaurant in Sausalito, had moved out of the apartment Monday evening and she returned to the apartment yesterday afternoon to pick up some of her clothes, according to police. When she entered, she glanced into Miss Von Kleinow's bedroom and saw her lying on the bed, apparently asleep.

However, when she tried later to telephone Miss Von Kleinow and got no answer she began to worry. She then called the landlord, police said.

The blue-eyed, blonde Miss Von Kleinnow was found lying face down on the bed wearing black boots, stretch pants and shirt.

According to the Marin County Coroner's office the only marks on her body were two small scratches on her right knuckle and wrist.

A native of Illinois, Miss Von Kleinow, a divorcee, was employed as a photo developer. She had lived in Sausalito for one year, police said.

She is survived by a brother in Redwood City.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley.

Lagunitas Fund Woes Group Forms

Citizen committees to look for a way out of the Lagunitas School District's financial woes were formed last night at a special meeting of the district board.

Supt. Marshall J. McCunniff told an organizational meeting that district reserves at the end of the school year would be dangerously low — about $8,000 or $10,000, down from the $15,000 estimate given at the beginning of the year.

McCunniff said committees were formed to investigate possible economies in district spending and possible reduction of the educational program. A full committee would then investigate ways of obtaining more funds, either through increased state aid or a local tax rate increase or decide whether to cut expenditures.

McCunniff said he would meet with the teaching staff next week to ask where possible reductions in the instructional program might be made.

About 25 persons attended the meeting. McCunniff said letters of invitation were sent to about 250 parents.

Nixon Extends Food Stamp Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Jean Mayer, President Nixon's food expert, told a news conference today the President had ordered the food stamp program extended to 350 counties which do not presently operate such a program.

The news conference was called in connection with the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health, of which Mayer is director.

He said the food stamp extension order had gone to Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin.

POLLUTE

down polluters "until they clean up the mess."

Ralph E. Warner, an attorney for the Contra Costa Legal Services Foundation, threatened court action against the district unless it treats the problem of air pollution "seriously and takes steps to improve conditions."

Noting the district board blames the automobile for most smog, Warner said, "Perhaps the degree to which a person worries about pollution from automobiles is some measure of how affluent he is. In North Richmond, where people live with the rotten smelling brown air dumped out by neighboring industries, they don't worry about pollution from automobiles much."

He called for "an immediate investigation" of Chevron Chemicals' Ortho Division, asserting it consistently violates district regulations. Allied Chemical Company's emissions "permeate everything," he added, and also should be subject to the new state standards.

Jesse Holoman, speaking for the North Richmond Neighborhood Council, said air pollution was so severe in his poor community that "the flowers just won't grow."

Shirley Madison, a community organizer in the council, told the directors that asthma was common in the area because of air pollution. She presented a petition signed by 50 people demanding the same quality of air as in white, more prosperous areas.

The board also was urged by Warner to meet in Richmond. "For poor people, it's very difficult to get to San Francisco," he said.

The only positive response from the directors was from San Rafael City Councilman John A. Miskimen, who said the speakers "have a very legitimate complaint."

Miskimen's support of holding a board meeting in Richmond drew applause from the audience, but a cool response from board chairman Laurence D. Kelly, a councilman in Piedmont.

Callaghan promised to report back to the board at its Jan. 7 meeting — in San Francisco, not Richmond.

Mrs. Lord, then presented the directors with Christmas cards soaked in carbon disulfide to show them that her neighborhood "smells like an open sewer pipe."

Kelly and San Mateo County Supervisor Robert B. St. Clair objected especially to Mrs. Lord's attack, and Kelly urged her to try "legal action against us.

"It's easy for you to step up and be an expert overnight," Kelly said to her.

Another director, Belmont City Councilman Morton L. Podolsky, who noted he had worked for years in the petrochemical industry, objected that her attack was not substantiated. A study of California children by pediatricians found them to be 10 per cent healthier than children elsewhere in the nation, he said.

The angry attacks on the board came after Callaghan issued a statement rebutting other recent citizens' attacks on the district, which he termed "an organized attempt to embarrass and discredit this district." He offered no motive for such an attempt.

He reiterated district statistics which he said showed "this district has done, by every objective criteria, an effective job of controlling air pollution." He argued that "there has been measurable improvement in air quality during the past 10 years."

Turning to the past weeks' poor visibility in the Bay Area, the district's director of technical services, Dr. Milton Feldstein of San Rafael, said the air only looked dirty, but added that "the health danger is low."

Unusually stagnant air has trapped pollutants all over this part of the state, he said, but most of the reduction in visibility is caused by condensation of moisture on particulates, he said.

OBITUARIES

Eleanor M. Katz Dies

Eleanor M. Katz of 224 Devon Drive, San Rafael, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

She was the wife of Morris J. Katz, a retired Army lieutenant colonel who had been chief of the counter-intelligence branch, security division, at Sixth Army Headquarters at the Presidio of San Francisco. Since his retirement, he has been with All State Insurance Co. in San Francisco.

Mrs. Katz was born in San Francisco and had lived in Marin since 1962.

UNRUH

I can be that kind of governor."

Nowhere in his official announcement did Unruh refer —directly or indirectly—to Alioto, who has indicated he will declare his candidacy in mid-January.

Reagan is expected to announce his candidacy for a second four-year term in March. He faces no major opposition in the Republican primary.

Right now Reagan leads both Unruh and Alioto by nearly 2-to-1 in public opinion polls, with the assemblyman faring slightly better than the mayor. In a head-and-head primary race, polls have shown Unruh beating Alioto by about 2-to-1.

Unruh for years has desired the governorship. In 1966 he hoped former Gov. Edmund G. Brown would step aside so he could run. Reagan beat Brown by a landslide.

Unruh also told friends he had grown weary of the legislative process. He first was elected to the Assembly in 1954 and served as Speaker from 1961 through 1968—longer than any man in California history.

In late 1968 he trimmed off 90 pounds in an effort to shed his nickname of "Big Daddy."

The USC graduate, whose major legislative efforts have been in the fields of education, civil rights and consumer protection, decided to announce six months before the primary to dispel rumors he might not run.

McCormack Tiffs With Liberals On Poverty War

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bitter struggle over antipoverty legislation has widened the split between Speaker John W. McCormack and liberal House Democrats.

Over McCormack's strenuous objections, liberals yesterday forced postponement of the controversial antipoverty bill moments before it was due to be called up.

The almost unprecedented action was designed to give backers of the bill, which would continue the present antipoverty program with only minor changes, more time to line up support.

Otherwise they feared defeat at the hands of a Republican-southern Democrat coalition backing an alternate proposal to shift major responsibility for the antipoverty effort from the federal government to the states.

McCormack, under pressure to wind up the current House session by Dec. 20, refused at first to consider demands for a delay. But he was forced to yield during a stormy meeting in his office yesterday morning.

Volcanic eruptions have enriched El Salvador's soil with lava and ashes to make it ideal for growing staples such as corn, rice, beans, and sugar.

She succumbed in Perth Amboy Hospital yesterday after an illness of several months. A hospital spokesman said death was due to "severe anemia."

In 1964, Miss White won the Emmy Award for best supporting actress as the mother of an Irish girl in the television play "Little Moon of Alban."

In 1967, she received an award given by the New York chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences for her role as Mrs. Ruggles in "The Club Bedroom" on television.

At the time of her death, she was vice president of the Catholic Actors Guild.

Miss White never married. She leaves a sister, Mrs. Genevieve Driscoll and two brothers, Richard F. and Charles, all of Perth Amboy. Charles, also an actor, is now appearing in New York in the revival of "Front Page."

It's Beethoven's Year At Symphony

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — Josef Krips last night opened the San Francisco Symphony's 58th season, and his seventh and last with the orchestra, in a sold-out opera house, whose audience welcomed him to the podium with great enthusiasm.

An all-Beethoven program, including the overture to "Egmont" and the Second and Fifth symphonies, ushered in what will be a season-long Beethoven celebration honoring the 200th anniversary of the composer's birth.

Of a total of 71 compositions to be performed, 23 will be Beethoven works.

No showman, Krips, who is a Beethoven specialist, conducted with his usual almost military precision, dynamic force and economy of motion an unspectacular performance, but one marked by both superb realization of architectonic structure and careful attention to detail.

Nothing was really electrifying, unless it was the finale of the great symphony No. 5 in C Minor, when the heavy artillery of the trombones joining the brilliant trumpets revved up the sonority to a tremendous climax.

This was, of course, the major work of the evening. The first Allegro Con Brio movement, when the so-called "fate" motive is announced immediately, was monumental but not quite in the mood of titanic, elemental struggle for which it is known, and the third movement seemed rather slow for allegro at times. times.

RICH TONE

Since the orchestra has very strong violins, I was pleased to hear the low strings often brought up to their level, as especially noticed in the Andante Con Moto second movement, and their tone was rich.

For those who note other than purely musical values, such as literary references, a unifying element of the program was the "fate" idea in both the Fifth Symphony and the "Egmont" overture, which opened the concert. In the latter, written by Beethoven for Goethe's tragedy, the same struggle against fate as in the Fifth Symphony could be imagined, since that is the destiny of the hero of "Egmont."

One of the most interesting things about the middle number on the program, the Symphony No. 2 in D Major, was to compare how it sounds today with how it was described by a musicologist shortly after it was written.

Last night the impression was of a noble and sunny work for the most part, whereas in that description it was called "a gross monstrosity, an immense wounded snake bleeding to death but unwilling to die."

Such a reaction is fantastic in view of a larghetto, whose first part could be a song and a later one a dance, and the light, airy scherzo. This symphony was beautifully performed except for some insecurity in the hours.

Perhaps this is a good time to remind Marin Symphony lovers that though tickets are not yet available for the three-concert series. The San Francisco Symphony will present in Marin, they should have their names placed on the mailing list by calling the symphony office at the Opera House in San Francisco.

Agreement Reached In Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agreement was reached today on a new contract between the country's railroads and four shopcraft unions, averting a threatened nationwide rail shutdown.

The agreement, announced by Labor Secretary George P. Shultz after an all-night session between negotiators, will have to be ratified by the union membership.

At 11:30 a. m. EST, after first making a hurried trip to the White House to give President Richard M. Nixon the word, Shultz told reporters:

"I am very pleased to be able to announce here that free collective bargaining has triumphed."

"We do have a settlement, voluntarily agreed to by management and the shopcraft unions.

"There will not be a railroad strike."

Details of the agreement were not immediately disclosed.

Unions and management negotiators met jointly most of yesterday, then met separately with mediators from midnight to about 8:30 a.m., EST. They then resumed a joint meeting.

Shultz, whose policy of noninterference was being put to a vital test, slept on a couch in a nearby office as the negotiations dragged through the night.

Sources said union members, restless after working a year without a contract, had been pressing union negotiators to settle the dispute quickly or to call a strike.

Nixon May Delay Next GI Cutback

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon is expected to delay a decision on further U.S. troop withdrawals from South Vietnam because of a step-up in North Vietnamese infiltration and increased American casualties.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler had left wide open the possibility yesterday that Nixon would disclose a third-stage troop withdrawal at his next formal news conference announced for 6 p.m. PST Monday.

Other administration sources, however, discounted the likelihood of such a cutback, pointing to the latest casualties and infiltration statistics.

Although Nixon obviously will be asked about a possible new troop pullout—to come on top of previous withdrawals totaling more than 60,000 men—sources indicated the President is more apt to say Monday he has yet to reach a decision. He may well point to factors prompting a go-slow approach.

In August, Nixon delayed his second-stage withdrawal announcement nearly a month because of increased enemy activity. The current situation seems parallel to that.

Nevertheless, many believe the chief executive wants to make a committment before the end of 1969 to bring total withdrawals to more than 100,000 men, a goal he set last summer in trying to top a recommendation by Clark M. Clifford, last secretary of defense in the Johnson administration.

U.S. forces in South Vietnam now number somewhat under 480,000.

Manpower Hike Due Air Reserve Program

A reorganization and renaming of the Sixth Reserve Region will bring some more personnel to Hamilton Air Force Base, according to Maj. Gen. Rollin B. Moore, commander of the Air Force Reserves.

General Moore was at Hamilton this week to help reorganize the Sixth Reserve Region headquarters there. He left yesterday for Robins Air Force Base, Ga.

The reserves have hitherto divided into five regions will be organized into three regions with the Sixth region at Hamilton becoming the Western Reserve Region on Jan. 1, General Moore said. The western region includes 10 Western states, among them Alaska and Hawaii. The central and eastern regions are the other two.

When the reorganization is completed, the Western Reserve Region will have 194 employees, both military and civilian, according to Col. Melvin E. Jarvis, director of personnel for the sixth region, increase of 47 over the present authorized strength.

General Moore said that the transfer of the 904th Military Airlift Wing to Hamilton from Stewart Air Force Bawe, N.Y., is on schedule. Fifty-three technicians will arrive the first two weeks in January. Seven planeloads of their equipment are now at Hamilton awaiting arrival of unloading crews.

It will probably take a year to fill all the positions in the 904th from reservists from the Bay Area, General Moore said.

Colonel Jarvis said that they are accepting applications for reservists in all catagories, both with and without experience.

Only One Charge For Petaluman

Only a misdemeanor charge of possessing a stereo set from which the identification numbers had been removed was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against George Michael Goulart, 18, of Petaluma.

He had been arrested Saturday at Nicasio Dam and booked on suspicion of that charge as well as possessing marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia and having a reproduced driver's license.

Officers said that his car, which was parked in an area posted "no trespassing," contained an auto stereo from which the numbers had been removed.

AWOL Soldier Taken To MPs

An AWOL soldier was turned over to the Armed Forces Police today after he was seen on Second Street by San Rafael police.

Terry Paul Cyncar stopped at 12:57 a.m. near Shaver Street, refused to show police identification and a check was made that revealed Cyncar, also known as Taras Cyncar and Patrick Paul Paulson, was AWOL from Fort Lewis, Wash.

Notes found in his belongings said that the soldier had benn living in Canada, police said.

Hub Homes Group Votes On Licensing

The San Anselmo Homes Association voted unanimously in favor last night of the gross receipts business license ordinance given preliminary approval by the city council.

President Paul N. Brand said several members pointed out that revenue from business licenses had risen less than 2 per cent during periods when city property taxes jumped over 90 per cent.

The tax ordinance, establishing rates for a business license at $20 plus 30 cents per $1,000 of gross receipts, was tentatively approved, 3-1, by the city council Tuesday night. Adoption was set for this Tuesday.

In other action, the association urged the Marin County Board of Supervisors to retain in Ross the floral and art sections of the Marin Art and Garden Show. The show is due for a future move to the Civic Center.

Freighters Delayed By Firemen's Union

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Six more freighters were delayed in West Coast ports yesterday because members of the Marine Firemen's Union refused to sign on for engine room duty.

This brought to 20 the total number of ships delayed on the West Coast and Hawaii as a result of a union-employer dispute over proposed crew cutbacks.

Haynsworth To Keep Membership On Bench

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon announced today that Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. will continue to serve as chief judge of the Fourth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

With Haynsworth standing at his side, Nixon went before newsmen at the White House to describe his rejected nominee for the Supreme Court as a victim of "brutally vicious" attacks. In the face of these, the President said, the judge might well have considered stepping down from the circuit bench.

"A weak man would," said Nixon. "A fearful man would. The judge is not a weak man."

Nixon said he was delighted by Haynsworth's decision and cited what he described as his own philosophy that an individual is never without defeat somewhere along the line but he should never be fearful.

Stepping to the microphone, Haynsworth acknowledged that "no one likes to lose."

But he said he had been greatly encouraged, since the 55-45 Senate vote against his nomination on Nov. 21, by thousands of letters.

Haynsworth said he has learned that the judges of the Fourth Circuit wants him to retain the chief judgeship and that the bar "wants me back."

Turning to Nixon, Haynsworth said: "I am very grateful to you for your steadfast support."

Huks Kill Five

MANILA (UPI)—Communist Huk guerrillas killed five persons and critically wounded four others in an ambush 40 miles north of Manila last night, the Philippine Army said today. The report said among those killed were a woman and two relatives of Mayor Suarez of Angeles City.

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — Josef Krips last night opened the San Francisco Symphony's 58th season, and his seventh and last with the orchestra, in a sold-out opera house, whose audience welcomed him to the podium with great enthusiasm.

An all-Beethoven program, including the overture to "Egmont" and the Second and Fifth symphonies, ushered in what will be a season-long Beethoven celebration honoring the 200th anniversary of the composer's birth.

Of a total of 71 compositions to be performed, 23 will be Beethoven works.

No showman, Krips, who is a Beethoven specialist, conducted with his usual almost military precision, dynamic force and economy of motion an unspectacular performance, but one marked by both superb realization of architectonic structure and careful attention to detail.

Nothing was really electrifying, unless it was the finale of the great symphony No. 5 in C Minor, when the heavy artillery of the trombones joining the brilliant trumpets revved up the sonority to a tremendous climax.

This was, of course, the major work of the evening. The first Allegro Con Brio movement, when the so-called "fate" motive is announced immediately, was monumental but not quite in the mood of titanic, elemental struggle for which it is known, and the third movement seemed rather slow for allegro at times. times.

RICH TONE

Since the orchestra has very strong violins, I was pleased to hear the low strings often brought up to their level, as especially noticed in the Andante Con Moto second movement, and their tone was rich.

For those who note other than purely musical values, such as literary references, a unifying element of the program was the "fate" idea in both the Fifth Symphony and the "Egmont" overture, which opened the concert. In the latter, written by Beethoven for Goethe's tragedy, the same struggle against fate as in the Fifth Symphony could be imagined, since that is the destiny of the hero of "Egmont."

One of the most interesting things about the middle number on the program, the Symphony No. 2 in D Major, was to compare how it sounds today with how it was described by a musicologist shortly after it was written.

Last night the impression was of a noble and sunny work for the most part, whereas in that description it was called "a gross monstrosity, an immense wounded snake bleeding to death but unwilling to die."

Such a reaction is fantastic in view of a larghetto, whose first part could be a song and a later one a dance, and the light, airy scherzo. This symphony was beautifully performed except for some insecurity in the hours.

Perhaps this is a good time to remind Marin Symphony lovers that though tickets are not yet available for the three-concert series. The San Francisco Symphony will present in Marin, they should have their names placed on the mailing list by calling the symphony office at the Opera House in San Francisco.

Agreement Reached In Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agreement was reached today on a new contract between the country's railroads and four shopcraft unions, averting a threatened nationwide rail shutdown.

The agreement, announced by Labor Secretary George P. Shultz after an all-night session between negotiators, will have to be ratified by the union membership.

At 11:30 a. m. EST, after first making a hurried trip to the White House to give President Richard M. Nixon the word, Shultz told reporters:

"I am very pleased to be able to announce here that free collective bargaining has triumphed."

"We do have a settlement, voluntarily agreed to by management and the shopcraft unions.

"There will not be a railroad strike."

Details of the agreement were not immediately disclosed.

Unions and management negotiators met jointly most of yesterday, then met separately with mediators from midnight to about 8:30 a.m., EST. They then resumed a joint meeting.

Shultz, whose policy of noninterference was being put to a vital test, slept on a couch in a nearby office as the negotiations dragged through the night.

Sources said union members, restless after working a year without a contract, had been pressing union negotiators to settle the dispute quickly or to call a strike.

Nixon May Delay Next GI Cutback

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon is expected to delay a decision on further U.S. troop withdrawals from South Vietnam because of a step-up in North Vietnamese infiltration and increased American casualties.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler had left wide open the possibility yesterday that Nixon would disclose a third-stage troop withdrawal at his next formal news conference announced for 6 p.m. PST Monday.

Other administration sources, however, discounted the likelihood of such a cutback, pointing to the latest casualties and infiltration statistics.

Although Nixon obviously will be asked about a possible new troop pullout—to come on top of previous withdrawals totaling more than 60,000 men—sources indicated the President is more apt to say Monday he has yet to reach a decision. He may well point to factors prompting a go-slow approach.

In August, Nixon delayed his second-stage withdrawal announcement nearly a month because of increased enemy activity. The current situation seems parallel to that.

Nevertheless, many believe the chief executive wants to make a committment before the end of 1969 to bring total withdrawals to more than 100,000 men, a goal he set last summer in trying to top a recommendation by Clark M. Clifford, last secretary of defense in the Johnson administration.

U.S. forces in South Vietnam now number somewhat under 480,000.

Manpower Hike Due Air Reserve Program

A reorganization and renaming of the Sixth Reserve Region will bring some more personnel to Hamilton Air Force Base, according to Maj. Gen. Rollin B. Moore, commander of the Air Force Reserves.

General Moore was at Hamilton this week to help reorganize the Sixth Reserve Region headquarters there. He left yesterday for Robins Air Force Base, Ga.

The reserves have hitherto divided into five regions will be organized into three regions with the Sixth region at Hamilton becoming the Western Reserve Region on Jan. 1, General Moore said. The western region includes 10 Western states, among them Alaska and Hawaii. The central and eastern regions are the other two.

When the reorganization is completed, the Western Reserve Region will have 194 employees, both military and civilian, according to Col. Melvin E. Jarvis, director of personnel for the sixth region, increase of 47 over the present authorized strength.

General Moore said that the transfer of the 904th Military Airlift Wing to Hamilton from Stewart Air Force Bawe, N.Y., is on schedule. Fifty-three technicians will arrive the first two weeks in January. Seven planeloads of their equipment are now at Hamilton awaiting arrival of unloading crews.

It will probably take a year to fill all the positions in the 904th from reservists from the Bay Area, General Moore said.

Colonel Jarvis said that they are accepting applications for reservists in all catagories, both with and without experience.

Only One Charge For Petaluman

Only a misdemeanor charge of possessing a stereo set from which the identification numbers had been removed was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against George Michael Goulart, 18, of Petaluma.

He had been arrested Saturday at Nicasio Dam and booked on suspicion of that charge as well as possessing marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia and having a reproduced driver's license.

Officers said that his car, which was parked in an area posted "no trespassing," contained an auto stereo from which the numbers had been removed.

AWOL Soldier Taken To MPs

An AWOL soldier was turned over to the Armed Forces Police today after he was seen on Second Street by San Rafael police.

Terry Paul Cyncar stopped at 12:57 a.m. near Shaver Street, refused to show police identification and a check was made that revealed Cyncar, also known as Taras Cyncar and Patrick Paul Paulson, was AWOL from Fort Lewis, Wash.

Notes found in his belongings said that the soldier had benn living in Canada, police said.

Hub Homes Group Votes On Licensing

The San Anselmo Homes Association voted unanimously in favor last night of the gross receipts business license ordinance given preliminary approval by the city council.

President Paul N. Brand said several members pointed out that revenue from business licenses had risen less than 2 per cent during periods when city property taxes jumped over 90 per cent.

The tax ordinance, establishing rates for a business license at $20 plus 30 cents per $1,000 of gross receipts, was tentatively approved, 3-1, by the city council Tuesday night. Adoption was set for this Tuesday.

In other action, the association urged the Marin County Board of Supervisors to retain in Ross the floral and art sections of the Marin Art and Garden Show. The show is due for a future move to the Civic Center.

Freighters Delayed By Firemen's Union

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Six more freighters were delayed in West Coast ports yesterday because members of the Marine Firemen's Union refused to sign on for engine room duty.

This brought to 20 the total number of ships delayed on the West Coast and Hawaii as a result of a union-employer dispute over proposed crew cutbacks.

Haynsworth To Keep Membership On Bench

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon announced today that Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. will continue to serve as chief judge of the Fourth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

With Haynsworth standing at his side, Nixon went before newsmen at the White House to describe his rejected nominee for the Supreme Court as a victim of "brutally vicious" attacks. In the face of these, the President said, the judge might well have considered stepping down from the circuit bench.

"A weak man would," said Nixon. "A fearful man would. The judge is not a weak man."

Nixon said he was delighted by Haynsworth's decision and cited what he described as his own philosophy that an individual is never without defeat somewhere along the line but he should never be fearful.

Stepping to the microphone, Haynsworth acknowledged that "no one likes to lose."

But he said he had been greatly encouraged, since the 55-45 Senate vote against his nomination on Nov. 21, by thousands of letters.

Haynsworth said he has learned that the judges of the Fourth Circuit wants him to retain the chief judgeship and that the bar "wants me back."

Turning to Nixon, Haynsworth said: "I am very grateful to you for your steadfast support."

CONGRATULATIONS — Actress Ethel Merman hugs Guy Lombardo backstage at Carnegie Hall after the musician and his band gave a concert. Lombardo, who appeared last night in New York City, also received congratulations from President Richard M. Nixon. (AP Wirephoto)

Lombardo At Carnegie Hall After 45 Years On The Road

NEW YORK (AP) —President Richard M. Nixon sent congratulations and Ethel Merman went backstage to kiss Guy Lombardo last night as the "sweetest music this side of heaven" finally made Carnegie Hall after 45 years on the road.

About 2,000 mostly middle-aged or older fans went sedately wild as the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" brought Lombardo and his 12-piece band to the stage which is much more accustomed to Leonard Bernstein and Beethoven's Fifth.

"You bet your life I'm an old fan of Guy's—no, make that a young fan," Miss Merman said as she made up for Guy's complaint, "I've never been kissed on New Year's Eve, I've always been too busy playing."

Nixon, at whose inaugural Lombardo played, wrote wishing luck and said, "I hope Pat and I will dance to your music before long."

Lombardo said he hoped to play at the White House perhaps next summer between stints of presenting "Sound of Music" at Jones Beach. Meanwhile, he told reporters: "It's such a thrill to play Carnegie Hall."

There were few, very few, under-30s at the concert but one couple, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Tebbe of Metuchen, N.J., said they came because "we just enjoy Lombardo's music. We watch him on television New Year's Eve and we buy all his albums."

They agreed with Mrs. Gloria Watson, a public relations officer for the Bank of North America in New York, "It's the sexiest music this side of heaven."

Mrs. Watson was with her mink-clad mother, Mrs. Helen Chingos, who said, "I remember him when he started in Detroit—and that was in 1925."

Mrs. Nora Davison of Toronto said she had come down for the concert because "after all they're the Royal Canadians."

Lombardo said he'd wanted to play Carnegie for 45 years—ever since 1924 when Paul Whiteman played George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" there "and made jazz respectable."

Actor's Drugs Case Continued

INDION (UPI)—A Superior Court judge has continued the trial of John Barrymore Jr., charged with illegal drug possession until tomorrow following disclosure that the attorney for the son of the late actor was involved in another case.

Judge Carl Lynn Davis refused a longer continuance yesterday after the counsel for Barrymore had asked for more time.

California Highway Patrolmen arrested Barrymore last August after they said they allegedly saw him hiding containers of what appeared to be drugs during investigation of a traffic accident in which he was involved.

Marijuana Suspect To Juvenile Court

The case of James Harry Caulkett, 19, of San Rafael, has been accepted by juvenile court, it was reported yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Caulkett is accused of possessing marijuana when arrested in San Rafael Nov. 8.

Two Sausalito Charges Denied

James Macdonald Maxey, 57, of Fairfax, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana and being drunk in public when arrested Nov. 26 in Sausalito.

A preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Maxey was arrested when police found him sleeping in a bus shelter on Bridgeway and found two alleged marijuana cigarettes when they searched him.

Larkspur City Council Tables Proposed Ban On Public Drinking

Larkspur City Council last night tabled a proposed ordinance to ban drinking alcoholic beverages on public property, which was designed to halt juvenile drinking in parks.

Council action came after Police Chief Howard H. Clark said existing state laws covering juvenile drinking are adequate.

If the city had a specific location where there was a problem, it could "enact an ordinance for that situation," the chief said.

Councilmen tabled the proposed ordinance, saying it could be brought before them again at any time upon request.

The council also heard a report from City Engineer Roy H. Hoffman about a plan to provide permanent road access to the Meadowood subdivision by extending East Ward Avenue to Meadowood Drive.

The proposed roadway would cross land owned by Inez Niven, and the council passed a resolution to institute eminent domain proceedings to acquire the necessary property, a 50-foot wide strip, 380 feet in length.

Hoffman estimated that road construction would cost $25,000, construction of a bridge across Arroyo Holon, $30,000 and relocation of one house, $1,500.

City Mgr. Kent Bathurst said developers of the subdivision have indicated they are willing to pay for the cost of the bridge.

The council also authorized Bathurst to negotiate with Mrs. Niven on acquisition of the right-of-way.

The Larkspur City Council Also:

REZONING — Upheld planning commission denial of an application by Gerald Henrricks for rezoning from duplex to multiple dwelling on a Hawthorne Avenue lot between Sycamore Avenue and King Street.

"SLOW" SIGNS — Received a report from Bathurst that "slow" signs have been painted on pavement at Oak Road and Wilson Way in response to a petition from residents of the area. Public Works Director Warren Mistron estimated that eight persons signed the petition.

POLICE DEPARTMENT — Approved hiring an additional patrolman for the police department, effective Jan. 1.

RESPONSIBILITY — Adopted an ordinance placing the responsibility for building and planning enforcement with the planning commission and superintendent of planning and building, which Bathurst described as a minor revision.

BUSINESS LICENSES — Amended the business license ordinance to eliminate the "occasional transaction" provision.

VEHICLE — Authorized the purchase of a station wagon through the state for the public works department, at a cost of $2,200.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS — Authorized contributing $500 toward Christmas decorations in downtown Larkspur.

CURB ENCROACHMENTS — Received a letter from C. E. Dunham of 279 Eliseo Drive criticizing the city's policy on removal of driveway encroachments, and authorized staff to reply.

COMMENDATION — Authorized letter commending Maj. Gen. James R. Winn, commander of Western North American Air Defense Command, formerly headquartered at Hamilton Air Force Base, for his community relations, and a letter of appreciation to D. K. MacDonald of 57 Paseo Way, for his work in his neighborhood correcting driveway encroachment problems.

BOAT RAMP — Instructed Bathrust to consult with Pierre W. Joske, county director of parks and recreation, on possible joint development of a boat launching ramp on Corte Madera Creek under the Greenbrae overpass. State funds had been refused because the city intended to charge a parking fee, Bathurst reported.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Dec. 17 at city hall.

WORK OFFER

Girl, 9, Has Very Clean Idea

A 9-year-old Larkspur schoolgirl who volunteered to clean streets for the city didn't land a job, but she warmed the hearts of city councilmen last night.

She won a promise of city cooperation of any project she and her classmates in the fourth grade at Hency C. Hall undertake to keep Larkspur clean.

Several weeks ago Denise Barry of 24 Holly Avenue wrote to Public Works Director Warren Mistron offering to work.

She explained that after watching a movie about people littering land, she was "thinking about volunteering to work after school cleaning up the streets. If you want me to I can make a chart of how many students want to help keep Larkspur clean, 3:30 to 5."

Mistron replied that it was refreshing to hear from "a group like you and your friends who are willing to give their time to help in our efforts to keep our city clean and attractive."

He explained that due to labor laws and liability coverage, the city could not let her "volunteer to work for the city as such," but if she and her friends decided on an area to work in they should let him know.

"We will then have the streets crew put trash cans in the area for you to put litter in, and we will pick them up when you are through and empty them. We can do this as often as you like, and would be most grateful for the help."

Hearing of the offer last night, councilmen agreed she was a good citizen, and agreed to send her a letter of appreciation.

South California's Salton Sea, formed when the freshwater Colorado overflowed from 1605 to 1907, is already more briny than the oceans. Agricultural waste waters carry more than 10,000 tons of salt into it every day.

Coed Reports Attempt At Kidnapping

A Sonoma State College coed told Sonoma County sheriff's officers that an attempt was made to kidnap her at the college yesterday at 9:30 p.m.

Kathy Sosic, 21, said she was hitchiking on the college grounds and accepted a ride to her East Cotati Avenue apartment from a middle aged man.

She said that he turned in the wrong direction upon leaving the college and refused to change direction. "You're not going anywhere," she reported he said. She said he pulled a gun from beneath the seat but did not point it at her.

Miss Sosic said she grabbed the gun with her left hand and opened the car door with her right and rolled onto the pavement. She said the man continued driving. She suffered bruises on her knees, elbows, chin and nose in the fall, but was not hospitalized.

She described the man as being 40 to 45-years-old, driving what may have been a 1950 Tan Renault.

Gravel Dredging Army Permit Renewed

The Army Corps of Engineers has granted a three-year extension to the United Sand and Gravel division of A. G. Schoonmaker Co. for commercial dredging in San Francisco Bay on the southwest side of Angel Island.

No objections to the extension were received, the corps said. The dredging will remove 350,000 cubic yards of material a year at maximum depths of 60 feet.

Reagan Moves Funds To Help Cal-Vet Loans

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — In a move to provide a "temporary substitute for permanent funding" for the Cal-Vet Farm and Home Loan Program, Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday announced a $13 million loan has been made from the state General Fund to the Cal-Vet program.

Reagan said, in announcing the iterim financing, the loan "underscores the administration's confidence in the future of the Cal-Vet program, and our continued determination to help our veterans where we can be most effective."

Reagan said the state Constitution prohibits the sale of veteran bonds above 5 per cent interst. He urged support of a Constitutional Amendment on the June 1970 ballot which would authorize sale of all state bonds at interst rates of up to 7 per cent.

If the voters approve the new interest rates, it will release $200 million in previously authorized veterans' bonds, still unsold because of the interest problem.

Reagan emphasized that the bond interest increase will not affect the veterans' loan interest rate, which presently is 4.25 per cent.

He estimated that each million dollars in the $13 million loan will finance 55 homes at the present average of $18,000 per home loan.

Guilty Plea To Burglary

George Richard Thomas, 42, of San Francisco, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to burglarizing the home of Gail Snodgrass on Ross Road in Sausalito last Thursday.

A charge of stealing a car on Nov. 24 was dismissed by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr.

He ordered Thomas to appear in superior court Monday for setting of a sentencing date on the felony charge.

Larkspur City Council Tables Proposed Ban On Public Drinking

Larkspur City Council last night tabled a proposed ordinance to ban drinking alcoholic beverages on public property, which was designed to halt juvenile drinking in parks.

Council action came after Police Chief Howard H. Clark said existing state laws covering juvenile drinking are adequate.

If the city had a specific location where there was a problem, it could "enact an ordinance for that situation," the chief said.

Councilmen tabled the proposed ordinance, saying it could be brought before them again at any time upon request.

The council also heard a report from City Engineer Roy H. Hoffman about a plan to provide permanent road access to the Meadowood subdivision by extending East Ward Avenue to Meadowood Drive.

The proposed roadway would cross land owned by Inez Niven, and the council passed a resolution to institute eminent domain proceedings to acquire the necessary property, a 50-foot wide strip, 380 feet in length.

Hoffman estimated that road construction would cost $25,000, construction of a bridge across Arroyo Holon, $30,000 and relocation of one house, $1,500.

City Mgr. Kent Bathurst said developers of the subdivision have indicated they are willing to pay for the cost of the bridge.

The council also authorized Bathurst to negotiate with Mrs. Niven on acquisition of the right-of-way.

The Larkspur City Council Also:

REZONING — Upheld planning commission denial of an application by Gerald Henrricks for rezoning from duplex to multiple dwelling on a Hawthorne Avenue lot between Sycamore Avenue and King Street.

"SLOW" SIGNS — Received a report from Bathurst that "slow" signs have been painted on pavement at Oak Road and Wilson Way in response to a petition from residents of the area. Public Works Director Warren Mistron estimated that eight persons signed the petition.

POLICE DEPARTMENT — Approved hiring an additional patrolman for the police department, effective Jan. 1.

RESPONSIBILITY — Adopted an ordinance placing the responsibility for building and planning enforcement with the planning commission and superintendent of planning and building, which Bathurst described as a minor revision.

BUSINESS LICENSES — Amended the business license ordinance to eliminate the "occasional transaction" provision.

VEHICLE — Authorized the purchase of a station wagon through the state for the public works department, at a cost of $2,200.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS — Authorized contributing $500 toward Christmas decorations in downtown Larkspur.

CURB ENCROACHMENTS — Received a letter from C. E. Dunham of 279 Eliseo Drive criticizing the city's policy on removal of driveway encroachments, and authorized staff to reply.

COMMENDATION — Authorized letter commending Maj. Gen. James R. Winn, commander of Western North American Air Defense Command, formerly headquartered at Hamilton Air Force Base, for his community relations, and a letter of appreciation to D. K. MacDonald of 57 Paseo Way, for his work in his neighborhood correcting driveway encroachment problems.

BOAT RAMP — Instructed Bathurst to consult with Pierre W. Joske, county director of parks and recreation, on possible joint development of a boat launching ramp on Corte Madera Creek under the Greenbrae overpass. State funds had been refused because the city intended to charge a parking fee, Bathurst reported.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Dec. 17 at city hall.

WORK OFFER

Girl, 9, Has Very Clean Idea

A 9-year-old Larkspur schoolgirl who volunteered to clean streets for the city didn't land a job, but she warmed the hearts of city councilmen last night.

She won a promise of city cooperation of any project she and her classmates in the fourth grade at Hency C. Hall undertake to keep Larkspur clean.

Several weeks ago Denise Barry of 24 Holly Avenue wrote to Public Works Director Warren Mistron offering to work.

She explained that after watching a movie about people littering land, she was "thinking about volunteering to work after school cleaning up the streets. If you want me to I can make a chart of how many students want to help keep Larkspur clean, 3:30 to 5."

Mistron replied that it was refreshing to hear from "a group like you and your friends who are willing to give their time to help in our efforts to keep our city clean and attractive."

He explained that due to labor laws and liability coverage, the city could not let her "volunteer to work for the city as such," but if she and her friends decided on an area to work in they should let him know.

"We will then have the streets crew put trash cans in the area for you to put litter in, and we will pick them up when you are through and empty them. We can do this as often as you like, and would be most grateful for the help."

Hearing of the offer last night, councilmen agreed she was a good citizen, and agreed to send her a letter of appreciation.

South California's Salton Sea, formed when the freshwater Colorado overflowed from 1605 to 1907, is already more briny than the oceans. Agricultural waste waters carry more than 10,000 tons of salt into it every day.

Coed Reports Attempt At Kidnapping

A Sonoma State College coed told Sonoma County sheriff's officers that an attempt was made to kidnap her at the college yesterday at 9:30 p.m.

Kathy Sosic, 21, said she was hitchiking on the college grounds and accepted a ride to her East Cotati Avenue apartment from a middle aged man.

She said that he turned in the wrong direction upon leaving the college and refused to change direction. "You're not going anywhere," she reported he said. She said he pulled a gun from beneath the seat but did not point it at her.

Miss Sosic said she grabbed the gun with her left hand and opened the car door with her right and rolled onto the pavement. She said the man continued driving. She suffered bruises on her knees, elbows, chin and nose in the fall, but was not hospitalized.

She described the man as being 40 to 45-years-old, driving what may have been a 1950 Tan Renault.

Gravel Dredging Army Permit Renewed

The Army Corps of Engineers has granted a three-year extension to the United Sand and Gravel division of A. G. Schoonmaker Co. for commercial dredging in San Francisco Bay on the southwest side of Angel Island.

No objections to the extension were received, the corps said. The dredging will remove 350,000 cubic yards of material a year at maximum depths of 60 feet.

Average San Rafael rainfall in December is 6.82 inches; 14.01 inches fell last December. Average temperatures in both San Rafael and Petaluma range from mid-50 highs to high 30s or low 40s. San Rafael had a low of 31 last Dec. 21, while Petaluma shivered at 21 degrees. Dec. 5 was warmest: 65 in San Rafael and 61 in Petaluma. Christmas Eve was the wettest day. (AP Wirephoto maps)

Illinois Black Panther Chief Killed In Chicago Shootout

CHICAGO (AP) — Two persons—one identified as Fred Hampton, leader of the Black Panther party in Illinois—were killed and seven others were wounded today in a gun battle on the West Side.

The shooting erupted as police arrived at a building adjacent to the Black Panther offices and attempted to serve a warrant. Police said the warrant charged Hampton and Bobb Rush, another Illinois Panther leader, with illegal possession of firearms.

The Cook County state's attorney's office identified Hampton as one of the two persons killed. The other was identified as Mark Clark, 22, of Peoria.

Two policemen were among those wounded or injured, one by gunshot and the other by flying glass. Neither was hurt seriously.

Three women were among the five others treated for wounds.

Hampton was with eight other persons who opened fire at members of a special prosecution unit of the state's attorney's office who forced their way through barricaded doors at the West Side address, according to Richard Jalovec, an assistant state's attorney.

Twelve shotguns, eight handguns and 5,000 rounds of ammunition were found scattered throughout the apartment, Jalovec said.

Wider Range Suggested In Grand Jury

Members of the Marin County Grand Jury should represent a wider cross section of the community in age, sex, race and economic levels, the Marin Council for Civic Affairs board of directors decided last night.

President Margaret Azevedo announced that the board adopted the following recommendations made by the council's grand jury committee, headed by Mrs. Jacob Savitt of Belvedere:

Superior Court judges should solicit civic organizations through the mail and by publicity to submit names of persons to serve on the grand jury. This solicitation should take place late in the summer or early fall so that judges can make the selection before the end of each year.

Consideration should be given to geographical, social, economic, age, sex and race distribution of the county so that the grand jurors will be representative of the entire community.

In the letters to the civic organizations, the judges should include some suggested guidelines for recommending prospective grand jurors and also include a simple, uniform form in which the recommending organization can provide some background on each nominee.

Mrs. Azevedo said this is a partial report from the council's grand jury committee. The committee will continue studies and hopes to make further recommendations on changes in the power on grand juries and methods used.

The Council also accepted the resignation of Jack Schoop of San Rafael, president-elect of the Northern California Chapter of the American Institute of Planners, who will not have time to serve on the council board.

The council set two meetings next month, on Jan. 7 and on Jan. 28. Both will be held at the Civic Center at 8 p.m.

State Civil Service 5% Pay Hiked Asked

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Personnel Board proposed a 5 per cent across-the-board pay hike for the state's 103,000 full-time civil servants today.

The increase would cost $86.3 million.

This compared with boosts ranging from 6 per cent to 20 per cent and totaling $148 million sought by the California State Employees Association which represents most of the workers.

The board, in sending its final recommendations to Gov. Ronald Reagan, modified its earlier tentative proposal that there be a 10 per cent ceiling on the amount of raises for any one category.

The hikes proposed by the board ranges from the general 5 per cent up to 12.5 per cent for employees in classes "in which salary problems are acute."

The board said those higher increases "are necessary to match salaries paid for similar work in private industry and other public jurisdictions."

The board also reiterated previous proposals for these employee benefits:

That the state pay the full cost of basic employee health insurance.

Night pay differential "where justified by prevailing practice."

Unemployment insurance for state employees who are laid off "for no fault of their own."

Time and one-half for overtime for employes whose counterparts in private industry receive it.

The proposed hikes also would cover the state's 15,000 part-time employees but not teachers in the state college and university systems. Their salary increases are handled separately.

The state employees received a general pay increase last July averaging 5.6 per cent.

Transit Unit Seeks Role Definition

I-J Special Reort

SAN LEANDRO — The Regional Transportation Planning Committee of the Association of Bay Arrea Governments wants more information on what role it can play in improving transportation within San Francisco.

ABAG's transportation committee, headed by Supervisor John F. McInnis of San Rafael, met last night at the Blue Dolfin in San Leandro to discuss a letter from Gordon C. Luce, secretary to the Business and Transportation Agency of California. Luce asked ABAG to consider the "mode of transportation, alternative corridors, and general design characteristics" to improve the link between the Golden Gate and the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridges.

The regional transportation committee appointed McInnis and Jack Maltester of San Leandro to meet with Luce and San Francisco officials to see what role ABAG can play.

Lizette Weiss, community relations director for ABAG, said the next meeting of the regional transportation planning committee will be held on Jan. 7, probably in San Francisco, but the location has not been set.

Two Novato Girls Report Exposure

Two incidents of indecent exposure were reported between 4:15 and 4:30 p.m. yesterday at Marion School in Novato by 15 and 17-year-old girls, police reported.

The man was described by one girl as wearing a dirty grey or brown long-sleeved coat and blue slacks. The other girl said he wore grey slacks and coat, white shirt and black tie. He was described as 26 to 28 years old, about five feet nine inches with brown hair.

Couple Held On Stolen Tools Count

A 35-year old man and his 29-year old female companion were arrested in San Rafael yesterday on suspicion of possessing property stolen in Mill Valley last month.

John Gerald Whooley and Brenda Gene Hinckley, both of the Travelers Inn, 706 Third Street, San Rafael, were booked into Marin County Jail. She was held in lieu of $2,500 bail, he is lieu of $6,250 bail, both to appear today in Marin Municipal Court. At 3:15 p.m., a patrolman saw Whooley putting tools and equipment into a pickup truck owned by Herbert H. Bess, 44, also of the Travelers Inn.

A check proved the equipment was stolen in Mill Valley last month. His companion, Miss Hinckley then told police the tools had been given to her three weeks ago for safekeeping by a man whom she met in a San Francisco bar.

Police said the tools were stolen along with a truck owned by Ronald G. Gaither of 60 Gustafson Court, Novato, which was parked in the Sabella restaurant parking lot on Nov. 11. The truck was recovered in San Francisco the following day.

More of the equipment stolen from Gaither was found in the suspects' hotel room, police said.

Reagan Promises 1970 Tax Reform

OAKLAND (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan last night predicted a program to be presented in January by his administration for a "total" overhaul of the state's tax structure. (See Bagley story, page 1.)

Reagan, addressing a Republican fund-raising dinner, said his forthcoming political campaign for reelection will center on economy in government, a continued crackdown on crime and tax reform.

The governor said his program will call for "total and revolutionary overhaul of the tax structure" and "provide real and lasting property tax relief" by shifting most of the educational costs to the state.

Nixon May Convene Congress Dec. 26

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon told Republican congressional leaders today he will call Congress back into session Dec. 26 if it does not complete action before Christmas on all appropriation bills.

And, House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford told newsmen after the weekly GOP leadership meeting with Nixon, the President also is considering calling Congress back to Capitol Hill the day after Christmas if there is no "movement" on his anti-crime legislation.

It's the holiday season, 1795. Jacob Beam and his family are buckboarding it around the Kentucky countryside. Chinning with the neighbors. Giving gifts. Jacob Beam is giving his closest friends a bit of himself. Some Beam Bourbon. It comes right from his own choicest grains. His own secret formula. And his secret knack for making the best-tasting, lightest Bourbon within a two days' ride. It's a rare gift, because Jacob never seems to be able to make enough to keep up with the demand.

Today, T. Jeremiah Beam, pictured here, makes Jim Beam Bourbon just like Jacob did, generations of Beams ago. And he's gift-wrapped it in a handsome holiday package. Give it to some of your friends and you'll sort of be doing what old Jacob did. You'll be giving a bit of yourself. And that's still the rarest gift of all. "World's finest Bourbon since 1795."

THIS DECEMBER DIFFERENT?

Last December was one of the wettest in Marin history, and chillier than normal for both Marin and Southern Sonoma, but maps prepared from 30-day U.S. Weather Bureau forecasts indicate that month will be less damp and possibly cooler. Average San Rafael rainfall in December is 6.82 inches; 14.01 inches fell last December. Average temperatures in both San Rafael and Petaluma range from mid-50 highs to high 30s or low 40s. San Rafael had a low of 31 last Dec. 21, while Petaluma shivered at 21 degrees. Dec. 5 was warmest: 65 in San Rafael and 61 in Petaluma. Christmas Eve was the wettest day. (AP Wirephoto maps)

Illinois Black Panther Chief Killed In Chicago Shootout

CHICAGO (AP) — Two persons—one identified as Fred Hampton, leader of the Black Panther party in Illinois—were killed and seven others were wounded today in a gun battle on the West Side.

The shooting erupted as police arrived at a building adjacent to the Black Panther offices and attempted to serve a warrant. Police said the warrant charged Hampton and Bobb Rush, another Illinois Panther leader, with illegal possession of firearms.

The Cook County state's attorney's office identified Hampton as one of the two persons killed. The other was identified as Mark Clark, 22, of Peoria.

Two policemen were among those wounded or injured, one by gunshot and the other by flying glass. Neither was hurt seriously.

Three women were among the five others treated for wounds.

Hampton was with eight other persons who opened fire at members of a special prosecution unit of the state's attorney's office who forced their way through barricaded doors at the West Side address, according to Richard Jalovec, an assistant state's attorney.

Twelve shotguns, eight handguns and 5,000 rounds of ammunition were found scattered throughout the apartment, Jalovec said.

Wider Range Suggested In Grand Jury

Members of the Marin County Grand Jury should represent a wider cross section of the community in age, sex, race and economic levels, the Marin Council for Civic Affairs board of directors decided last night.

President Margaret Azevedo announced that the board adopted the following recommendations made by the council's grand jury committee, headed by Mrs. Jacob Savitt of Belvedere:

Superior Court judges should solicit civic organizations through the mail and by publicity to submit names of persons to serve on the grand jury. This solicitation should take place late in the summer or early fall so that judges can make the selection before the end of each year.

Consideration should be given to geographical, social, economic, age, sex and race distribution of the county so that the grand jurors will be representative of the entire community.

In the letters to the civic organizations, the judges should include some suggested guidelines for recommending prospective grand jurors and also include a simple, uniform form in which the recommending organization can provide some background on each nominee.

Mrs. Azevedo said this is a partial report from the council's grand jury committee. The committee will continue studies and hopes to make further recommendations on changes in the power on grand juries and methods used.

The Council also accepted the resignation of Jack Schoop of San Rafael, president-elect of the Northern California Chapter of the American Institute of Planners, who will not have time to serve on the council board.

The council set two meetings next month, on Jan. 7 and on Jan. 28. Both will be held at the Civic Center at 8 p.m.

State Civil Service 5% Pay Hiked Asked

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Personnel Board proposed a 5 per cent across-the-board pay hike for the state's 103,000 full-time civil servants today.

The increase would cost $86.3 million.

This compared with boosts ranging from 6 per cent to 20 per cent and totaling $148 million sought by the California State Employees Association which represents most of the workers.

The board, in sending its final recommendations to Gov. Ronald Reagan, modified its earlier tentative proposal that there be a 10 per cent ceiling on the amount of raises for any one category.

The hikes proposed by the board ranges from the general 5 per cent up to 12.5 per cent for employees in classes "in which salary problems are acute."

The board said those higher increases "are necessary to match salaries paid for similar work in private industry and other public jurisdictions."

The board also reiterated previous proposals for these employee benefits:

That the state pay the full cost of basic employee health insurance.

Night pay differential "where justified by prevailing practice."

Unemployment insurance for state employees who are laid off "for no fault of their own."

Time and one-half for overtime for employes whose counterparts in private industry receive it.

The proposed hikes also would cover the state's 15,000 part-time employees but not teachers in the state college and university systems. Their salary increases are handled separately.

The state employees received a general pay increase last July averaging 5.6 per cent.

Transit Unit Seeks Role Definition

I-J Special Reort

SAN LEANDRO — The Regional Transportation Planning Committee of the Association of Bay Arrea Governments wants more information on what role it can play in improving transportation within San Francisco.

ABAG's transportation committee, headed by Supervisor John F. McInnis of San Rafael, met last night at the Blue Dolfin in San Leandro to discuss a letter from Gordon C. Luce, secretary to the Business and Transportation Agency of California. Luce asked ABAG to consider the "mode of transportation, alternative corridors, and general design characteristics" to improve the link between the Golden Gate and the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridges.

The regional transportation committee appointed McInnis and Jack Maltester of San Leandro to meet with Luce and San Francisco officials to see what role ABAG can play.

Lizette Weiss, community relations director for ABAG, said the next meeting of the regional transportation planning committee will be held on Jan. 7, probably in San Francisco, but the location has not been set.

Two Novato Girls Report Exposure

Two incidents of indecent exposure were reported between 4:15 and 4:30 p.m. yesterday at Marion School in Novato by 15 and 17-year-old girls, police reported.

The man was described by one girl as wearing a dirty grey or brown long-sleeved coat and blue slacks. The other girl said he wore grey slacks and coat, white shirt and black tie. He was described as 26 to 28 years old, about five feet nine inches with brown hair.

Couple Held On Stolen Tools Count

A 35-year old man and his 29-year old female companion were arrested in San Rafael yesterday on suspicion of possessing property stolen in Mill Valley last month.

John Gerald Whooley and Brenda Gene Hinckley, both of the Travelers Inn, 706 Third Street, San Rafael, were booked into Marin County Jail. She was held in lieu of $2,500 bail, he is lieu of $6,250 bail, both to appear today in Marin Municipal Court. At 3:15 p.m., a patrolman saw Whooley putting tools and equipment into a pickup truck owned by Herbert H. Bess, 44, also of the Travelers Inn.

A check proved the equipment was stolen in Mill Valley last month. His companion, Miss Hinckley then told police the tools had been given to her three weeks ago for safekeeping by a man whom she met in a San Francisco bar.

Police said the tools were stolen along with a truck owned by Ronald G. Gaither of 60 Gustafson Court, Novato, which was parked in the Sabella restaurant parking lot on Nov. 11. The truck was recovered in San Francisco the following day.

More of the equipment stolen from Gaither was found in the suspects' hotel room, police said.

Reagan Promises 1970 Tax Reform

OAKLAND (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan last night predicted a program to be presented in January by his administration for a "total" overhaul of the state's tax structure. (See Bagley story, page 1.)

Reagan, addressing a Republican fund-raising dinner, said his forthcoming political campaign for reelection will center on economy in government, a continued crackdown on crime and tax reform.

The governor said his program will call for "total and revolutionary overhaul of the tax structure" and "provide real and lasting property tax relief" by shifting most of the educational costs to the state.

Nixon May Convene Congress Dec. 26

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon told Republican congressional leaders today he will call Congress back into session Dec. 26 if it does not complete action before Christmas on all appropriation bills.

And, House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford told newsmen after the weekly GOP leadership meeting with Nixon, the President also is considering calling Congress back to Capitol Hill the day after Christmas if there is no "movement" on his anti-crime legislation.

It's the holiday season, 1795. Jacob Beam and his family are buckboarding it around the Kentucky countryside. Chinning with the neighbors. Giving gifts. Jacob Beam is giving his closest friends a bit of himself. Some Beam Bourbon. It comes right from his own choicest grains. His own secret formula. And his secret knack for making the best-tasting, lightest Bourbon within a two days' ride. It's a rare gift, because Jacob never seems to be able to make enough to keep up with the demand.

Today, T. Jeremiah Beam, pictured here, makes Jim Beam Bourbon just like Jacob did, generations of Beams ago. And he's gift-wrapped it in a handsome holiday package. Give it to some of your friends and you'll sort of be doing what old Jacob did. You'll be giving a bit of yourself. And that's still the rarest gift of all. "World's finest Bourbon since 1795."

Alcatraz's For Sale Sign Taken Down

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Alcatraz Island is no longer for sale, at least not for the present.

A spokesman for the island's custodian the federal government's General Services Administration, broke the news to San Francisco officials yesterday in the latest development involving the former prison site in San Francisco Bay.

The island is currently occupied by a group of American Indians who landed on the island two weeks ago and claimed it for Indian use under old peace treaties.

Those who have sought to buy the island include Lamar Hunt of Texas, who offered a couple million in payment. The Indians offered $24 in beads, a deal they described as similar to the purchase of Manhattan Island from the Indians.

Thomas E. Hannon, GSA regional administrator, told the San Francisco Board of Supervisors that the island had been taken off the market.

The city had been planning to buy the former federal penitentiary in San Francisco Bay and had organized a committee to decide what to do with it.

Hannon said Interior Secretary Walter Hickel wants time to determine whether there is further federal use for the island.

If Hickel decides there is no federal use, the city probably will be given first option to buy it, said Richard Laws, the GSA's property management and disposal service regional director. No official price has been put on the island.

The Indian settlers continue making improvements on the island, located a couple of miles from the Golden Gate Bridge.

Classes have been organized in such subjects as native American studies and plumbing has been repaired.

The Indians have a gasoline operated generator which provides a limited amount of electricity.

A newly born fawn depends on his camouflage and lack of scent to prevent detection. By five weeks of age he has another defense — speed — and can outrun a man.

French Act On Tipsy Driving

PARIS (AP) — Shocked by new figures on alcohol consumption, the French government has decided to define drunken driving as a blood alcohol content of .80 grams per thousand, or the equivalent of two-thirds of a bottle of cheap wine for a man and half a bottle for a woman.

The proposal announced yesterday is expected to win approval in the National Assembly, where the government has a majority, but the wine lobby probably will try to get the figure raised.

Under the present law, a policeman or a judge decides whether a driver is under the influence of alcohol or "in a state of drunkenness." One report says alcohol is a factor in one-third of all traffic accidents.

Instrument Landing Cost Under Study

County Airport manager Francis E. Torr has announced he is sounding out the Federal Aviation Agency on cost of possible installation of instrument landing facilities at Gnoss Field north of Novato.

Torr gave this report to the Marin Aviation Commission at its regular meeting Tuesday at the Civic Center.

"I've been talking with FAA for technical help on an instrument approach facility, but it's still quite preliminary," said Torr.

He also reported that Gnoss Field now has 101 airplanes based at the airport, including 89 single-engine craft and 12 twin-engine airplanes.

The Marin Aviation Commission also:

WORKSHOP — Asked the Marin County Board of Supervisors for a joint workshop meeting at 9 a.m. on Jan. 27.

COLLEGE AVAIATION — Heard from chairman David B. Vail that the College of Marin is interested in starting an aviation course as a part of the regular curriculum.

EXPANSION — Asked Torr for figures on how much revenue could be expected if Gnoss Field is expanded by purchase of 5.3 acres to the south, owned by William Wright.

The whooping crane was given its name because its loud, deep call could be heard as far as a mile away.

Fry Cook 135th Murder Victim

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco's 135th murder victim of 1969 was a fry cook whose body was found lying in a pool of blood outside a Fillmore District social club.

Police quoted witnesses yesterday as saying the victim, Gerald Alexis, 25, had won an undetermined amount of money earlier playing dominoes in the club. In a pocket, police found $1.54.

There has been no arrest.

In 1968 there were 98 homicides in this city.

ART WORK — Victoria Joyner, 12 times a grandmother, and mayor for a ninth term at Osseo, Minn., conducts business from her desk in the plating business. She had to take over after the death of her husband. (AP Wirephoto)

SUCCESS AT 64

Grandmother Named Mayor Ninth Time

OSSEO, Minn. (AP) — Five months after her husband died, Victoria Joyner was busy taking the reins of their electroplating firm when a group of businessmen approached her and one said, "We want you for mayor."

"All right," she replied.

That was in 1953. Since being elected later that year, she has been mayor of this community of 2,900 six miles northwest of Minneapolis. The 64-year-old grandmother of 12 was elected Tuesday without opposition to a ninth two-year term.

With the help of her two sons, her business has expanded. They now operate a 24-lane bowling alley and restaurant opened in 1957 and a golf course established in 1963.

"I've always been very tough," Mrs. Joyner says. "I'm not an easy-going woman.

"I can fire an employeee as easily as I hire him — if he deserves it, and after he's had his day in court."

Mrs. Joyner who has dark brown eyes and brown-gray hair says that through her life she has held a deep religious faith, a strong belief in letting people decide what they want and a drive "to do what needs doing."

"I've never been afraid of anything," she says. "God has been good to us. I've always had faith."

Most days she is at work for the city or her businesses at her office at the electroplating plant founded in 1941 by her husband, Albert. Mrs. Joyner labored with him in the new business, running machines and doing "whatever needed doing." Sons Albert and Orlyn joined the business after they were graduated from college. It is in Brooklyn Park, about a mile from Osseo.

In 1951, they opened an industrial division across the road. Among other products, cast and plated nameplates for appliances are manufactured there.

After her husband died, "I had to step in, so I did," Mrs. Joyner recalled.

The presidencies of the three firms now are rotated among the mother and sons.

"When we have family conferences, they're board of director meetings for three companies," she says, laughing.

Man Arrested In Trespassing

A 49-year old man was arrested in San Rafael yesterday on suspicion of trespassing and carrying a concealed weapon.

Eugene Leroy Striplin, 49, of no known address, was booked into Marin County Jail after Nancy Carolle Brusati told police she had seen him Tuesday in the garage at her home at 28 Tampa Drive and again yesterday at 11:45 a.m.

Police found Striplin in the Elks Club picnic grounds. He had a 15-inch machete sheathed in a scabbord on his person.

Striplin was released on his own recognizance and is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Wednesday.

Antimilitary Time Asked Of Radio, TV

BERKELEY (UPI) — Three San Francisco Bay Area antiwar groups today asked radio and television stations which broadcast armed forces recruiting advertisements to offer equal time for announcements opposing military service.

Attorney Donald Jelinek called on 27 Bay Area broadcasting stations to present both sides of the "controversial issue" of military service.

Congress To Open Bank Fraud Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was to begin work today to curb the illegal use of secret foreign bank accounts, an attack based in part on a multimillion-dollar swindle of the Navy — one of the biggest fraud cases ever cracked by federal authorities.

The case involved a St. Louis company and several of its officers who defrauded the Navy on more than $47 million in contracts for rocket launchers and funneled more than $4 million in overcharges and kickbacks into secret Swiss bank accounts.

In gaining evidence that led to a 30-count indictment, the Justice Department was able—for the first time in history—to crack Swiss bank secrecy.

The principal defendants included Francis N. Rosenbaum, a Washington lawyer with good social and political connections, and Andrew L. Stone, a multimillionaire St. Louis businessman. Both pleaded guilty to several counts of the indictment.

With the other defendants, they are due for sentencing here next month before U.S. Dist. Judge Oliver Gasch. Rosenbaum and Stone each could be sentenced to 45 years in jail and fined $90,000.

N.Y. INDICTMENT

In addition, yesterday Rosenbaum was indicted in New York on perjury charges stemming from his 1966 testimony to a grand jury there which was looking into possible illegal use of secret Swiss bank accounts.

The House Banking Committee was to start today drafting legislation which would require record keeping and reporting by persons in the United States who deal with foreign banks protected by secrecy laws and by couriers who whisk satchels of secret cash from this country into the hands of discreet foreign bankers.

Records in the rocket launcher case disclose:

The conspiracy spanned a four-year period, from January 1963 to February 1967.

When it began, the Chromcraft Corp. of St. Louis had been receiving Navy contracts to manufacture 2.75-inch rocket launchers for a year. In 1963, Rosenbaum was a director of and special counsel to Chromcraft. Stone was the principal stockholder and chief executive officer.

They submitted cost estimates to the Navy for the rocket launchers, including invoices from a subcontractor, Scientific Electronics, Ltd., of Beverly Hills. The invoices were fraudulent and the Navy overpaid on the contracts for the launchers.

"DESK DRAWER"

Scientific Electronics was nothing more than a desk drawer company and never did any work for Chromcraft.

Later, Scientific was dropped and another dummy corporation, Bregman Electronics, Inc., was incorporated in New York City to continue the fraud.

In 1966, Chromcraft was merged into Alsco, Inc., an Akron, Ohio, firm. Chromcraft's St. Louis rocket launcher manufacturing operation became the Techfab Division of Alsco. Rosenbaum and Stone retained with Alsco the positions they had held with Chromcraft.

The false pricing and overpayments by the Navy continued until 1967 under this new setup.

In addition, Stone and Rosenbaum demanded and received kickbacks totaling $663,481 from Western Molded Fibre Products, Inc., of Gardena, Calif., a legitimate subcontractor first for Chromcraft then for Techfab.

The defendants channeled this money into their Swiss bank accounts. They also channeled more than $2.2 million through Scientific Electronics and nearly $1.2 million through Bregman into Swiss banks.

The Associated Press disclosed in July, 1968, that despite a grand jury probe, the Navy continued to give its rocket launcher contracts to Techfab on a sole-source basis—that is without competitive bidding.

In August, the indictment was returned and six weeks later the Navy backed away from Techfab and said all future contracts for the rocket launchers would be awarded through competitive bidding.

Two new contracts were awarded through competitive bidding earlier this year and could reduce the cost of the launchers by as much as 38 per cent.

Alsco is now under new management.

The House military operations subcommittee is scheduled to open an investigation tomorrow into the fraud surrounding the Navy's procurement of the 2.75-inch rocket launchers.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A lawsuit asking that California residents between 18 and 20 be permitted to vote was before the U. S. District Court today.

The suit was filed yesterday by attorney John R. Cosgrove in behalf of Denise Puishes, 19, a Santa Clara County resident.

Lawsuit Pair Face Charges On Baby Care

The son and daughter-in-law of a wealthy Phillippines businessman, who maintains a home in Tiburon, face charges in San Francisco after a raid on their baby-sitting agency.

The couple, Norman Aguinaldo and his wife, Julia, have been charged with operating a baby-sitting agency without a license, wilful child abuse and conspiracy.

The charges resulted from a raid Nov. 25 by San Francisco police at the couple's apartment at 66 Cleary Court. They were freed on $1,250 bail each.

Police reported the apartment was dirty and 10 babies, from 1 to 4 years of age, were left unattended in three bare, unventilated bedrooms.

Last month Aquinaldo and his wife, filed a $14 million suit against his father, Daniel P. Aguinaldo, in a family feud.

Police said the couple's baby sitting agency came under surveillance on Nov. 18 after a man reported there was nobody in attendance.

Mrs. Aguinaldo had been the baby-sitting business for more than a year and had been charging $25 to $30 a week for each child, police said.

Pessimism At NATO On Paris Talk Future

BRUSSELS (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers gloomily told the other 14 foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization today he is pessimistic about U.S. efforts to negotiate a peace with North Vietnam.

The United States, he said, is ready to negotiate everything at the Paris peace talks—except the right of the South Vietnamese people to determine their own political future. He said President Richard M. Nixon will insist on this right for the South Vietnamese in any settlement negotiated with North Vietnam.

Rogers also expressed the astonishment and shock of Nixon's administration at allegations of American atrocities in the South Vietnamese village of My Lai. His hope was that any American soldiers proven to be responsible would be brought to justice and punished. None of the other ministers thus far have commented on the atrocity subject.

In the annual survey of world affairs, Rogers announced that the Strategic Arms Limitations Talks—SALT— in Helsinki, Finland, will be interrupted in about two weeks and that the American chief representative, Gerard C. Smith, will stop by NATO's Brussels headquarters to report to the council on his way back to Washington. The Soviets are proving extremely businesslike in those talks, Rogers said.

The gist of Rogers' remarks at the closed-door session was relayed to newsmen by officials who were present.

The foreign ministers were debating the international situation, focusing on a proposal by the Soviet-led Communist powers for a conference on European security. In their Prague declaration the six Communist states called on the Western allies to attend such a parley in Helsinki by June 30, 1970.

The consensus so far among statesmen favors negotiating precise new security arrangements in Europe, but they balked at Communist terms.

Rogers, backed by Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart of Britain, cautioned his partners against hurrying into any ill-prepared parley, urging: "Let us be prudent."

The first serially published comic strip appeared in the United States in the last decade of the 19th Century.

Lodge Swan Song Lashes Hanoi Stand

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, addressing the Vietnam peace talks for the last time, said today the United States will continue to participate fully in the negotiations and to seek a compromise.

Lodge announced his resignation last month after 10 months as head of the U.S. delegation. His deputy, Philip Habib, is expected to lead the delegation until President Richard M. Nixon names a successor for Lodge.

"The United States government seeks an early negotiated settlement," Lodge told the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates at the weekly session. "It will continue to seek it.

"We remain ready for give-and-take negotiation in any meeting place. We remain ready for compromise. When you are ready, progress can be speedy."

Lodge spoke after listening to the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese denounce the United States for the alleged mass killing of civilians at My Lai by U.S. soldiers in 1968. The Viet Cong asserted U.S. and South Vietnamese troops are continuing the mass slaughter of civilians every hour.

Lodge said the other side's "obstinate" obstruction was alone responsible for the deadlock which has prevented any progress at the talks other than agreement on the shape of the table.

He again accused Hanoi and the Viet Cong of seeking to take over South Vietnam by conquest and subversion and warned that "President Nixon has set his course and will not be pressured from it."

Lodge recalled that the United States significantly reduced its troop strength in South Vietnam, and declared: "It can be flatly stated that the trend of American involvement in the war in Vietnam has been reversed.

Referring to the other side's refusal to negotiate with the Saigon government, Lodge said: "One might well ask who elected the leadership of the so called (Viet Cong) provisional revolutionary government. Where is its capital? Why are two-thirds of its regular combat forces North Vietnamese? Why is it unwilling to participate in a genuine political contest open to all on an equal basis?"

In a passage inserted in his prepared text, Lodge accused Hanoi and the Viet Cong of making "wild and inaccurate charges" concerning alleged American atrocities in Vietnam.

Referring to the My Lai massacre to which the Hanoi and Viet Cong delegates devoted large parts of their speeches, Lodge said: "An incident such as that alleged in this case is in direct violation not only of U.S. military policy, but it is also abhorrent to the conscience of all the American people.

"Whatever happened will be known because we do not conceal the truth."

"In all this, I submit, our policy is in direct contrast to your own deliberate use of terrorism as a matter of conscious policy."

Emerging from the almost six-hour meeting, Hanoi delegate Xuan Thuy said Lodge "did nothing but bring up the same old tired arguments."

Pessimism At NATO On Paris Talk Future

BRUSSELS (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers gloomily told the other 14 foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization today he is pessimistic about U.S. efforts to negotiate a peace with North Vietnam.

The United States, he said, is ready to negotiate everything at the Paris peace talks—except the right of the South Vietnamese people to determine their own political future. He said President Richard M. Nixon will insist on this right for the South Vietnamese in any settlement negotiated with North Vietnam.

Rogers also expressed the astonishment and shock of Nixon's administration at allegations of American atrocities in the South Vietnamese village of My Lai. His hope was that any American soldiers proven to be responsible would be brought to justice and punished. None of the other ministers thus far have commented on the atrocity subject.

In the annual survey of world affairs, Rogers announced that the Strategic Arms Limitations Talks—SALT— in Helsinki, Finland, will be interrupted in about two weeks and that the American chief representative, Gerard C. Smith, will stop by NATO's Brussels headquarters to report to the council on his way back to Washington. The Soviets are proving extremely businesslike in those talks, Rogers said.

The gist of Rogers' remarks at the closed-door session was relayed to newsmen by officials who were present.

The foreign ministers were debating the international situation, focusing on a proposal by the Soviet-led Communist powers for a conference on European security. In their Prague declaration the six Communist states called on the Western allies to attend such a parley in Helsinki by June 30, 1970.

The consensus so far among statesmen favors negotiating precise new security arrangements in Europe, but they balked at Communist terms.

Rogers, backed by Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart of Britain, cautioned his partners against hurrying into any ill-prepared parley, urging: "Let us be prudent."

The first serially published comic strip appeared in the United States in the last decade of the 19th Century.

Lodge Swan Song Lashes Hanoi Stand

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, addressing the Vietnam peace talks for the last time, said today the United States will continue to participate fully in the negotiations and to seek a compromise.

Lodge announced his resignation last month after 10 months as head of the U.S. delegation. His deputy, Philip Habib, is expected to lead the delegation until President Richard M. Nixon names a successor for Lodge.

"The United States government seeks an early negotiated settlement," Lodge told the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates at the weekly session. "It will continue to seek it.

"We remain ready for give-and-take negotiation in any meeting place. We remain ready for compromise. When you are ready, progress can be speedy."

Lodge spoke after listening to the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese denounce the United States for the alleged mass killing of civilians at My Lai by U.S. soldiers in 1968. The Viet Cong asserted U.S. and South Vietnamese troops are continuing the mass slaughter of civilians every hour.

Lodge said the other side's "obstinate" obstruction was alone responsible for the deadlock which has prevented any progress at the talks other than agreement on the shape of the table.

He again accused Hanoi and the Viet Cong of seeking to take over South Vietnam by conquest and subversion and warned that "President Nixon has set his course and will not be pressured from it."

Lodge recalled that the United States significantly reduced its troop strength in South Vietnam, and declared: "It can be flatly stated that the trend of American involvement in the war in Vietnam has been reversed.

Referring to the other side's refusal to negotiate with the Saigon government, Lodge said: "One might well ask who elected the leadership of the so called (Viet Cong) provisional revolutionary government. Where is its capital? Why are two-thirds of its regular combat forces North Vietnamese? Why is it unwilling to participate in a genuine political contest open to all on an equal basis?"

In a passage inserted in his prepared text, Lodge accused Hanoi and the Viet Cong of making "wild and inaccurate charges" concerning alleged American atrocities in Vietnam.

Referring to the My Lai massacre to which the Hanoi and Viet Cong delegates devoted large parts of their speeches, Lodge said: "An incident such as that alleged in this case is in direct violation not only of U.S. military policy, but it is also abhorrent to the conscience of all the American people.

"Whatever happened will be known because we do not conceal the truth."

"In all this, I submit, our policy is in direct contrast to your own deliberate use of terrorism as a matter of conscious policy."

Emerging from the almost six-hour meeting, Hanoi delegate Xuan Thuy said Lodge "did nothing but bring up the same old tired arguments."

Campers Lose Bargain Day Winter Rates

Beginning Jan. 1, reduced winter rates for state park campgrounds and boat launching sites will be cancelled and higher summer rates will be in effect the year-round, it was announced yesterday.

Two state parks in Marin — Mount Tamalpais and Samuel B. Taylor — will be affected by the winter rate hike, according to Robert K. Crawford, area state park manager.

Crawford said summer fees are $3.50 a day for trailer sites with utility hookups, 3 dollars for class A campsites, 2 dollars for Class B campsites, 1 dollar for Class C campsites and for boat launching facilities.

In the past, persons using the campgrounds during the winter months were charged half price, according to Crawford, who said he did not believe the increase will result in a decrease in campers.

"Our campgrounds has been filled most of the time, despite larger fees in recent years," he said. "Higher costs have not made any difference in the past."

Marin state parks unaffected because they have no overnight camping or entrance charges are: Stinson Beach, Angel Island, Tomales Bay and Marin Headlands.

The fee schedule is being standardized because of the new computer system of reserving campground spaces, William Penn Mott Jr., state parks and recreation director, said.

"With campers able to make reservations on a year-around basis now, it is necessary that a single, standard fee system also be in effect year-around," Mott said.

Smog Board Hears Of Threat In Lawsuit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The existence of all regional agencies in the State of California has been threatened by a lawsuit filed in El Dorado County against the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency.

This report was made yesterday to Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors by the district's counsel, Matthew S. Walker.

The suit filed in El Dorado challenges the state's power to delegate municipal regulatory powers to a special district.

The suit contends that the California Constitution says that the state can delegate such powers only to cities and counties, Walker said.

Walker noted the agencies threatened by the suit include the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Some local governments in the Tahoe basin oppose the creation of a regional agency or district, claiming that such a district would usurp their powers.

Her Book Is About Peter And Patsy

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Mrs. Carole Lester, a youthful looking grandmother who lives in Sausalito, is another woman who has started a new career after many years in another field — secretarial work.

And her two pet Pekin ducks, Patsy and Peter, are responsible, for she has just had her first book, "To Make a Duck Happy," published by Harper & Rowe.

This is not, however, Patsy's debut in print. That occurred on Dec. 23, 1957, when she was six months old, in an Independent-Journal article by the late Larry Lovett, accompanied by a picture showing Patsy modeling a jacket made for her by her mistress.

MUCH HAS happened since then, including the arrival of Peter. Though still handsome, both birds are now in advanced old age for ducks — Patsy, 12, nearly blind with cataracts, and Peter, 10, lame from an attack by a dog.

Mrs. Lester, who was secretary for many years to the superintendent of schools in Bronxville, N.Y., has held various secretarial positions since then, including one at the Presidio in San Francisco. She came to Sausalito in 1946. She lived for a number of years on an ark on the Sausalito waterfront, a setting that proved ideal for Patsy, the little duckling that was given her by a friend who won it in a raffle.

"Patsy used to watch the wild Mallards on what I called the pond, the little backwater around the ark," she says, "and on learning their courting ways began a mating dance. So I bought Peter for her, and after a stormy period they became a devoted pair, though each had a brief 'other duck' episode. Ducks often mate for life," Carole noted.

OVER THE NEXT 12 years Carole gathered material for her book, which is not only a captivating story for children and adults about the ducks and their Mallard friends, but also a book that will probably become a standard on the care of pet ducks.

Space does not permit a description of the ducks' surprising characteristics and human-like behavior. For that, reading the books is recommended.

"My interest in writing began when I was seven years old," Carole recalls. "I had a teddy bear and used to write little books for his 'library.' I didn't become seriously interested in writing until about eight years ago when I looked in women's magazines and thought, 'what tripe this is!' You shouldn't write unless you have something to say.

"The first thing I wrote was a fantasy about the different birds on the backwater around the ark. I sent it out only once, then dropped it.

"I DIDN'T BEGIN writing again," she went on, "until I started my book on the ducks two years ago. I knew no book had been written on pet ducks, and I wrote it to show what ducks are like."

Carole is very happy that her book has been getting excellent reviews, especially in the East. It has been ordered by the state of Ohio for its public schools, is now in its second printing and will be on the National Wild Life Book list for 1970.

Needless to say, she has never eaten duck since she acquired her pets, and in fact became a total vegetarian about two years ago.

"I was really thrilled," she said happily, "when Dr. Frederick Shroyer, literary editor of the Los Angeles Herald Examiner, wrote that reading my book made it impossible for him ever again to enjoy a duck dinner."

BORN IN Harrow, England, Mrs. Lester came to the United States as a child but still retains traces of her British origin in her gentle, soft-spoken manner of talking. She obtained her secretarial training at the well known Katharine Gibbs secretarial school in New York City.

Her son David lives in Palo Alto with his wife Lavonne and their two daughters, Doreen and Vikki.

The new author is presently working on fiction for children about more of the bird characters she knew when she lived on the ark in Sausalito.

PETTING A DUCK that has just come out of the water can be a problem. It must be dried first, and Mrs. Carole Lester keeps a towel handy for this purpose. She dries Patsy, the heroine of her recently published book, "To Make a Duck Happy." (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

PETER AND PATSY, the pet Pekin ducks of Mrs. Carole Lester, splash about happily in the pool at the Sausalito home of their owner, who has just written her first book about them. Pampered, they even had their own radio at one time.

National Costumes Influence De La Renta's Collection

By ANN HENCKEN

NEW YORK (AP) — For the woman who likes drama, Oscar de la Renta's spring collection is filled with the bright but subtle influence of national costumes from around the world.

De la Renta's collection got applause here Tuesday at the American Designer Showings for spring 1970—with plenty of sequins, Spanish shawls and Moroccan embroideries.

His organzas and foulards are light and airy, ruffled at the throat and hem and printed in floral patterns. Some glitter with "Topkapi" jeweled harem boleros and sequined flowers.

THE CAFTAN IS translated into full-length dresses with gathered skirts and embroidery on square armholes and matching shoulder purses. Many waists are sashed, while skirts break low on the hip and flare into ruffles.

Evening pants ensembles are softened by long cardigan coats or Balinese dancer overskirts. Sleeves are often billowing and open at the wrist.

Another designer to offer drama at the day's showings was Marilyn Lewis of Cardinali. She brought out full, high-belted pocket dresses in popcorn cotton —long jackets over pants and pleated skirts in "computer" plaids—a white, two-piece "slashed" pants ensemble with the blouse material breaking into very wide "fringe" above the waist. The Cardinali idea is to design year-round, easy-to-care-for clothes with a fresh, uncrumpled elegant look.

SOME THIRTY designers were represented at a showing of fabrics from Galey and Lord, a division of Burlington Industries. There were Giorgio di Sant "Angelo's pleated plaids, Donald Brooks' red poplin raincoats worn with Peter Max painted stockings. Gayle Kirkpatrick's red and white seersucker pinafores and Geoffrey Bene's beige and black, front-belted poplin coats.

Tests show that smudges on a car windshield cut night driving visibility by 50 per cent and cause extreme eye fatigue. Each time a driver passes an oncoming car, his irises are forced to make four to five adjustments. To clean windshields of bug splatters and other hazards, applying baking soda dry with a damp sponge, rinse and wipe dry. Baking soda also will erase tar without harming the paint finish on a car's body.

Reception Honors Kirk Malan Allens

By MOLLY MARIN

A reception was held for Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Malan Allen of Ogden, Utah, on Friday night in the cultural hall of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Novato.

In the receiving line with the couple who were married Nov. 8 in Salt Lake City were the best man, Larry Wissbaum of Denver, Colo.; bridesmaids, Ann Williams of Salt Lake City, sister of the bride; and Ann Ekman of Novato; and the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Williams of Salt Lake City; the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley M. Allen of Novato; and his grandmother, Mrs. Delia Malan of Ogden.

Mrs. Allen is the former Sally Christina Williams of Salt Lake City. Kirk was graduated from Novato High School and is now attending Weber State College in Ogden.

KAREN EVANS is honoring Jean Hinkley at a bridal shower tonight at the Kent Woodlands home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans.

The dinner for 10 is for the future bride of John Howe. The couple will be married Dec. 27 at St. John's Church in Ross. Jean is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hinkley of Kentfield.

THE 15TH ANNUAL Florence Avenue Block Christmas Party is planned for Dec. 20 on the San Anselmo street, where neighbors will gather at 7:30 p.m.

Christmas carols will be sung around a pot bellied stove while the children await the arrival of Santa Claus (Gene Pollman). Refreshments will be served around a Christmas tree decorated by the children.

Should Children Join Holiday Dinner Table?

AP Newsfeature

Should children eat holiday dinners at a separate table?

This is a question that plagues many mothers during the Christmas season, and unfortunately there is no pat answer.

Ideally, says the Good Housekeeping Institute, children who are old enough should eat their meals with adults during the holidays since they are traditionally a family time and often the only occasion when relatives gather together.

ALLOWING CHILDREN to eat at the same table not only gives them a chance to be with seldom-seen relatives, but it also eliminates many cooking and serving problems. If children eat before the adults, keeping the turkey and vegetables fresh and warm until the adults are ready to sit down can be a problem. Keeping meats and gravy at room temperature after serving may promote bacterial growth, which can cause food poisoning. So, if at all possible serve adults and children at the same time.

After a busy day of opening and playing with new presents, and greeting favorite relatives, children are likely to work up an appetite sooner than adults. If you plan to feed the whole family at once, make sure the children have a large breakfast or lunch, whichever precedes the dinner to keep them from clamoring to be fed until the adults are ready to eat.

When it is impossible to feed the whole family together — perhaps you don't have the room or the table space — don't worry about it. Youngsters will not feel cheated or deprived if parents explain why they are eating at a separate table. However, when a large age gap exists between the youngsters — for example, one or two are teenagrs and the others are 7 to 8 — let the teen-agers eat with the adults. Otherwise, they may feel slighted.

LARGE FAMILY dinners can put a strain on the supply of dinnerware. If you don't have enough, give the children holiday-decorated paper plates, plastic tableware and paper napkins.

These are tears.

One day back in 1960, we remember seeing three of them. But not since. Mostly nice big smiles are what we see around our place. On our salesgirls. And our wrapping girls. On our buyers. And their assistants. On our customers, too. Who very much approve both our clothes and our clothes philosophy. (Which is that every woman is a different message and therefore requires a different combination of clothes.) And our attitude. (Which is nice and un-pushy and helpful without being motherly.) If you'd like a very happy store that specializes in customers of the same, see us. The only place we believe in tears is at the movies.

See our fashions modeled informally at Holiday Inn every Tuesday luncheon.

PETTING A DUCK that has just come out of the water can be a problem. It must be dried first, and Mrs. Carole Lester keeps a towel handy for this purpose. She dries Patsy, the heroine of her recently published book, "To Make a Duck Happy." (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

Her Book Is About Peter And Patsy

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Mrs. Carole Lester, a youthful looking grandmother who lives in Sausalito, is another woman who has started a new career after many years in another field — secretarial work.

And her two pet Pekin ducks, Patsy and Peter, are responsible, for she has just had her first book, "To Make a Duck Happy," published by Harper & Rowe.

This is not, however, Patsy's debut in print. That occurred on Dec. 23, 1957, when she was six months old, in an Independent-Journal article by the late Larry Lovett, accompanied by a picture showing Patsy modeling a jacket made for her by her mistress.

MUCH HAS happened since then, including the arrival of Peter. Though still handsome, both birds are now in advanced old age for ducks — Patsy, 12, nearly blind with cataracts, and Peter, 10, lame from an attack by a dog.

Mrs. Lester, who was secretary for many years to the superintendent of schools in Bronxville, N.Y., has held various secretarial positions since then, including one at the Presidio in San Francisco. She came to Sausalito in 1946. She lived for a number of years on an ark on the Sausalito waterfront, a setting that proved ideal for Patsy, the little duckling that was given her by a friend who won it in a raffle.

"Patsy used to watch the wild Mallards on what I called the pond, the little backwater around the ark," she says, dance. So I bought Peter for her, and after a stormy period they became a devoted pair, though each had a brief 'other duck' episode. Ducks often mate for life," Carole noted.

OVER THE NEXT 12 years Carole gathered material for her book, which is not only a captivating story for children and adults about the ducks and their Mallard friends, but also a book that will probably become a standard on the care of pet ducks.

Space does not permit a description of the ducks' surprising characteristics and human-like behavior. For that, reading the books is recommended.

"My interest in writing began when I was seven years old," Carole recalls. "I had a "and on learning their courting ways began a mating teddy bear and used to write little books for his 'library.' I didn't become seriously interested in writing until about eight years ago when I looked in women's magazines and thought, 'what tripe this is!' You shouldn't write unless you have something to say.

"The first thing I wrote was a fantasy about the different birds on the backwater around the ark. I sent it out only once, then dropped it.

"I DIDN'T BEGIN writing again," she went on, "until I started my book on the ducks two years ago. I knew no book had been written on pet ducks, and I wrote it to show what ducks are like."

Carole is very happy that her book has been getting excellent reviews, especially in the East. It has been ordered by the state of Ohio for its public schools, is now in its second printing and will be on the National Wild Life Book list for 1970.

Needless to say, she has never eaten duck since she acquired her pets, and in fact became a total vegetarian about two years ago.

"I was really thrilled," she said happily, "when Dr. Frederick Shroyer, literary editor of the Los Angeles Herald Examiner, wrote that reading my book made it impossible for him ever again to enjoy a duck dinner."

BORN IN Harrow, England, Mrs. Lester came to the United States as a child but still retains traces of her British origin in her gentle, soft-spoken manner of talking. She obtained her secretarial training at the well known Katharine Gibbs secretarial school in New York City.

Her son David lives in Palo Alto with his wife Lavonne and their two daughters, Doreen and Vikki.

The new author is presently working on fiction for children about more of the bird characters she knew when she lived on the ark in Sausalito.

PETER AND PATSY, the pet Pekin ducks of Mrs. Carole Lester, splash about happily in the pool at the Sausalito home of their owner, who has just written her first book about them. Pampered, they even had their own radio at one time.

College Education Is Available For Those Willing To Look

DEAR HELEN:

I would like to tell "No Room At The 'In'" that a college education is available to all qualified high school graduates, if they're willing to look. True some states have a shortage, but there are hundreds of openings in private colleges throughout the country. Many offer scholarships, work grants and loans.

While California and eastern state colleges and universities seem filled to overflowing, many states in between will accept students for a comparatively small out-of-state tuition.

I know. I started college with $36 and ended up with eight years of higher education, six of them outside of my own state. —J. P. R.

DEAR HELEN:

There is plenty of room for part-time study in most colleges. From part-time, it is easy for proven students to enter the junior or senior level where there is more room because of drop-outs. — ONE WHO COMMUTED AND GRADUATED

DEAR HELEN:

There is a computerized service for grade C students, and "No Room" can find out about it by asking his high school counselor. We used it and our mail was flooded with information about colleges with openings. Some of these were waiting for accreditation, some were expensive, but there is room. And many of these colleges offered federal and state loans, to be paid at low interest after graduation. — C.C.

DEAR HELEN:

I am twelve and one-half years old and in grade eight. My problem is that my old lady is a pain in the neck. I have a skimpy 75 cents a week allowance that can't even buy two packs of cigarettes.

She is always yelling and complaining and grounding me for dumb things like staying out too late, or not eating my vegetables.

Last night she caught me smoking in my room and blew her head off. I got mad and called her an old fogey and a good for nothing bum, which made her so hot she spanked me with her hairbrush. She never did that before!

I cried and screamed and today I'm playing hookey to get even. What's wrong with smoking when she does it? Is there a state law against spanking almost-teen-agers? I've got to get even with the old fogey.

Don't give me a smart alec answer. I'm not wasting six cents for a wise crack. — MARLA

DEAR MARLA:

DEAR HELEN:

I have blown pot about ten times. Some friends told me that they heard if you smoked, later in life this might affect your children. I have quit, but I'm worried. Does marijuana do something to the chromosomes like LSD? — E.R.

Don't Trust 'Old Pills'

Be wary of old medicines, suggests the Health Insurance Institute.

If they have changed color, separated or otherwise changed composition — throw them out, and not where children can get at them.

If they are in damaged or defective containers, or you're not certain of their proper use — throw them out.

Some medicines lose or gain strength when they are old. This can make them ineffective, or dangerous.

That Girl's The Station's Boss

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The fellows who work down at the service station by Sacramento City College don't talk back to young Melanie Semar. She's the boss.

Two and a half years ago, a friend asked Melanie if she'd be interested in going to work at a service station.

"I laughed at the offer," says the pretty 21-year-old blonde. But she took it. And after working as an attendant in all the Sacramento stations of an independent oil company, she was appointed manager.

Melanie and her sister got interested in autos during high school and took an evening class in mechanics. Melanie pursued the interest at Sacramento City College.

As manager, she's in charge of five male attendants, waits on motorists and handles the books.

Her uniform when she greets customers consists of a regulation company shirt, snug blue jeans and boots.

The company will redecorate the station later this month and Melanie hopes the firm will order some slightly more feminine slacks and blouses for her.

One of Melanie's pet peeves is women who leave all the car worries to husbands.

"For instance, when I tell them they are low on oil, they say, "I'll tell my husband. He'll take care of it."

Melanie handles simple repairs as well as routine service station work and can even tear an auto engine apart and put it back together. "I've done it on both my cars and, of course, in auto shop," she said. She can change a tire in less than 15 minutes.

Melanie's hands get gritty and grimy doing all that man's work, but she has a woman's solution: "I wash dishes and that gets the dirt out from under my nails."

Jewelry Sales

Across the nation, retail jewelry store sales soared to more than $2 billion last year, nearly a 40 per cent rise since 1960. California has displaced New York as a leader in jewelry store sales and in the number of stores doing $1 million or more worth of business in a year. Texas is running third.

Bailey Says Mood Nude Photography Is Work

LONDON EXPRESS SERVICE

LONDON — "I'm interested in what can be done with beautiful bodies", said David Bailey.

He was speaking photographically.

The 30-year-old cockney photographer who helped to shape and record the London scene of the swinging 60's, is experimenting between fashion assignments in, what for him, is a totally new real.

He's photographing nudes. Mood nudes, he calls them and insists: "It's definitely work and not play."

"I'm not interested in nudes in that playboy sense — all those great blockbusters, in smooth penthouse build ups with light falling across nipples in just the hight spot."

As far as his mood nudes are concerned, Bailey isn't much interested in magazine work at all.

"I'm more interested in the photographic than the strictly mammalian aspect", he says. "I'm passionately interested technically."

Bailey uses fashion models — "That's my particular scene and I see no reason to step outside it".

He has found while experimenting that a good deal of his models don't strip well.

"They're curiously, even cunningly, shy", he says.

"The physical qualities that make for a successful and beautiful model aren't always the qualities of a beautiful body".

But Bailey is dedicated to find the right combination of body, model and setting for the mood nudes that could become his trademark in the '70s.

"I'm an idealist and perfectionist at heart".

One of Melanie's pet peeves is women who leave all the car worries to husbands.

"For instance, when I tell them they are low on oil, they say, "I'll tell my husband. He'll take care of it."

Melanie handles simple repairs as well as routine service station work and can even tear an auto engine apart and put it back together. "I've done it on both my cars and, of course, in auto shop," she said. She can change a tire in less than 15 minutes.

Melanie's hands get gritty and grimy doing all that man's work, but she has a woman's solution: "I wash dishes and that gets the dirt out from under my nails."

Bailey Says Mood Nude Photography Is Work

LONDON EXPRESS SERVICE

LONDON — "I'm interested in what can be done with beautiful bodies", said David Bailey.

He was speaking photographically.

The 30-year-old cockney photographer who helped to shape and record the London scene of the swinging 60's, is experimenting between fashion assignments in, what for him, is a totally new real.

He's photographing nudes. Mood nudes, he calls them and insists: "It's definitely work and not play."

"I'm not interested in nudes in that playboy sense — all those great blockbusters, in smooth penthouse build ups with light falling across nipples in just the hight spot."

As far as his mood nudes are concerned, Bailey isn't much interested in magazine work at all.

"I'm more interested in the photographic than the strictly mammalian aspect", he says. "I'm passionately interested technically."

Bailey uses fashion models — "That's my particular scene and I see no reason to step outside it".

He has found while experimenting that a good deal of his models don't strip well.

"They're curiously, even cunningly, shy", he says.

"The physical qualities that make for a successful and beautiful model aren't always the qualities of a beautiful body".

But Bailey is dedicated to find the right combination of body, model and setting for the mood nudes that could become his trademark in the '70s.

"I'm an idealist and perfectionist at heart".

Look Authors Defending Their Sources

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Look Magazine attorney Charles Kenady was to go before a federal judge today to defend the right of authors Richard Carlson and Lance Brisson not to reveal the sources of their article linking San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto to Mafia figures.

Max Blecher, attorney for Alioto in his $12.5 million libel suit against the magazine, argued yesterday that U. S. District Judge Bruce Thompson of Reno must find the authors in contempt or rewrite the law of libel.

Blecher said Alioto would have no way of meeting the requirements of a libel suit before a jury if he did not get the information from Carlson and Brisson.

SANCTIFIED BY COURT

"How can we prove that an informant is reliable if we don't even know who he is?" he asked. "If the action of these authors is sanctioned by the court, it would be emasculating a law of libel."

He asked the judge to hold both authors in contempt for refusing to name their sources. The authors assert that to do so would put several of those sources in physical jeopardy.

Carlson and Brisson testified in closed court sessions Monday and Tuesday and Brisson returned to testify in yesterday morning's section.

In open afternoon proceedings, Blecher disclosed that the authors had cut out the names of most of their informants from a series of looseleaf notebooks containing their notes for the Alioto story. The judge held that this was not a separate offense, but part of the larger question of whether the authors could protect their informants.

THREE COURSES

Judge Thompson said he had three courses of action—persuasion, threat, or confinement of the authors until they change their minds and decide to answer.

"I would be turning you over to the U.S. Marshal and in effect, handing you a key to get out whenever you wanted," he told them.

He said, however, that before going through the formality of having the questions asked of them again, if that was what he decided to do, he would hear from the attorneys.

In other action, Judge Thompson set Jan. 26 for a hearing on motions for summary judgment whether the case will go to trial on its merits. If it does, April 13 was set as a "provisional" trial date.

ATTORNEY CHASTISED

The judge also chastised Blecher for violating a protective order against disclosing anything from depositions of Carlson or Brisson. Blecher had filed a motion asking that Look Magazine admit that Tommy Lee Thomas, former son-in-law of alleged Mafia leader Jimmy Fratianno, was the sole source for the story that Alioto met with Mafia members at the Nut Tree restaurant near Vacaville.

"I don't want anything more of that sort," the judge told Blecher. "It was probably done for the purpose of giving the newspapers the information."

First Hospital Visit At 91

SPENCER, W.VA. (AP) — Ott Givens of nearby Blue Creek saw a doctor this week, for the first time in his 91 years.

Givens' car was bumped in the rear by another car and he was brought to a hospital.

For the first time in his life, he said yesterday, he was examined by a physician, received an innoculation, took his first pill and saw the inside of a hospital.

The retired pipeline worker suffered only cuts on his hand and face and was sent home after treatment.

Co-Ed Tells TV Audience About Abortion At Clinic

SEATTLE (UPI)—A college senior appeared on a television broadcast last night and told how she went to a local doctor for an abortion.

The physician, Dr. A. Frans Koome, has opened a "reproduction crisis clinic" in Renton, which is a suburb of Seattle. Dr. Koome recently announced he has been doing abortions for three years and has done 140 this year.

During the interview broadcast on KING Television, the student, who said she had been aborted by Dr. Koome, was not identified.

An unidentifiable image of the girl's head showed on the screen as she answered questions.

When asked about the doctor's attitude toward finances and his over-all view of abortion, the student said "he is so dedicated that his price is unbelievably small and he does this because he wants to help the individual, not for the money and he doesn't have any doubts about his work."

She added, "he doesn't really care if he is caught because he believes in what he is doing.

The unidentified student said she was referred to Dr. Koome "by my school health center." She added that the health center had a list of several doctors who would perform abortions.

The girl said she was happy with her decision to have an abortion, and said she decided the child would be better off unborn "because I was unable to support it financially—emotionally I am unable to support it too."

Meanwhile, the chairman of the State Medical Disciplinary Board, Dr. Robert L. Hunter, said yesterday the board will look into the case of Dr. Koome.

The board has the power to revoke a physician's license for any of 14 offenses, including aiding and abetting abortion.

In another development, a group of Washington doctors and women are planning a federal suit attacking the constitutionality of the state's law forbidding abortion except in extreme cases where the health of the mother is involved.

Youngsters Get Yule Toy Shopping Spree

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 1,000 disadvantaged children were turned loose in Macy's toy department yesterday, each with a $5 bill to spend Christmas shopping. It was the 19th "Operation Happy Children" cosponsored by the department store and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The kids milled through the aisles, being entertained by Santas, clowns and a band.

Leatherneck Set To Try Politics

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Marine Sgt. C. L. Waldrep announced yesterday his candidacy for sheriff of Gaston County, and said he would campaign from Vietnam.

Waldrep, 38, who has served almost 20 years in the Marines and is nearing retirement, now is a recruiter in Gastonia, his home town. He said he has received orders to go to the West Coast to prepare to ship out for Vietnam.

"Once I am elected," he predicted, "the military will start processing me for return to the United States."

He has entered next spring's Republican primary.

Tax Reform On List Given Legislature

Eyes dancing with visions of new laws, Marin officials yesterday paraded their annual Christmas shopping lists of goodies they want from the Legislature.

A mixed bag of about four dozen proposals by county, city and school officials was presented to Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, both R-San Rafael, in a workshop at the Civic Center.

The two legislators generally accepted the proposals with little comment, except to note occasionally that some needed "more refinement" or something else before they could be in any shape to be thrown into the bill hopper.

Also present was the field representative of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, Marion Otsea, but none of the local officials offered any ideas requiring congressional action.

Half of the shopping list was from the county supervisors, and ranged from tax reform to control of motorcycle noise. McCarthy assured the supervisors "we'll take precious care of your marvelous program and do our best." (Most of the supervisors proposals were reported in the Independent-Journal on Nov. 26.)

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales proposed giving district attorneys the power to bar defendants from repeated delays in reaching trial (For story of a delayed trial, see page 1), and imposing a mandatory 90-day jail sentence on first offenders for possession or distribution of dangerous drugs or marijuana. Present law allows judges to impose probation, a provision strongly criticized by Bales.

Bales also proposed a state statute barring nudity in public places.

County Supt. of Schools Virgil S. Hollis proposed an areawide tax in school districts contracting with his office for bus transportation, postponement beyond 1972 of mandatory unification elections in school areas which have rejected unification, more money for environmental education, and cutting the requirement to pass bond measures from two thirds to one half of the voters balloting in a bond election.

Hollis, the supervisors and several city officials joined in criticism of the state's new conflict of interest law, which after next April will require many public officials to disclose their financial interests. None specified how the law should be amended, but all said it was too broad.

Hollis said school board members should be exempted from the law.

Bagley said several legislators plan to make "corrections" in the law before it becomes effective.

Novato also offered a broad legislative program emphasizing a bill to subject mobile homes to local property taxes.

Sausalito City Mgr. George M. Patterson proposed stricter local control on the number of bars allowed, and increased license fees for bars. Sausalito's annual $11,000 take from such fees "doesn't begin to pay the cost of policing problems generated in these places," he said.

Hong Kong was the first British possession to fall to Japan in World War II.

Auto Hits Tree; Women Injured

Two women were injured yesterday at 11 a.m. when their car struck a tree on Cherry Street near Keokuk Street, Petaluma.

Glenda Faye Minnifield, 21, of 801-A Keokuk Street, and Jeanette Lomax, 17, of Santa Rosa, were treated at Petaluma General Hospital for cuts and bruises of the legs.

Petaluma police said the brakes failed on the car driven by Mrs. Minnifield and it hit the tree while rounding a curve.

DAVID HILLIARD
Jailed for Threat

Panther Jailed In Kill-Nixon Rally Remark

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Black Panther leader David Hilliard, who told a Moratorium Day rally of 100,000 persons "We will kill Richard Nixon," was arrested by Secret Service agents yesterday for threatening the life of the President.

Hilliard, 27, was immediately arraigned before U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Weigel and jailed in lieu of $30,000 bail.

With the title of Chief of Staff, Hilliard had been the top national leader of the militant Black Panther Party still free in the U.S.

OTHERS IN JAIL

Eldridge Cleaver fled the country to avoid being returned to prison for parole violation, and both Huey Newton and Bobby Seale have been jailed in connection with shooting incidents.

Hilliard, an activist on the San Francisco State College campus during student turmoil there, was arrested yesterday on a federal grand jury indictment charging him with "willfully and knowingly" making a public threat on the President.

The indictment said the Black Panther blamed Nixon for being "the man that's responsible for all the attacks upon the Black Panther Party nationally."

The statement, "We shall kill Richard Nixon," was made by Hilliard during a rally in Golden Gate Park Nov. 15. Some people in the crowd booed and others called out, peace, peace."

MORSE SPOKE

Hilliard then said, "That kind of peace allows the kind of genocide perpetrated against the Jewish people."

Other speakers at the rally included former Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon and Rev. Ralph Abernathy of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Judge Weigel set Dec. 17 as the date for a plea. Hilliard's attorney, Charles Garry, said the Panther leader was anxious to defend his remarks at the rally but was unable to make the "exorbitant ransom" demanded as bail.

Hilliard's arrest record, dating from 1962, ranges from traffic violations to assault with intent to commit murder. On Feb. 25, 1968, he was charged in Berkeley with conspiracy and carrying a loaded gun.

He was also involved in the April 6, 1968, shootout in Oakland between Panthers and police. Bobby Huttonan a 17-year-old Panther, was killed, and Cleaver was wounded in that incident.

Probation Given In Vandalism Case

Craig Q. Alger, 25, of 315 Hopper Street, Petaluma, was placed on probation for two years in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court yesterday for vandalism and resisting arrest.

Alger, who had pleaded innocent, had been found guilty by Judge Alexander J. McMahon. Included in the conditions of probation was that he move from 315 Hopper Street and find a better environment.

He was arrested Feb. 14 by Petaluma police for vandalism at the Magic Car Wash, 412 Petaluma Boulevard North.

A brother, Clifford Alger, 22, is serving a nine-month county jail sentence for assaulting a police officer in the same incident.

Tax Reform On List Given Legislature

Eyes dancing with visions of ew laws, Marin officials yes-rday paraded their annual hristmas shopping lists of odies they want from the Leg-lature.

A mixed bag of about four ozen proposals by county, city nd school officials was present-d to Sen. John F. McCarthy nd Assemblyman William T. Bagley, both R-San Rafael, in a workshop at the Civic Center.

The two legislators generally accepted the proposals with little comment, except to note occasionally that some needed "more refinement" or something else before they could be in any shape to be thrown into the bill hopper.

Also present was the field representative of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, Marion Otsea, but none of the local officials offered any ideas requiring congressional action.

Half of the shopping list was from the county supervisors, and ranged from tax reform to control of motorcycle noise. McCarthy assured the supervisors "we'll take precious care of your marvelous program and do our best." (Most of the supervisors proposals were reported in the Independent-Journal on Nov. 26.)

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales proposed giving district attorneys the power to bar defendants from repeated delays in reaching trial (For story of a delayed trial, see page 1), and imposing a mandatory 90-day jail sentence on first offenders for possession or distribution of dangerous drugs or marijuana. Present law allows judges to impose probation, a provision strongly criticized by Bales.

Bales also proposed a state statute barring nudity in public places.

County Supt. of Schools Virgil S. Hollis proposed an areawide tax in school districts contracting with his office for bus transportation, postponement beyond 1972 of mandatory unification elections in school areas which have rejected unification, more money for environmental education, and cutting the requirement to pass bond measures from two thirds to one half of the voters balloting in a bond election.

Hollis, the supervisors and several city officials joined in criticism of the state's new conflict of interest law, which after next April will require many public officials to disclose their financial interests. None specified how the law should be amended, but all said it was too broad.

Hollis said school board members should be exempted from the law.

Bagley said several legislators plan to make "corrections" in the law before it becomes effective.

Novato also offered a broad legislative program emphasizing a bill to subject mobile homes to local property taxes.

Sausalito City Mgr. George M. Patterson proposed stricter local control on the number of bars allowed, and increased license fees for bars. Sausalito's annual $11,000 take from such fees "doesn't begin to pay the cost of policing problems generated in these places," he said.

Hong Kong was the first British possession to fall to Japan in World War II.

Auto Hits Tree; Women Injured

Two women were injured yesterday at 11 a.m. when their car struck a tree on Cherry Street near Keokuk Street, Petaluma.

Glenda Faye Minnifield, 21, of 801-A Keokuk Street, and Jeanette Lomax, 17, of Santa Rosa, were treated at Petaluma General Hospital for cuts and bruises of the legs.

Petaluma police said the brakes failed on the car driven by Mrs. Minnifield and it hit the tree while rounding a curve.

DAVID HILLIARD
Jailed for Threat

Panther Jailed In Kill-Nixon Rally Remark

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Black Panther leader David Hilliard, who told a Moratorium Day rally of 100,000 persons "We will kill Richard Nixon," was arrested by Secret Service agents yesterday for threatening the life of the President.

Hilliard, 27, was immediately arraigned before U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Weigel and jailed in lieu of $30,000 bail.

With the title of Chief of Staff, Hilliard had been the top national leader of the militant Black Panther Party still free in the U.S.

OTHERS IN JAIL

Eldridge Cleaver fled the country to avoid being returned to prison for parole violation, and both Huey Newton and Bobby Seale have been jailed in connection with shooting incidents.

Hilliard, an activist on the San Francisco State College campus during student turmoil there, was arrested yesterday on a federal grand jury indictment charging him with "willfully and knowingly" making a public threat on the President.

The indictment said the Black Panther blamed Nixon for being "the man that's responsible for all the attacks upon the Black Panther Party nationally."

The statement, "We shall kill Richard Nixon," was made by Hilliard during a rally in Golden Gate Park Nov. 15. Some people in the crowd booed and others called out, peace, peace."

MORSE SPOKE

Hilliard then said, "That kind of peace allows the kind of genocide perpetrated against the Jewish people."

Other speakers at the rally included former Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon and Rev. Ralph Abernathy of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Judge Weigel set Dec. 17 as the date for a plea. Hilliard's attorney, Charles Garry, said the Panther leader was anxious to defend his remarks at the rally but was unable to make the "exorbitant ransom" demanded as bail.

Hilliard's arrest record, dating from 1962, ranges from traffic violations to assault with intent to commit murder. On Feb. 25, 1968, he was charged in Berkeley with conspiracy and carrying a loaded gun.

He was also involved in the April 6, 1968, shootout in Oakland between Panthers and police. Bobby Huttonan a 17-year-old Panther, was killed, and Cleaver was wounded in that incident.

Mortgage Chief Sues Nixon To Keep Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Raymond H. Lapin has taken President Richard M. Nixon to court to keep his job as head of the Federal National Mortgage Association.

Lapin, who says he turned down several chances to resign with praise, filed suit in federal district court yesterday, charging Nixon's dismissal of him was made "in bad faith" and is "part of an unlawful scheme and conspiracy."

Nixon fired Lapin Tuesday for unspecified "good cause" and Lapin immediately asserted he was being dismissed to open his job as a lucrative administration patronage plum.

Lapin, a prominent Bay Area Democratic fund raiser, was named to the head the mortgage-buying agency the Johnson administration in 1967.

FNMA, known also as Fannie Mae, is a former government agency which is being converted to private ownership under terms of the 1968 housing act. Its primary job is to buy mortgages in the secondary market, thus freeing money of banks and other primary lenders for more housing loans.

Lapin contends his firing is illegal because Nixon's two-paragraph letter of dismissal did not list specific causes and he was given no opportunity to answer accusations.

High administration sources indicated yesterday the administration's defense would be primarily that Housing Secretary George Romney and the eight other Fannie Mae directors recommended unanimously that he be fired. This happened, they said, because Lapin did not coordinate his activities with Romney and the board, which is dominated by the administration.

The suit was filed against Nixon, Romney and the directors, and asks also for a finding that "good cause does not exist" for the firing.

One basic difference between Lapin and Romney, it appears, has been their view of the nature of Fannie Mae.

Lapin contends that since it split off from Romney's Department of Housing and Urban Development last year it has been properly operated as a private corporation. The administration view is that it is too tied to the government to be fully independent. All its stock is privately held, but it has a $2.25 billion Treasury guarantee—which has never been used—to insure that money it borrows will be repaid.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, echoing the views of other administration officials who declined to be named, said yesterday, "There is a need for a close working relationship that simply didn't exist."

Dairy cows are today producing more milk than ever before, It's a good thing they are, because although cow numbers in the U. S. have decreased 3.5 per cent this year, milk production will decrease only about 2 per cent — to 117 billion pounds.

Moon Dust Exposures Widespread?

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — One of the 11 persons ordered into quarantine at the Lunar Receiving Laboratory because they may have been exposed to moon dust says 30 other persons outside of quarantine could have been equally exposed.

Russell Harmon said their exposure could have come the same way as his. Another of the officials in quarantine, Dr. Robin Brett, said the number exposed and free probably was "more like 9 or 10."

Dr. W. W. Kemmerer, a physician in charge of the quarantine, said, however, that the quarantine has not been compromised.

He said a highly conservative approach "on the side of safety" had always been taken and "I do not believe we have compromised the quarantine."

Brett, Harmon and nine others were exposed Monday when they discovered a break in a rubber glove extending into a cabinet containing moon rocks. A health officer ordered the 11 into quarantine.

Harmon said he had no idea how long the glove had been defective, adding that the laboratory where it happened was one of the busiest places in the moon science building.

"The number could be fairly high with people wandering in and out all day," said Harmon. "The number is probably somewhere around 30," in addition to the 11 quarantined.

Harmon said five persons used the glove Monday, but only two—he and Brett—were quarantined.

Brett said there was no assurance the glove did not have a break in it earlier in the day.

Quarantine rules call for all persons exposed to moon dust or exposed to persons who have come in contact with the material to go into isolation.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration strictly controls the quarantine in an effort to prevent the spread of any lunar disease that might exist in the moon dust. Most scientists believe that there is no life in the lunar material.

The quarantine, said Brett, is based on "a very, very remote chance of a very, very great danger."

The Apollo 12 astronauts—Charles Conrad Jr., Richard Gordon Jr. and Alan L. Bean—talked with the Apollo 13 and Apollo 14 crews yesterday.

They were scheduled to meet with flight surgeons today for an hour's briefing.

Box Office Kayoes Cassius Clay Play

NEW YORK (AP) — "Buck White," the musical featuring former heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali, will close Saturday night after six performances, the show's management announced today.

The presentation won only one favorable review here and will sustain a loss of about $125,000.

Marijuana Constitutional Test Loses

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida's Supreme Court has rejected a college student's contention that smoking marijuana at home to satisfy "intellectual and emotional needs" was a freedom of expression protected by the First Amendment of the Constitution.

"Marijuana is a harmful mind-altering drug," the five-judge court said yesterday in a unanimous opinion. "An individual might restrict his possession of marijuana to the privacy of his home, but the effects of the drug are not so restricted."

The court said the defendant, Anthony B. Borras, 22, of Miami, must serve his sentence of eight months at hard labor for possession of marijuana.

Borras, a Florida State University student when arrested in his apartment on March 30, 1968, contended this was cruel and excessive punishment. The court said it was not.

The appeal was a broad attack on Florida's narcotic drugs law, and the public defender who represented Borras asked the court to find that marijuana posed no threat to society.

"Since marijuana, in addition to harming the individual, is a threat to society as a whole, we have no difficulty in upholding its prohibition by the state," said the court.

"Marijuana does not enjoy the protection of the First Amendment. Its use does not constitute 'private consumption of ideas or information,' " said the court.

Borras argued its possession was more akin to possession in the home of obscene materials — which the U.S. Supreme Court has held legal — than of dangerous drugs.

"Reprehensible as the possession of obscene material may be, the possession and use of marijuana poses a much greater potential threat to society," said the court.

Mortgage Chief Sues Nixon To Keep Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Raymond H. Lapin has taken President Richard M. Nixon to court to keep his job as head of the Federal National Mortgage Association.

Lapin, who says he turned down several chances to resign with praise, filed suit in federal district court yesterday, charging Nixon's dismissal of him was made "in bad faith" and is "part of an unlawful scheme and conspiracy."

Nixon fired Lapin Tuesday for unspecified "good cause" and Lapin immediately asserted he was being dismissed to open his job as a lucrative administration patronage plum.

Lapin, a prominent Bay Area Democratic fund raiser, was named to the head the mortgage-buying agency the Johnson administration in 1967.

FNMA, known also as Fannie Mae, is a former government agency which is being converted to private ownership under terms of the 1968 housing act. Its primary job is to buy mortgages in the secondary market, thus freeing money of banks and other primary lenders for more housing loans.

Lapin contends his firing is illegal because Nixon's two-paragraph letter of dismissal did not list specific causes and he was given no opportunity to answer accusations.

High administration sources indicated yesterday the administration's defense would be primarily that Housing Secretary George Romney and the eight other Fannie Mae directors recommended unanimously that he be fired. This happened, they said, because Lapin did not coordinate his activities with Romney and the board, which is dominated by the administration.

The suit was filed against Nixon, Romney and the directors, and asks also for a finding that "good cause does not exist" for the firing.

One basic difference between Lapin and Romney, it appears, has been their view of the nature of Fannie Mae.

Lapin contends that since it split off from Romney's Department of Housing and Urban Development last year it has been properly operated as a private corporation. The administration view is that it is too tied to the government to be fully independent. All its stock is privately held, but it has a $2.25 billion Treasury guarantee—which has never been used—to insure that money it borrows will be repaid.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, echoing the views of other administration officials who declined to be named, said yesterday, "There is a need for a close working relationship that simply didn't exist."

Dairy cows are today producing more milk than ever before, It's a good thing they are, because although cow numbers in the U. S. have decreased 3.5 per cent this year, milk production will decrease only about 2 per cent — to 117 billion pounds.

Moon Dust Exposures Widespread?

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — One of the 11 persons ordered into quarantine at the Lunar Receiving Laboratory because they may have been exposed to moon dust says 30 other persons outside of quarantine could have been equally exposed.

Russell Harmon said their exposure could have come the same way as his. Another of the officials in quarantine, Dr. Robin Brett, said the number exposed and free probably was "more like 9 or 10."

Dr. W. W. Kemmerer, a physician in charge of the quarantine, said, however, that the quarantine has not been compromised.

He said a highly conservative approach "on the side of safety" had always been taken and "I do not believe we have compromised the quarantine."

Brett, Harmon and nine others were exposed Monday when they discovered a break in a rubber glove extending into a cabinet containing moon rocks. A health officer ordered the 11 into quarantine.

Harmon said he had no idea how long the glove had been defective, adding that the laboratory where it happened was one of the busiest places in the moon science building.

"The number could be fairly high with people wandering in and out all day," said Harmon. "The number is probably somewhere around 30," in addition to the 11 quarantined.

Harmon said five persons used the glove Monday, but only two—he and Brett—were quarantined.

Brett said there was no assurance the glove did not have a break in it earlier in the day.

Quarantine rules call for all persons exposed to moon dust or exposed to persons who have come in contact with the material to go into isolation.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration strictly controls the quarantine in an effort to prevent the spread of any lunar disease that might exist in the moon dust. Most scientists believe that there is no life in the lunar material.

The quarantine, said Brett, is based on "a very, very remote chance of a very, very great danger."

The Apollo 12 astronauts—Charles Conrad Jr., Richard Gordon Jr. and Alan L. Bean—talked with the Apollo 13 and Apollo 14 crews yesterday.

They were scheduled to meet with flight surgeons today for an hour's briefing.

Box Office Kayoes Cassius Clay Play

NEW YORK (AP) — "Buck White," the musical featuring former heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali, will close Saturday night after six performances, the show's management announced today.

The presentation won only one favorable review here and will sustain a loss of about $125,000.

Marijuana Constitutional Test Loses

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida's Supreme Court has rejected a college student's contention that smoking marijuana at home to satisfy "intellectual and emotional needs" was a freedom of expression protected by the First Amendment of the Constitution.

"Marijuana is a harmful mind-altering drug," the five-judge court said yesterday in a unanimous opinion. "An individual might restrict his possession of marijuana to the privacy of his home, but the effects of the drug are not so restricted."

The court said the defendant, Anthony B. Borras, 22, of Miami, must serve his sentence of eight months at hard labor for possession of marijuana.

Borras, a Florida State University student when arrested in his apartment on March 30, 1968, contended this was cruel and excessive punishment. The court said it was not.

The appeal was a broad attack on Florida's narcotic drugs law, and the public defender who represented Borras asked the court to find that marijuana posed no threat to society.

"Since marijuana, in addition to harming the individual, is a threat to society as a whole, we have no difficulty in upholding its prohibition by the state," said the court.

"Marijuana does not enjoy the protection of the First Amendment. Its use does not constitute 'private consumption of ideas or information,' " said the court.

Borras argued its possession was more akin to possession in the home of obscene materials — which the U.S. Supreme Court has held legal — than of dangerous drugs.

"Reprehensible as the possession of obscene material may be, the possession and use of marijuana poses a much greater potential threat to society," said the court.

Dominican To Present Dance-Drama

The Associated Students of Dominican College will present "The Brilliant and the Dark" in a U.S. premiere performance at 8 p.m. next Tuesday in Angelico Hall on the San Rafael campus.

More than 60 students will participate in the annual free public Christmas program.

Music is under the direction of Winifred Baker with choreography by Elizabeth Sennett of the physical education department, lighting by Masatoyo Kishi of the art department and stage production under the direction of Barbara Love, drama instructor.

When first presented in London, the dance-drama with libretto by Ursula Vaughan and music by Malcolm Williamson was described as "a tapestry of events in the lives of women during the past 6,000 years."

Continuity is provided by a choral group of embroiderers who sew the tapestry and serve as narrators. Achievements and tragedies of women such as Florence Nightingale and Edith Swan-Neck, who was present at the Battle of Hastings, are presented through music, dance and mime in a series of eight vignettes.

Among student soloists will be sopranos Sue Maraccini, Sue Soule and Elizabeth Heffernan and dancer Margaret Morgan.

The cast will also include members of the modern dance and drama classes, college choral and madrigal singers and 14 members of the Winifred Baker Chorale with soloists Jeannette Abbey, Katherine Baxter and Judy Levy.

The plays, "Dope," a drama; "The Leader," a suspense play, and "Kiss Me Quick, I'm Double Parked," a comedy, will be performed on a portable stage in the center of the gym with actors moving through the audience to encourage participation.

Following the performance, awards will be given to the best actor and actress and the persons who turned in the top supporting performances.

The plays are directed by John O'Connor and lead players are Dan Yarobough, Lisa Purcell, Kathy Noyes, John Melvin and Don Conway.

San Rafael City Councilman Harry A. Barbier will be seated as a member of the San Rafael Sanitation District Board at 5 p.m. next Wednesday at City Hall.

Barbier will succeed director Fred E. Jensen, who resigned because he lost more in Social Security than he made by serving on the board.

Gnoss Estates Picks Slate For New Year

Reelected were John Schoonover, president; James Mumma, vice president; Barbara Stahlbaum, secretary, and Anne Lusk, treasurer.

Dominican To Present Dance-Drama

The Associated Students of Dominican College will present "The Brilliant and the Dark" in a U.S. premiere performance at 8 p.m. next Tuesday in Angelico Hall on the San Rafael campus.

More than 60 students will participate in the annual free public Christmas program.

Music is under the direction of Winifred Baker with choreography by Elizabeth Sennett of the physical education department, lighting by Masatoyo Kishi of the art department and stage production under the direction of Barbara Love, drama instructor.

When first presented in London, the dance-drama with libretto by Ursula Vaughan and music by Malcolm Williamson was described as "a tapestry of events in the lives of women during the past 6,000 years."

Continuity is provided by a choral group of embroiderers who sew the tapestry and serve as narrators. Achievements and tragedies of women such as Florence Nightingale and Edith Swan-Neck, who was present at the Battle of Hastings, are presented through music, dance and mime in a series of eight vignettes.

Among student soloists will be sopranos Sue Maraccini, Sue Soule and Elizabeth Heffernan and dancer Margaret Morgan.

The cast will also include members of the modern dance and drama classes, college choral and madrigal singers and 14 members of the Winifred Baker Chorale with soloists Jeannette Abbey, Katherine Baxter and Judy Levy.

HE TAKES A STAND

War Vet Commander Zeroes In On Alcatraz, Draft, Vietnam

By JOANNE GRANT

A MIND OF HIS OWN — Philip F. O'Brien, a spirited 79-year-old with definite opinions on most issues, voices some of them in a discussion with reporters. O'Brien, a past national commander of the Veterans of World War I Association, was in San Rafael yesterday to speak to the local barracks. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

The outspoken, sometimes fiery former national commander of the World War I Veterans Association said, "I believe in taking a stand."

And Philip F. O'Brien of Turlock promptly did just that — taking stands on such diverse topics as Alcatraz and the draft.

He spoke yesterday to the Marin Barracks of the World War I Veterans group and in an interview later, also, touching on law and order, the moratorium, veterans benefits and other topics.

But Alcatraz was his main target yesterday.

He decried the "arbitrary confiscation" of the island and commented, "I'm in sympathy with the Indians — I think they have a terrible deal.

"But I do not think we can allow anyone to confiscate property — public or private," he said.

"If they can confiscate government property, then you home is in danger," he told the audience which fairly bristled with agreement.

O'Brien, a 79-year-old veteran of action in France, said he doesn't think the government will allow the occupation indefinitely but he criticized letting it go on so long without taking action.

O'Brien vigorously approved the return to the lottery system for the draft and believes the system instituted is better than the one used in World War I because a young man is only eligible for a year today instead of the duration of the war.

The lottery system, he believes, will reduce attempts to evade the draft "because young people favor it."

He also applauded President Richard M. Nixon's denunciation of gas warfare, last used in World War I.

"We still have veterans in hospitals from the effects of poison gas in World War I," he reported.

O'Brien also supported Nixon's war policy "because he is the one we have to look to for a solution." He is disturbed, however, by the slow progress in reaching a solution.

Lack of support for the president's policy, he believes, stems chiefly from the lack of a congressional declaration of war. In World Wars I and II, that unified the nation, he said.

He did not object to the moratorium and other marches, so long as they are peaceful.

"I am absolutely against violence," he said, sliding into a plug for law and order. The subject was a major focus of his year (1967-68) as national commander, he said.

In fact, the national headquarters of the organization have been moved from Washington to Alexandria, Va., a move necessary because "one dasn't leave his apartment after 7 at night and one dasn't go out before 7 in the morning," in the capital. "This is a disgrace," he added.

Back to Vietnam, O'Brien was reluctant to comment on the alleged Pinkville Massacre because it hasn't been proved.

However, he said he doesn't believe there was an order to kill civilians in this or any other war.

O'Brien also commented on the organization's legislative program which seeks to exclude Social Security payments as income when determining pension eligibility. World War I veterans are the only ones who don't automatically receive a pension, he said.

County Library Keeps Files Of Old Newspapers

The Independent-Journal and its predecessors, which cover a span of 104 years, are available to the public on microfilm at the Marin County Library at the Civic Center, County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema announced today.

The library owns microfilms of the Marin Journal from March 18, 1865 through March 20, 1899, and for the years of 1931 and 1941.

The San Rafael Independent, established in 1900, is on microfilm for 1937 only. In 1948, the Independent bought the Journal, and the two were merged.

Microfilms of the Independent-Journal are on file from April 1949 to September 1969. Future issues are on standing order, said Bajema.

In addition, the county library has microfilms of the Marin Herald, 1923 to 1929; the San Anselmo Herald for 1921; the Baywood Press, 1948-1953. Munro-Fraser's History of Marin County, published in San Francisco in 1880, also is on microfilm in the county library.

Petaluma School Advisers Ask Liberalized Dress Rule

A liberalized dress code for Petaluma Senior High School, based only on factors of health and safety, has been recommended by a committee of students, faculty and parents.

The 15-member committee said the present code was unenforceable and had led to a series of confrontations between school administrators and students.

Although not suggesting details of the proposed code, the committee said it should be similar to the code adopted last month by the State Council of Education and agreed to by the California Teachers Association.

The plan to liberalize requirements on dress styles and hair lengths is currently under study by Dr. Dan E. Montgomery, principal, who could appoint a second committee to define what factors of health and safety should be included.

Final approval on any new dress code would rest with the Petaluma Board of Education. The board permits each school to prepare its own code and only requires that students be clean-shaven and have hair neat and trimmed.

No Charge Filed In Driving Case

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against a 36-year-old San Anselmo man arrested Tuesday on suspicion of felony drunken driving following an accident in San Rafael.

The case of Alan Dennison Cahill will be investigated further by the district attorney's office, it was reported yesterday in court.

Cahill was booked into Marin County Jail following a rearend collision at Fourth Street and Alexander Avenue in which he and two other persons were injured.

San Marin High Concert Sunday

The fall concert of the music department of San Marin High School will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at the school gymnasium in Novato.

The program will feature the 57-voice concert choir and the 44-piece concert band. Soloist Denise Woomer, a senior, will sing the soprano part in the Hairston arrangement of "Amen!" with choral background. The choir will also sing "Kyrie" by Gounod and "Blowin' in the Wind" by Dylan.

"Bravura for Trumpets" by Morrisey will be performed by Steven Salgo, Bruce Hoberg and Mark O'Connell. The band will play selections from "The Man from La Mancha" and "A Wagner Showcase", a collection from Richard Wagner's compositions, according to music director John Yardas.

Another Arson Try In Valley

A vacant Forest Knolls restaurant, long a storm center and symbol of strife in San Geronimo Valley, was the target last night of an arsonist whose attempt was foiled by a fireman returning from a fire in Lagunitas.

Robert Taverna of the Marin County Fire Department, on his way back at 4:11 a.m. from a blaze that had destroyed an abandoned camper truck, observed firelight flickering in the restaurant known variously as the Us Cafe, Country Kitchen and Shirley's Kitchen.

Two windows had been broken from the outside and in the kitchen, Taverna found a packing carton, into which paper had been stuffed and set afire. A similar fire had been set nearby. The fires were put out by Taverna and damage, estimated at about $150 by County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom, was limited to the immediate area.

EARLIER ATTACK

The restaurant, owned by Richard Green and Shirley Aguire, has been closed since Oct. 1.

It was attacked by arsonists April 21, at which time extensive damage was done, and prior to that had been the target of shotgun blasts.

The scene of Sunday rock concerts last spring and early summer, it drew neighborhood strongest indignation when loud music was played on Easter Sunday.

COULD HAVE BURNED

Underlying that controversy was tension in the valley between the long-established residents and an influx of "hip" newcomers.

Chief Bloom said that if Taverna had not happened by, the building could have been destroyed, since there are few passerby on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at that early hour to sound the alarm.

The fire in Lagunitas, which Bloom said may also have been deliberately set, destroyed a homemade camper guessed to be worth about $150 and abandoned on a lot owned by Walter M. Weaver on La Vuelta Avenue. That call came at 3:16 a.m.

Saturday Service For Ferries

Tiburon ferry service was extended to the next three Saturdays before Christmas today by the Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

Five round trips, with the first leaving Tiburon at 10 a.m. and the last leaving San Francisco at 4:45 p.m., will be scheduled.

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said the $504 cost for each Saturday probably would be covered by passenger fares. He noted that last Friday, the day after Thanksgiving, the ferry service carried 1,190 passengers, many of them shoppers.

He indicated that heavy ridership on the three Saturdays could open the door to future weekend service.

Luehring said he proposed the weekend service for Christmas shoppers because he had received a number of requests for it from Marin residents.

Sonoman Faces Check Charge

Joe Willie Andrew Cole, 47, of 560 Anson Avenue, Rohnert Park, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on an old bad check charge for which he had been sought since 1967.

Cole was arrested yesterday when police were searching for him in connection with a trespassing complaint in San Rafael. He was stopped on Highway 101 in Rohnert Park after officers discovered the old warrant was still out for him.

The case was continued until today for entry of plea.

He is accused of forging a $100 check on March 17, 1967.

Greyhound Bus Fare Increase

Greyhound bus fares in Marin and other Bay Area counties were hiked 8.75 per cent yesterday.

The increase affected commute fares and those for one-way and round trips.

Increases in the 20-ride commute book from various post in Marin and Suthern Sonoma to San Francisco included: From Mill Valley, $11.45 to $12.50; San Rafael, $12.50 to $13.60; Novato, $14.60 to $15.90, and Petaluma, $17.70 to $18.90.

TWO DRIVERS INJURED IN TWO-CAR CRASH

An emergency crew from Sears Point Raceway sprays chemicals on the burning wreckage of a small car driven by Joseph Ryan, 37, of Napa. The car collided at 9:15 a.m. today with a patrol car driven by Sonoma County Deputy Sheriff Donald Young, 24, of Santa Rosa at the intersection of Highways 37 and 121 in Sonoma County. Ryan was transferred from Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma to the Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco for treatment of unspecified injuries. Young was treated for minor injuries at Hillcrest Hospital. Heavy fog at the time of the crash limited visibility to 150 feet, the California Highway Patrol reported. (Independent-Journal photo)

Indians Plan To Resist Ouster Try

By JOANNE GRANT

If the U.S. government tries to evacuate the Indians from Alcatraz, they will resist —, but without violence, a young Indian leader declared today.

If necessary, however, "some of the people are willing to give their lives," said Dean Chavers, coordinator on the mainland for the Indians on Alcatraz.

Resistance would take the form of hiding in the dozens of places available, Chavers said. He claimed the government's boast the island could be cleared in 10 minutes is inaccurate.

But Chavers gave no indication as he spoke of KTIM's Sounding Board that he expected the Indians to be forced out.

Instead, he reported, the government has unofficially complied with one of the conditons for negotiation and is sending water to the island.

Negotiations for Indian possession of the island for a cultural center "should take less than a week," the University of California senior maintained.

Appearing with Chavers was Joan Lisetor, Independent-Journal reporter who has visited the island twice since the Nov. 20 takeover. She replaced Shirley Keith, head of the Alcatraz Relief Fund.

Miss Lisetor reported her first visit, on Nov. 22, had been chaotic, but she and others in her party had ben warmly received.

Her second visit, on Nov. 26, was to a "different world," she said. By then, she reported, the island had been organized and everyone was serving on a committee of some sort.

That time, she said, the reception was cold.

She attributed dwindling interest in shipping supplies from Sausalito the the attitude after organization. "I think their feelings have been hurt," she said of the persons who had been bringing in supplies.

Chavers commented, "It's a very touchy situation." The Indians do need help from the community but it's "the same old story," he said. "They (white people) know what is good for the Indians and they want to force it down our throats." Help without advice is what is needed, he said.

Answering a listener's question, Chavers said the most immediate physical need on the island is for heat. So far, there are just two electric heaters there, he added.

The major need is for food.

Another listener asked Chavers to compare Alcatraz with reservations and he reported most people would rather be on the island where conditions are "much better" than on reservations.

Chavers said current estimates put the cost of completely rebuilding the island at $5 million and an architect is working on plans. However, the actual cost could be much lower because many buildings are structurally sound and could remain, he said.

While the Indians plan to have the island be as self-supporting as possible, Chavers said federal Bureau of Indian Affairs funds should be put to their use.

Chavers, answering another question, reported street fighters or college radical types are not being allowed on the island. Violence is also prohibited, as are drugs and alcohol, he said.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

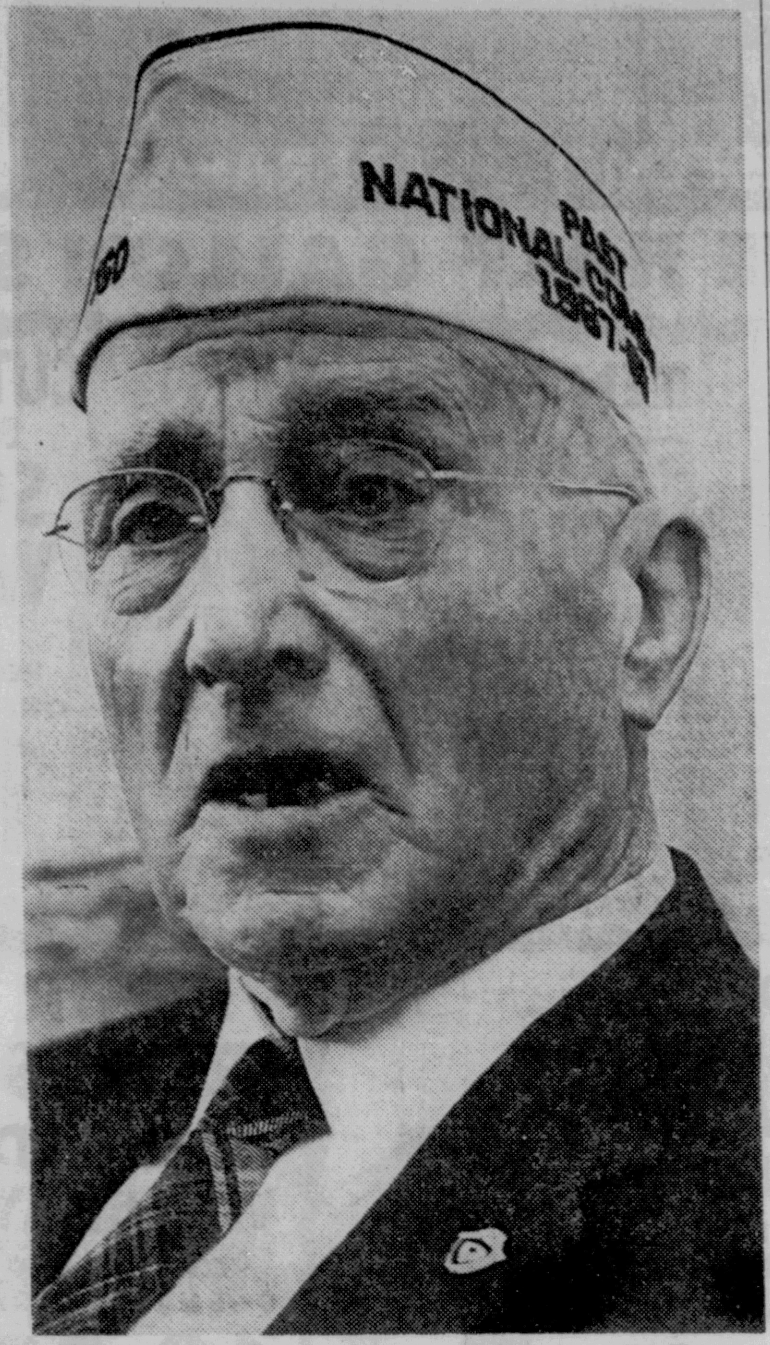
War Vet Commander Zeroes In On Alcatraz, Draft, Vietnam

By JOANNE GRANT



A MIND OF HIS OWN — Philip F. O'Brien, a spirited 79-year-old with definite opinions on most issues, voices some of them in a discussion with reporters. O'Brien, a past national commander of the Veterans of World War I Association, was in San Rafael yesterday to speak to the local barracks. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

The outspoken, sometimes fiery former national commander of the World War I Veterans Association said, "I believe in taking a stand."

And Philip F. O'Brien of Turlock promptly did just that — taking stands on such diverse topics as Alcatraz and the draft.

He spoke yesterday to the Marin Barracks of the World War I Veterans group and in an interview later, also, touching on law and order, the moratorium, veterans benefits and other topics.

But Alcatraz was his main target yesterday.

He decried the "arbitrary confiscation" of the island and commented, "I'm in sympathy with the Indians — I think they have a terrible deal.

"But I do not think we can allow anyone to confiscate property — public or private," he said.

"If they can confiscate government property, then you home is in danger," he told the audience which fairly bristled with agreement.

O'Brien, a 79-year-old veteran of action in France, said he doesn't think the government will allow the occupation indefinitely but he criticized letting it go on so long without taking action.

O'Brien vigorously approved the return to the lottery system for the draft and believes the system instituted is better than the one used in World War I because a young man is only eligible for a year today instead of the duration of the war.

The lottery system, he believes, will reduce attempts to evade the draft "because young people favor it."

He also applauded President Richard M. Nixon's denunciation of gas warfare, last used in World War I.

"We still have veterans in hospitals from the effects of poison gas in World War I," he reported.

O'Brien also supported Nixon's war policy "because he is the one we have to look to for a solution." He is disturbed, however, by the slow progress in reaching a solution.

Lack of support for the president's policy, he believes, stems chiefly from the lack of a congressional declaration of war. In World Wars I and II, that unified the nation, he said.

He did not object to the moratorium and other marches, so long as they are peaceful.

"I am absolutely against violence," he said, sliding into a plug for law and order. The subject was a major focus of his year (1967-68) as national commander, he said.

In fact, the national headquarters of the organization have been moved from Washington to Alexandria, Va., a move necessary because "one dasn't leave his apartment after 7 at night and one dasn't go out before 7 in the morning," in the capital. "This is a disgrace," he added.

Back to Vietnam, O'Brien was reluctant to comment on the alleged Pinkville Massacre because it hasn't been proved.

However, he said he doesn't believe there was an order to kill civilians in this or any other war.

O'Brien also commented on the organization's legislative program which seeks to exclude Social Security payments as income when determining pension eligibility. World War I veterans are the only ones who don't automatically receive a pension, he said.

County Library Keeps Files Of Old Newspapers

The Independent-Journal and its predecessors, which cover a span of 104 years, are available to the public on microfilm at the Marin County Library at the Civic Center, County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema announced today.

The library owns microfilms of the Marin Journal from March 18, 1865 through March 20, 1899, and for the years of 1931 and 1941.

The San Rafael Independent, established in 1900, is on microfilm for 1937 only. In 1948, the Independent bought the Journal, and the two were merged.

Microfilms of the Independent-Journal are on file from April 1949 to September 1969. Future issues are on standing order, said Bajema.

In addition, the county library has microfilms of the Marin Herald, 1923 to 1929; the San Anselmo Herald for 1921; the Baywood Press, 1948-1953. Munro-Fraser's History of Marin County, published in San Francisco in 1880, also is on microfilm in the county library.

Petaluma School Advisers Ask Liberalized Dress Rule

A liberalized dress code for Petaluma Senior High School, based only on factors of health and safety, has been recommended by a committee of students, faculty and parents.

The 15-member committee said the present code was unenforceable and had led to a series of confrontations between school administrators and students.

Although not suggesting details of the proposed code, the committee said it should be similar to the code adopted last month by the State Council of Education and agreed to by the California Teachers Association.

The plan to liberalize requirements on dress styles and hair lengths is currently under study by Dr. Dan E. Montgomery, principal, who could appoint a second committee to define what factors of health and safety should be included.

Final approval on any new dress code would rest with the Petaluma Board of Education. The board permits each school to prepare its own code and only requires that students be clean-shaven and have hair neat and trimmed.

No Charge Filed In Driving Case

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against a 36-year-old San Anselmo man arrested Tuesday on suspicion of felony drunken driving following an accident in San Rafael.

The case of Alan Dennison Cahill will be investigated further by the district attorney's office, it was reported yesterday in court.

Cahill was booked into Marin County Jail following a rearend collision at Fourth Street and Alexander Avenue in which he and two other persons were injured.

San Marin High Concert Sunday

The fall concert of the music department of San Marin High School will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at the school gymnasium in Novato.

The program will feature the 57-voice concert choir and the 44-piece concert band. Soloist Denise Woomer, a senior, will sing the soprano part in the Hairston arrangement of "Amen!" with choral background. The choir will also sing "Kyrie" by Gounod and "Blowin' in the Wind" by Dylan.

"Bravura for Trumpets" by Morrisey will be performed by Steven Salgo, Bruce Hoberg and Mark O'Connell. The band will play selections from "The Man from La Mancha" and "A Wagner Showcase", a collection from Richard Wagner's compositions, according to music director John Yardas.

Another Arson Try In Valley

A vacant Forest Knolls restaurant, long a storm center and symbol of strife in San Geronimo Valley, was the target last night of an arsonist whose attempt was foiled by a fireman returning from a fire in Lagunitas.

Robert Taverna of the Marin County Fire Department, on his way back at 4:11 a.m. from a blaze that had destroyed an abandoned camper truck, observed firelight flickering in the restaurant known variously as the Us Cafe, Country Kitchen and Shirley's Kitchen.

Two windows had been broken from the outside and in the kitchen, Taverna found a packing carton, into which paper had been stuffed and set afire. A similar fire had been set nearby. The fires were put out by Taverna and damage, estimated at about $150 by County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom, was limited to the immediate area.

EARLIER ATTACK

The restaurant, owned by Richard Green and Shirley Aguire, has been closed since Oct. 1.

It was attacked by arsonists April 21, at which time extensive damage was done, and prior to that had been the target of shotgun blasts.

The scene of Sunday rock concerts last spring and early summer, it drew neighborhood strongest indignation when loud music was played on Easter Sunday.

COULD HAVE BURNED

Underlying that controversy was tension in the valley between the long-established residents and an influx of "hip" newcomers.

Chief Bloom said that if Taverna had not happened by, the building could have been destroyed, since there are few passerby on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at that early hour to sound the alarm.

The fire in Lagunitas, which Bloom said may also have been deliberately set, destroyed a homemade camper guessed to be worth about $150 and abandoned on a lot owned by Walter M. Weaver on La Vuelta Avenue. That call came at 3:16 a.m.

Key Murder Figure: Leader Of A Clan

INDEPENDENCE (Inyo County) (AP) — Charles M. Manson, accused in mountain-desert area of rustling four-wheel-drive vehicles, has emerged as a key figure in the investigation of the killings of Sharon Tate and seven others in Los Angeles.

The bushy-haried, wild-bearded little man with piercing brown eyes has been tabbed the leader of a hippie-type roving band whose members call him "God" and "Satan" — and now two attorneys say clan members killed the actress and others.

Manson, 35, who with others is accused here of running a stolen car ring from a commune near Death Valley, sat stolidly yesterday through his preliminary hearing. After witnesses said they saw him driving stolen cars, he was held for trial.

There are no charges against Manson in Los Angeles. But two attorneys there said yesterday that a woman member of Manson's mostly female "family" told them it was some of his followers who killed Miss Tate and four others after the pregnant actress pleaded, "Let me have my baby."

The woman, Susan Denise Atkins, 21, is charged with murdering a man with whom Manson once lived. If she waives immunity to self-incrimination, a deputy district attorney says, she could become a key witness when the Los Angeles County grand jury begins a murder investigation Friday.

Shot or stabbed with Miss Tate, 26, blonde actress wife of Polish director Roman Planski, at her $200,000 home in Bel Air last Aug. 9 were Hollywood hair stylist Jay Sebring, 35, coffee heiress Abigail Folger, 26, Polish playboy Votyk Frokowsky, 37, and Steven Parent, 18, a friend of the caretaker. Stabbed fatally the next day at their Hollywood home were Leno LaBianca, 44, and his wife Rose Mary, 38 wealthy market owners.

Miss Atkins, attorneys' Paul Caruso and Richard Caballero, said she was among those who dressed in black and invaded the two death homes. But they said she was under Manson's "hypnotic spell" and "had nothing to do with the murders."

Caruso said there were three women and two men. Caballero said it was four women and one man, and said Miss Atkins told him Manson was not among them. Police say the makeup of the group was different each night.

Caruso gave this account of the killings, which he said was based on a five-hour interview with Miss Atkins:

"One man had a gun. The girls had knives. They parked the car so they could get away quickly. A man with wire cutters went up a pole and cut utility lines outside the Tate house.

"They saw Parent starting to leave. He got into his car and was shot. A man went through an open window, they opened the front door. The others went inside.

"Frokowsky was lying on the couch. Sharon Tate and Sebring were talking in her bedroom. The Folger girl was in another bedroom reading a book.

"Tate and Sebring were told to stay in the bedroom. Then they were brought out. Miss Tate became very apprehensive. She wanted to make sure her baby (she was 8½ months pregnant) was not harmed. that was virtually all she pleaded about, 'Let me have my baby.' But she was killed.

"Sebring said very little. He was killed. Frokowsky attempted to escape. As he ran through the front door he was hit on the head with a gun butt. Miss Folger handed them all the money she had, $73, and they took it and killed her and Frokowsky anyway."

The next night, picking a house at random and killing again to show they hadn't lost their nerve, Caruso said, the invaders stabbed the LaBiancas —then showered and had a snack from the ice box before leaving.

The Los Angeles Times, in an account it said was pieced together from many sources, added details:

Frokowsky was tied up but escaped and was shot in the back as he ran. Miss Folger was stabbed in the house, but ran, then was overtaken and stabbed fatally on the lawn. Miss Tate was stabbed repeatedly in the upper body.

After the killers wiped their hands on it, a bloody towel was used to write "Pig" on the front door, the towel was then placed over Sebring's head like a hood and a cord was looped around his neck and over a beam to Miss Tate's. When the group returned to a ranch commune, one reported: "We got five piggies."

Under arrest on murder warrants in the Tate case are Patricia Krenwinkel, 21, in Mobile, Ala.; Charles D. Watson, 24, in McKinney, Tex., and Linda Louise Kasabian, 19, brought here from Concord, N.H.

Police say they will seek murder indictments against the three and "five others," unidentified, from the Los Angeles County grand jury. It is to convene on the killings tomorrow and is expected to conclude its probe Monday.

Miss Atkins pleaded innocent Tuesday to a charge of murder in the killing of a Malibu musician, Gary Hinman, last July. Police say Manson lived for a time with Hinman.

A codefendant, Robert K. Beausoleil, 21, described as a Manson friend, was tried previously but the jury could not agree and a new trial was ordered.

Manson is no stranger to trouble. From followers and police came sketches of a life of problems, imprisonments, menial jobs.

A Los Angeles Times account said Manson was born to an unwed 16-year-old girl in Cincinnati, Ohio, lived with his maternal grandmother, then an aunt and uncle. He ran away from a boys' school, landed in a correctional institution and by the time he was 25 had spent 13 years in reformatories and prisons for such offenses as auto theft, forgery and transporting women across state lines for prostitution.

Out of prison on parole, he was married and fathered a son-but by the time the boy was born, he was back in jail. His wife divorced him.

In his free time behind bars he became interested in the occult. Officials termed his intelligence "superior."

Father In Slaying Hunt As 'Hippie'

LOS ANGELES (AP) -- The father of actress Sharon Tate says he resigned as an Army Intelligence lieutenant colonel and masqueraded as a hippie in a four-month search for his daughter's killers.

Youthful-looking Paul J. Tate, 46, told the Los Angeles Times he grew a mustache and beard and mingled with drug addicts, lived in communes and cautiously questioned various drifters for clues.

Tate is formerly of Fort Barry, and was special assistant to the chief of staff at Sixth Region Army Air Defense Command at Fort Baker.

Tate was interviewed yesterday as police across the country rounded up certain members of a hippie-style clan wanted in the investigation of the Aug. 9 deaths of Miss Tate and four others in her home.

"I guess I've seen just about everything in hippie communes while checking out drug angles," said the father, a 23-year Army career man who lives in suburban Palos Verdes Peninsula. "Just the same, I hope nobody prejudices the case."

He said anything he knew would be told "at the proper time" and declined to state how successful he had been on his search. But he said the arrests in the case had "taken a great weight off my mind."

Key Murder Figure: Leader Of A Clan

INDEPENDENCE (Inyo County) (AP) — Charles M. Manson, accused in mountain-desert area of rustling four-wheel-drive vehicles, has emerged as a key figure in the investigation of the killings of Sharon Tate and seven others in Los Angeles.

The bushy-haried, wild-bearded little man with piercing brown eyes has been tabbed the leader of a hippie-type roving band whose members call him "God" and "Satan" — and now two attorneys say clan members killed the actress and others.

Manson, 35, who with others is accused here of running a stolen car ring from a commune near Death Valley, sat stolidly yesterday through his preliminary hearing. After witnesses said they saw him driving stolen cars, he was held for trial.

There are no charges against Manson in Los Angeles. But two attorneys there said yesterday that a woman member of Manson's mostly female "family" told them it was some of his followers who killed Miss Tate and four others after the pregnant actress pleaded, "Let me have my baby."

The woman, Susan Denise Atkins, 21, is charged with murdering a man with whom Manson once lived. If she waives immunity to self-incrimination, a deputy district attorney says, she could become a key witness when the Los Angeles County grand jury begins a murder investigation Friday.

Shot or stabbed with Miss Tate, 26, blonde actress wife of Polish director Roman Planski, at her $200,000 home in Bel Air last Aug. 9 were Hollywood hair stylist Jay Sebring, 35, coffee heiress Abigail Folger, 26, Polish playboy Votyk Frokowsky, 37, and Steven Parent, 18, a friend of the caretaker. Stabbed fatally the next day at their Hollywood home were Leno LaBianca, 44, and his wife Rose Mary, 38 wealthy market owners.

Miss Atkins, attorneys' Paul Caruso and Richard Caballero, said she was among those who dressed in black and invaded the two death homes. But they said she was under Manson's "hypnotic spell" and "had nothing to do with the murders."

Caruso said there were three women and two men. Caballero said it was four women and one man, and said Miss Atkins told him Manson was not among them. Police say the makeup of the group was different each night.

Caruso gave this account of the killings, which he said was based on a five-hour interview with Miss Atkins:

"One man had a gun. The girls had knives. They parked the car so they could get away quickly. A man with wire cutters went up a pole and cut utility lines outside the Tate house.

"They saw Parent starting to leave. He got into his car and was shot. A man went through an open window, they opened the front door. The others went inside.

"Frokowsky was lying on the couch. Sharon Tate and Sebring were talking in her bedroom. The Folger girl was in another bedroom reading a book.

"Tate and Sebring were told to stay in the bedroom. Then they were brought out. Miss Tate became very apprehensive. She wanted to make sure her baby (she was 8½ months pregnant) was not harmed. that was virtually all she pleaded about, 'Let me have my baby.' But she was killed.

"Sebring said very little. He was killed. Frokowsky attempted to escape. As he ran through the front door he was hit on the head with a gun butt. Miss Folger handed them all the money she had, $73, and they took it and killed her and Frokowsky anyway."

The next night, picking a house at random and killing again to show they hadn't lost their nerve, Caruso said, the invaders stabbed the LaBiancas —then showered and had a snack from the ice box before leaving.

The Los Angeles Times, in an account it said was pieced together from many sources, added details:

Frokowsky was tied up but escaped and was shot in the back as he ran. Miss Folger was stabbed in the house, but ran, then was overtaken and stabbed fatally on the lawn. Miss Tate was stabbed repeatedly in the upper body.

After the killers wiped their hands on it, a bloody towel was used to write "Pig" on the front door, the towel was then placed over Sebring's head like a hood and a cord was looped around his neck and over a beam to Miss Tate's. When the group returned to a ranch commune, one reported: "We got five piggies."

Under arrest on murder warrants in the Tate case are Patricia Krenwinkel, 21, in Mobile, Ala.; Charles D. Watson, 24, in McKinney, Tex., and Linda Louise Kasabian, 19, brought here from Concord, N.H.

Police say they will seek murder indictments against the three and "five others," unidentified, from the Los Angeles County grand jury. It is to convene on the killings tomorrow and is expected to conclude its probe Monday.

Miss Atkins pleaded innocent Tuesday to a charge of murder in the killing of a Malibu musician, Gary Hinman, last July. Police say Manson lived for a time with Hinman.

A codefendant, Robert K. Beausoleil, 21, described as a Manson friend, was tried previously but the jury could not agree and a new trial was ordered.

Manson is no stranger to trouble. From followers and police came sketches of a life of problems, imprisonments, menial jobs.

A Los Angeles Times account said Manson was born to an unwed 16-year-old girl in Cincinnati, Ohio, lived with his maternal grandmother, then an aunt and uncle. He ran away from a boys' school, landed in a correctional institution and by the time he was 25 had spent 13 years in reformatories and prisons for such offenses as auto theft, forgery and transporting women across state lines for prostitution.

Out of prison on parole, he was married and fathered a son-but by the time the boy was born, he was back in jail. His wife divorced him.

In his free time behind bars he became interested in the occult. Officials termed his intelligence "superior."

Father In Slaying Hunt As 'Hippie'

LOS ANGELES (AP) -- The father of actress Sharon Tate says he resigned as an Army Intelligence lieutenant colonel and masqueraded as a hippie in a four-month search for his daughter's killers.

Youthful-looking Paul J. Tate, 46, told the Los Angeles Times he grew a mustache and beard and mingled with drug addicts, lived in communes and cautiously questioned various drifters for clues.

Tate is formerly of Fort Barry, and was special assistant to the chief of staff at Sixth Region Army Air Defense Command at Fort Baker.

Tate was interviewed yesterday as police across the country rounded up certain members of a hippie-style clan wanted in the investigation of the Aug. 9 deaths of Miss Tate and four others in her home.

"I guess I've seen just about everything in hippie communes while checking out drug angles," said the father, a 23-year Army career man who lives in suburban Palos Verdes Peninsula. "Just the same, I hope nobody prejudices the case."

He said anything he knew would be told "at the proper time" and declined to state how successful he had been on his search. But he said the arrests in the case had "taken a great weight off my mind."

We were pleasantly fascinated by the phenomenal response to our first real sale: brought in more dough in 3 days than we usually see in a month, just because we slashed prices beyond all reason. Therefore, and herewith, let it be known to all those buying presents: the ridiculous low prices on everything in the store—leather, leather accessories, natural skin area rugs, fabrics, garments, jewelry, all of it, not just clearance items.

DESIGNERS MARKET
3001 BRIDGEWAY, SAUSALITO

We were pleasantly fascinated by the phenomenal response to our first real sale: brought in more dough in 3 days than we usually see in a month, just because we slashed prices beyond all reason. Therefore, and herewith, let it be known to all those buying presents: the ridiculous low prices on everything in the store—leather, leather accessories, natural skin area rugs, fabrics, garments, jewelry, all of it, not just clearance items.

British Official Flying To Lagon For Peace Conference

LONDON (AP) — A British official is flying to Lagos tonight to discuss possible moves toward peace in the Biafran war. the Foreign Office announced today.

A spokesman said Maurice Foley, Foreign Office minister in charge of African affairs, would also discuss relief to civilian victims of the fighting. There was no indication how long he would stay, and there was speculation he might meet with Biafran officials.

The last contract between senior British and Nigerian officials was in March when Prime Minister Harold Wilson went to Lagos in an unsuccessful attempt to bring the two warring sides together in peace talks. Since then the British have said they support efforts by the Organization of African Unity to mediate.

The Foreign Office spokesman said the Nigerian government had suggested this was a suitable time for a ministerial visitor. It is also a most advantageous time for Wilson as far as domestic politics is concerned.

The House of Commons is to debate the Nigerian situation Tuesday, and about 100 lawmakers from all parties have signed a motion calling on the government to secure a total embargo on arms deliveries to Nigeria and Biafra. Britain says it now supplies some 15 per cent of the foreign arms received by the Nigerian side.

Most Plastic Surgery For Women Under 55

MONTREAL (AP) — Dr. Jacques Papillon, a Montreal plastic surgeon, says 77 per cent of women seeking face-lifts are under 55 years of age, and 20 per cent are under 40.

Effects of the operation usually last 10 to 15 years. Complicated facial improvements may take three to five years to complete as surgery can take place only once a year to allow incision scars to heal.

British Official Flying To Lagon For Peace Conference

LONDON (AP) — A British official is flying to Lagos tonight to discuss possible moves toward peace in the Biafran war. the Foreign Office announced today.

A spokesman said Maurice Foley, Foreign Office minister in charge of African affairs, would also discuss relief to civilian victims of the fighting. There was no indication how long he would stay, and there was speculation he might meet with Biafran officials.

The last contract between senior British and Nigerian officials was in March when Prime Minister Harold Wilson went to Lagos in an unsuccessful attempt to bring the two warring sides together in peace talks. Since then the British have said they support efforts by the Organization of African Unity to mediate.

The Foreign Office spokesman said the Nigerian government had suggested this was a suitable time for a ministerial visitor. It is also a most advantageous time for Wilson as far as domestic politics is concerned.

The House of Commons is to debate the Nigerian situation Tuesday, and about 100 lawmakers from all parties have signed a motion calling on the government to secure a total embargo on arms deliveries to Nigeria and Biafra. Britain says it now supplies some 15 per cent of the foreign arms received by the Nigerian side.

Most Plastic Surgery For Women Under 55

MONTREAL (AP) — Dr. Jacques Papillon, a Montreal plastic surgeon, says 77 per cent of women seeking face-lifts are under 55 years of age, and 20 per cent are under 40.

Effects of the operation usually last 10 to 15 years. Complicated facial improvements may take three to five years to complete as surgery can take place only once a year to allow incision scars to heal.

Met Opera Musicians Reject Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — Metropolitan Opera musicians have rejected management's "final offer" to end a 14-week delay in the new season, but a lawyer for the opera said the union vote may pave the way for a settlement.

Members of Local 802, American Federation of Musicians, voted 54-36 last night to reject a four-year contract offer. But they voted 74-18 to accept a three-year pact with the first three years of the Met's offer.

Frederick R. Livingston, lawyer for the Met, said, "Since this is on the basis of the same figures for the first three years that we offered, I would say that if the ACMA (American Guild of Musical Artists) sees fit to do the same thing, we are ready to recommend approval by the board of directors of the Metropolitan."

The Met had told both unions Tuesday that it would not accept three-year contracts, and had refused to negotiate with the AGMA on that basis.

The AGMA members had refused to accept a four-year pact.

The Met was scheduled to open a 31-week season Sept. 15. If no settlement is reached, it would be the first time in 78 years that the Met had not performed in New York City.

Viet Victim's Brothers Oppose Army Funeral

REDDING (AP) — Dennis Stevens didn't like the Army, his brothers say, so he wouldn't want a military funeral.

The three brothers of the 21-year-old sergeant, who was killed Nov. 14 in Vietnam, have gone to court to see that Dennis gets a private civilian funeral.

Superior Court Judge Richard Eaton issued a temporary restraining order yesterday and said he hopes to make a final decision Monday.

The suit was filed by Rodney and Dwane Stevens of Redding and Ricky Stevens, in the Army at Fort Dix, N.J.

The brothers say Dennis' legal guardians, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Stevens of Vallejo, his aunt and uncle, want a military funeral.

TV REVIEW

Jack Benny Has Bushels Of Talents

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Every time you think you've run out of things to say about Jack Benny, he comes up with something rare and memorable on his occasional television specials.

If it's not some wildly talented and funny chimpanzees, then it may be penguins on roller skates that leave him speechless and the audience paralyzed with laughter.

Last night, on his latest NBC-TV special, Jack came up with Gregory Peck in a rare video appearance, and before the evening was over, the two of them — plus George Burns — turned in a singing and dancing session that ranks with the true gems of television variety entertainment.

You should really know some behind-the-scenes names connected with Jack's specials because it is the superb taste of these people—and of the comedian—that gets stars like Peck to take a flier out of their own natural field, the movies. One thinks of other stars, such as Jimmy Stewart, who have entrusted their reputations to Jack and his people. And trust is the key word, for all through show business there is total confidence among major performers in the judgment, discretion and know-how of Jack and his staff.

Therefore: The executive producer Wednesday was Irving Fein, the producer-director Norman Abbott, and the writers—those wondrous manipulators of Jack's talent—were Al Gordon, Hal Goldman, Hilliard Marks, Sam Perrin and Hugh Ledlock Jr.

The guests, by the way, also included Eddie (Rochester) Anderson, Nancy Sinatra, and Gary Puckett and the Union Gap, a pop group. But the Peck-Benny-Burns number was what the show will be remembered for.

What they did, basically, was to come on as a trio in the old, old music hall vein. They were billed splendidly as the "Two Bushels and a Peck." And the period tone of their act was so inspired in its concept that there was no doubt it was a classic segment in every detail.

Scientific or purposeful farming of water regions has been given diverse names, including seafarming, aquaculture, aguiculture and mariculture.

Met Opera Musicians Reject Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — Metropolitan Opera musicians have rejected management's "final offer" to end a 14-week delay in the new season, but a lawyer for the opera said the union vote may pave the way for a settlement.

Members of Local 802, American Federation of Musicians, voted 54-36 last night to reject a four-year contract offer. But they voted 74-18 to accept a three-year pact with the first three years of the Met's offer.

Frederick R. Livingston, lawyer for the Met, said, "Since this is on the basis of the same figures for the first three years that we offered, I would say that if the ACMA (American Guild of Musical Artists) sees fit to do the same thing, we are ready to recommend approval by the board of directors of the Metropolitan."

The Met had told both unions Tuesday that it would not accept three-year contracts, and had refused to negotiate with the AGMA on that basis.

The AGMA members had refused to accept a four-year pact.

The Met was scheduled to open a 31-week season Sept. 15. If no settlement is reached, it would be the first time in 78 years that the Met had not performed in New York City.

Suspect Denies Stables Theft

Benjamin Ray Grodhaus, 27, of Palo Alto, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of burglarizing a Novato riding academy Nov. 26. A preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Grodhaus was arrested Monday in San Francisco after police there found him trying to pawn two saddles.

Officers said Grodhaus led them to where he had more than $1,300 worth of saddles and other riding gear stashed.

Viet Victim's Brothers Oppose Army Funeral

REDDING (AP) — Dennis Stevens didn't like the Army, his brothers say, so he wouldn't want a military funeral.

The three brothers of the 21-year-old sergeant, who was killed Nov. 14 in Vietnam, have gone to court to see that Dennis gets a private civilian funeral.

Superior Court Judge Richard Eaton issued a temporary restraining order yesterday and said he hopes to make a final decision Monday.

The suit was filed by Rodney and Dwane Stevens of Redding and Ricky Stevens, in the Army at Fort Dix, N.J.

The brothers say Dennis' legal guardians, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Stevens of Vallejo, his aunt and uncle, want a military funeral.

TV REVIEW

Jack Benny Has Bushels Of Talents

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Every time you think you've run out of things to say about Jack Benny, he comes up with something rare and memorable on his occasional television specials.

If it's not some wildly talented and funny chimpanzees, then it may be penguins on roller skates that leave him speechless and the audience paralyzed with laughter.

Last night, on his latest NBC-TV special, Jack came up with Gregory Peck in a rare video appearance, and before the evening was over, the two of them — plus George Burns — turned in a singing and dancing session that ranks with the true gems of television variety entertainment.

You should really know some behind-the-scenes names connected with Jack's specials because it is the superb taste of these people—and of the comedian—that gets stars like Peck to take a flier out of their own natural field, the movies. One thinks of other stars, such as Jimmy Stewart, who have entrusted their reputations to Jack and his people. And trust is the key word, for all through show business there is total confidence among major performers in the judgment, discretion and know-how of Jack and his staff.

Therefore: The executive producer Wednesday was Irving Fein, the producer-director Norman Abbott, and the writers —those wondrous manipulators of Jack's talent—were Al Gordon, Hal Goldman, Hilliard Marks, Sam Perrin and Hugh Ledlock Jr.

The guests, by the way, also included Eddie (Rochester) Anderson, Nancy Sinatra, and Gary Puckett and the Union Gap, a pop group. But the Peck-Benny-Burns number was what the show will be remembered for.

What they did, basically, was to come on as a trio in the old, old music hall vein. They were billed splendidly as the "Two Bushels and a Peck." And the period tone of their act was so inspired in its concept that there was no doubt it was a classic segment in every detail.

Scientific or purposeful farming of water regions has been given diverse names, including seafarming, aquaculture, agriculture and mariculture.

TALENTED 15-YEAR-OLD

Terra Linda Student Wrapped In Music

Adam Linton is a serious young man of slight build with a brooding expression and an air of intensity which belies his age.

Adam, who is 15, is a musical prodigy who has conducted twice in public, written several compositions in classic style and who is considered to be a particularly talented violinist.

"Adam is one of those rare persons who are born musical and who need only the equipment to express their musical abilities," says Adam's teacher, Wynn Westover of Sausalito, a private tutor and instructor at the College of Marin.

Of himself, Adam says simply, "I enjoy my music, particularly playing the violin."

He has enjoyed his music ever since he was a small child, according to his mother, Mrs. Stuart Linton of 122 Surrey Place, Terra Linda. She remembers that when Adam was in nursery school he chose to listen to classical music.

When he was 10, Adam auditioned for Westover and "it was apparent immediately that Adam had musical talent," Westover says.

He then began studying in a broad program of musical training which includes playing the violin, conducting music theory and composition.

It was as part of his studies that he composed the several trios, a quartet and "a few small pieces" for the violin. Presently, he is working on arrangements of piano compositions for woodwinds.

The two concerts at which he conducted were also part of Adam's studies. In the first concert, held in March 1968, Adam conducted Handel's "Andante" at the San Francisco Senior Citizens Center. And, in April of this year, he conducted the Westover chamber orchestra playing Massenet's "Meditation" at the special memorial concert for Martin Luther King at Nourse Auditorium in San Francisco.

Flashing one of his rare, charming smiles, Adam admits he was "a little nervous" during the two concerts. "Actually, I had the proper amount of nervousness . . . to perform well," Adam explains.

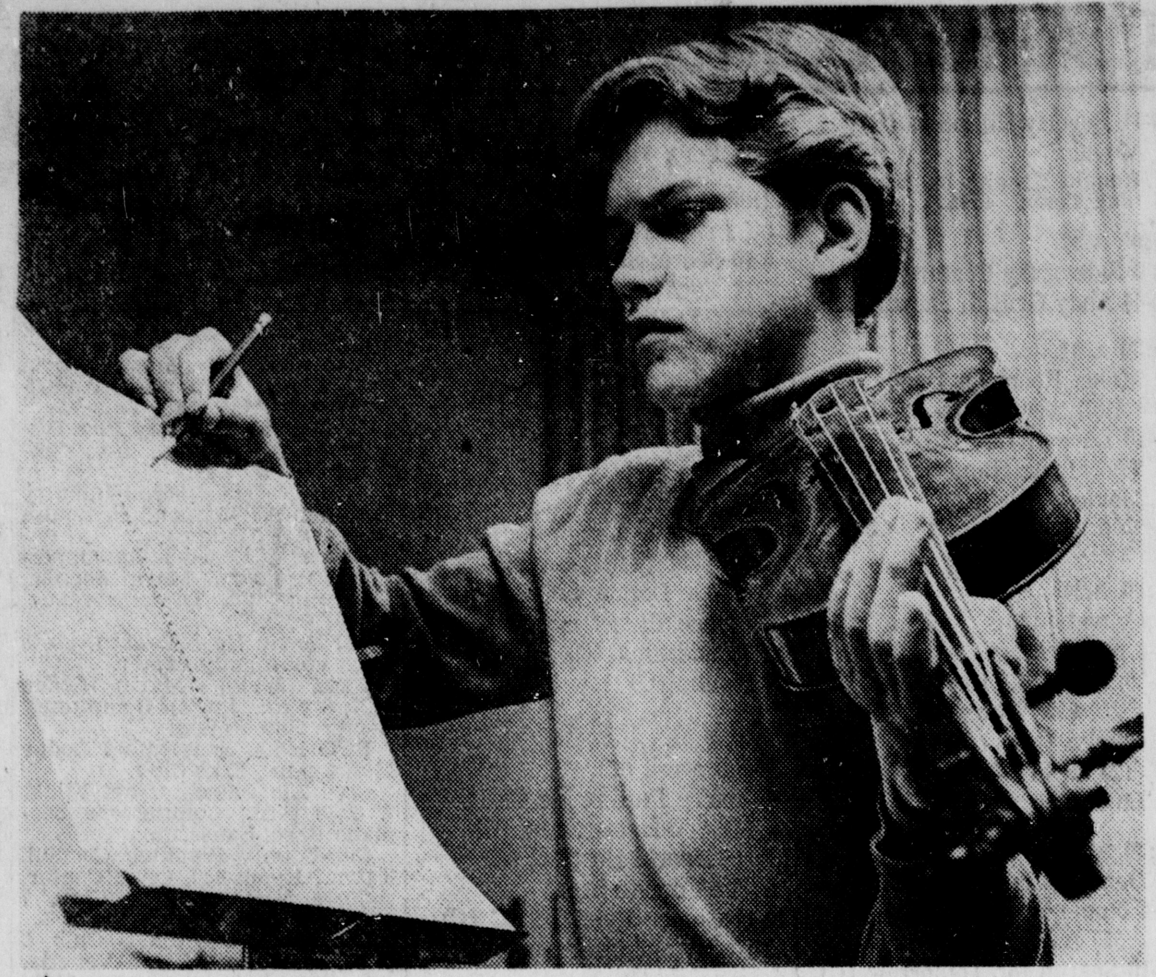
Although he enjoyed conducting before an audience, Adam says he doesn't want to play the violin "before others" until "I'm really good."

Adam also has been taking the Trinity College of London music examinations, held annually in San Francisco, and has scored 100 per cent in the first two grades and 95 per cent in the third grade level.

When he graduates from high school — presently he is a sophomore at Terra Linda High School — he hopes to attend a local college while still continuing his studies.

There is no doubt in Adam's mind that he will pursue a professional career as a musician. But, he thinks now he will play the violin rather than conduct.

He is realistic about the effort it will take to accomplish his goal, explaining, "It will take me 10 more years to become an able player and more than that to become accomplished."



YOUTHFUL MUSICIAN — Fifteen-year-old musician Adam Linton, though well launched toward a career in music, sees years of hard work and study ahead. Experts say he has the talent to see him through. (Independent-Journal photo)

Youth Found Guilty Of $50 Heroin Sale

A jury of seven men and five women in Marin Superior Court deliberated only about 25 minutes yesterday before finding Mathew Michael Letsos, 19, of Fairfax, guilty of selling a narcotics agent $50 worth of heroine last May.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Jan. 9.

Letsos is the brother of James Michael Letsos, 21, who was found dead in his Sausalito apartment Sept. 10. An autopsy showed that he died of drowning in a shower where he had been placed by roommates when he became unconscious after a heroin injection.

The younger brother was arrested after the death in a coincidental action by drug agents who charged that he had sold heroin three times to undercover agents. The youth still faces two sale charges in San Francisco, where he is accused of selling $350 worth of heroin on April 28 and one ounce of the narcotic on Sept. 10 for $750.

Letsos' court-appointed attorney, Charles L. Convis, said yesterday in court that he hopes the youth will be committed to the California Rehabilitation Center for narcotics addiction treatment.

Juvenile Court May Get Case

The case of John Keats Thomson Jr., 19, of San Rafael, was referred to probation officials yesterday for possible transferral to Marin Juvenile Court.

He was told to return to municipal court Dec. 17 to find out if he will be tried as a juvenile.

Thomas, who is accused of possessing marijuana, was arrested Nov. 19 on Tiburon Boulevard when deputies stopped his car because it had only one headlight. The deputies said they found butts of what appeared to be marijuana in the car.

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Groucho Marx' third wife won a divorce and a $1 million settlement after she said Groucho grouched about her cooking.

Marx, 78, did not attend the hearing yesterday in Santa Monica Superior Court at which his wife since 1954 was given: $210,000 alimony over seven years whether she remarries or not; $337,000 from her husband's NBC television contract; half the profits from the sale of their $35,000 home; stocks and bonds and another home in Palm Springs. Islands Brace For More Big Windy Rains

HONOLULU (UPI) — Sea swells up to 40 feet driven by gale force winds today raced toward the Hawaiian Islands. The weather bureau warned of another onslaught of dangerous surf.

The bureau in a special bulletin issued last night said the high waves were backed by a wind from the northwest at 15 to 25 miles per hour, tending to drive the surf.

It urged that every precaution be taken in preparation for "this dangerous situation."

The giant waves, some as high as 50 feet, began Monday night, forcing more than 1,000 residents along northern shores of the islands to flee their homes.

Two persons were missing, a third man died of a heart attack after helping with nightlong rescue operations, and public officials estimated property damage at more than $1 million throughout the state.

The new storm, 1,100 miles away, generated winds up to 69 miles an hour and produced massive sea swells. But the weather bureau said it was not as powerful as the Monday storm which launched the initial rampage of surf.

14-Pound Boy Born In Orange

ORANGE (UPI)—A 33-year-old woman gave birth yesterday to a 14-pound 9-ounce boy described as the largest baby ever born at Orange County Medical Center.

Mrs. Geraldine Geehan, nursing supervisor, said a child this size born today is a medical rarity.

The mother and child were in fine condition.

Marin Students Win English Test Honors

Four high school seniors in Marin have been named national winners and one a runner-up in the 1969 achievement awards competition of the National Council of Teachers of English.

Eight hundred seventy-two winners and 872 runners-up were chosen from 8,000 entrants nation-wide, with 38 winners and 38 runners-up in California.

Winners are David Page and Jeff Ilse, both of Terra Linda High School, Cynthia Strauss of San Domenico School and Don L. Daglow of San Rafael High School. Dena Goodman of Tamalpais High School was named a runner-up.

Entrants were tested last spring on their writing ability, general English knowledge and skill, and literary awareness.

Names of award winners are sent to all college admissions officers and college English department chairman in the nation, and the national council recommends scholarships for award winners who need assistance.

TALENTED 15-YEAR-OLD

Terra Linda Student Wrapped In Music

Adam Linton is a serious young man of slight build with a brooding expression and an air of intensity which belies his age.

Adam, who is 15, is a musical prodigy who has conducted twice in public, written several compositions in classic style and who is considered to be a particularly talented violinist.

"Adam is one of those rare persons who are born musical and who need only the equipment to express their musical abilities," says Adam's teacher, Wynn Westover of Sausalito, a private tutor and instructor at the College of Marin.

Of himself, Adam says simply, "I enjoy my music, particularly playing the violin."

He has enjoyed his music ever since he was a small child, according to his mother, Mrs. Stuart Linton of 122 Surrey Place, Terra Linda. She remembers that when Adam was in nursery school he chose to listen to classical music.

When he was 10, Adam auditioned for Westover and "it was apparent immediately that Adam had musical talent," Westover says.

He then began studying in a broad program of musical training which includes playing the violin, conducting music theory and composition.

It was as part of his studies that he composed the several trios, a quartet and "a few small pieces" for the violin. Presently, he is working on arrangements of piano compositions for woodwinds.

The two concerts at which he conducted were also part of Adam's studies. In the first concert, held in March 1968, Adam conducted Handel's "Andante" at the San Francisco Senior Citizens Center. And, in April of this year, he conducted the Westover chamber orchestra playing Massenet's "Meditation" at the special memorial concert for Martin Luther King at Nourse Auditorium in San Francisco.

Flashing one of his rare, charming smiles, Adam admits he was "a little nervous" during the two concerts. "Actually, I had the proper amount of nervousness . . . to perform well," Adam explains.

Although he enjoyed conducting before an audience, Adam says he doesn't want to play the violin "before others" until "I'm really good."

Adam also has been taking the Trinity College of London music examinations, held annually in San Francisco, and has scored 100 per cent in the first two grades and 95 per cent in the third grade level.

When he graduates from high school — presently he is a sophomore at Terra Linda High School — he hopes to attend a local college while still continuing his studies.

There is no doubt in Adam's mind that he will pursue a professional career as a musician. But, he thinks now he will play the violin rather than conduct.

He is realistic about the effort it will take to accomplish his goal, explaining, "It will take me 10 more years to become an able player and more than that to become accomplished."

YOUTHFUL MUSICIAN — Fifteen-year-old musician Adam Linton, though well launched toward a career in music, sees years of hard work and study ahead. Experts say he has the talent to see him through. (Independent-Journal photo)

Redwood High Guided Tours Are Scheduled

Guided tours of Redwood High School for parents of Redwood students and other adults have been scheduled by the administration, Principal Donald Kreps has announced.

Tours led by administrators will be available from 10 a.m. to noon on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Persons wanting to visit the school should call the principal's office to reserve a time, Kreps said. Tours will be limited to two to eight persons to allow time for questions and comments, he said.

Tours will start in the faculty lounge.

Christmas shoppers have been urged to place packages in the locked trunks of their cars by San Rafael Police Chief Jospeh J. Brusatori.

Youth Found Guilty Of $50 Heroin Sale

A jury of seven men and five women in Marin Superior Court deliberated only about 25 minutes yesterday before finding Mathew Michael Letsos, 19, of Fairfax, guilty of selling a narcotics agent $50 worth of heroine last May.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Jan. 9.

Letsos is the brother of James Michael Letsos, 21, who was found dead in his Sausalito apartment Sept. 10. An autopsy showed that he died of drowning in a shower where he had been placed by roommates when he became unconscious after a heroin injection.

The younger brother was arrested after the death in a coincidental action by drug agents who charged that he had sold heroin three times to undercover agents. The youth still faces two sale charges in San Francisco, where he is accused of selling $350 worth of heroin on April 28 and one ounce of the narcotic on Sept. 10 for $750.

Letsos' court-appointed attorney, Charles L. Convis, said yesterday in court that he hopes the youth will be committed to the California Rehabilitation Center for narcotics addiction treatment.

Juvenile Court May Get Case

The case of John Keats Thomson Jr., 19, of San Rafael, was referred to probation officials yesterday for possible transferral to Marin Juvenile Court.

He was told to return to municipal court Dec. 17 to find out if he will be tried as a juvenile.

Thomas, who is accused of possessing marijuana, was arrested Nov. 19 on Tiburon Boulevard when deputies stopped his car because it had only one headlight. The deputies said they found butts of what appeared to be marijuana in the car.

Hazard Of Rank?

SEATTLE (AP) — Mrs. Richard Burrows, wife of a member of newly elected Mayor Wesley Uhlman's staff, reported to police yesterday that her purse was stolen during an inaugural reception for the mayor at city hall.

Marx Loses Wife And One Million

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Groucho Marx' third wife won a divorce and a $1 million settlement after she said Groucho grouched about her cooking.

"He said he was thinking of trading me in for a new cook — and a new wife," said brunette Eden Marie Marx, 38, a former model

Marx, 78, did not attend the hearing yesterday in Santa Monica Superior Court at which his wife since 1954 was given: $210,000 alimony over seven years whether she remarries or not; $337,000 from her husband's NBC television contract; half the profits from the sale of their $35,000 home; stocks and bonds and another home in Palm Springs. Mrs. Marx estimated her husband's net worth at $3 million.

Islands Brace For More Big Windy Rains

HONOLULU (UPI) — Sea swells up to 40 feet driven by gale force winds today raced toward the Hawaiian Islands. The weather bureau warned of another onslaught of dangerous surf.

The bureau in a special bulletin issued last night said the high waves were backed by a wind from the northwest at 15 to 25 miles per hour, tending to drive the surf.

It urged that every precaution be taken in preparation for "this dangerous situation."

The giant waves, some as high as 50 feet, began Monday night, forcing more than 1,000 residents along northern shores of the islands to flee their homes.

Two persons were missing, a third man died of a heart attack after helping with nightlong rescue operations, and public officials estimated property damage at more than $1 million throughout the state.

The new storm, 1,100 miles away, generated winds up to 69 miles an hour and produced massive sea swells. But the weather bureau said it was not as powerful as the Monday storm which launched the initial rampage of surf.

14-Pound Boy Born In Orange

ORANGE (UPI)—A 33-year-old woman gave birth yesterday to a 14-pound 9-ounce boy described as the largest baby ever born at Orange County Medical Center.

The baby, 24 1-2 inches long, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stepanenko.

Mrs. Geraldine Geehan, nursing supervisor, said a child this size born today is a medical rarity.

The mother and child were in fine condition.

Marin Students Win English Test Honors

Four high school seniors in Marin have been named national winners and one a runner-up in the 1969 achievement awards competition of the National Council of Teachers of English.

Eight hundred seventy-two winners and 872 runners-up were chosen from 8,000 entrants nation-wide, with 38 winners and 38 runners-up in California.

Winners are David Page and Jeff Ilse, both of Terra Linda High School, Cynthia Strauss of San Domenico School and Don L. Daglow of San Rafael High School. Dena Goodman of Tamalpais High School was named a runner-up.

Entrants were tested last spring on their writing ability, general English knowledge and skill, and literary awareness.

Names of award winners are sent to all college admissions officers and college English department chairman in the nation, and the national council recommends scholarships for award winners who need assistance.

Finley Starts Pennant Plan—Gets Felipe Alou

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Felipe Alou's return to the West Coast and the New York homecoming of Joe Foy — key moves in a pair of inter-league trades at baseball's winter meetings—stepped up travel plans for Oakland's Charlie Finley and the world champion Mets.

The Athletics obtained Alou, a gifted but aging outfielder who began his 12-year National League career in San Francisco, from the Atlanta Braves yesterday in a straight swap for 24-year-old pitcher Jim Nash.

Moments earlier the Mets announced they had landed third baseman Foy, a native New Yorker, in a 2-for-1 deal that sent young outfielder Amos Otis, a former "untouchable," and pitching prospect Bob Johnson to the Kansas City Royals.

Kansas City also purchased five Met Farmhands in a separate transaction and the Detroit Tigers swapped pitchers with Montreal, getting Jerry Robertson for Joe Sparma, as trading picked up after three uneventful days at nearby Fort Lauderdale.

The acquisition of Alou, 34, marked the first step in a three-stage trading program Finley hopes will launch the A's toward the American League West Division title in 1970.

"We feel we have a chance to go all the way next year if we get a little help in the outfield, relief pitching and catching," said the Athletics owner who hopes to fill the latter two needs before the meetings wind up Saturday.

"We're aware of Alou's age, but if this means the difference between winning our division and finishing second next year, then it's a darn good trade."

Alou was slowed by injuries last year, but still batted .282 in 129 games. The hustling Dominican, with a lifetime batting mark of .290, has been named to three N.L. All-Star squads.

"It's always tough to trade a ballplayer like Alou," said Paul Richards, the Braves' general manager. "Age was a factor, but our need for another pitcher was the basic thing."

Nash, the A.L. Rookie of the Year in 1966 after a brilliant 12-1 record with the Kansas City A's, won 12 and 13 games the following two seasons, then slipped to 8-8 last year.

Mill Valley Tribute To Golfing Veteran

Mill Valley's sporty nine-hole municipal golf course just hasn't been the same for several months now.

Oh, the post card scenery is still there and everything is as green as usual. It's still bird-chirping, leaves-rustling, brook-murmering peaceful.

But, there has been quite a void at the southern Marin course. Like Liberace with a missing front tooth, Sinatra with laryngitis, Doda with a half-tank of silicone.

Yep, Old Bill Rees has been quite noticeable by his absence. A retired banker originally from Chicago, Rees was a fixture at the muni links, for longer than most of his friends can remember, until earlier this year when he upped and moved to Ohio.

And, his buddies in the local men's golf club have missed him dearly. It wasn't that he was such a hot golfer, far from it, as his 25 handicap shows. But is was just good to see him, to be around him, says Syl G. Auteri of Mill Valley.

Three Holes-In-One

"He was a permanent fixture around here," said Auteri. "Te served our club in various offices and committees. Also, he's scored three aces down here to highlight his golf activities. But, the big thing about Bill was not his championship but his companionship."

Well, the Mill Valley golfers have done something to at least temporarily fill the gap. They've raised enough loot to fly Rees back to Marin this month and keep him around here for a couple of weeks and, of course, to hit a few, for he is still a golf addict.

Highlight of the reunion, said Auteri, will be a testimonial dinner for Rees at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, San Rafael, on the evening of Dec. 18. Anyone who'd like to pay tribute to Rees can make reservations through Auteri or MVGC president Keeler Nash at the muni golf clubhouse. Women welcome, too.

Dec. 18 is a good date for this testimonial. It will be old duffer Bill Rees' 90th birthday.

Another Sports Buff

AND NOW we present another sports Buff, this one of the football species.

His name is Merlin C. Roberts of San Rafael, a carpenter, who is all fired up over the Camellia Bowl in Sacramento on Dec. 13.

For Roberts, the game between North Dakota State and U. of Montana is a natural. A Dream Bowl.

You see, Roberts is a native of North Dakota who grew up in Missoula, Montana. Wrapping up these sentimental associations in one feature at nearby Sacramento is, to Roberts, like getting a package from home. You'd better believe he'll be there.

Roberts, who has lived in San Rafael for 25 years, admits that in additon to the perfect combination of Camellia Bowl rivals he is a football nut.

"My wife's always giving me hell for watching games on TV all day," he laughs. "As a kid in Missoula I used to watch the Grizzlies play every Saturday, but I haven't seen them in 35 years. I can remember a player named Wild Bill Kelly, a big star there in 1927. They've had some pretty good teams at Montana over the years, but I can't remember one like the 10-0 record they've had this year."

Rooting For Grizzlies?

I forgot to ask him who he'd be rooting for, but I have a hunch it'll be the Grizzlies, with Bill Hickerson of San Anselmo at middle linebacker.

SAL BANDO, third baseman for the Oakland A's, will join KYA disc jockeys on the radio station's barnstorming basketball team when it plays the Terra Linda High School faculty Saturday night, 8 o'clock, at the Terra Linda gymnasium.

Terra Linda's lineup will include Bob Corley, Barry Amsden, Don Rodrigo, Ted Freeman, Hank Yamagata and others. Proceeds will go to the Terra Linda Senior Ball.

Seals Again Lose To St. Louis Blues

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Oakland Seals may someday beat the St. Louis Blues.

The Seals returned home today after losing their 10th straight National Hockey League game to tough Blues, 3-1 last night before 15,706.

The Seals have never beaten the West Division leaders in NHL play.

Phil Goyette sent the Blues on their way to their eighth straight victory at home against West Division clubs by scoring at 12:27 of the opening period.

Red Berenson made it 2-0 for St. Louis a minute later and Frank St. Marseille made it 3-0 at 12:54 of the second period.

Ted Hampson tallied Oakland's lone goal at 13:30 of the second period.

The Seals take tonight off before meeting the Philadelphia Flyers tomorrow night in the Oakland Coliseum.

Pros Watch McGowan

MIAMI (AP) — Jack McGowan, a little-known veteran on the tour, hasn't had so much attention since he blew a critical putt that cost him the title in the Texas Open at San Antonio early this year.

"I'm the guy they're talking about," he admitted today before teeing off in the first round of the $125,000 Danny Thomas-Diplomat Open Golf Tournament.

He was the 60th man on the official list of season money winners going into this, the last official stop on the PGA tour.

TARGET

And since 60 is the cut-off spot for exemptions, he's the target for his fellow pros — especially Ron Cerrudo — who are gunning for that coveted position.

Most of the attention in the tournament will be centered on the big guns—Arnold Palmer, Frank Beard, Dave Hill, Orville Moody, George Archer—in their quest for the top spot.

But the other struggle, that for positions around No. 60, will occupy a large portion of the pros.

It is vitally important to them. If they make the top 60, they are exempt from qualifying for next year's events. If they don't make it—and aren't otherwise qualified—they will have to compete on Mondays for spots in the tournament field.

Those qualifying events often are called the "suicide open," with an average of about 200 players competing for 20 spots.

McGowan, a 38-year-old veteran, is the key man at No. 60. He has $27,640 in official money.

Tony Jacklin, the British Open champ, is next at $27,540, but isn't competing here and can't make it. Neither can Johnny Pott, next at 62nd, also among the missing.

That leaves the best chance to Cerrudo, a former winner, who is 63rd at $27,023. (Cerrudo lives in Napa, and his parents live in San Rafael.)

Doug Sanders, who has won 18 tour events but has had his troubles this year, follows, but must finish fifth or better to have a chance. He has only $24,299—more than $3,000 back.

About 20 new names are scattered through the list, a tribute to the caliber of young players coming on the tour. But with that many new ones, a flock of regulars are in danger.

IN DANGER

They include Billy Maxwell, Lou Graham, Terry Wilcox, Kermit Zarley, Rocky Thompson, Chuck Courtney, Jacky Cupit, Mason Rudolph and Mike Hill.

A large number of others aren't in the top 60 but have lifetime exemptions — a sore point with the younger players—as former PGA or U.S. open champions.

That group includes Al Geiberger, Lionel Hebert, Dow Finsterwald, Dave Marr and Bob Rosburg.

Baseball Fans Might Vote For All-Stars Next Year

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has indicated that All-Star game balloting will be returned to the fans in 1970.

"We are trying to devise a way to permit the fans to vote for the All-Star teams again," the commissioner said yesterday after an informal session with major league club owners at the winter meetings.

"We are at a pretty well progressed stage on the matter and I am confident it can be done in 1970.

Fans selected the All-Star squad until a Cincinnati radio station managed a 1956 voting coup that resulted in the naming of seven Reds to the National League starting team. The following year, the voting was turned over to the players themselves.

"There is no objection to the players voting or to the kind of teams they select," Kuhn said. "But if you give it to the fans, you give them the enjoyment of participation."

The proposed change does not require approval of the owners. "This is the commissioner's game," Kuhn said.

S.F. Cagers Turn Back Tamalpais

Lincoln High School Mustangs of San Francisco had a slow start and finish, but did enough damage in between to defeat Tamalpais, 67-57, yesterday in an inter-league basketball game at San Francisco.

Tam, which now has a 1-1 won-lost record, was led by Ken Gommeringer's 14 points and Bill Secor's 13 rebounds.

San Diego St. Coach Praises Boston Foes

SAN DIEGO (AP)—"Football is an emotional game," says Don Coryell. That's at least partly why he believes his San Diego State Aztecs will have plenty of opponent in the Boston University Terriers.

The Aztecs, 10-0 in their first season of university football competition, used to cherish their meetings with so-called major football schools. Now they meet the college-division Terriers, 9-1, Saturday in the Pasadena Bowl.

"They're in the position we wanted to be," said Coryell, noting the obvious: the Terriers will be fired up.

The Terriers, despite being runners-up to Penn State in balloting for the Lambert Trophy, symbol of Eastern football supremacy, have nothing to lose and everything to gain by meeting the higher-classed Aztecs.

Coryell frowns when he hears someone question the quality of Boston University football.

"Look at one reel of film, just one reel of film, before you write anything derogatory about Boston," Coryell tells sportswriters.

"Their defense is big, about 238 pounds up front. We thought, 'good, they're fat guys and we'll block 'em easily.'

"But we looked at films," he said, "and they have some great players on the field.

GEORGE LEE:

Slow Teams Are Losers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — if you slow down in the National Basketball Association, you're going to lose, says coach George Lee of the San Francisco Warriors.

The Warriors beat the Detroit Pistons Tuesday night but the Pistons won last night, 106-102 as Howard Komives hit four free throws in the final minute.

"We were a step slower than last night," said Lee. "It was a bitter game to lose because we have to count on beating teams like Detroit."

The Warriors, now 12-12, rest tonight before entertaining the San Diego Rockets tomorrow night at the Cow Palace. Detroit is now 9-14.

The Warriors led by 11 points in the first half but faded in the third period when Detroit went ahead by nine.

The Warriors pulled back on top at 81-80 on two free throws by Dave Gambee. But the Pistons went ahead to stay with three minutes left on two free throws by Erwin Mueller. Komives' charity shots clinched it.

Eddie Miles paced Detroit with 29 points and teammate Jimmy Walker added 22. The Warriors' Jeff Mullins led all scorers with 31, including 19 in the first half. Nate Thurmond tossed in 20.

49ers Working On Defense

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers concentrated on offense yesterday in preparation for Saturday's National Football League contest against the Chicago Bears.

Coach Dick Nolan noted that the Bears, only 1-10 for the season, are third in the NFL on defense.

Strong safety Mel Phillips ran a little on his sprained right knee but remained a doubtful starter against the Bears.

Phillips' place on the 49er defensive team will be taken by Alvin Randolph if the knee still hurts Friday, Nolan said.

Stein Wins All-American Mention

Drake High School graduate Karl Stein of San Anselmo, who set a Big Sky Conference record with 11 pass interceptions in 10 games for undefeated University of Montana Grizzlies, has won honorable mention on the Little All-America football squad selected today by the Associated Press.

Stein was an All-Marin County Athletic League end at Drake and later starred for two seasons at College of Marin until he transferred to Montana this year. He was an all-conference selection at Marin in 1967 and 1968.

He is a junior at Montana, majoring in art.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Felipe Alou's return to the West Coast and the New York homecoming of Joe Foy — key moves in a pair of inter-league trades at baseball's winter meetings—stepped up travel plans for Oakland's Charlie Finley and the world champion Mets.

The Athletics obtained Alou, a gifted but aging outfielder who began his 12-year National League career in San Francisco, from the Atlanta Braves yesterday in a straight swap for 24-year-old pitcher Jim Nash.

Moments earlier the Mets announced they had landed third baseman Foy, a native New Yorker, in a 2-for-1 deal that sent young outfielder Amos Otis, a former "untouchable," and pitching prospect Bob Johnson to the Kansas City Royals.

Kansas City also purchased five Met Farmhands in a separate transaction and the Detroit Tigers swapped pitchers with Montreal, getting Jerry Robertson for Joe Sparma, as trading picked up after three uneventful days at nearby Fort Lauderdale.

The acquisition of Alou, 34, marked the first step in a three-stage trading program Finley hopes will launch the A's toward the American League West Division title in 1970.

"We feel we have a chance to go all the way next year if we get a little help in the outfield, relief pitching and catching," said the Athletics owner who hopes to fill the latter two needs before the meetings wind up Saturday.

"We're aware of Alou's age, but if this means the difference between winning our division and finishing second next year, then it's a darn good trade."

Alou was slowed by injuries last year, but still batted .282 in 129 games. The hustling Dominican, with a lifetime batting mark of .290, has been named to three N.L. All-Star squads.

"It's always tough to trade a ballplayer like Alou," said Paul Richards, the Braves' general manager. "Age was a factor, but our need for another pitcher was the basic thing."

Nash, the A.L. Rookie of the Year in 1966 after a brilliant 12-1 record with the Kansas City A's, won 12 and 13 games the following two seasons, then slipped to 8-8 last year.

He joined left-hander Larry Jaster, acquired from Montreal Tuesday for right-hander Jim Britton, in the Braves' wigwam.

Mill Valley Tribute To Golfing Veteran

Mill Valley's sporty nine-hole municipal golf course just hasn't been the same for several months now.

Oh, the post card scenery is still there and everything is as green as usual. It's still bird-chirping, leaves-rustling, brook-murmering peaceful.

But, there has been quite a void at the southern Marin course. Like Liberace with a missing front tooth, Sinatra with laryngitis, Doda with a half-tank of silicone.

Yep, Old Bill Rees has been quite noticeable by his absence. A retired banker originally from Chicago, Rees was a fixture at the muni links, for longer than most of his friends can remember, until earlier this year when he upped and moved to Ohio.

And, his buddies in the local men's golf club have missed him dearly. It wasn't that he was such a hot golfer, far from it, as his 25 handicap shows. But is was just good to see him, to be around him, says Syl G. Auteri of Mill Valley.

Three Holes-In-One

"He was a permanent fixture around here," said Auteri. "Te served our club in various offices and committees. Also, he's scored three aces down here to highlight his golf activities. But, the big thing about Bill was not his championship but his companionship."

Well, the Mill Valley golfers have done something to at least temporarily fill the gap. They've raised enough loot to fly Rees back to Marin this month and keep him around here for a couple of weeks and, of course, to hit a few, for he is still a golf addict.

Highlight of the reunion, said Auteri, will be a testimonial dinner for Rees at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, San Rafael, on the evening of Dec. 18. Anyone who'd like to pay tribute to Rees can make reservations through Auteri or MVGC president Keeler Nash at the muni golf clubhouse. Women welcome, too.

Dec. 18 is a good date for this testimonial. It will be old duffer Bill Rees' 90th birthday.

Another Sports Buff

AND NOW we present another sports Buff, this one of the football species.

His name is Merlin C. Roberts of San Rafael, a carpenter, who is all fired up over the Camellia Bowl in Sacramento on Dec. 13.

For Roberts, the game between North Dakota State and U. of Montana is a natural. A Dream Bowl.

You see, Roberts is a native of North Dakota who grew up in Missoula, Montana. Wrapping up these sentimental associations in one feature at nearby Sacramento is, to Roberts, like getting a package from home. You'd better believe he'll be there.

Roberts, who has lived in San Rafael for 25 years, admits that in additon to the perfect combination of Camellia Bowl rivals he is a football nut.

"My wife's always giving me hell for watching games on TV all day," he laughs. "As a kid in Missoula I used to watch the Grizzlies play every Saturday, but I haven't seen them in 35 years. I can remember a player named Wild Bill Kelly, a big star there in 1927. They've had some pretty good teams at Montana over the years, but I can't remember one like the 10-0 record they've had this year."

Rooting For Grizzlies?

I forgot to ask him who he'd be rooting for, but I have a hunch it'll be the Grizzlies, with Bill Hickerson of San Anselmo at middle linebacker.

SAL BANDO, third baseman for the Oakland A's, will join KYA disc jockeys on the radio station's barnstorming basketball team when it plays the Terra Linda High School faculty Saturday night, 8 o'clock, at the Terra Linda gymnasium.

Terra Linda's lineup will include Bob Corley, Barry Amsden, Don Rodrigo, Ted Freeman, Hank Yamagata and others. Proceeds will go to the Terra Linda Senior Ball.

Seals Again Lose To St. Louis Blues

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Oakland Seals may someday beat the St. Louis Blues.

The Seals returned home today after losing their 10th straight National Hockey League game to tough Blues, 3-1 last night before 15,706.

The Seals have never beaten the West Division leaders in NHL play.

Phil Goyette sent the Blues on their way to their eighth straight victory at home against West Division clubs by scoring at 12:27 of the opening period.

Red Berenson made it 2-0 for St. Louis a minute later and Frank St. Marseille made it 3-0 at 12:54 of the second period.

Ted Hampson tallied Oakland's lone goal at 13:30 of the second period.

The Seals take tonight off before meeting the Philadelphia Flyers tomorrow night in the Oakland Coliseum.

THE VIKING BIG GUYS

Minnesota Vikings' defensive front four gets ready to go through some maneuvers during practice session. From left are Carl Eller (6-6, 225 pounds), Gary Larsen (6-5, 255), Alan Page (6-4, 250) and Jim Marshall (6-3, 248). They will be going against the Los Angeles Rams, who also feel they have a pretty fair front four, Sunday in a key National Football League game. The Vikings are the champs of the Central Division, and the Rams are putting up an 11-0 streak.

ESPECIALLY CERRUDO

Pros Watch McGowan

MIAMI (AP) — Jack McGowan, a little-known veteran on the tour, hasn't had so much attention since he blew a critical putt that cost him the title in the Texas Open at San Antonio early this year.

"I'm the guy they're talking about," he admitted today before teeing off in the first round of the $125,000 Danny Thomas-Diplomat Open Golf Tournament.

He was the 60th man on the official list of season money winners going into this, the last official stop on the PGA tour.

TARGET

And since 60 is the cut-off spot for exemptions, he's the target for his fellow pros — especially Ron Cerrudo — who are gunning for that coveted position.

Most of the attention in the tournament will be centered on the big guns—Arnold Palmer, Frank Beard, Dave Hill, Orville Moody, George Archer—in their quest for the top spot.

But the other struggle, that for positions around No. 60, will occupy a large portion of the pros.

It is vitally important to them. If they make the top 60, they are exempt from qualifying for next year's events. If they don't make it—and aren't otherwise qualified—they will have to compete on Mondays for spots in the tournament field.

Those qualifying events often are called the "suicide open," with an average of about 200 players competing for 20 spots.

McGowan, a 38-year-old veteran, is the key man at No. 60. He has $27,640 in official money.

Tony Jacklin, the British Open champ, is next at $27,540, but isn't competing here and can't make it. Neither can Johnny Pott, next at 62nd, also among the missing.

That leaves the best chance to Cerrudo, a former winner, who is 63rd at $27,023. (Cerrudo lives in Napa, and his parents live in San Rafael.)

Doug Sanders, who has won 18 tour events but has had his troubles this year, follows, but must finish fifth or better to have a chance. He has only $24,299—more than $3,000 back.

About 20 new names are scattered through the list, a tribute to the caliber of young players coming on the tour. But with that many new ones, a flock of regulars are in danger.

IN DANGER

They include Billy Maxwell, Lou Graham, Terry Wilcox, Kermit Zarley, Rocky Thompson, Chuck Courtney, Jacky Cupit, Mason Rudolph and Mike Hill.

A large number of others aren't in the top 60 but have lifetime exemptions — a sore point with the younger players—as former PGA or U.S. open champions.

That group includes Al Geiberger, Lionel Hebert, Dow Finsterwald, Dave Marr and Bob Rosburg.

Baseball Fans Might Vote For All-Stars Next Year

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has indicated that All-Star game balloting will be returned to the fans in 1970.

"We are trying to devise a way to permit the fans to vote for the All-Star teams again," the commissioner said yesterday after an informal session with major league club owners at the winter meetings.

"We are at a pretty well progressed stage on the matter and I am confident it can be done in 1970.

Fans selected the All-Star squad until a Cincinnati radio station managed a 1956 voting coup that resulted in the naming of seven Reds to the National League starting team. The following year, the voting was turned over to the players themselves.

"There is no objection to the players voting or to the kind of teams they select," Kuhn said. "But if you give it to the fans, you give them the enjoyment of participation."

The proposed change does not require approval of the owners. "This is the commissioner's game," Kuhn said.

S.F. Cagers Turn Back Tamalpais

Lincoln High School Mustangs of San Francisco had a slow start and finish, but did enough damage in between to defeat Tamalpais, 67-57, yesterday in an inter-league basketball game at San Francisco.

Tam, which now has a 1-1 won-lost record, was led by Ken Gommeringer's 14 points and Bill Secor's 13 rebounds.

San Diego St. Coach Praises Boston Foes

SAN DIEGO (AP)—"Football is an emotional game," says Don Coryell. That's at least partly why he believes his San Diego State Aztecs will have plenty of opponent in the Boston University Terriers.

The Aztecs, 10-0 in their first season of university football competition, used to cherish their meetings with so-called major football schools. Now they meet the college-division Terriers, 9-1, Saturday in the Pasadena Bowl.

"They're in the position we wanted to be," said Coryell, noting the obvious: the Terriers will be fired up.

The Terriers, despite being runners-up to Penn State in balloting for the Lambert Trophy, symbol of Eastern football supremacy, have nothing to lose and everything to gain by meeting the higher-classed Aztecs.

Coryell frowns when he hears someone question the quality of Boston University football.

"Look at one reel of film, just one reel of film, before you write anything derogatory about Boston," Coryell tells sportswriters.

"Their defense is big, about 238 pounds up front. We thought, 'good, they're fat guys and we'll block 'em easily.'

"But we looked at films," he said, "and they have some great players on the field.

GEORGE LEE:

Slow Teams Are Losers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — if you slow down in the National Basketball Association, you're going to lose, says coach George Lee of the San Francisco Warriors.

The Warriors beat the Detroit Pistons Tuesday night but the Pistons won last night, 106-102 as Howard Komives hit four free throws in the final minute.

"We were a step slower than last night," said Lee. "It was a bitter game to lose because we have to count on beating teams like Detroit."

The Warriors, now 12-12, rest tonight before entertaining the San Diego Rockets tomorrow night at the Cow Palace. Detroit is now 9-14.

The Warriors led by 11 points in the first half but faded in the third period when Detroit went ahead by nine.

The Warriors pulled back on top at 81-80 on two free throws by Dave Gambee. But the Pistons went ahead to stay with three minutes left on two free throws by Erwin Mueller. Komives' charity shots clinched it.

Eddie Miles paced Detroit with 29 points and teammate Jimmy Walker added 22. The Warriors' Jeff Mullins led all scorers with 31, including 19 in the first half. Nate Thurmond tossed in 20.

Stein Wins All-American Mention

Drake High School graduate Karl Stein of San Anselmo, who set a Big Sky Conference record with 11 pass interceptions in 10 games for undefeated University of Montana Grizzlies, has won honorable mention on the Little All-America football squad selected today by the Associated Press.

Stein was an All-Marin County Athletic League end at Drake and later starred for two seasons at College of Marin until he transferred to Montana this year. He was an all-conference selection at Marin in 1967 and 1968.

He is a junior at Montana, majoring in art.

49ers Working On Defense

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers concentrated on offense yesterday in preparation for Saturday's National Football League contest against the Chicago Bears.

Coach Dick Nolan noted that the Bears, only 1-10 for the season, are third in the NFL on defense.

Strong safety Mel Phillips ran a little on his sprained right knee but remained a doubtful starter against the Bears.

Phillips' place on the 49er defensive team will be taken by Alvin Randolph if the knee still hurts Friday, Nolan said.

New Marin Sport Event Calls For Many Talents

By GARY TISCHLER

Water Polo is apparently here to stay in the Marin County Athletic League.

True, it may never draw 5,000 screaming, or gurgling fans per match, nor will it get a foolhardy kid a fat bonus from panting scouts, but it is as much a part of the league as everything from soccer to football.

Part of the essential problems of the sport is of course that nobody seems to know quite what it is. Or care, at least not yet. It has no lasting legends to recall, no records one can recite by a stove, no pictures of flashy-teethed heroes hanging on the wall. The only name with any kind of durability in the sport's rather long (circa 1870) history is a fellow listed as M. Pauliquen, a Parisian who holds the honor of being the waterlogged fellow who remained underwater, against his will, for six minutes, 29 and four-fifths seconds, which puts him right in a class with Wrong-Way Corrigan.

NO JOKE

Yet, here is the sport, being played by novices in a high school league, out of season, weather-wise. It is easy enough to say that it's all wet, or wonder if you play it with a mallet and a seashorse, but on examination it refuses to be a big joke.

Each sport has its own physical mystique — the last ten yards of a football field, the empty reaches of centerfield, the pressure density around the basket, the panting homestretch of a track or the virginal, green yards off a tee. In water polo, it is strictly water, not placid lake water, but a churning pool that seems to be inhabitated by ravenous piranhas.

IT'S COLD

If you come newly-baked to the sport as a spectator, you don't know quite what to do. Tuesday's MCAL match between Terra Linda and Novato High School, won by Terra Linda, 17-6, was probably not typical of what usually goes on at one of these things, or so people tell me.

It was, first of all, deathly quiet and cold. Not very many people as yet show up for these things. Some pom-pon girls stood around, wringing their hands, looking as if they didn't know whether to yell or throw a life raft.

There are the players themselves, in their lean swimming trunks and goose bumps, their protective hats that look like a misplaced bikini, seven players on each side standing in the shallow ends of the pool by the goal. Two referees are there with blue and white flags to designate fouls and ball possession. A scattering of fans and Redwood team members ar here to watch future opponents.

FIVE THINGS

Bill Purcell, the youngish coach of the Redwood team, whose Giants stood heads above everyone else last year, says that it takes five things to make a good water polo player: endurance, agility, swimming ability, ball handling and sheer strength.

It seems to be one of the few sports that require a multitude of talents. Swimming alone will not get you by. You need the gut of a linebacker, the touch of Oscar Robertson and super lungs. And, what it comes down to, is a lot of heart.

There are four periods of action, and there is no place to hide, no time outs for orange juice, no way to crawl into a dark corner to take a deep breath.

UNDER WATER

Like football, the game has an air of subdued violence about it, but you never quite notice it. Most of the mayhem goes on under water. Anyone that has a fixation about not letting other people play with the ball is likely to drown and become a human Tresher. The man with the ball is fair game for just about anything.

Yet, there is, when it's done right, a beautiful flow to the game, like salmon going upstream in unison. A water version of a fast break is nice to watch, sharks converging on the net, the goalie standing there like the last man at Little Big Horn

San Rafael A Threat For Basketball Title

(Eighth in a series on Marin County high school basketball prospects.)

Everybody's pointing the finger at San Rafael High School's basketball team.

The Bulldogs, according to some coaches, stand to be the team with the best chance to give Redwood a run for its money in the Marin County Athletic League race.

San Rafael was one of four teams in a hot race for the crown last year, and the Bulldogs were the only team to beat the Giants, in the league opener. They have several people, but not the height, off that team coming back.

Potentially, they have one of the finest shooters and scorers in the league back in Bruce Nave, a starter last year who's already proved in a pair of games that he's ready to do the job this year. He's hit for 59 points in two games so far.

Also returning is Lowell Widmer, who is small, but steady, a good defensive player and a quick guard.

There's also Bruce D'Ambra, a natural basketball player and good forward, who is still out from a football injury, but is expected back by the time league competition starts in January.

Some of the newcomers who are going tao have to help are Tony Nathe, Allan Rossi and Chris Bonner.

Six-foot-six Don Duryee will probably provide the missing rebound link which the Bulldogs lost with the graduation of Phil Sleezer, Roger Thomas and Ray Taylor. Duryee grabbed 20 rebounds in a 52-50 win over Galileo of San Francisco, Friday.

Brett Tovani, the junior varsity coach is currently coaching the varsity, too, until Mike Diaz recovers from injuries suffered in a car accident.

Pilots, Nats Swap Hurlers; Lanier's Dad A Manager

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Seattle Pilots and Washington Senators exchanged pitchers today with left-handed George Brunet going to the Senators for right-hander Dave Baldwin.

Burnet, who split the 1969 season between California and Seattle had an 8-12 won-lost record and a 4.45 earned run average. He is 34 years old and has been in the majors, on and off, since 1956.

Baldwin, 31, had a 2-4 record in 43 games with the Seantors and a 4.03 earned run mark as a relief specialist.

MAX LANIER, former major league pitcher, was named yesterday manager of Detroit's farm club at Rocky Mount, N.C. in the Class A Carolina League.

Lanier, father of Hal Lanier, the San Francisco Giants' shortstop, managed in the Giants' organization briefly but has been out of baseball because of a heart condition since June, 1968.

"He gives us what we needed most without disturbing the balance of the club," said Mets skipper Gil Hodges. "We got him to play third base, but he can play other positions, like shortstop and outfield, too."

Otis, 22, was considered the Mets' center fielder of the future before the start of last season. A multi-player trade with Atlanta for Joe Torre was killed when New York General Manager Johnny Murphy declared Otis an "untouchable."

But Tommie Agee nailed down the center field spot with a remarkable comeback, boosting his average to .271—54 points over the previous year—and the "untouchable" became expendable.

"We weren't too sure of Agee last year at this time, but I think he proved himself," Murphy explained. "Trading Otis now isn't the kind of gamble it would have been then."

Otis batted .325 in 78 games with the Mets' Tidewater farm in the International League but just .151 in 48 with the parent club. Johnson, a 26-year-old right-hander, had a combined 13-5 record with Tidewater and Memphis. He made two late-season appearances for the Mets without a decision.

Another Heavyweight Champion To Emerge

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The head of the new North American Boxing Federation says Saturday's Sonny Liston-Leotis Martin fight "might provide the platform to clear up the muddled heavyweight situation."

Bill Houston of Oakland, president of the NABF and chairman of the California Athletic Commission, made the comment yesterday in announcing the federation would recognize the winner of the fight as the North American Heavyweight champion.

STATES

The states aligned with the recently formed NABF are California, Nevada, Arizona, Washington, Illinois, Missouri, West Virginia and Kentucky. The Mexican Boxing Federation is a member and there is an associate membership in Hawaii.

An NABF spokesman said the idea will be to determine North American champions who should then be able to fight champions of other major areas such as Europe and the Orient, to arrive at a true world champion.

The decision to grant recognition to the winner of the Liston-Martin fight doesn't actually further confuse the already fuzzy heavyweight title situation as might initially seem.

ONE FOR TERRA LINDA — Terra Linda High School's Pat Ellington, hidden behind a spout of water, socks it to Novato High School goalie Gary Nyholm as he scores for the Trojans in a Marin County Athletic League water polo match.

Prep Water Polo Here To Stay

New Marin Sport Event Calls For Many Talents

By GARY TISCHLER

Water Polo is apparently here to stay in the Marin County Athletic League.

True, it may never draw 5,000 screaming, or gurgling fans per match, nor will it get a foolhardy kid a fat bonus from panting scouts, but it is as much a part of the league as everything from soccer to football.

Part of the essential problems of the sport is of course that nobody seems to know quite what it is. Or care, at least not yet. It has no lasting legends to recall, no records one can recite by a stove, no pictures of flashy-teethed heroes hanging on the wall. The only name with any kind of durability in the sport's rather long (circa 1870) history is a fellow listed as M. Pauliquen, a Parisian who holds the honor of being the waterlogged fellow who remained underwater, against his will, for six minutes, 29 and four-fifths seconds, which puts him right in a class with Wrong-Way Corrigan.

NO JOKE

Yet, here is the sport, being played by novices in a high school league, out of season, weather-wise. It is easy enough to say that it's all wet, or wonder if you play it with a mallet and a seashorse, but on examination it refuses to be a big joke.

Each sport has its own physical mystique — the last ten yards of a football field, the empty reaches of centerfield, the pressure density around the basket, the panting homestretch of a track or the virginal, green yards off a tee. In water polo, it is strictly water, not placid lake water, but a churning pool that seems to be inhabitated by ravenous piranhas.

IT'S COLD

If you come newly-baked to the sport as a spectator, you don't know quite what to do. Tuesday's MCAL match between Terra Linda and Novato High School, won by Terra Linda, 17-6, was probably not typical of what usually goes on at one of these things, or so people tell me.

It was, first of all, deathly quiet and cold. Not very many people as yet show up for these things. Some pom-pon girls stood around, wringing their hands, looking as if they didn't know whether to yell or throw a life raft.

There are the players themselves, in their lean swimming trunks and goose bumps, their protective hats that look like a misplaced bikini, seven players on each side standing in the shallow ends of the pool by the goal. Two referees are there with blue and white flags to designate fouls and ball possession. A scattering of fans and Redwood team members ar here to watch future opponents.

FIVE THINGS

Bill Purcell, the youngish coach of the Redwood team, whose Giants stood heads above everyone else last year, says that it takes five things to make a good water polo player: endurance, agility, swimming ability, ball handling and sheer strength.

It seems to be one of the few sports that require a multitude of talents. Swimming alone will not get you by. You need the gut of a linebacker, the touch of Oscar Robertson and super lungs. And, what it comes down to, is a lot of heart.

There are four periods of action, and there is no place to hide, no time outs for orange juice, no way to crawl into a dark corner to take a deep breath.

UNDER WATER

Like football, the game has an air of subdued violence about it, but you never quite notice it. Most of the mayhem goes on under water. Anyone that has a fixation about not letting other people play with the ball is likely to drown and become a human Tresher. The man with the ball is fair game for just about anything.

Yet, there is, when it's done right, a beautiful flow to the game, like salmon going upstream in unison. A water version of a fast break is nice to watch, sharks converging on the net, the goalie standing there like the last man at Little Big Horn

San Rafael A Threat For Basketball Title

(Eighth in a series on Marin County high school basketball prospects.)

Everybody's pointing the finger at San Rafael High School's basketball team.

The Bulldogs, according to some coaches, stand to be the team with the best chance to give Redwood a run for its money in the Marin County Athletic League race.

San Rafael was one of four teams in a hot race for the crown last year, and the Bulldogs were the only team to beat the Giants, in the league opener. They have several people, but not the height, off that team coming back.

Potentially, they have one of the finest shooters and scorers in the league back in Bruce Nave, a starter last year who's already proved in a pair of games that he's ready to do the job this year. He's hit for 59 points in two games so far.

Also returning is Lowell Widmer, who is small, but steady, a good defensive player and a quick guard.

There's also Bruce D'Ambra, a natural basketball player and good forward, who is still out from a football injury, but is expected back by the time league competition starts in January.

Some of the newcomers who are going tao have to help are Tony Nathe, Allan Rossi and Chris Bonner.

Six-foot-six Don Duryee will probably provide the missing rebound link which the Bulldogs lost with the graduation of Phil Sleezer, Roger Thomas and Ray Taylor. Duryee grabbed 20 rebounds in a 52-50 win over Galileo of San Francisco, Friday.

Brett Tovani, the junior varsity coach is currently coaching the varsity, too, until Mike Diaz recovers from injuries suffered in a car accident.

Pilots, Nats Swap Hurlers; Lanier's Dad A Manager

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Seattle Pilots and Washington Senators exchanged pitchers today with left-handed George Brunet going to the Senators for right-hander Dave Baldwin.

Burnet, who split the 1969 season between California and Seattle had an 8-12 won-lost record and a 4.45 earned run average. He is 34 years old and has been in the majors, on and off, since 1956.

Baldwin, 31, had a 2-4 record in 43 games with the Seantors and a 4.03 earned run mark as a relief specialist.

MAX LANIER, former major league pitcher, was named yesterday manager of Detroit's farm club at Rocky Mount, N.C. in the Class A Carolina League.

Lanier, father of Hal Lanier, the San Francisco Giants' shortstop, managed in the Giants' organization briefly but has been out of baseball because of a heart condition since June, 1968.

"He gives us what we needed most without disturbing the balance of the club," said Mets skipper Gil Hodges. "We got him to play third base, but he can play other positions, like shortstop and outfield, too."

Otis, 22, was considered the Mets' center fielder of the future before the start of last season. A multi-player trade with Atlanta for Joe Torre was killed when New York General Manager Johnny Murphy declared Otis an "untouchable."

But Tommie Agee nailed down the center field spot with a remarkable comeback, boosting his average to .271—54 points over the previous year—and the "untouchable" became expendable.

"We weren't too sure of Agee last year at this time, but I think he proved himself," Murphy explained. "Trading Otis now isn't the kind of gamble it would have been then."

Otis batted .325 in 78 games with the Mets' Tidewater farm in the International League but just .151 in 48 with the parent club. Johnson, a 26-year-old right-hander, had a combined 13-5 record with Tidewater and Memphis. He made two late-season appearances for the Mets without a decision.

Another Heavyweight Champion To Emerge

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The head of the new North American Boxing Federation says Saturday's Sonny Liston-Leotis Martin fight "might provide the platform to clear up the muddled heavyweight situation."

Bill Houston of Oakland, president of the NABF and chairman of the California Athletic Commission, made the comment yesterday in announcing the federation would recognize the winner of the fight as the North American Heavyweight champion.

STATES

The states aligned with the recently formed NABF are California, Nevada, Arizona, Washington, Illinois, Missouri, West Virginia and Kentucky. The Mexican Boxing Federation is a member and there is an associate membership in Hawaii.

An NABF spokesman said the idea will be to determine North American champions who should then be able to fight champions of other major areas such as Europe and the Orient, to arrive at a true world champion.

The decision to grant recognition to the winner of the Liston-Martin fight doesn't actually further confuse the already fuzzy heavyweight title situation as might initially seem.

ELLIS

At present, Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., is recognized by the World Boxing Association as the champion. But several states and some foreign commissions consider Joe Frazier of Philadelphia to be the champ.

"We want to emphasize that this is a recognition of the North American continent champion only, not the world championship," said Houston, explaining the decision followed a poll of the championship and executive committees and the general membership.

"The grace period for Ellis to defend his WBA title against the No. 1 contender has long expired, and Joe Frazier, we are told, is anxious to clear up the picture," Houston said.

CONTINENT

"So perhaps all parties and participants involved will use the NABF as a means of truly determining the best heavyweight boxer, at least on the North American continent, and subsequent world title."

Houston said the NABF had planned "to publish out initial ratings in the first quarter of 1970. But everyone was in agreement that we had to start somewhere and, with Liston and Martin both highly ranked by all other federations and associations, this recognition would be favorably received."

Notre Dame has beaten Army's football team 27 times while losing only eight times. Four games ended in ties.

Outfielder Rick Reichartdt led the California Angeles in driving in runs last season with 68. He also led the team in homers with 13.

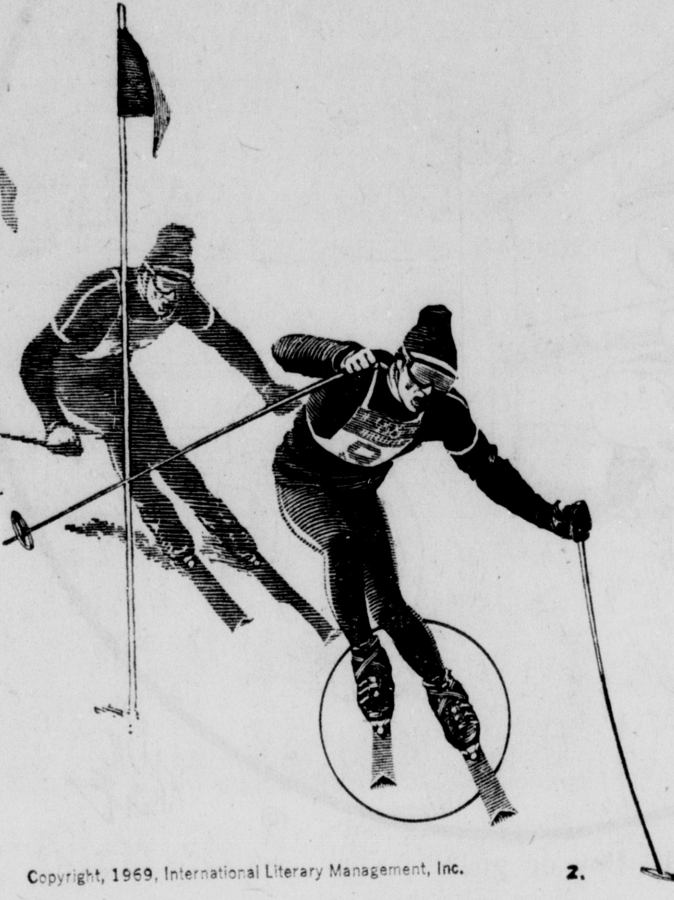
JEAN-CLAUDE KILLY

Be Sure Bindings Work; Your Safety Is At Stake



Copyright, 1969, International Literary Management, Inc. 2.

These days, there is no excuse for anyone to ski without using reliable release bindings; there are so many good ones available. Some people call these safety bindings, but they are not necessarily safe. If they are not adjusted properly, they can release inadvertently — when you don't expect it — and you can be hurt.

Very early in my racing career, I learned to check my bindings very closely and regularly. I had had the misfortune not to be able to finish races because my bindings released when they shouldn't have. Tremendous twisting forces are involved in making a fast, precise slalom turn.

TWIST

In today's illustration, you can see how my whole body is beginning to twist to my left, while my skis are still turning to my right. If my bindings were not adjusted properly, I could twist out of them, fall and, at the very least, lose the race!

Train yourself to check your bindings regularly — ideally, every time you put on your skis. Otherwise, at least check them before each day of skiing. Check for equal right and left release. If the toe unit of your binding is mounted crooked by as little as 1/16 of an inch, or if the notches on your boot are not equal, the bindings will not release equally to the left and to the right. You'll come out too easily on one side and, thinking they're set too loose, you'll tighten up on the adjustment screw. This may make release to the other side impossible. You're in for trouble!

CHECKED

And coming out of a binding when you don't want to can be almost as dangerous. In fact, do yourself a favor — have your bindings checked by a simple machine which is carried by most shops which seriously specialize in skiing equipment.

Yankees Promote Nine Youngsters

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees have added nine farm club prospects to their 40-man roster which will report to Manager Ralph Houk at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., next spring.

One of the newcomers is Larry Gowell of Auburn, Me., who last season led the Florida State League with 16 victories and 217 strikeouts in 198 innings.

Proficiency Ski Tests Offered To The Public

Far West Ski Association has set a goal of giving 35,000 proficiency ski tests to the public this season, according to Col. Fraser E. West, San Francisco business executive and chairman of the FWSA Proficiency Ski Program.

The program, according to West, is open to all skiers — novice to expert — regardless of affiliation. This year for the first time membership in the Far West Ski Association is not required to take any of the tests.

Skiers passing any of the tests are eligible for red, white and blue enamel shield pins which are worn on ski sweaters or parkas and denotes skiing ability. All tests are conducted and administered by professional certified ski instructors.

Further details on the proficiency program, or where tests are given, may be obtained by writing or telephoning the Far West Ski Association, 812 Howard Street, San Francisco, 94104.

SKIERS are having a rough time trying to find some snow this year. Normally Thanksgiving weekend is the start of ski season in Northern California, but it's different this year.

"We've had Palm Springs weather for the last four or five days," complains Jim Perkins, manager of the Squaw Valley Inn west of Lake Tahoe.

But Ski Incline resort manager Wes Howell is not as optimistic. "Generally, Thanksgiving is more wishful thinking than skiing," he contends.

In the 1934 Rose Bowl game Columbia turned in one of the biggest upsets in the classic by beating Stanford 7-0 on a touchdown by Al Barabas.

In other games Boston whipped Baltimore 113-105, San Diego bombed Chicago 146-131 and Detroit squeezed past San Francisco, 106-102.

ABA SCORES

In the American Basketball Association Kentucky beat Dallas 123-109, Indiana stopped Miami, 126-117, Washington topped Denver 99-87 and New York tripped Los Angeles 108-97.

Robertson, who has now scored 20,881 career NBA points, moved ahead of Bob Petit, former St. Louis Hawks star on the all-time list. Petit had 20,880 points. Wilt Chamberlain and Los Angeles teammate Elgin Baylor remain 1-2 on the list.

The Big O led a futile final period charge as the Royals gained a 112-112 tie with Robertson hitting for eight points. But a pair of free throws by Seattle's Bob Boozer gave the Sonics a 118-115 lead and a basket at the buzzer by Tom Van Arsdale was not enough.

HANG ON

Boston got 31 points from Larry Siegfried and 27 from John Havlicek as the Celtics opened up an 18-point lead before intermission and hung on for their victory. Gus Johnson led the Bullets with 26 points.

Don Kojis exploded for 40 points and the Rockets ran away from Chicago in the second half. Kojis hit on 17 of 19 shots from the field. Elvin Hayes added 30 more for the Rockets while Clem Haskins had 26 for the Bulls.

Explosive Offense For West All-Stars

Perfect passing and running balance in a million dollar backfield should make the West a top heavy favorite over the East in the 45th East-West Shrine charity classic Dec. 27 at Stanford Stadium.

Imagine having not one but two superb quarterbacks like San Diego State's Dennis Shaw and North Texas State's Steve Ramsey. Together, Shaw and Ramsey have passed for 5,716 yards and 70 touchdowns this season.

THAT SOUNDS incredible but the statistics are there in the record books. Shaw's passing yardage was 3,124, including 45 TDs, nine in one game for a National Collegiate Athletic Association record. Ramsey passed for 2,637 yards and 25 TDs.

Oklahoma's Steve Owens, winner of the Heisman Trophy, Colorado's Bob Anderson, UCLA's Greg Jones, Stanford's Bubba Brown, California's Gary Fowler and Arizona State's Art Malone will provide the running balance for the West's passing game.

IDAHO'S JERRY Hendren, who caught 95 passes for 12 touchdowns and a NCAA record this year, and UCLA's George Farmer who also is a fine pass catcher, will be primary receivers for Shaw and Ramsey.

Before the week is out the full West team should be announced but the way it now is shaping up it could be the best to represent the West in many years.

Owens, of course, is the big muscle man in the West backfield. During his three seasons at Oklahoma Owens set five NCAA records, eight Big Eight Conference records and 15 school marks. In 905 carries over the three year span he amassed 3,867 yards and 56 touchdowns. He wound up his collegiate career like the champ he is, carrying 55 times for 261 yards and two touchdowns against Oklahoma State last week.

ANDERSON AND Jones are a couple of capable ball carriers themselves. Jones piled up 761 yards this season for UCLA, plus 10 touchdowns. Anderson's contribution to Colorado's success was approximately 1,000 yards and 17 touchdowns.

While Farmer's pass receiving for UCLA did not approach Hendren's spectacular performance for Idaho, Farmer caught 36 passes for 651 yards and four touchdowns.

With such passing, running and receiving talent, the West should put on a spectacular show.

ANNOUNCING THE
BRIDGESTONE SUPER SPEED RADIAL
Designed to give your car a smoother, more quiet ride!!
PLUS MUCH MORE MILEAGE GUARANTEED TO WEAR 30,000 MILES
The greatest quality we have ever seen short of the MICHELIN X—far better tread wear than GLASS BELTED—and far better performance.
HERE'S WHY:
Tires get their treadwear from the sturdiness of their casing (most people think it's from the rubber and they are wrong). Radials get far greater mileage yet — by further wrapping the casing under the tread and around the tire — making the tire sturdier yet. It's at THIS POINT the great wear is separated from the SO-SO wear — the Polyglas and Fiberglas belted tires wear SO-SO to BAD because there is no thickness to their belting. This is why the MICHELIN X RADIAL TIRE wears so long and performs so well—'cause it's belted with 3 thick belts of STEEL. BRIDGESTONE RADIALS will outwear all competition save MICHELIN because for domestic cars its tread has 6 plies wrapped around to give great tread stability and sturdiness. That's why BRIDGESTONE then will wear so well — and folks it's as simple as that — Tread Stabilbity — long wear. The more you are able to squeeze the tread of a tire together with your hands the less tread wear you are going to get. We at CAIN'S would love to have you squeeze our tires.

JEAN-CLAUDE KILLY

Be Sure Bindings Work; Your Safety Is At Stake

These days, there is no excuse for anyone to ski without using reliable release bindings; there are so many good ones available. Some people call these safety bindings, but they are not necessarily safe. If they are not adjusted properly, they can release inadvertently — when you don't expect it — and you can be hurt.

Very early in my racing career, I learned to check my bindings very closely and regularly. I had had the misfortune not to be able to finish races because my bindings released when they shouldn't have. Tremendous twisting forces are involved in making a fast, precise slalom turn.

TWIST

In today's illustration, you can see how my whole body is beginning to twist to my left, while my skis are still turning to my right. If my bindings were not adjusted properly, I could twist out of them, fall and, at the very least, lose the race!

Train yourself to check your bindings regularly — ideally, every time you put on your skis. Otherwise, at least check them before each day of skiing. Check for equal right and left release. If the toe unit of your binding is mounted crooked by as little as 1/16 of an inch, or if the notches on your boot are not equal, the bindings will not release equally to the left and to the right. You'll come out too easily on one side and, thinking they're set too loose, you'll tighten up on the adjustment screw. This may make release to the other side impossible. You're in for trouble!

CHECKED

And coming out of a binding when you don't want to can be almost as dangerous. In fact, do yourself a favor — have your bindings checked by a simple machine which is carried by most shops which seriously specialize in skiing equipment.

Proficiency Ski Tests Offered To The Public

Far West Ski Association has set a goal of giving 35,000 proficiency ski tests to the public this season, according to Col. Fraser E. West, San Francisco business executive and chairman of the FWSA Proficiency Ski Program.

The program, according to West, is open to all skiers — novice to expert — regardless of affiliation. This year for the first time membership in the Far West Ski Association is not required to take any of the tests.

Skiers passing any of the tests are eligible for red, white and blue enamel shield pins which are worn on ski sweaters or parkas and denotes skiing ability. All tests are conducted and administered by professional certified ski instructors.

Further details on the proficiency program, or where tests are given, may be obtained by writing or telephoning the Far West Ski Association, 812 Howard Street, San Francisco, 94104.

SKIERS are having a rough time trying to find some snow this year. Normally Thanksgiving weekend is the start of ski season in Northern California, but it's different this year.

"We've had Palm Springs weather for the last four or five days," complains Jim Perkins, manager of the Squaw Valley Inn west of Lake Tahoe.

But Ski Incline resort manager Wes Howell is not as optimistic. "Generally, Thanksgiving is more wishful thinking than skiing," he contends.

In the 1934 Rose Bowl game Columbia turned in one of the biggest upsets in the classic by beating Stanford 7-0 on a touchdown by Al Barabas.

Yankees Promote Nine Youngsters

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees have added nine farm club prospects to their 40-man roster which will report to Manager Ralph Houk at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., next spring.

One of the newcomers is Larry Gowell of Auburn, Me., who last season led the Florida State League with 16 victories and 217 strikeouts in 198 innings.

Radials get far greater mileage yet — by further wrapping the casing under the tread and around the tire — making the tire sturdier yet. It's at THIS POINT the great wear is separated from the SO-SO wear — the Polyglas and Fiberglas belted tires wear SO-SO to BAD because there is no thickness to their belting. This is why the MICHELIN X RADIAL TIRE wears so long and performs so well—'cause it's belted with 3 thick belts of STEEL. BRIDGESTONE RADIALS will outwear all competition save MICHELIN because for domestic cars its tread has 6 plies wrapped around to give great tread stability and sturdiness. That's why BRIDGESTONE then will wear so well — and folks it's as simple as that — Tread Stabilbity — long wear. The more you are able to squeeze the tread of a tire together with your hands the less tread wear you are going to get. We at CAIN'S would love to have you squeeze our tires.

HOW TO PLAY BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When Using Compound Finesse You First Lose Preliminary One

In the ordinary finesse you play a card that will either win or lose, depending on whether or not a missing high card is in favorable position.

In a more advanced kind of finesse, sometimes called a "compound" finesse, you begin by losing a preliminary finesse. Later on, if luck is with you, there will be time to try an ordinary finesse that is made possible by your earlier play.

The compound finesse is illustrated in the play of the clubs of today's hand.

Opening lead — ♡ K

West leads the king of hearts, and East overtakes with the ace and returns a heart to the jack. West continues with a third heart, and South ruffs.

South can easily win all the spades and diamonds, but he must limit the loss in clubs to one trick.

NORMAL PLAY

The normal play would be to lead a club to dummy's ace and return a club to the queen, but South knows that this plan will not work: West is sure to have the king of clubs to bolster up his sketchy overcall of two hearts.

The situation is hopeless if West has three or more clubs headed by the king.

South must hope that West has the singleton or doubleton king of clubs. It is not enough, however, to lead the ace of clubs and then play low clubs from both hands to let West take the king.

East would still get a club trick with the jack or 10. South can solve the problem by means of a compound finesse.

DRAWS TRUMPS

South draws trumps and leads a low club from his hand.

When West plays low, declarer tries a finesse with dummy's eight of clubs.

This preliminary finesse loses to the 10, and back comes a diamond to the ace. South leads another low club, capturing West's king.

The lead is now in dummy, and a club return allows South to finesse with the Q-9 behind East's jack.

South makes his contract likewise if West has K-J or K-10 of clubs, by allowing West to win the first club trick with the jack or 10.

South then leads a club to the ace and is in position to finesse through East.

If West has the singleton king of clubs, dummy's ace captures it; and a low club return from dummy then limits East to one club trick.

Today is Thursday, Dec. 4, the 338th day of 1969 with 27 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1918, President Woodrow Wilson sailed for France to attend the peace conference at Versailles.

In 1942, President Franklin Roosevelt ordered the liquidation of the Works Progress Administration, created in 1935 to provide work for the unemployed.

In 1946, the United Mine Workers of America was fined $3.5 million for refusing to call off a 17-day strike.

In 1965, America's Gemini 7 spaceship was hurled into orbit on a successful 14-day voyage around the earth. On Dec. 15, Gemini 7 and Gemini 6 made their historic rendezvous in space and orbited the earth only yards apart.

A thought for the day: President George Washington said, "There can be no greater error than to expect or calculate upon favors from nation to nation."

Red Cross Workers To Fly To Hawaii

A Red Cross worker from Mill Valley is scheduled to fly to Honolulu tomorrow to aid the Hawaii Red Cross Chapter in assistance to families who suffered losses when giant waves battered Oahu Island Tuesday.

Evelyn Maley of 508 Andrea Lane, deputy director of disaster services for the Red Cross western area, and Stanley Young of Walnut Creek, a building adviser, will make the trip, the Red Cross reported yesterday.

INVESTING

Record Level Bond Yields Continuing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 69, retired and would like to invest $5,000 in good bonds. How are they purchased and at what cost? How long must they be held? — C. O.

A. Bonds can be purchased through your broker's bond department. In buying small amounts there is usually a fee of $5-$10 per bond. As to the duration of this type of commitment, it varies, depending on the maturity date. Although bonds are traded on the open market, if interest rates continue to soar, you could realize a capital loss by selling prior to maturity. For that reason, short-term bonds — under 10 years — are better suited to your needs.

Household Finance 8¾'s of 1975 are selling at a premium to yield about 8.5 per cent. This single A-rated issue would fit your situation. Another possibility would be six and nine-month agency notes recently issued by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank and Banks for Co-Operatives, both bearing 8.45 per cent interest rates. Purchase of these $5,000 notes could be arranged through a local Federal Reserve System Bank.

Q. I expect to have some additional money for investment. My portfolio consists of American Telephone, General Telephone, General Electric, New England Electric, Texaco and Union Carbide. Should I add to these holdings or purchase something else? At my age — in my 70s — I am more interested in safety and yield than in growth. — D. C.

A. Developments in three of your holdings have created attractive buying opportunities. The reduction in Telephone's long-distance rates, which at first glance appears negative, will probably result, as it did in late 1967, in an increase in toll use. In 1968 toll revenues were up 10 per cent.

Closing Rally Cuts Wall Street Losses

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock market averages finished mixed today as a result of a strong comeback late in the session. Trading was brisk.

Of the 1,624 issues crossing the tape, 744 declined and 617 advanced.

A turnover of around 13 million shares was running ahead of yesterday's pace.

Analysts said much of the initial selling was a further reaction to the fall through 800, long regarded as a key support area.

Newton Zinder, analyst for the E.F. Hutton brokerage, said yesterday's slide in the Dow Jones Index was a psychological blow to many investors, but he felt the market was deeply oversold and due for a snapback soon.

Among the day's most active issues were Ryder System, which expected a 20 per cent rise in per share earnings in 1970, Engelhard Minerals, American Telephone, Hammond Corp. Texaco, and Polaroid.

AT&T closed at 50-3-8 off 1-8, and Texaco was unchanged at 28 3-4.

Electronics, broadly lower early in the session, ranged to more than 2 points higher, while oils also showed scattered strength. IBM gained 1 7-8, closing at 357, and Xerox was up 1-2 to 106 1-2.

Ross Department Store To Have A Branch In Novato

A new department store will open in Novato about the middle of next year.

Hoytt Enterprises, developer of the Downtown Novato Shopping Center on Grant Avenue, has negotiated with Ross Department Stores of San Bruno to occupy a new one-story and mezzanine building with over 20,000 square feet, designed by Hammarberg and Herman of Oakland.

Gerald Hoytt said plans for the building are nearly completed and construction should get under way in a few weeks. He set late spring as the time for completion, but William Isaacson, head of Ross Department Stores believes there will not be an opening before mid-summer. The Novato store will employ 30 to 40 people.

Ross specializes in men's, women's and children's clothing and in San Bruno maintains establishments on each side of San Mateo Avenue. Another store is located in the Linda Mar Shopping Center, Pacifica. The firm has been in business about 11 years.

JARO R. STEPHAN of Corte Madera will be manager of the new W. and J. Sloane store in the Northgate Mall when this store opens sometime in January.

A Marin resident for the past seven years, he has held the positions of director of the design studio at Sloane's San Francisco store and manager of the Walnut Creek store. In addition to managing the new Northgate store he will also hold the post of interior design director.

INVESTING

Record Level Bond Yields Continuing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 69, retired and would like to invest $5,000 in good bonds. How are they purchased and at what cost? How long must they be held? — C. O.

A. Bonds can be purchased through your broker's bond department. In buying small amounts there is usually a fee of $5-$10 per bond. As to the duration of this type of commitment, it varies, depending on the maturity date. Although bonds are traded on the open market, if interest rates continue to soar, you could realize a capital loss by selling prior to maturity. For that reason, short-term bonds — under 10 years — are better suited to your needs.

Household Finance 8¾'s of 1975 are selling at a premium to yield about 8.5 per cent. This single A-rated issue would fit your situation. Another possibility would be six and nine-month agency notes recently issued by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank and Banks for Co-Operatives, both bearing 8.45 per cent interest rates. Purchase of these $5,000 notes could be arranged through a local Federal Reserve System Bank.

Q. I expect to have some additional money for investment. My portfolio consists of American Telephone, General Telephone, General Electric, New England Electric, Texaco and Union Carbide. Should I add to these holdings or purchase something else? At my age — in my 70s — I am more interested in safety and yield than in growth. — D. C.

A. Developments in three of your holdings have created attractive buying opportunities. The reduction in Telephone's long-distance rates, which at first glance appears negative, will probably result, as it did in late 1967, in an increase in toll use. In 1968 toll revenues were up 10 per cent.

Closing Rally Cuts Wall Street Losses

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock market averages finished mixed today as a result of a strong comeback late in the session. Trading was brisk.

Of the 1,624 issues crossing the tape, 744 declined and 617 advanced.

A turnover of around 13 million shares was running ahead of yesterday's pace.

Analysts said much of the initial selling was a further reaction to the fall through 800, long regarded as a key support area.

Newton Zinder, analyst for the E.F. Hutton brokerage, said yesterday's slide in the Dow Jones Index was a psychological blow to many investors, but he felt the market was deeply oversold and due for a snapback soon.

Among the day's most active issues were Ryder System, which expected a 20 per cent rise in per share earnings in 1970, Engelhard Minerals, American Telephone, Hammond Corp. Texaco, and Polaroid.

AT&T closed at 50-3-8 off 1-8, and Texaco was unchanged at 28 3-4.

Electronics, broadly lower early in the session, ranged to more than 2 points higher, while oils also showed scattered strength. IBM gained 1 7-8, closing at 357, and Xerox was up 1-2 to 106 1-2.

Ross Department Store To Have A Branch In Novato

A new department store will open in Novato about the middle of next year.

Hoytt Enterprises, developer of the Downtown Novato Shopping Center on Grant Avenue, has negotiated with Ross Department Stores of San Bruno to occupy a new one-story and mezzanine building with over 20,000 square feet, designed by Hammarberg and Herman of Oakland.

Gerald Hoytt said plans for the building are nearly completed and construction should get under way in a few weeks. He set late spring as the time for completion, but William Isaacson, head of Ross Department Stores believes there will not be an opening before mid-summer. The Novato store will employ 30 to 40 people.

Ross specializes in men's, women's and children's clothing and in San Bruno maintains establishments on each side of San Mateo Avenue. Another store is located in the Linda Mar Shopping Center, Pacifica. The firm has been in business about 11 years.

JARO R. STEPHAN of Corte Madera will be manager of the new W. and J. Sloane store in the Northgate Mall when this store opens sometime in January.

A Marin resident for the past seven years, he has held the positions of director of the design studio at Sloane's San Francisco store and manager of the Walnut Creek store. In addition to managing the new Northgate store he will also hold the post of interior design director.

President Lends Prestige To Special-Interest Bill

There is schizophrenia in the Nixon administration regarding the nation's press.

We do not refer to the criticism of the press by Vice President Agnew. That, we understand, has the full approval of his boss in the White House. And it has been joined by Atty. Gen. John M. Mitchell.

The schizophrenia exists over a bill which would exempt newspaper "joint operations" from the anti-trust laws. The White House, it was disclosed at a House subcommittee hearing, approved the bill. The Justice Department — headed by Attorney General Mitchell — opposes it.

WE AGREE with the Justice Department.

The bill, called the "Newspaper Preservation Act," was introduced as result of an antimonoply suit brought by the Justice Department itself. The suit was brought as a test case against the morning Arizona Star and evening Tucson Citizen in Tucson, Ariz. These newspapers are corporately separate, but jointly own a production company, Tucson Newspapers, Inc., which prints both papers and operates their business and circulation departments. Tucson is one of 22 cities where allegedly competing newspapers have such joint arrangements, San Francisco being another.

The government's suit against the Tucson papers was fought all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, which ruled that the arrangement constituted an illegal combination in restraint of trade and must be broken up.

The "Newspaper Preservation Act" was then introduced to legalize what the Supreme Court had declared illegal, by exempting such arrangements from the anti-trust laws. It has been approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee and by an anti-trust subcommittee of the House. It was before the latter that President Nixon's support was made known.

NEWSPAPERS GUARD jealously the freedom guaranteed them by the Constitution. They are ever watchful against attempts at government control that might stifle free competition or free dissent. It is well that they are.

But newspapers cannot in conscience insist on such freedoms and at the same time seek special legal protection of monopoly in their own ranks. It is blatant hypocrisy for a newspaper to inveigh against government control and against industrial monopoly while seeking legal favoritism to sanction monopoly of the press.

Most of the newspapers in the United States want no part of the "Newspaper Preservation Act." It is being pushed by the owners of the 22 joint-operation companies, all of which may face the same prosecution as did the Tucson newspapers. They have put protection of their own businesses above the ideal of the freedom of the press.

THE BILL would permit such joint operations only where a newspaper "is in probable danger of failure, or appears unlikely to remain or become a financially sound institution."

That makes it no more just. Should similar legislation be enacted in every competitive field, nothing worth mentioning would be left of the anti-trust laws.

It is disheartening to see the President of the United States lending his support to such obviously special-interest legislation.

The Wet And Cloudy Years

A friend of ours who is quite an amateur botanist tells us the past three winters have been unusually wet and unusually cloudy. The result has been that many trees and shrubs in low-lying places have died.

Some have died from fungus diseases of the roots. Others seem to have died from physiological drought, caused when the water around roots becomes quite acid.

Most plants need a brief period of "dry feet." Unlike humans, they don't get colds or pneumonia. But they get just as sick.

Anyone who has lost shrubs or trees in Marin can find solace in the fact he has lots of company.

Who says we haven't integratel our multi-ethnic society? The California Bakery in San Rafael has cookies called "Scandinavian Florentines."

Auto License Time Reveals Helplessness Of Many Citizens

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It seems rather ironic, as well as frustrating, that the state of California spends literally millions of dollars every year on the state's educational system, yet has not as yet educated the citizen sufficiently to handle some of the necessary business of living.

This observation comes from reading a press release issued by Verne Orr, director of the state Department of Motor Vehicles, who faces his annual task of re-registering some 13 million automobiles by Feb. 4, 1970.

REGISTRATION time, he said, "is a time of trouble for countless vehicle owners.

"Tens of thousands of notices will be returned to the department, undeliverable because the vehicle owners have forgotten to notify both the department and the post office where they moved."

The department had notices in the mail at the end of November, thus allowing a two-month period for renewals rather than the one month which has been customary.

BUT THE CHANGES of address are not the only obstacles to carrying out the renewal period with a minimum of confusion.

In spite of a clear warning stating "if you no longer own this vehicle, destroy this card," Orr says thousands of people will pay registration fees for automobiles they no longer own!

And other thousands, he said, will discover they still technically own a vehicle they no longer have because the new owner never reported the purchase to the department.

ORR OFFERED the following advice for recipients of the 1970 renewal statements:

"If you still have the vehicle, but anything on the statement no longer reflects the true situation, such as the owner's name, address, or the identity of license number on the vehicle, bring the statement to the nearest DMV office with all documents to explain the discrepancy, and do this early.

"If you accept the statement as correct, it can be mailed to DMV in Sacramento with your check or bank draft made out in the exact amount of the billing. Better yet, get in the 'express' line at your local DMV office, and walk out with your 1970 sticker, the color of which is a bold orange."

It's a pitiful reflection on our educational system that it cannot prepare young people to handle automobile registrations, which have been under way for more than two generations.

Inaccuracy Laid To Indian Story

I have just read Joan Lisetor's article "Indians Adamant: Alcatraz Is Theirs." It is the worst piece of yellow journalism I have seen in a long time, and reading such one-sided and distorted reporting is to me, worse than having no news at all. In a story rating a red headline, your reporter saw fit to interview irresponsible kids writing slogans on walls, but not to interview: (1) anyone from GSA which controls the island, (2), the Department of the Interior which has designs on the island, (3). the U.S. Coast Guard which provided transportation for U.S. deputy marshalls or (4) the U.S. marshall's office.

Having been personally involved in this breach since the beginning, I can only say that your paper is dreadfully misinformed. While most reporters and supplies went ashore at the dock, in daylight, and with the government's blessing, your reporter preferred to play "Cowboys and Indians" in the middle of the night, climbing ladders taken off of the island's fire truck.

If your reporting in this article, on which I have personal knowledge, is so inaccurate, I can only assume it is in other articles; therefore, please cancel my subscription effective at the end of the current billing period.

College Foundation Efforts Discouraged

Approximately five years ago a group of interested people formed the College of Marin Foundation. We realized that far too many students enrolled at the college were capable of college work, but could not afford some of the basic expenses.

The foundation members desired to assist deserving students, those who were serious and needed a helping hand, not a handout. The handful of dedicated foundation board members have given "untold hours" at early morning meetings and late evening meetings working on ways to raise funds for the worthy students. I can assure the people of Marin County no group has been more dedicated and impartial.

The foundation has a scholarship and loan awards committee, to my knowledge the only such lay committee within the California Junior college system. The funds that are raised by the foundation are awarded to students only after many hours of "serious evaluation"; every application that is received is reviewed and every dollar available is stretched as far as possible.

You can well imagine the many discouraging responses when soliciting such funds. We have literally begged in order to raise the needed money, and that need has been mounting year after year. It is espicially disheartening to find that well-meaning people are willing to penalize the truly deserving students because of a few dissidents. . .

Something Better Than Ferry Needed

As a commuter to San Francisco every day, I feel I must protest the plight of us who must travel to the Big City. Now the commute fares have been raised again, the third time I might add in one year. Greyhound wants out. They say they are not making enough money. (Well, who is? I'm not either!)

When the strike was on, there we were, the faithful, waiting for our buses. You see, most of us prefer the bus to driving, or else we wouldn't be taking it every day. We can nap, read, or just watch the scenery. Plus the expense of driving, not to mention parking, would be too much for some of us. And what about the people who don't own cars? What do they do?

The Tiburon Ferry would not do a lot of us any good, me for one. I don't get off work until 4:45 p.m. According to their schedule I would have to wait until 5:30, and then get into Tiburon at 6:05, get into my car, get out into the traffic and be lucky if I got home by 7 p.m.

If Grehound wants out, as they seem to, there had bettter be something better for the majority of us than the Tiburon Ferry.

Strike Threat Not Over Pay Issue

Our attention is called to your editorial of Nov. 15 re: "Professionals" in the health, education and welfare fields. There is a serious misstatement of fact concerning Marin welfare workers, which we feel must be corrected so as not to mislead your readers as to actual events in negotiating the '69-'70 contract between Social Workers Union, Local 535 and the County of Marin.

You state Marin welfare workers "threatened to strike" and "to leave their charges untended and unassisted until their own pocketbooks were first fattened."

The fact is that strike consideration was based almost wholly on lowering of caseloads — not pay. This writer, as negotiations chairman of the Probation Workers Union chapter, personally knows such as fact, because our chapter voted overwhelmingly to support the Social Workers chapter in their insistence on decent professional caseload standards. It so happens that our chapter's bargaining efforts for months were also concentrated on our No. 1 objective for '69-'70 of reduced caseloads — not pay. . .

To be sure our chapters did emphasize pay in the first contract of '68-'69. We make no apologies whatsoever for this. However, at no time did we ever consider strike on that issue at that time. Entirely contrary to your whole editorial diatribe on "hypocritical" professionals, our strike threat this year was to raise professional standards. By such action we were in fact facing possible loss of pay in the risk of strike!. . .

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A FATHER marched his four children up to the ticket booth of a theater running a big hit picture and asked, "What's the price for the cheapest seats?" "They're all the same," he was told. "Three bucks apiece." "Well, how much for the kids?" he persisted. "No reduction," was the answer. "Three bucks a ticket." "funny," mused the father. "Airlines only charge half fare for children." "Okay," nodded the ticket seller. "Put the kids on a plane!"

A DEMURE miss from Ohio, in New York to win fame and fortune on the stage, accepted a role in one of those all-nude musicals that are causing so much talk these days. Afraid to tell her conservative parents the kind of show in which she was appearing, she salved her conscience by writing them, "The pay isn't sensational, but I'm certainly getting great exposure."

'Bring Us Together' Promise Unfilled As Year Nears End

WASHINGTON — Bring us together. That promise in Richard Nixon's campaign more than any other held out the hope of an interval of good will, or relative quiet and lowered voices after the Johnsonian storm and strife.

The promise, as the end of the first year nears, has not been born out. For reasons of which many are beyond President Nixon's control, the need for a unifying force is greater than it was when he took office in January.

THE REJECTION of the President's nominee to the Supreme Court, Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., was a severe blow to what the President has repeatedly said was his constitutional prerogative. It was a blow, too, to his relationship with a Congress which, for the first time in well over a century, confronted an incoming president with control by the opposing party. The bitter aftertaste will last for a long time both with those in the White House who fought unsuccessfully to put the nomination over and with the Republicans who resisted that pressure and are now under the frowning disapproval of the Nixon team.

While it was a blow, the fate of the Haynsworth nomination seems to this observer to be an opportunity to bind up the wounds and encourage the conviction of national unity. The President can nominate another southerner with a conservative outlook, as he has indicated he will do. Without the shadow of conflict of interest and in the wake of the Haynsworth quarrel, the nominee would almost beyond question be confirmed.

THERE IS, however, a different course which could cool the emotions stirred by the controversy and help to take the court out of the partisan political arena. It has been forgotten that shortly after his inauguration the President, speaking to employees of the State Department, said they should not be surprised if the secretary, William P. Rogers, should become chief justice of the United States, as had happened to three of his predecessors.

Rogers is an eminently qualified lawyer who has repeatedly shown his skill in human relations. His political stance is best described as moderate. Rogers' nomination to fill the vacancy on the court could not be faulted.

That this will happen, it is hardly necessary to add, is most unlikely.

IN THIS FIRST year, the parochialism of the Nixon administration has at times been all too evident.

Whether it is the "southern strategy" and the influence of Sen. Strom Thurmond as a reward for the 87 southern and border state electoral votes that put Mr. Nixon in the White House, the weight is heavily on the side of the South and the West and ideologically in the right wing of the party. This may be sound politics but it is a questionable tactic in bringing us together.

Next year Nelson Rockefeller may run for an unprecedented fourth term as governor of New York. The report from both his friends and his critics is that he is reluctant to devote another four years to the legislature and the squabbles between New York City and upstate Republicans.

As part of the Nixon administration he would move the party nearer the center. His extensive background in foreign policy, defense, and health and welfare would add dimension to a cabinet lacking in luster. Bringing us together is more than rhetoric.

Chaos Prevails In Italian Government And Labor

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Italy, it seems, everybody has been talking but nobody has been listening. The result is continuing chaos on both the political and industrial fronts.

The Christian Democrats rule the country by virtue of a weak minority government which is not expected to stay in power beyond spring. The Christian Democrats, Italy's largest political party, are split into half a dozen factions.

So are the Socialists who participated with the Christian Democrats in Italy's latest experiment with center/left governments until the fall of the coalition last July. The Socialists now officially are split into two parties.

Even the Italian Communists, whose party is the largest outside Communist block nations, are split between the parliamentarians aligned with Moscow and other groups labelled as "Guevarras," pro-Chinese" and "Maoist."

THERE EVEN is an uneasy feeling that a coup is not impossible, either military or civilian and going either to right or left, but, in any case, extremist.

The labor front is just as chaotic.

As November came to a close, 100,000 urban transport workers just had returned to work, when 10's of thousands of striking metal workers snarled Rome traffic with a march through the streets.

It was a peaceful demonstration but in other Italian cities there has been violence.

In Milan a policeman died after being struck by a piece of metal pipe and "law and order" factions clashed with workers and students demanding overthrow of the government.

IN THE FIRST 10 months of 1969, it is estimated that the Italian economy lost more than $1.5 billion as result of strikes of which no end is yet in sight.

The paralyzing strikes have run the full course of Italian industry, from newspapers to the giant Fiat automobile works.

The issues are wages, better housing and an increased workers' share in the country's economy which has been booming ahead at the rate of about 8 per cent per year.

Workers complain that even with raises the gains quickly are wiped out by increases in the costs of such essentials as milk and butter .

IN GENERAL, the workers are demanding a reduction in the work week to 40 hours and wage increases of about 25 per cent, a pattern set in a recent government agreement with employees of the state - owned railroad.

The government also has set aside nearly $2 billion for construction of low-rent housing. But impatient workers, thousands of them imported to the industrial north from the poverty-ridden south, fear they never will see it. Meanwhile, money is flowing from the country out of fear that in the next government, Communists will share the power.

Most of the newspapers in the United States want no part of the "Newspaper Preservation Act." It is being pushed by the owners of the 22 joint-operation companies, all of which may face the same prosecution as did the Tucson newspapers. They have put protection of their own businesses above the ideal of the freedom of the press.

THE BILL would permit such joint operations only where a newspaper "is in probable danger of failure, or appears unlikely to remain or become a financially sound institution."

That makes it no more just. Should similar legislation be enacted in every competitive field, nothing worth mentioning would be left of the anti-trust laws.

It is disheartening to see the President of the United States lending his support to such obviously special-interest legislation.

The Wet And Cloudy Years

A friend of ours who is quite an amateur botanist tells us the past three winters have been unusually wet and unusually cloudy. The result has been that many trees and shrubs in low-lying places have died.

Some have died from fungus diseases of the roots. Others seem to have died from physiological drought, caused when the water around roots becomes quite acid.

Most plants need a brief period of "dry feet." Unlike humans, they don't get colds or pneumonia. But they get just as sick.

Anyone who has lost shrubs or trees in Marin can find solace in the fact he has lots of company.

Who says we haven't integratel our multi-ethnic society? The California Bakery in San Rafael has cookies called "Scandinavian Florentines."

Auto License Time Reveals Helplessness Of Many Citizens

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It seems rather ironic, as well as frustrating, that the state of California spends literally millions of dollars every year on the state's educational system, yet has not as yet educated the citizen sufficiently to handle some of the necessary business of living.

This observation comes from reading a press release issued by Verne Orr, director of the state Department of Motor Vehicles, who faces his annual task of re-registering some 13 million automobiles by Feb. 4, 1970.

REGISTRATION time, he said, "is a time of trouble for countless vehicle owners.

"Tens of thousands of notices will be returned to the department, undeliverable because the vehicle owners have forgotten to notify both the department and the post office where they moved."

The department had notices in the mail at the end of November, thus allowing a two-month period for renewals rather than the one month which has been customary.

BUT THE CHANGES of address are not the only obstacles to carrying out the renewal period with a minimum of confusion.

In spite of a clear warning stating "if you no longer own this vehicle, destroy this card," Orr says thousands of people will pay registration fees for automobiles they no longer own!

And other thousands, he said, will discover they still technically own a vehicle they no longer have because the new owner never reported the purchase to the department.

ORR OFFERED the following advice for recipients of the 1970 renewal statements:

"If you still have the vehicle, but anything on the statement no longer reflects the true situation, such as the owner's name, address, or the identity of license number on the vehicle, bring the statement to the nearest DMV office with all documents to explain the discrepancy, and do this early.

"If you accept the statement as correct, it can be mailed to DMV in Sacramento with your check or bank draft made out in the exact amount of the billing. Better yet, get in the 'express' line at your local DMV office, and walk out with your 1970 sticker, the color of which is a bold orange."

It's a pitiful reflection on our educational system that it cannot prepare young people to handle automobile registrations, which have been under way for more than two generations.

Aunt Connie Alive And Well On Ferry

I would like you to inform Mr. David C. Camp "Readers Say," Nov. 24) that I saw his Aunt Concertina getting on the Tiburon Ferry to San Francisco. She was in high spirits and indicated she intended to use this marvelous means of transportation every day. If I should win the reward for finding Mr. Camp's Auntie he may deliver the six flasher lights and the two red lanterns but not the crank.

Inaccuracy Laid To Indian Story

I have just read Joan Lisetor's article "Indians Adamant: Alcatraz Is Theirs." It is the worst piece of yellow journalism I have seen in a long time, and reading such one-sided and distorted reporting is to me, worse than having no news at all. In a story rating a red headline, your reporter saw fit to interview irresponsible kids writing slogans on walls, but not to interview: (1) anyone from GSA which controls the island, (2), the Department of the Interior which has designs on the island, (3). the U.S. Coast Guard which provided transportation for U.S. deputy marshalls or (4) the U.S. marshall's office.

Having been personally involved in this breach since the beginning, I can only say that your paper is dreadfully misinformed. While most reporters and supplies went ashore at the dock, in daylight, and with the government's blessing, your reporter preferred to play "Cowboys and Indians" in the middle of the night, climbing ladders taken off of the island's fire truck.

If your reporting in this article, on which I have personal knowledge, is so inaccurate, I can only assume it is in other articles; therefore, please cancel my subscription effective at the end of the current billing period.

College Foundation Efforts Discouraged

Approximately five years ago a group of interested people formed the College of Marin Foundation. We realized that far too many students enrolled at the college were capable of college work, but could not afford some of the basic expenses.

The foundation members desired to assist deserving students, those who were serious and needed a helping hand, not a handout. The handful of dedicated foundation board members have given "untold hours" at early morning meetings and late evening meetings working on ways to raise funds for the worthy students. I can assure the people of Marin County no group has been more dedicated and impartial.

The foundation has a scholarship and loan awards committee, to my knowledge the only such lay committee within the California Junior college system. The funds that are raised by the foundation are awarded to students only after many hours of "serious evaluation"; every application that is received is reviewed and every dollar available is stretched as far as possible.

You can well imagine the many discouraging responses when soliciting such funds. We have literally begged in order to raise the needed money, and that need has been mounting year after year. It is espicially disheartening to find that well-meaning people are willing to penalize the truly deserving students because of a few dissidents. . .

Something Better Than Ferry Needed

As a commuter to San Francisco every day, I feel I must protest the plight of us who must travel to the Big City. Now the commute fares have been raised again, the third time I might add in one year. Greyhound wants out. They say they are not making enough money. (Well, who is? I'm not either!)

When the strike was on, there we were, the faithful, waiting for our buses. You see, most of us prefer the bus to driving, or else we wouldn't be taking it every day. We can nap, read, or just watch the scenery. Plus the expense of driving, not to mention parking, would be too much for some of us. And what about the people who don't own cars? What do they do?

The Tiburon Ferry would not do a lot of us any good, me for one. I don't get off work until 4:45 p.m. According to their schedule I would have to wait until 5:30, and then get into Tiburon at 6:05, get into my car, get out into the traffic and be lucky if I got home by 7 p.m.

If Grehound wants out, as they seem to, there had bettter be something better for the majority of us than the Tiburon Ferry.

Strike Threat Not Over Pay Issue

Our attention is called to your editorial of Nov. 15 re: "Professionals" in the health, education and welfare fields. There is a serious misstatement of fact concerning Marin welfare workers, which we feel must be corrected so as not to mislead your readers as to actual events in negotiating the '69-'70 contract between Social Workers Union, Local 535 and the County of Marin.

You state Marin welfare workers "threatened to strike" and "to leave their charges untended and unassisted until their own pocketbooks were first fattened."

The fact is that strike consideration was based almost wholly on lowering of caseloads — not pay. This writer, as negotiations chairman of the Probation Workers Union chapter, personally knows such as fact, because our chapter voted overwhelmingly to support the Social Workers chapter in their insistence on decent professional caseload standards. It so happens that our chapter's bargaining efforts for months were also concentrated on our No. 1 objective for '69-'70 of reduced caseloads — not pay. . .

To be sure our chapters did emphasize pay in the first contract of '68-'69. We make no apologies whatsoever for this. However, at no time did we ever consider strike on that issue at that time. Entirely contrary to your whole editorial diatribe on "hypocritical" professionals, our strike threat this year was to raise professional standards. By such action we were in fact facing possible loss of pay in the risk of strike!. . .

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A FATHER marched his four children up to the ticket booth of a theater running a big hit picture and asked, "What's the price for the cheapest seats?" "They're all the same," he was told. "Three bucks apiece." "Well, how much for the kids?" he persisted. "No reduction," was the answer. "Three bucks a ticket." "funny," mused the father. "Airlines only charge half fare for children." "Okay," nodded the ticket seller. "Put the kids on a plane!"

'Bring Us Together' Promise Unfilled As Year Nears End

WASHINGTON — Bring us together. That promise in Richard Nixon's campaign more than any other held out the hope of an interval of good will, or relative quiet and lowered voices after the Johnsonian storm and strife.

The promise, as the end of the first year nears, has not been born out. For reasons of which many are beyond President Nixon's control, the need for a unifying force is greater than it was when he took office in January.

THE REJECTION of the President's nominee to the Supreme Court, Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., was a severe blow to what the President has repeatedly said was his constitutional prerogative. It was a blow, too, to his relationship with a Congress which, for the first time in well over a century, confronted an incoming president with control by the opposing party. The bitter aftertaste will last for a long time both with those in the White House who fought unsuccessfully to put the nomination over and with the Republicans who resisted that pressure and are now under the frowning disapproval of the Nixon team.

While it was a blow, the fate of the Haynsworth nomination seems to this observer to be an opportunity to bind up the wounds and encourage the conviction of national unity. The President can nominate another southerner with a conservative outlook, as he has indicated he will do. Without the shadow of conflict of interest and in the wake of the Haynsworth quarrel, the nominee would almost beyond question be confirmed.

THERE IS, however, a different course which could cool the emotions stirred by the controversy and help to take the court out of the partisan political arena. It has been forgotten that shortly after his inauguration the President, speaking to employees of the State Department, said they should not be surprised if the secretary, William P. Rogers, should become chief justice of the United States, as had happened to three of his predecessors.

Rogers is an eminently qualified lawyer who has repeatedly shown his skill in human relations. His political stance is best described as moderate. Rogers' nomination to fill the vacancy on the court could not be faulted.

That this will happen, it is hardly necessary to add, is most unlikely.

IN THIS FIRST year, the parochialism of the Nixon administration has at times been all too evident.

Whether it is the "southern strategy" and the influence of Sen. Strom Thurmond as a reward for the 87 southern and border state electoral votes that put Mr. Nixon in the White House, the weight is heavily on the side of the South and the West and ideologically in the right wing of the party. This may be sound politics but it is a questionable tactic in bringing us together.

Next year Nelson Rockefeller may run for an unprecedented fourth term as governor of New York. The report from both his friends and his critics is that he is reluctant to devote another four years to the legislature and the squabbles between New York City and upstate Republicans.

As part of the Nixon administration he would move the party nearer the center. His extensive background in foreign policy, defense, and health and welfare would add dimension to a cabinet lack ing in luster. Bringing us together is more than rhetoric.

Chaos Prevails In Italian Government And Labor

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Italy, it seems, everybody has been talking but nobody has been listening. The result is continuing chaos on both the political and industrial fronts.

The Christian Democrats rule the country by virtue of a weak minority government which is not expected to stay in power beyond spring. The Christian Democrats, Italy's largest political party, are split into half a dozen factions.

So are the Socialists who participated with the Christian Democrats in Italy's latest experiment with center/left governments until the fall of the coalition last July. The Socialists now officially are split into two parties.

Even the Italian Communists, whose party is the largest outside Communist block nations, are split between the parliamentarians aligned with Moscow and other groups labelled as "Guevarras," pro-Chinese" and "Maoist."

THERE EVEN is an uneasy feeling that a coup is not impossible, either military or civilian and going either to right or left, but, in any case, extremist.

The labor front is just as chaotic.

As November came to a close, 100,000 urban transport workers just had returned to work, when 10's of thousands of striking metal workers snarled Rome traffic with a march through the streets.

It was a peaceful demonstration but in other Italian cities there has been violence.

In Milan a policeman died after being struck by a piece of metal pipe and "law and order" factions clashed with workers and students demanding overthrow of the government.

IN THE FIRST 10 months of 1969, it is estimated that the Italian economy lost more than $1.5 billion as result of strikes of which no end is yet in sight.

The paralyzing strikes have run the full course of Italian industry, from newspapers to the giant Fiat automobile works.

The issues are wages, better housing and an increased workers' share in the country's economy which has been booming ahead at the rate of about 8 per cent per year.

Workers complain that even with raises the gains quickly are wiped out by increases in the costs of such essentials as milk and butter .

IN GENERAL, the workers are demanding a reduction in the work week to 40 hours and wage increases of about 25 per cent, a pattern set in a recent government agreement with employees of the state - owned railroad.

The government also has set aside nearly $2 billion for construction of low-rent housing. But impatient workers, thousands of them imported to the industrial north from the poverty-ridden south, fear they never will see it. Meanwhile, money is flowing from the country out of fear that in the next government, Communists will share the power.

Legend Being Born In Marin—With, As Usual, Some Inaccuracies

We may be witnessing the birth of a legend in our own time. As with most legends, time is encrusting the real event with the barnacles of what people want to think happened.

Time and the legend are being helped, too, by San Francisco's Sunday newspaper, which this week published a story of Marty Kent Jones of Kentfield, who led last spring's revolt against the bulldozers on Tamalpais Creek.

There are two pictures—one of Mrs. Jones as she was arrested in Tam Creek, another of her standing by a concrete-lined flood control channel.

The channel, sterile concrete, is flanked by a barren dirt service road; the trees are gone and fence posts line the top of the channel.

ONLY ONE THING is wrong: it isn't Tamalpais Creek. The photographer posed Mrs. Jones beside Corte Madera Creek, half a mile from Tam Creek. The Corte Madera Creek flood control channel is much bigger and much more striking—even though it is mentioned only once in the accompanying article.

The article errs, too. It describes Mrs. Jones' fight against the Tam Creek project, her arrest and the strikers' "subsequent hours behind bars."

As I-J readers may remember, no one arrested that day spent a minute in jail. They were accorded meticulously polite treatment, without being fingerprinted or "mugged" during booking at the sheriff's office. Their inconvenience was limited to waiting for attorneys and bail to arrive.

Mrs. Jones isn't to blame for these alterations of the truth—the reporter and photographer are. But with the cause of conservation gaining strength daily, it seems accuracy would serve better than specious dramatization.

ONE OF SAN ANSELMO'S landmarks disappeared last week, bulldozed at the orders of City Hall—Hansen Falls, the art nouveau residence of the late Mathew Hansen, the "poet of Miracle Mile."

Hansen, who wrote five books of verse, died at 95 in October last year, and his home at 210 Red Hill Avenue fell vacant. He was a landscape gardener until he retired in 1954, and on his steep lot he built a series of waterfalls, stone facing and fantastic ornamentation, capped by a 20-foot waterfall he finished when he was 90.

Hansen spent his last years in a convalescent home, and the house and landscaping on Red Hill Avenue went to seed quickly.

While no one paid rent, the house often served as a haven for hippies, who slept there and left with daylight. "Condemned" signs didn't keep them away.

With no maintenance, no utilities, and people using it, the house was a hazard. It was damaged by fire once. So the city ordered it razed, and last week the machinery moved in and took it down. In the process, they wiped out about all of Hansen's landscaping and rockwork as well, because the lot is too small and too steep for a bulldozer to tiptoe around such things.

PROSPECTS for new construction on the site aren't promising. City Hall says the lot is zoned for a duplex, but there isn't room for the required four off-street parking spaces if a duplex were built. It's probably too expensive a site for a single-family house, so owner Harry Heifetz may just let it sit.

It's too bad. Hansen Falls was no Taj Mahal, but it was reminiscent of the Watts Towers, or Gaudi's architecture in Barcelona, and some of us will miss it.

Intimate Glimpse Of Hectic Life Of Attorney General And His Wife

WASHINGTON — All of Washington is talking about Atty. Gen. John Mitchell's wife, Martha. Mrs. Mitchell has made almost as big a splash as Vice President Spiro Agnew, with such remarks on TV as the one that her husband would like to trade some American liberals for some Russian Communists.

She also told Time magazine's Dean Fischer, "Any time you get somebody marching in the streets, it's catering to revolution. . . . My family worked for everything. We even had a deed from the king of England for property in South Carolina. Now these jerks come along and try to give it to the Communists. . . ."

Commenting on life in Washington, she said, "It's quite a comedown in many ways. We're not living on the same means we had in Rye, N.Y. I think the government should give us free housing. We'll be happy to go back and make some money."

MRS. MITCHELL in her TV broadcasts and interviews has given us an insight into a cabinet officer's life that we never had before, and I can imagine what happens when the Mitchells return home in the evening to their posh apartment at the Watergate in the Foggy Bottom part of Washington.

The attorney general enters first and checks all the closets.

"There's none in here."

Mrs. Mitchell looks under the bed. "There's none here."

They both look in the laundry room. "There's none here," the attorney general says.

MRS. MITCHELL sighs, "Oh, John, can't you do something about the liberals, so we don't have to go through this every night?"

"I'm trying, Martha. I'm working on a list of liberals to exchange for Communists with the Soviet Union. Once we get it drawn up, we'll present it to Russians at the Salt talks in Helsinki."

"Good," Mrs. Mitchell replies. "I'd rather have out-and-out Communists in this country than people with Marxist ideas who won't admit their true colors."

"Well, let's go to bed, Martha."

"SUPPOSE THEY march tonight?" Mrs. Mitchell says.

"I don't think they will. The Justice Department would have let me know if they had any plans. We should be able to get a good night's sleep."

"How do we know they're not in the lobby waiting for us to go to bed?"

"Don't you remember? I checked the lobby before I came up. There isn't a liberal in the entire Watergate complex."

"IF THEY ONLY gave us a free house, we could electrify the fence."

"Martha, you shouldn't fret."

"Why shouldn't I? This place is costing us a pretty packet and it's certainly a comedown from Rye, N.Y. Why don't we go back and make some money, John?"

"We will, Martha, but there is important work to be done. Do you know I managed to keep a Marxist Belgian professor from entering the United States last week, over the objections of the secretary of state?"

"I'm so proud of you, John. Have you done anything yet about the 55 senators who voted against Judge Haynsworth?"

"I've got everyone at Justice working on it now. We think we may be able to prove a conspiracy between the mobilization organizers, the Eastern Liberal Establishment, Joan Baez and the senators who voted against Haynsworth."

"THAT WOULD BE wonderful. John, did you hear something in the bathroom?"

"The water's running. Stay back, Martha."

The attorney general goes into the bathroom and comes out whitefaced.

"It's John Kenneth Galbraith. He's taking a shower!"

"I knew it," Martha cries. "I told you we should have never come to Washington."

Immediately upon returning from her coronation, Queen Victoria is reported to have doffed her ceremonial robes — to give her dog a bath.

Mrs. Mitchell looks under the bed. "There's none here."

They both look in the laundry room. "There's none here," the attorney general says.

MRS. MITCHELL sighs, "Oh, John, can't you do something about the liberals, so we don't have to go through this every night?"

"I'm trying, Martha. I'm working on a list of liberals to exchange for Communists with the Soviet Union. Once we get it drawn up, we'll present it to Russians at the Salt talks in Helsinki."

"Good," Mrs. Mitchell replies. "I'd rather have out-and-out Communists in this country than people with Marxist ideas who won't admit their true colors."

"Well, let's go to bed, Martha."

"SUPPOSE THEY march tonight?" Mrs. Mitchell says.

"I don't think they will. The Justice Department would have let me know if they had any plans. We should be able to get a good night's sleep."

"How do we know they're not in the lobby waiting for us to go to bed?"

"Don't you remember? I checked the lobby before I came up. There isn't a liberal in the entire Watergate complex."

"IF THEY ONLY gave us a free house, we could electrify the fence."

"Martha, you shouldn't fret."

"Why shouldn't I? This place is costing us a pretty packet and it's certainly a comedown from Rye, N.Y. Why don't we go back and make some money, John?"

"We will, Martha, but there is important work to be done. Do you know I managed to keep a Marxist Belgian professor from entering the United States last week, over the objections of the secretary of state?"

"I'm so proud of you, John. Have you done anything yet about the 55 senators who voted against Judge Haynsworth?"

"I've got everyone at Justice working on it now. We think we may be able to prove a conspiracy between the mobilization organizers, the Eastern Liberal Establishment, Joan Baez and the senators who voted against Haynsworth."

"THAT WOULD BE wonderful. John, did you hear something in the bathroom?"

"The water's running. Stay back, Martha."

The attorney general goes into the bathroom and comes out whitefaced.

"It's John Kenneth Galbraith. He's taking a shower!"

"I knew it," Martha cries. "I told you we should have never come to Washington."

Immediately upon returning from her coronation, Queen Victoria is reported to have doffed her ceremonial robes — to give her dog a bath.

COLLEGE OF MARIN

Round Scheduled On Better Image

College of Marin leaders and Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner will meet the public Tuesday in an effort by the college to improve its communication with the public.

The meeting will be the first in a series of informal planning sessions, acting President-Supt. Louis H. Herkenhoff said.

The meeting is to start at 8 p.m. in Olney Hall with Gardiner addressing the audience. The audience will then divide into small discussion groups in classrooms throughout the campus.

The college, Herkenhoff said, "must involve all interested members of the community in decision making. Many of us are seriously concerned that we may not be hearing enough of what is being said in the community, and that our voices may not be reaching the community."

The best way to give the community and students a voice in setting academic and administrative policies, Herkenhoff said, "is through face-to-face contact in the form of orderly small group discussions."

Student representatives, faculty, Herkenhoff and Dean of Students Irwin P. Diamond have planned the meeting with Lothar Salin, San Rafael printer and parks and recreation commissioner, Joe H. Stewart, Joe H. Stewart Jr., Donald A. Beacock, and Kent O. Seymour, all real estate executives, and Richard Nave, college alumnus and member of the Marin Property Owners Association.

Each discussion group will have a moderator and a secretary to record the comments. The comments will be studied at college staff meetings for solutions to problems presented.

Sonoma State Play Due Third Weekend

Repertory West's production of "Period of Adjustment" has been extended a third weekend at Sonoma State College.

The play was given last weekend and will also be performed today, tomorrow and Saturday and next weekend on Dec. 12 and 13. Performances start at 8:30 p.m. in the student lounge adjacent to the bookstore.

Press Will Tour Hall Of Justice Before Inaugural

Newspapers, radio and television representatives will get a special tour of the new $11.8 million Hall of Justice at the Marin Civic Center at 2 p.m. Monday, Assistant County Administrator John F. Barrows has announced.

The press tour will start at the main lobby (south arch) of the new building, with architect Aaron Green in charge. The purpose of the special tour is to give news media a chance to describe the new structure in pictures and print before the public open house set for 10 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 13.

"The Hall of Justice is finally completed and ready for occupancy," said Barrows. "County government offices will begin moving into the building next Monday."

The entire moving process is expected to continue through the end of this month.

Apartments Are Going Up

Construction is under way on the first 117 units of a 358-unit apartment cluster in Larkspur, city officials have announced.

Pell Development Company started construction in November on 84 units to cost $840,000, after beginning work in October on 33 apartments at a cost of $380,000. The development will be called Skylark Apartments.

The construction will be in two phases, with 192 apartments in the first phase and 166 in the second. The entire development will overlook Corte Madera Creek and Greenbrae from a hilltop west of Magnolia Avenue on Skylark Drive.

Architect for the project is Hooper, Olmsted and Emmons of San Francisco.

Union Complains To Federal Board

Charges that the Independent-Journal has discharged an employee for union activities and that it has failed "to bargain in good faith" with representatives of the International Typographical Union have been filed with the National Labor Relations Board in San Francisco.

Paul McCarthy, board field representative, said the charges, filed by the San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 on Nov. 21, are under private investigation by the board's examiners. The investigation is scheduled to be completed by Dec. 21.

Bird Search In Himalayas To Be Related

An expedition to the Himalayas in search of rare birds and rhododendron forests will be described by L. Martin Griffin Jr. when the Marin Audubon Society meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Ross Grammar School.

Griffin, chairman of Audubon Canyon Ranch, went to Nepal last spring with Howard B. Allen, president of the Marin Audubon Society, and with Robert Fleming of Katmandu were able to enter border areas previously closed to visitors. They saw more than 100 species of birds in the high-altitude terrain.

Big Rock Concert At Sears Point

The Rolling Stones' search for a place to stage an enormous concert — free to the public — has ended.

Spokesmen for the Stones announced yesterday that the British rock group, together with the Grateful Dead and the Jefferson Airplane, would perform from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday at Sears Point International Raceway in Southern Sonoma County.

More than 100,000 young people could swarm to the sprawling race track, and the California Highway Patrol is planning for a huge traffic jam.

The Stones are staging the free concert as a "thank you" for the crowds that have jammed auditoriums in East and West Coast concerts in their recent first tour of the United States in three years. Saturday's performance will conclude the tour.

Craig Murray, president of Sears Point, said as many as 200,000 rock fans may show up, but Rock Scully, Grateful Dead manager and principal organizer for the extravanganza, said he doesn't expect more than 100,000 because of the late announcement of the concert.

The biggest crowd for a race at Sears Point has been about 35,000.

Original plans had the Stones performing at Golden Gate Park, but denial of a permit because of a huge crowd was a virtual certainty. And, said Scully, spokesmen for the Stones had notified him they were negotiating with Filmways Inc., owners of Sears Point, for use of that facility.

Organizers also were reportedly seeking a site near Black Point.

Although the concert will be free to the public, possible revenue from the sale of television or movie film and recordings probably would be donated toward creation of a music center in the Bay Area, Scully said.

Although Sears Point spokesmen said they have been led to understand proceeds would go to Vietnam War relief and various charities in Sonoma County, Scully said that the Stones have expressed an interest in benefitting a center which could be used free by budding musicians.

But he added that no revenue has been assured. Negotiations are continuing for filming of the concert and, although recordings will be made, it is up to the performers to negotiate contracts for release of records, Scully said.

Scully said the Stones preferred contributing to one cause rather than dividing any proceeds.

The race track has given free use of the facility, but Scully said organizers will spend about $30,000 on insurance, building a bandstand in a bowl north of the

FATHER SADLY WAITS

Fatal Dope Trial Stalls 14 Months

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Bill Yager of Corte Madera plans to make his 37th trip to the San Francisco Hall of Justice on Monday, hoping that the court will at last set a trial date for Everett LeForrest Hill.

Yager has a deep personal interest in what happens in the case of 41-year-old Hill.

Yager's son, Richard Kenneth, 20, home on furlough from an Army base in Georgia, died on Sept. 27, 1968, after hours of convulsions and hallucinations following an injection of methamphetamine ("speed"). He had attended a "speed party" in San Rafael at which the injection was given.

There were three others at the party, one of them a juvenile.

The following day, Hill was arrested in San Francisco and charged with being the supplier of the drug for the party. Inspector William Burgess of the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau said methamphetamine and film developer — which is sometimes used by "pushers" to "cut" the drug — were found in Hill's apartment by arresting officers.

Since the sale was made in San Francisco, according to Burgess, the case was turned over to San Francisco police and courts.

That was 14 months ago.

Hill made his first appearance in the case in San Francisco Municipal Court on Oct. 3, 1968. Bill Yager was there.

There were a few delays in municipal court. Yager made the trip across the Golden Gate Bridge seven times to that court. Finally, on Jan. 17 of this year, Hill was held for trial in San Francisco Superior Court on two counts of violation of Section 11913 of the Health and Safety Code: furnishing dangerous drugs.

Bail was set at $2,500. Hill posted a surety bond in that amount from Stuyvestant Insurance Co.

On Jan. 28, the case was assigned to Judge Bernard B. Glickfield. He set arraignment for Jan. 31.

The progress of the case since then has gone like this:

Jan. 31 — Arraignment continued to Feb. 7 to allow defendant to obtain counsel.

Feb. 7 — Continued to Feb. 11, same reason.

Feb. 11 — Hill appeared with Albert M. Bendick as attorney and pleaded not guilty to both counts. Case continued to Feb. 25 for setting trial.

Feb. 25 — Counsel failed to show in court. Case put over to next day.

Feb. 26 — Bendick filed a motion to set aside the charges. Case continued to March 19 for decision on motion.

March 19 — Motion denied. Case continued to April 16 for setting trial.

April 16 — Setting of trial

Bagley Sees Reagan Truce On Withholding

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Republican chairman of the Assembly tax committee said today he won't push for income tax withholding this year if Gov. Ronald Reagan makes certain tax reform concessions.

"We're trying to look for areas of agreement," Chairman William T. Bagley of San Rafael told a reporter as his committee and its Senate counterpart opened a two-day hearing on tax reform.

Bagley said he hopes the two committees and the GOP governor's office can work together "to put together a consensus-type package which I hope we can move with in January. That is our aim."

Today's hearing explored various initiative tax reform or tax shift proposals that might go on the 1970 election ballot.

The bond crisis will be discussed tomorrow and specific tax reform topics will come under examination at further hearings in Los Angeles Dec. 16-17, Bagley said.

Bagley was the chief proponent this past year of payroll withholding of the state personal income tax — something the governor adamantly has opposed.

Asked if he plans to push withholding this session, Bagley said: "If the governor will agree to some other concepts, if the governor will back away from some of the things we found inpalatable and impossible, I certainly will withhold on any withholding."

He declined to go into specific parts of Reagan's plan last year that he found "inpalatable and impossible," but indicated a major problem was raising enough new money to offset any significant cut in property taxes.

"Property taxes in California total about $4.5 billion. If we're going to have a meaningful shift away from the property tax we've got to be talking about a package in the magnitude of a billion dollars or more," Bagley said. "Otherwise we're kidding ourselves."

The hearing came the day after the secretary of state formally approved distribution of petitions seeking ballot spots next November for two tax cut initiatives.

State officials estimated that one initiative, sponsored by the County Supervisors Association and the California Teachers As-

Year's Delay Possible In New Commute Plan

Another year's delay in setting up a new bus system for Marin commuters loomed today before a committee of the Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

The district board previously voted to set up a joint commuter bus and ferry system, predicting operation of the bus system by mid-1970.

Today, however, Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring raised the possibility of using buses powered by gas turbine engines.

He said that such buses will have "considerably more power and are therefore attractive when considering air conditioning and the Waldo Grade, are much quieter, nearly vibrationless, virtually smog free, and are expected to have almost comparable fuel consumption" as the diesel-powered bus.

However, he reported, despite hopes that gas turbine engines would be in production this coming year, it now appears production will not begin until mid-1971.

Luehring added that buses delivered next year could be converted later to gas turbines.

Luehring's report was made to the district's transporation committee, which took no action.

But Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum said he felt many people would prefer to wait an extra year rather than buy diesel buses. Several district directors murmured their agreement with Wornum's statement.

In other business, the committee recommended the hiring of a naval architectural firm to design the commuter ferry system.

The firm, Philip F. Spaulding and Associates of Seattle, Wash., was recommended for the $92,500 contract. The recommendation will go before the full board for its approval on Dec. 12.

The naval architects are to do a complete engineering study to include selection of a vessal, refine traffic projections, select ferry routes, set schedules, and prepare a cost analysis.

Cease-Fire Set For Yule, New Year's

SAIGON (AP) The South Vietnamese government today announced cease-fires of 24 hours each for Christmas and New Year's. As usual, the U.S. Command said it would go along.

President Nguyen Van Thieu's office said the Christmas cease-fire would begin at 6 p.m. Dec. 24 (5 a.m. EST) and end at 6 p.m. Christmas day. The announcement said the New Year cease-fire would run from 6 p.m. Dec. 31 to 6 p.m. Jan. 1.

Both sides annually call cease-fires for the Christmas period. Action drops off substantially during these cease-fires even though each side accuses the other of violations.

Last year, the South Vietnamese announced a cease-fire for Christmas but refused to call one for New Year's Day.

With memories of the big enemy offensive during the 1968 Tet cease-fire still fresh, the government did not want a New Year's truce because that would commit it to a cease-fire for Tet, the lunar new Year.

Unruh Tosses Hat In Governor Race

Criticizes Reagan's Friends

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Assembly Democratic leader Jess Unruh today became the first candidate to formally enter the race for governor of California, describing Gov. Ronald Reagan as a puppet of millionaires and himself as a poor boy from Texas.

The former "Big Daddy" of the state Legislature chose a family gathering on the front porch of his suburban Inglewood home to officially launch a 1970 campaign for the office he has eyed for years.

A long-time friend of the Kennedys, Unruh faces probable opposition in the June 2 Democratic primary from San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, who last year in Chicago placed Hubert Humphrey's name in nomination for the presidency.

30 YEARS AGO

"I hitchhiked here from Texas nearly 30 years ago with little more than the clothes on my back," Unruh said in a prepared statement. "California has kept the promise it held for me.

"I run for governor because I want to keep the promise of California alive and growing for everyone."

The 47-year-old son of illiterate sharecroppers charged a "handful of half hidden millionaires call the shots in Sacramento" and must be told, "You cannot buy our government like you bought a mansion for Ronald Reagan."

BIG MANSION

Fourteen of Reagan's wealthy political and social friends early this year purchased a $150,000-plus Tudor-style mansion which the governor rents for $1,250 per month.

In a swipe at Reagan's advocacy of tuition for state college and university students, the former Assembly speaker said, "I believe that we can provide each of our children with all of the education he can use—not just what he can afford."

A recent convert to conservation, Unruh added, "I believe we can preserve and protect our natural beauty and resources and cleanse the air we breathe."

Unruh said the nation's most populous state needs "calm and concerned leadership" by someone "who cares...I believe

'INCOMPETENCE' CHARGE

Smog Watchdogs Twice Lambasted

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Scathing charges of "incompetence and total abuse of public trust" were leveled at Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors yesterday by a Point Richmond woman who said she had to wait four years to get a response from the district to her complaints of air pollution.

"Gentlemen, please stop choking our children," pleaded Katherine Lord. "You are on the public payroll, not industry's," she said.

"You have ignored the state Legislature's strong mandate to control air pollution, and instead passed a small handful of regulations of doubtful effectiveness, which you seem loath to enforce.

"There is much you could be doing to improve the condition of the air we breathe, but instead you continue to act as an apologist for the industrial polluters who, you know as well as I do, destroy my right to clean air at my home," Mrs. Lord declared, interrupting her attack with occasional gentle coughs.

She also criticized the 12-member board for spending time on annexing Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties "instead of working on the dreadful pollution that we have right here in the district."

Backed by about 100 muttering citizens, many of them carrying signs condemning the district, Mrs. Lord warned that "our tempers are getting short. For 14 years (the age of the district) we have heard excuses. For 14 years we have heard promises. Now, for a change, we would like some action."

She urged the board to adopt the California Air Resources Board's proposed standards for air quality, to stop granting variances to polluters, and to shut

62 Perish As Jetliner Crashes Near Caracas

CARACAS (UPI)—Investigators said today the last words of an Air France jetliner pilot indicated that mechanical failure and not sabotage or a hijack attempt caused the plane to fall into the sea last night with loss of all 62 persons aboard.

"I am losing altitude and I cannot control the plane," Capt. Henry Valter radioed the control tower from 4,500 feet two minutes out of Maiquetia airport on a flight bound for Paris. The Boeing 707 plane fell four miles from the airport and exploded in an orange fireball.

The disaster was witnessed by another pilot, Capt. Jose Cabezas of the Venezuelan domestic airline Aeropostal Venezolana, who was flying 2,000 feet above the Air France jet.

"I could make out the lights of the plane as it began to rise from Maiquetia and then, suddenly, it started downwards," Cabezas said.

Robert McNamara, president of the World Bank and former U.S. Secretary of Defense, was aboard Cabezas' plane and saw the crash. He had no comment.

Investigators at the scene said "there appears to be no reason to believe the crash was caused by a hijacking attempt or sabotage."

They cited the pilot's last words as evidence of mechnical failure.

Rescue workers removed 23 bodies from the water and said they had not been mutilated, indicating the plane had not exploded in flight. The search was hampered by treacherous currents and by fears of sharks which infest the area.

No Americans were reported aboard the plane which carried 41 passengers and a double-size Air France crew of 21.

Air France said the plane was Flight 212, which originated in Santiago, Chile, and was headed for Paris with stops in Lima, Peru; Guayaquil, Ecuakdor; Bogota, Colombia; Caracas, Pointe-A-Pitre, Guadaloupe and Lisbon.

Air France said the plane carried 41 passengers and a double crew of 21.

It was the second crash of a jetliner near Maiquetia in less than a year. On Dec. 12, 1968, a Pan American World Airways jet crashed into the sea as it approached the airport, killing all 50 persons aboard.

Adultery Law Void

ROME (AP) — In a landmark decision, Italy's Constitutional Court today voided the law making adultery a punishable crime.

The court declared "illegal" Articles 559 and 560 of the penal code.

The first article provided jail sentences of up to one year for wives convicted of a single instance of adultery. This was modified a year ago to make it equivalent to Article 560, which punished husbands only if they were convicted of living in open and continuous concubinage.

The Constitutional Court is Italy's highest. The decision is effective immediately.

New Redress Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal courts should be empowered to block demonstrators or others from interfering with "the fundamental right to free expression," the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence says.

The commission proposed yesterday that President Richard M. Nixon ask Congress to give U.S. district courts injunctive power "against the threatened or actual interference by any person . . . with the rights of individuals or groups to freedom of speech, freedom of the press, peaceful assembly and petition for redress of grievances."

The spokesman said South Yemen casualties were three men killed.

There was no word from Saudi Arabia on casualties.

NEW COMMANDMENTS DELIVERED BY AGNEW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew outlined what he called the ten commandments of protest in a speech to the nation's governors at a White House conference on drug abuse.

Agnew said the commandments, which he said were advocated by an "outspoken minority," tell the majority "Thou shalt not:

"Allow thy opponent to speak.
"Set forth a program of thine own.
"Trust anyone over 30.
"Honor thy father or thy mother.
"Heed the lessons of history.
"Write anything longer than a slogan.
"Present a negotiable demand.
"Accept any establishment idea.
"Revere any but totalitarian heroes.
"Ask forgiveness for thy transgressions, rather thou shall demand amnesty for them."

White House Swings For The Governors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House was swinging with jazz and pop music. And there was a plentiful supply of drugs and the tools of the addict.

It was the windup to President Richard M. Nixon's one-day governor's conference on drugs and narcotics last night.

The drugs were an educational display to show the 41 governors and their wives and children the folly of addiction.

The group clapped, stomped and sang to the music of New Orleans trumpet player Al Hirt and the pop recording group "The 5th Dimension."

Nixon told the governors "our greatest challenge is to provide some sense of idealism—some sense of challenge to our young people so they can be proud of their country."

He said he would propose to the National Governor's Conference in February steps to clean up the nation's air and water and improve its environment.

Hirt told reporters that performing artists should preach against the use of marijuana.

"It never appealed to me," he said. And, he added, if anyone in his band ever used it, "he'd be looking for a new job."

The musicians were surprised at the reception to their performance.

"I was expecting stuffed shirts," said bass player Ron Brown. "I see the White House really swings."

The governors' children talked with Tricia Nixon about the problem of being the offspring of celebrities. The President symphathized with them.

When Former President Harry S. Truman wrote scathing letter to a critic for his review of Margaret Truman's piano performance, "I was with him all the way," Nixon said. If critics ever wrote anything about his two daughters, he added, "I'm going to be up and at them."

Doctors Held Untrained In Sex Problems

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — It is a myth that the average physician is well trained to deal with his patients' sexual problems, a Texas psycholigist says.

Dr. James Leslie McCary, professor of psychology at the University of Houston, spoke yesterday about sex myths and fallacies to doctors attending the American Medical Association's clinical convention.

"It is a sad and unfortunate truth that except for adequate knowledge of reproductive processes, physicians as a group are grievously ignorant and actually rather prudish in matters of sexuality," he said.

Another fallacy, he said, is that sex desire and ability decrease markedly after age 40 to 50.

Sexual intercourse among the married elderly "occurs considerably more frequently than is commonly realized," he said, and quoted statistical studies to support his contention.

He said a statistical study showed: "Seven out of 10 healthy married couples who are 60 years of age or older are sexually active, and the consistent clinical observation is that of both men and women, the ones with the strongest sex drive during youth retain the greatest sex drive and virility in old age."

Another myth, Dr. McCary said, is that persons who commit sex crimes are highly dangerous, oversexed and usually get involved in progressively more serious crimes.

The sex offender "is rarely involved in nonsexual crimes," he said, adding that "only a small percentage use force or duress on their victims."

"Homicide seldom occurs in conjunction with sexual offenses," he said. "When homicide does occur in sex crimes, the offender is usually insane as well as sexually deviated."

The typical sex offender is undersexed rather than oversexed, Dr. McCary said, and is likely to be afraid of normal sexual contact.

Yank Toll Low For A Week But Casualties At 300,000

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command said today that 70 Americans were killed in Vietnam last week, one of the lowest weekly death tolls in the war. But the 1,049 Americans wounded pushed total U.S. battlefield casualties in the war past the 300,000 mark, to 300,829.

The 70 Americans killed was the lowest death toll in the past two months and was 46 per cent less than the previous week's 130 dead.

South Vietnamese and enemy casualty totals also were down last week, with the government reporting 373 of its soldiers killed and 953 wounded.

The allied commands said 2,177 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed. The week before these death tolls were 567 government soldiers and 3,220 enemy.

Explaining the reduction in battlefield deaths, the South Vietnamese military command said enemy activity last week was at its "lowest level since the beginning of the Communist winter-spring campaign" a month ago.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Command announced that American planes attacked North Vietnamese forces in Cambodia today for the second straight day, and the south Vietnamese government said its forces joined in the attack.

A U.S. spokesman said American fighter-bombers crossed Prince Norodom Sihanouk's frontier again to attack North Vietnamese forces firing 122mm and 82-mm mortars into the Cai Cai and Hong Ngu district towns and a U.S.-South Vietnamese Special Forces camp near the border about 80 miles west of Saigon.

Twenty miles closer to Saigon along the border, South Vietnamese artillery fired into Cambodia after North Vietnamese forces on the other side renewed their attack on the border town of Tuyen Binh with a barrage of 50 to 60 rockets and mortar rounds. On Wednesday, U.S. planes bombed North Vietnamese troops in Cambodia as they fled after a combined rocket, mortar and infantry assault on Tuyen Binh.

American sources in the town told Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett that the bombers killed 65 of the North Vietnamese more than two miles inside Cambodia and also smashed a Cambodian mud fort which the North Vietnamese were believed using as a spotting post for mortar attacks on Tuyen Binh.

The U.S. Command said the planes both yesterday and today were returning "enemy-initiated fire attacks originating from within the Cambodian border territory" and were exercising their "inherent right of self defense." But according to the account given Arnett of the raids yesterday, the Americans then were exercising the right of hot pursuit.

Scott, Baker Feuding Over Taxes Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans are feuding over who's to blame for an administration setback on tax legislation. And there's a hint of a future challenge to the party's leadership.

Principals in the dispute are Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott and Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, once rivals for the top GOP job.

Baker, who ran against Scott little more than two months ago, accused the Pennsylvania senator of improperly airing GOP family differences on the Senate floor.

The issue surfaced yesterday after the Senate approved an amendment sponsored by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., to boost the personal income tax exemption from $600 to $800.

President Richard M. Nixon opposed it as too expensive, and the administration insisted the Senate should stick with the terms drafted by its Finance Committee, offering a reduction in tax rates, but no increase in the personal exemption.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., came up with what he thought was a compromise, raise the exemption, but in slower steps to minimize the money loss.

When the role was called, Percy lost, Gore won, and Scott blamed the administration.

"The Treasury has gone down to a resounding, and I suppose glorious, defeat," he said. "I don't know how many Phyrric victories of this kind the Treasury is willing to risk."

Scott's complaint drew a Baker rebuttal on the Senate floor, and a stiffer one offstage. "The important part is we've got no business washing dirty linen in public, particularly on the floor of the Senate," he said in an interview.

Treasury Department tax experts, working in Scott's office near the Senate floor, helped draft the Percy proposal—but never endorsed their handiwork.

They said their role was that of technicians.

But Percy and Scott considered their participation at least tacit approval. The administration sent word it was not.

"These shots weren't called down town," Baker said. "You can't call Senate strategy and tactics from down town. It's got to happen right here."

Supreme Court Asked To View 'I Am Curious'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Distributors of "I Am Curious (Yellow)" have sent a copy of the Swedish sex film to the Supreme Court along with a plea that would make legal history.

Grove Press, Inc., asked the justices yesterday to conduct their own private showing of the erotic hit and conclude it is not obscene.

Beyond that, though, the American distributors asked the justices to rule that no official may prevent adults from seeing any movie in an American threater—whether it is obscene or not.

EXPANSION SOUGHT

This plea seeks to expand a major free speech ruling by the court last April that possession of obscene films or printed matter in the privacy of a man's home cannot be considered a crime.

"There is no rational distinction," attorneys for Grove Press said, "between the right of a person to satisfy his intellectual and emotional needs in the privacy of his own home and his right to satisfy those needs in the privacy of a movie theater."

Besides, they added, "only adults who voluntarily elect to see the film will view it, and they are free to leave the theater at any time if it does not meet their expectations."

The Supreme Court, in 1961, ruled the Constitution permits officials to censor films before they are shown publicly. Since then, however, the court has upset various film bans and warned that distributors must have a chance to test the censors' rulings quickly.

OPPOSE CENSORSHIP

Two justices, William O. Douglas and Hugo L. Black, are on record against movie censorship. "I would put an end to all forms of censorship and give full literal meaning to the command of the First Amendment," they said in a 1965 decision.

Customs officials seized "I Am Curious (Yellow)" when it was first imported from Sweden at the end of 1967 . The U.S. Court of Appeals in New York City ordered it released for distribution in November 1968.

Since then more than 2.5 million Americans have seen the movie in 25 states and the District of Columbia. But the film has been banned in several other states and is the subject of lawsuits in 13 states.

The current case comes to the high court from Maryland where the Court of Appeals decided in October "the dominant theme of the film, taken as a whole, appeals to a prurient interest in sex and is patently offensive."

The Marquis de Lafayette, hero of both American and French revolutions, sent the key to the Bastille to his friend George Washington, who hung it up in his house at Mount Vernon. It is still there today.

U.S. Battles Sierra Club Injunction On Mineral King

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Ninth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals will consider Monday a motion by the federal government asking the court to move faster in settling a dispute that has halted the $35.3 million Mineral King winter sports resort development in Sequoia National Forest.

The government wants the appellate court to dissolve a U.S. District Court injunction which has stalled the Mineral King project of Walt Disney Productions, Inc.

The Sierra Club, a conservation organization, obtained the injunction in August on grounds the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and the Interior failed to hold public hearings on phases of the development.

Justice Department attorneys said in their motion that the case "directly challenges fundamental management decisions" made by the Interior and Agriculture Departments.

"Delay will not only impede the ability of executive officials to manage federal land, but will cause considerable loss in revenue to the local economy, which stands to reap substantial economic benefits from the project," attorney Jacques B. Gelin argued.

An affidavit supporting the government motion was offered by Edward P. Cliff, Federal Forest Service chief.

Cliff said the injunction had held up expenditure of $22 million for an access road which was to have been started last summer.

He said Disney Productions had spent $750,000 on a master plan which the Forest Service approved last January. Continued delay, he said, could mean that Mineral King will not be developed.

"If Walt Disney Productions withdraws, it will be many years before the combination of private and public endeavor, particularly needed funding, could be brought together again," Cliff added.

Woman To Head Churches Council

DETROIT (UPIK(—Dr. Cynthia Wedel, an outspoken advocate of women's rights, today was elected the first woman president of the National Council of Churches.

Mrs. Wedel, a 61-year-old Episcopalian from Washington, D.C., defeated Rev. Albert B. Cleage Jr., a Detroit Negro pastor, in secret balloting at the NCC's triennial general assembly.

She will serve a three-year term in the highest office of the nation's largest cooperative religious body. The NCC is composed of 33 Protestant and Orthodox denominations with 45 million members.

Four Booted Over Loyalty Oath Refusal

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The University of Florida has fired three faculty members and another employee for refusing to sign a loyalty oath, and a philosophy professor says the move "accounts for why Florida has a second class university system."

The dismissals, effective Nov. 26, were confirmed yesterday by Stephen O'Connell, university president, who said he had extended the deadline for the oath signing three times and had waited "as long as is wise and loyal."

O'Connell acted in the wake of a federal court's denial last month of a temporary injunction barring enforcement of the state law requiring the oath. The injunction had been sought by the American Civil Liberties Union on behalf of 11 faculty and staff members at the university.

IDENTIFIED

Those dismissed were identified as Leroy Lamborn, an assistant law professor; Evan Suits, an intern instructor in psychology; Jerome Miller, an architecture instructor, and Ann Bardsley, a clerk in the school of journalism library. University officials said they were the only members of the staff who had not signed the oath.

Suits said he was told to sign the oath, "but for reasons of conscience I could not do so."

"The university was asking too much," Miss Bardsley said. She said it expects loyalty "on top of a lousy $277 a month take-home pay."

Dr. Thomas Hanna, chairman of the philosophy department, said 18 faculty members picketed the law building for an hour Wednesday protesting Lamborn's dismissal.

WRITES NOTE

Hanna said he signed the loyalty oath, but also wrote a note on the other side of the card.

"I signed the one side, then turned it over and wrote 'That which is signed on the reverse side I deny,' " he said. "I only signed the specified side to draw my salary and play the legislative game."

"There are no Communists here. This is merely a popular political issue which accounts for why Florida has a second class university system," Hanna said.

The loyalty oath says: "I support the Constitution of the United States and of the State of Florida. I do not believe in the overthrow of the government of the United States or of the State of Florida by force or violence."

The cacao bean, used to make cocoa and chocolate products, was first discovered by the Spaniard Cortez, when he entered Mexico in the early 16th Century.

Official Of U.C. Deplores Late-Day, Weekend Classes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Scheduling more classes in late afternoons and on weekends is not the best answer to the demand for classroom space, says a vice president of the University of California system.

Fred. E. Balderston, vice president for planning and analysis, spoke yesterday at an Assembly subcommittee hearing on space utilization in California colleges and universities. The hearing wound up today.

Balderston noted that only student working in the mornings would find it advantageous to take classes at odd hours.

Scheduling on weekend and at the dinner hour lessens a student's opportunities for part-time work and in some cases increases his commuting costs, Balderston said.

He said students should have time for athletics, student government and other activities normally scheduled in late afternoon or in the evening.

He pointed out that in the 10 years prior to 1968, total space per fulltime student in the U.C. system fell from an average of 159 square feet to 156, new campuses.

The average includes campus residential space as well as classroom and laboratory space.

The nine U.C. campuses have a combined enrollment of 106,000, 90 per cent of whom are fulltime students.

Balderston also noted that time spent in the classroom is not the best measure of teaching time and space used.

The trend is for science students to spend more time in the laboratory, and for students to work in the field for parts of their courses, he said.

Old biplanes, survivors of wartime flying schools and now much modified and pampered by their pilot-owners, account for about half the 6,000 aircraft used in modern crop dusting.

Bereaved Father Still Awaits Trial Start

postponed to May 14.

May 14 — Counsel absent again. Case put over to June 4 for setting trial.

May 26 — Bendick filed a petition for writ of prohibition, which was subsequently denied.

June 4 — Bendick again absent from court. Case continued at his request to June 25.

June 25 — Bendick again absent. Case continued at his request to July 2.

On the night of June 26, San Francisco police arrested Hill again, on a charge of selling methamphetamine to a state narcotics agent. They reported finding $1,000 worth of "speed" in his apartment (the same apartment which had yielded the earlier supply) when making the arrest. There was no mention this time of film developer.

On July 2, an indictment was filed on the second offense, alleging two more counts of drug sale; a bench warrant was issued, and bail on the new charge was set at $25,000.

On the same day, Hill appeared in court for setting of trial in the earlier case, but arrived late. Trial setting was continued a week.

On July 9, Bendick was relieved as defense counsel, at his own request. Hill was given two days to obtain new counsel.

July 11 — Hill was given three more days to obtain counsel, with July 14 set for the setting of trial in the first case and arraignment in the second.

July 14 — Hill was arraigned on the two counts arising from the June 26 arrest, with Terrence Hallinan as attorney. Hallinan moved for reduction of bail and it was reduced to $3,750. Setting of trial on the earlier charges was postponed one day because of change of counsel.

July 15 — Both cases were transferred to the court of Judge Francis McCarthy.

July 16 — Hill appeared before Judge McCarthy. Asst. Dist. Atty. Thomas F. Norman moved to have trial of the two cases consolidated. Hill pleaded not guilty to the two later charges. Setting of trial was continued to July 22.

July 18 — Judge McCarthy canceled bail on the second case and released Hill on his own recognizance.

July 22 — The motion to consolidate the two trials was granted. Setting of trial was postponed to Sept. 29.

Sept. 29 — Setting of trial was postponed to Oct. 10.

Oct. 10 — A defense motion interposed and setting of trial was put over to Oct. 17.

Oct. 17 — Defendant failed to appear in court. Setting of trial was postponed to Dec. 1.

Dec. 1 — Case was scheduled for 2 p.m. but was called up during the morning court session, with Hallinan present but Hill absent, and was continued to next Monday. Hill arrived at 2 p.m., left again.

There were some other sequels to the "speed party" which took young Yager's life.

San Rafael police were called to an apartment on Woodland Avenue by one of three others who had participated in the party, after young Yager collapsed and appeared lifeless. They arrested the three: Monty Leon Miller, 19, and Loreen Gail Edwards, 21, of San Rafael, and Kathleen Ann Oatis, 18, of Novato. All were charged with being present where narcotics were used.

Four days later, Judge Alvin H. Goldstein of Marin Municipal Court ordered Miss Oatis turned over to the probation department after her father, Paul A. Oatis Jr., said he had three younger children to rear alone and could not keep her at home. Cases of the others were continued until Feb. 11 of this year, when all three were dismissed for "insufficient evidence," at request of the district attorney's office.

As to the trial of Hill, accused as the seller, Assistant District Attorney Norman of San Francisco said today: "We're ready to go. We have been ready for a long time."

He — and Bill Yager — will be in court again Monday, hoping a date may be set for starting the trial of Everett LeForrest Hill on charges which were filed 14 months ago.

Army Probers Quiz Captain On Massacre

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capt. Ernest Medina underwent Pentagon questioning today about the alleged My Lai massacre. His lawyer said there has been "no coverup" in the case. as far as Medina is concerned.

F. Lee Bailey, representing the former commander of the Army company involved in the controversial incident, also said he has found no evidence a massacre took place at My Lai.

Medina was brought to Washington from Fort Benning, Ga., where he is stationed, to be quizzed in an Army probe of the original 1968 field investigation of the alleged mass killings.

Medina has not been charged in the incident.

Medina was the immediate superior of 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr., the Army platoon leader charged with premeditated murder in the deaths of at least 109 civilians at My Lai March 16, 1968.

The inquiry is an attempt to determine if a brigade-level investigation last year into reports civilians were killed unnecessarily was whitewashed. Interviewed yesterday were five officers who were in Vietnam at the time of the incident.

In New York, a group of former diplomats and State Department officials, including former Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, called today for an investigation of "unquestionable impartiality" into American conduct in Vietnam.

track itself, where the concert will be staged, and on providing portable restrooms, water trucks, medical tent and a child care center.

Scully scotched rumors that 100 off-duty New York policemen who patrolled New York's Woodstock Festival would be flown out. He said nonuniformed security agents would be hired locally, however.

"We think we can manage the crowds and the automobiles," Scully said. Sears Point spokesmen said the track could accommodate up to about 18,000 cars for the performance.

CHP headquarters in Santa Rosa said six traffic officers normally assigned on race days at the track would be on duty Saturday. The Sonoma County Sheriff's office said it will have extra men at the track.

Sears Point officials said no one will be allowed to sleep overnight at the track, and gates will not open until 7 a.m. Saturday.

No food will be available at the concert, officials said.

The Weather Bureau said no rain is expected Saturday, but there may be early morning fog.

sociation, would cost $1.13 billion in 1970-71 and more after that It would require the state to pick up at least half the cost of public schools and 90 per cent of all welfare costs.

The other measure, proposed by Assemblyman Joe Gonsalves, D-La Mirada, would abolish property taxes on homes to support school operations. There would be a $1 tax limit per $100 assessed valuation for school bonds, state loans and voter approved taxes. This would cost $510,000 in 1971-72 in new state money, officials estimated.

Woman Is Found Dead In Apartment

The body of a 36-year-old Sausalito woman, dead for at least two days, was discovered last night in her hillside apartment.

The death of Jarmilla C. Von Kleinow of 35 Crescent Avenue was under investigation today by Sausalito police, who said the case was being treated as an "unattended death" since there was no indication of violence, Police Capt. R. D. Malkin said. A pathology report should be completed this afternoon.

Miss Von Kleinow's body was discovered, according to police, at 10 p.m. yesterday by her landlord after her former roommate called him saying she suspected Miss Von Kleinow might be dead.

The roommate, Wyoma Kerns, 44, a hostess at the Valhalla restaurant in Sausalito, had moved out of the apartment Monday evening and she returned to the apartment yesterday afternoon to pick up some of her clothes, according to police. When she entered, she glanced into Miss Von Kleinow's bedroom and saw her lying on the bed, apparently asleep.

However, when she tried later to telephone Miss Von Kleinow and got no answer she began to worry. She then called the landlord, police said.

The blue-eyed, blonde Miss Von Kleinnow was found lying face down on the bed wearing black boots, stretch pants and shirt.

According to the Marin County Coroner's office the only marks on her body were two small scratches on her right knuckle and wrist.

A native of Illinois, Miss Von Kleinow, a divorcee, was employed as a photo developer. She had lived in Sausalito for one year, police said.

She is survived by a brother in Redwood City.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley.

Lagunitas Fund Woes Group Forms

Citizen committees to look for a way out of the Lagunitas School District's financial woes were formed last night at a special meeting of the district board.

Supt. Marshall J. McCunniff told an organizational meeting that district reserves at the end of the school year would be dangerously low — about $8,000 or $10,000, down from the $15,000 estimate given at the beginning of the year.

McCunniff said committees were formed to investigate possible economies in district spending and possible reduction of the educational program. A full committee would then investigate ways of obtaining more funds, either through increased state aid or a local tax rate increase or decide whether to cut expenditures.

McCunniff said he would meet with the teaching staff next week to ask where possible reductions in the instructional program might be made.

About 25 persons attended the meeting. McCunniff said letters of invitation were sent to about 250 parents.

Nixon Extends Food Stamp Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Jean Mayer, President Nixon's food expert, told a news conference today the President had ordered the food stamp program extended to 350 counties which do not presently operate such a program.

The news conference was called in connection with the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health, of which Mayer is director.

He said the food stamp extension order had gone to Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin.

POLLUTE

down polluters "until they clean up the mess."

Ralph E. Warner, an attorney for the Contra Costa Legal Services Foundation, threatened court action against the district unless it treats the problem of air pollution "seriously and takes steps to improve conditions."

Noting the district board blames the automobile for most smog, Warner said, "Perhaps the degree to which a person worries about pollution from automobiles is some measure of how affluent he is. In North Richmond, where people live with the rotten smelling brown air dumped out by neighboring industries, they don't worry about pollution from automobiles much."

He called for "an immediate investigation" of Chevron Chemicals' Ortho Division, asserting it consistently violates district regulations. Allied Chemical Company's emissions "permeate everything," he added, and also should be subject to the new state standards.

Jesse Holoman, speaking for the North Richmond Neighborhood Council, said air pollution was so severe in his poor community that "the flowers just won't grow."

Shirley Madison, a community organizer in the council, told the directors that asthma was common in the area because of air pollution. She presented a petition signed by 50 people demanding the same quality of air as in white, more prosperous areas.

The board also was urged by Warner to meet in Richmond. "For poor people, it's very difficult to get to San Francisco," he said.

The only positive response from the directors was from San Rafael City Councilman John A. Miskimen, who said the speakers "have a very legitimate complaint."

Miskimen's support of holding a board meeting in Richmond drew applause from the audience, but a cool response from board chairman Laurence D. Kelly, a councilman in Piedmont.

Callaghan promised to report back to the board at its Jan. 7 meeting — in San Francisco, not Richmond.

Mrs. Lord, then presented the directors with Christmas cards soaked in carbon disulfide to show them that her neighborhood "smells like an open sewer pipe."

Kelly and San Mateo County Supervisor Robert B. St. Clair objected especially to Mrs. Lord's attack, and Kelly urged her to try "legal action against us.

"It's easy for you to step up and be an expert overnight," Kelly said to her.

Another director, Belmont City Councilman Morton L. Podolsky, who noted he had worked for years in the petrochemical industry, objected that her attack was not substantiated. A study of California children by pediatricians found them to be 10 per cent healthier than children elsewhere in the nation, he said.

The angry attacks on the board came after Callaghan issued a statement rebutting other recent citizens' attacks on the district, which he termed "an organized attempt to embarrass and discredit this district." He offered no motive for such an attempt.

He reiterated district statistics which he said showed "this district has done, by every objective criteria, an effective job of controlling air pollution." He argued that "there has been measurable improvement in air quality during the past 10 years."

Turning to the past weeks' poor visibility in the Bay Area, the district's director of technical services, Dr. Milton Feldstein of San Rafael, said the air only looked dirty, but added that "the health danger is low."

Unusually stagnant air has trapped pollutants all over this part of the state, he said, but most of the reduction in visibility is caused by condensation of moisture on particulates, he said.

Eleanor M. Katz Dies

Eleanor M. Katz of 224 Devon Drive, San Rafael, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness.

UNRUH

I can be that kind of governor."

Nowhere in his official announcement did Unruh refer —directly or indirectly—to Alioto, who has indicated he will declare his candidacy in mid-January.

Reagan is expected to announce his candidacy for a second four-year term in March. He faces no major opposition in the Republican primary.

Right now Reagan leads both Unruh and Alioto by nearly 2-to-1 in public opinion polls, with the assemblyman faring slightly better than the mayor. In a head-and-head primary race, polls have shown Unruh beating Alioto by about 2-to-1.

Unruh for years has desired the governorship. In 1966 he hoped former Gov. Edmund G. Brown would step aside so he could run. Reagan beat Brown by a landslide.

Unruh also told friends he had grown weary of the legislative process. He first was elected to the Assembly in 1954 and served as Speaker from 1961 through 1968—longer than any man in California history.

In late 1968 he trimmed off 90 pounds in an effort to shed his nickname of "Big Daddy."

The USC graduate, whose major legislative efforts have been in the fields of education, civil rights and consumer protection, decided to announce six months before the primary to dispel rumors he might not run.

McCormack Tiffs With Liberals On Poverty War

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bitter struggle over antipoverty legislation has widened the split between Speaker John W. McCormack and liberal House Democrats.

Over McCormack's strenuous objections, liberals yesterday forced postponement of the controversial antipoverty bill moments before it was due to be called up.

The almost unprecedented action was designed to give backers of the bill, which would continue the present antipoverty program with only minor changes, more time to line up support.

Otherwise they feared defeat at the hands of a Republican-southern Democrat coalition backing an alternate proposal to shift major responsibility for the antipoverty effort from the federal government to the states.

McCormack, under pressure to wind up the current House session by Dec. 20, refused at first to consider demands for a delay. But he was forced to yield during a stormy meeting in his office yesterday morning.

Volcanic eruptions have enriched El Salvador's soil with lava and ashes to make it ideal for growing staples such as corn, rice, beans, and sugar.

RUTH WHITE

PERTH AMBOY, N.J. (AP) — Actress Ruth White, known for her numerous stage, screen and television character roles, has died in this North Jersey community where she was born and lived all her life. She was 55.

She succumbed in Perth Amboy Hospital yesterday after an illness of several months. A hospital spokesman said death was due to "severe anemia."

In 1964, Miss White won the Emmy Award for best supporting actress as the mother of an Irish girl in the television play "Little Moon of Alban."

In 1967, she received an award given by the New York chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences for her role as Mrs. Ruggles in "The Club Bedroom" on television.

At the time of her death, she was vice president of the Catholic Actors Guild.

Miss White never married. She leaves a sister, Mrs. Genevieve Driscoll and two brothers, Richard F. and Charles, all of Perth Amboy. Charles, also an actor, is now appearing in New York in the revival of "Front Page."

The funeral will be Monday.

CONCERT REVIEW

It's Beethoven's Year At Symphony

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — Josef Krips last night opened the San Francisco Symphony's 58th season, and his seventh and last with the orchestra, in a sold-out opera house, whose audience welcomed him to the podium with great enthusiasm.

An all-Beethoven program, including the overture to "Egmont" and the Second and Fifth symphonies, ushered in what will be a season-long Beethoven celebration honoring the 200th anniversary of the composer's birth.

Of a total of 71 compositions to be performed, 23 will be Beethoven works.

No showman, Krips, who is a Beethoven specialist, conducted with his usual almost military precision, dynamic force and economy of motion an unspectacular performance, but one marked by both superb realization of architectonic structure and careful attention to detail.

Nothing was really electrifying, unless it was the finale of the great symphony No. 5 in C Minor, when the heavy artillery of the trombones joining the brilliant trumpets revved up the sonority to a tremendous climax.

This was, of course, the major work of the evening. The first Allegro Con Brio movement, when the so-called "fate" motive is announced immediately, was monumental but not quite in the mood of titanic, elemental struggle for which it is known, and the third movement seemed rather slow for allegro at times. times.

RICH TONE

Since the orchestra has very strong violins, I was pleased to hear the low strings often brought up to their level, as especially noticed in the Andante Con Moto second movement, and their tone was rich.

For those who note other than purely musical values, such as literary references, a unifying element of the program was the "fate" idea in both the Fifth Symphony and the "Egmont" overture, which opened the concert. In the latter, written by Beethoven for Goethe's tragedy, the same struggle against fate as in the Fifth Symphony could be imagined, since that is the destiny of the hero of "Egmont."

One of the most interesting things about the middle number on the program, the Symphony No. 2 in D Major, was to compare how it sounds today with how it was described by a musicologist shortly after it was written.

Last night the impression was of a noble and sunny work for the most part, whereas in that description it was called "a gross monstrosity, an immense wounded snake bleeding to death but unwilling to die."

Such a reaction is fantastic in view of a larghetto, whose first part could be a song and a later one a dance, and the light, airy scherzo. This symphony was beautifully performed except for some insecurity in the hours.

Perhaps this is a good time to remind Marin Symphony lovers that though tickets are not yet available for the three-concert series. The San Francisco Symphony will present in Marin, they should have their names placed on the mailing list by calling the symphony office at the Opera House in San Francisco.

Agreement Reached In Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agreement was reached today on a new contract between the country's railroads and four shopcraft unions, averting a threatened nationwide rail shutdown.

The agreement, announced by Labor Secretary George P. Shultz after an all-night session between negotiators, will have to be ratified by the union membership.

At 11:30 a. m. EST, after first making a hurried trip to the White House to give President Richard M. Nixon the word, Shultz told reporters:

"I am very pleased to be able to announce here that free collective bargaining has triumphed."

"We do have a settlement, voluntarily agreed to by management and the shopcraft unions.

"There will not be a railroad strike."

Details of the agreement were not immediately disclosed.

Unions and management negotiators met jointly most of yesterday, then met separately with mediators from midnight to about 8:30 a.m., EST. They then resumed a joint meeting.

Shultz, whose policy of noninterference was being put to a vital test, slept on a couch in a nearby office as the negotiations dragged through the night.

Sources said union members, restless after working a year without a contract, had been pressing union negotiators to settle the dispute quickly or to call a strike.

Nixon May Delay Next GI Cutback

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon is expected to delay a decision on further U.S. troop withdrawals from South Vietnam because of a step-up in North Vietnamese infiltration and increased American casualties.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler had left wide open the possibility yesterday that Nixon would disclose a third-stage troop withdrawal at his next formal news conference announced for 6 p.m. PST Monday.

Other administration sources, however, discounted the likelihood of such a cutback, pointing to the latest casualties and infiltration statistics.

Although Nixon obviously will be asked about a possible new troop pullout—to come on top of previous withdrawals totaling more than 60,000 men—sources indicated the President is more apt to say Monday he has yet to reach a decision. He may well point to factors prompting a go-slow approach.

In August, Nixon delayed his second-stage withdrawal announcement nearly a month because of increased enemy activity. The current situation seems parallel to that.

Nevertheless, many believe the chief executive wants to make a committment before the end of 1969 to bring total withdrawals to more than 100,000 men, a goal he set last summer in trying to top a recommendation by Clark M. Clifford, last secretary of defense in the Johnson administration.

U.S. forces in South Vietnam now number somewhat under 480,000.

Manpower Hike Due Air Reserve Program

A reorganization and renaming of the Sixth Reserve Region will bring some more personnel to Hamilton Air Force Base, according to Maj. Gen. Rollin B. Moore, commander of the Air Force Reserves.

General Moore was at Hamilton this week to help reorganize the Sixth Reserve Region headquarters there. He left yesterday for Robins Air Force Base, Ga.

The reserves have hitherto divided into five regions will be organized into three regions with the Sixth region at Hamilton becoming the Western Reserve Region on Jan. 1, General Moore said. The western region includes 10 Western states, among them Alaska and Hawaii. The central and eastern regions are the other two.

When the reorganization is completed, the Western Reserve Region will have 194 employees, both military and civilian, according to Col. Melvin E. Jarvis, director of personnel for the sixth region, increase of 47 over the present authorized strength.

General Moore said that the transfer of the 904th Military Airlift Wing to Hamilton from Stewart Air Force Bawe, N.Y., is on schedule. Fifty-three technicians will arrive the first two weeks in January. Seven planeloads of their equipment are now at Hamilton awaiting arrival of unloading crews.

It will probably take a year to fill all the positions in the 904th from reservists from the Bay Area, General Moore said.

Colonel Jarvis said that they are accepting applications for reservists in all catagories, both with and without experience.

Only One Charge For Petaluman

Only a misdemeanor charge of possessing a stereo set from which the identification numbers had been removed was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against George Michael Goulart, 18, of Petaluma.

He had been arrested Saturday at Nicasio Dam and booked on suspicion of that charge as well as possessing marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia and having a reproduced driver's license.

Officers said that his car, which was parked in an area posted "no trespassing," contained an auto stereo from which the numbers had been removed.

AWOL Soldier Taken To MPs

An AWOL soldier was turned over to the Armed Forces Police today after he was seen on Second Street by San Rafael police.

Terry Paul Cyncar stopped at 12:57 a.m. near Shaver Street, refused to show police identification and a check was made that revealed Cyncar, also known as Taras Cyncar and Patrick Paul Paulson, was AWOL from Fort Lewis, Wash.

Notes found in his belongings said that the soldier had benn living in Canada, police said.

Hub Homes Group Votes On Licensing

The San Anselmo Homes Association voted unanimously in favor last night of the gross receipts business license ordinance given preliminary approval by the city council.

President Paul N. Brand said several members pointed out that revenue from business licenses had risen less than 2 per cent during periods when city property taxes jumped over 90 per cent.

The tax ordinance, establishing rates for a business license at $20 plus 30 cents per $1,000 of gross receipts, was tentatively approved, 3-1, by the city council Tuesday night. Adoption was set for this Tuesday.

In other action, the association urged the Marin County Board of Supervisors to retain in Ross the floral and art sections of the Marin Art and Garden Show. The show is due for a future move to the Civic Center.

Freighters Delayed By Firemen's Union

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Six more freighters were delayed in West Coast ports yesterday because members of the Marine Firemen's Union refused to sign on for engine room duty.

This brought to 20 the total number of ships delayed on the West Coast and Hawaii as a result of a union-employer dispute over proposed crew cutbacks.

Haynsworth To Keep Membership On Bench

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon announced today that Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. will continue to serve as chief judge of the Fourth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

With Haynsworth standing at his side, Nixon went before newsmen at the White House to describe his rejected nominee for the Supreme Court as a victim of "brutally vicious" attacks. In the face of these, the President said, the judge might well have considered stepping down from the circuit bench.

"A weak man would," said Nixon. "A fearful man would. The judge is not a weak man."

Nixon said he was delighted by Haynsworth's decision and cited what he described as his own philosophy that an individual is never without defeat somewhere along the line but he should never be fearful.

Stepping to the microphone, Haynsworth acknowledged that "no one likes to lose."

But he said he had been greatly encouraged, since the 55-45 Senate vote against his nomination on Nov. 21, by thousands of letters.

Haynsworth said he has learned that the judges of the Fourth Circuit wants him to retain the chief judgeship and that the bar "wants me back."

Turning to Nixon, Haynsworth said: "I am very grateful to you for your steadfast support."

Huks Kill Five

MANILA (UPI)—Communist Huk guerrillas killed five persons and critically wounded four others in an ambush 40 miles north of Manila last night, the Philippine Army said today. The report said among those killed were a woman and two relatives of Mayor Suarez of Angeles City.

CONGRATULATIONS — Actress Ethel Merman hugs Guy Lombardo backstage at Carnegie Hall after the musician and his band gave a concert. Lombardo, who appeared last night in New York City, also received congratulations from President Richard M. Nixon.

Lombardo At Carnegie Hall After 45 Years On The Road

NEW YORK (AP) —President Richard M. Nixon sent congratulations and Ethel Merman went backstage to kiss Guy Lombardo last night as the "sweetest music this side of heaven" finally made Carnegie Hall after 45 years on the road.

About 2,000 mostly middle-aged or older fans went sedately wild as the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" brought Lombardo and his 12-piece band to the stage which is much more accustomed to Leonard Bernstein and Beethoven's Fifth.

"You bet your life I'm an old fan of Guy's—no, make that a young fan," Miss Merman said as she made up for Guy's complaint, "I've never been kissed on New Year's Eve, I've always been too busy playing."

Nixon, at whose inaugural Lombardo played, wrote wishing luck and said, "I hope Pat and I will dance to your music before long."

Lombardo said he hoped to play at the White House perhaps next summer between stints of presenting "Sound of Music" at Jones Beach. Meanwhile, he told reporters: "It's such a thrill to play Carnegie Hall."

There were few, very few, under-30s at the concert but one couple, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Tebbe of Metuchen, N.J., said they came because "we just enjoy Lombardo's music. We watch him on television New Year's Eve and we buy all his albums."

They agreed with Mrs. Gloria Watson, a public relations officer for the Bank of North America in New York, "It's the sexiest music this side of heaven."

Mrs. Watson was with her mink-clad mother, Mrs. Helen Chingos, who said, "I remember him when he started in Detroit—and that was in 1925."

Mrs. Nora Davison of Toronto said she had come down for the concert because "after all they're the Royal Canadians."

Lombardo said he'd wanted to play Carnegie for 45 years—ever since 1924 when Paul Whiteman played George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" there "and made jazz respectable."

The largest of North America's freshwater fishes, sturgeons range from five to 12 feet long. The fish drags four sensitive barbels — a type of feeler — across the ocean bottom to help weak eyes find food.

INDION (UPI)—A Superior Court judge has continued the trial of John Barrymore Jr., charged with illegal drug possession until tomorrow following disclosure that the attorney for the son of the late actor was involved in another case.

Judge Carl Lynn Davis refused a longer continuance yesterday after the counsel for Barrymore had asked for more time.

California Highway Patrolmen arrested Barrymore last August after they said they allegedly saw him hiding containers of what appeared to be drugs during investigation of a traffic accident in which he was involved.

Marijuana Suspect To Juvenile Court

The case of James Harry Caulkett, 19, of San Rafael, has been accepted by juvenile court, it was reported yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Caulkett is accused of possessing marijuana when arrested in San Rafael Nov. 8.

Two Sausalito Charges Denied

James Macdonald Maxey, 57, of Fairfax, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana and being drunk in public when arrested Nov. 26 in Sausalito.

A preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Maxey was arrested when police found him sleeping in a bus shelter on Bridgeway and found two alleged marijuana cigarettes when they searched him.

Larkspur City Council Tables Proposed Ban On Public Drinking

Larkspur City Council last night tabled a proposed ordinance to ban drinking alcoholic beverages on public property, which was designed to halt juvenile drinking in parks.

Council action came after Police Chief Howard H. Clark said existing state laws covering juvenile drinking are adequate.

If the city had a specific location where there was a problem, it could "enact an ordinance for that situation," the chief said.

Councilmen tabled the proposed ordinance, saying it could be brought before them again at any time upon request.

The council also heard a report from City Engineer Roy H. Hoffman about a plan to provide permanent road access to the Meadowood subdivision by extending East Ward Avenue to Meadowood Drive.

The proposed roadway would cross land owned by Inez Niven, and the council passed a resolution to institute eminent domain proceedings to acquire the necessary property, a 50-foot wide strip, 380 feet in length.

Hoffman estimated that road construction would cost $25,000, construction of a bridge across Arroyo Holon, $30,000 and relocation of one house, $1,500.

City Mgr. Kent Bathurst said developers of the subdivision have indicated they are willing to pay for the cost of the bridge.

The council also authorized Bathurst to negotiate with Mrs. Niven on acquisition of the right-of-way.

The Larkspur City Council Also:

REZONING — Upheld planning commission denial of an application by Gerald Henrricks for rezoning from duplex to multiple dwelling on a Hawthorne Avenue lot between Sycamore Avenue and King Street.

"SLOW" SIGNS — Received a report from Bathurst that "slow" signs have been painted on pavement at Oak Road and Wilson Way in response to a petition from residents of the area. Public Works Director Warren Mistron estimated that eight persons signed the petition.

POLICE DEPARTMENT — Approved hiring an additional patrolman for the police department, effective Jan. 1.

RESPONSIBILITY — Adopted an ordinance placing the responsibility for building and planning enforcement with the planning commission and superintendent of planning and building, which Bathurst described as a minor revision.

BUSINESS LICENSES — Amended the business license ordinance to eliminate the "occasional transaction" provision.

VEHICLE — Authorized the purchase of a station wagon through the state for the public works department, at a cost of $2,200.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS — Authorized contributing $500 toward Christmas decorations in downtown Larkspur.

CURB ENCROACHMENTS — Received a letter from C. E. Dunham of 279 Eliseo Drive criticizing the city's policy on removal of driveway encroachments, and authorized staff to reply.

COMMENDATION — Authorized letter commending Maj. Gen. James R. Winn, commander of Western North American Air Defense Command, formerly headquartered at Hamilton Air Force Base, for his community relations, and a letter of appreciation to D. K. MacDonald of 57 Paseo Way, for his work in his neighborhood correcting driveway encroachment problems.

BOAT RAMP — Instructed Bathurst to consult with Pierre W. Joske, county director of parks and recreation, on possible joint development of a boat launching ramp on Corte Madera Creek under the Greenbrae overpass. State funds had been refused because the city intended to charge a parking fee, Bathurst reported.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Dec. 17 at city hall.

Reagan Moves Funds To Help Cal-Vet Loans

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — In a move to provide a "temporary substitute for permanent funding" for the Cal-Vet Farm and Home Loan Program, Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday announced a $13 million loan has been made from the state General Fund to the Cal-Vet program.

Reagan said, in announcing the iterim financing, the loan "underscores the administration's confidence in the future of the Cal-Vet program, and our continued determination to help our veterans where we can be most effective."

Reagan said the state Constitution prohibits the sale of veteran bonds above 5 per cent interst. He urged support of a Constitutional Amendment on the June 1970 ballot which would authorize sale of all state bonds at interst rates of up to 7 per cent.

If the voters approve the new interest rates, it will release $200 million in previously authorized veterans' bonds, still unsold because of the interest problem.

Reagan emphasized that the bond interest increase will not affect the veterans' loan interest rate, which presently is 4.25 per cent.

He estimated that each million dollars in the $13 million loan will finance 55 homes at the present average of $18,000 per home loan.

Guilty Plea To Burglary

George Richard Thomas, 42, of San Francisco, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to burglarizing the home of Gail Snodgrass on Ross Road in Sausalito last Thursday.

A charge of stealing a car on Nov. 24 was dismissed by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr.

He ordered Thomas to appear in superior court Monday for setting of a sentencing date on the felony charge.

86 Flee Fire In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A four-alarm fire raged through a three-story frame hotel and two adjacent buildings today, forcing 86 persons into the streets.

Fire Chief William Murray estimated damage at $50,000 to the Woodward Hotel in the Mission District and two flats. No injuries were reported.

Murray said the blaze started in a second floor bedroom.

WORK OFFER

Girl, 9, Has Very Clean Idea

A 9-year-old Larkspur schoolgirl who volunteered to clean streets for the city didn't land a job, but she warmed the hearts of city councilmen last night.

She won a promise of city cooperation of any project she and her classmates in the fourth grade at Hency C. Hall undertake to keep Larkspur clean.

Several weeks ago Denise Barry of 24 Holly Avenue wrote to Public Works Director Warren Mistron offering to work.

She explained that after watching a movie about people littering land, she was "thinking about volunteering to work after school cleaning up the streets. If you want me to I can make a chart of how many students want to help keep Larkspur clean, 3:30 to 5."

Mistron replied that it was refreshing to hear from "a group like you and your friends who are willing to give their time to help in our efforts to keep our city clean and attractive."

He explained that due to labor laws and liability coverage, the city could not let her "volunteer to work for the city as such," but if she and her friends decided on an area to work in they should let him know.

"We will then have the streets crew put trash cans in the area for you to put litter in, and we will pick them up when you are through and empty them. We can do this as often as you like, and would be most grateful for the help."

Hearing of the offer last night, councilmen agreed she was a good citizen, and agreed to send her a letter of appreciation.

South California's Salton Sea, formed when the freshwater Colorado overflowed from 1605 to 1907, is already more briny than the oceans. Agricultural waste waters carry more than 10,000 tons of salt into it every day.

Coed Reports Attempt At Kidnapping

A Sonoma State College coed told Sonoma County sheriff's officers that an attempt was made to kidnap her at the college yesterday at 9:30 p.m.

Kathy Sosic, 21, said she was hitchiking on the college grounds and accepted a ride to her East Cotati Avenue apartment from a middle aged man.

She said that he turned in the wrong direction upon leaving the college and refused to change direction. "You're not going anywhere," she reported he said. She said he pulled a gun from beneath the seat but did not point it at her.

Miss Sosic said she grabbed the gun with her left hand and opened the car door with her right and rolled onto the pavement. She said the man continued driving. She suffered bruises on her knees, elbows, chin and nose in the fall, but was not hospitalized.

She described the man as being 40 to 45-years-old, driving what may have been a 1950 Tan Renault.

Gravel Dredging Army Permit Renewed

The Army Corps of Engineers has granted a three-year extension to the United Sand and Gravel division of A. G. Schoonmaker Co. for commercial dredging in San Francisco Bay on the southwest side of Angel Island.

No objections to the extension were received, the corps said. The dredging will remove 350,000 cubic yards of material a year at maximum depths of 60 feet.

THIS DECEMBER DIFFERENT?

Last December was one of the wettest in Marin history, and chillier than normal for both Marin and Southern Sonoma, but maps prepared from 30-day U.S. Weather Bureau forecasts indicate that month will be less damp and possibly cooler. Average San Rafael rainfall in December is 6.82 inches; 14.01 inches fell last December. Average temperatures in both San Rafael and Petaluma range from mid-50 highs to high 30s or low 40s. San Rafael had a low of 31 last Dec. 21, while Petaluma shivered at 21 degrees. Dec. 5 was warmest: 65 in San Rafael and 61 in Petaluma. Christmas Eve was the wettest day. (AP Wirephoto maps)

Illinois Black Panther Chief Killed In Chicago Shootout

CHICAGO (AP) — Two persons—one identified as Fred Hampton, leader of the Black Panther party in Illinois—were killed and seven others were wounded today in a gun battle on the West Side.

The shooting erupted as police arrived at a building adjacent to the Black Panther offices and attempted to serve a warrant. Police said the warrant charged Hampton and Bobb Rush, another Illinois Panther leader, with illegal possession of firearms.

The Cook County state's attorney's office identified Hampton as one of the two persons killed. The other was identified as Mark Clark, 22, of Peoria.

Two policemen were among those wounded or injured, one by gunshot and the other by flying glass. Neither was hurt seriously.

Three women were among the five others treated for wounds.

Hampton was with eight other persons who opened fire at members of a special prosecution unit of the state's attorney's office who forced their way through barricaded doors at the West Side address, according to Richard Jalovec, an assistant state's attorney.

Twelve shotguns, eight handguns and 5,000 rounds of ammunition were found scattered throughout the apartment, Jalovec said.

Wider Range Suggested In Grand Jury

Members of the Marin County Grand Jury should represent a wider cross section of the community in age, sex, race and economic levels, the Marin Council for Civic Affairs board of directors decided last night.

President Margaret Azevedo announced that the board adopted the following recommendations made by the council's grand jury committee, headed by Mrs. Jacob Savitt of Belvedere:

Superior Court judges should solicit civic organizations through the mail and by publicity to submit names of persons to serve on the grand jury. This solicitation should take place late in the summer or early fall so that judges can make the selection before the end of each year.

Consideration should be given to geographical, social, economic, age, sex and race distribution of the county so that the grand jurors will be representative of the entire community.

In the letters to the civic organizations, the judges should include some suggested guidelines for recommending prospective grand jurors and also include a simple, uniform form in which the recommending organization can provide some background on each nominee.

Mrs. Azevedo said this is a partial report from the council's grand jury committee. The committee will continue studies and hopes to make further recommendations on changes in the power on grand juries and methods used.

The Council also accepted the resignation of Jack Schoop of San Rafael, president-elect of the Northern California Chapter of the American Institute of Planners, who will not have time to serve on the council board.

The council set two meetings next month, on Jan. 7 and on Jan. 28. Both will be held at the Civic Center at 8 p.m.

State Civil Service 5% Pay Hiked Asked

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Personnel Board proposed a 5 per cent across-the-board pay hike for the state's 103,000 full-time civil servants today.

The increase would cost $86.3 million.

This compared with boosts ranging from 6 per cent to 20 per cent and totaling $148 million sought by the California State Employees Association which represents most of the workers.

The board, in sending its final recommendations to Gov. Ronald Reagan, modified its earlier tentative proposal that there be a 10 per cent ceiling on the amount of raises for any one category.

The hikes proposed by the board ranges from the general 5 per cent up to 12.5 per cent for employees in classes "in which salary problems are acute."

The board said those higher increases "are necessary to match salaries paid for similar work in private industry and other public jurisdictions."

The board also reiterated previous proposals for these employee benefits:

That the state pay the full cost of basic employee health insurance.

Night pay differential "where justified by prevailing practice."

Unemployment insurance for state employees who are laid off "for no fault of their own."

Time and one-half for overtime for employes whose counterparts in private industry receive it.

The proposed hikes also would cover the state's 15,000 part-time employees but not teachers in the state college and university systems. Their salary increases are handled separately.

The state employees received a general pay increase last July averaging 5.6 per cent.

Transit Unit Seeks Role Definition

I-J Special Reort

SAN LEANDRO — The Regional Transportation Planning Committee of the Association of Bay Arrea Governments wants more information on what role it can play in improving transportation within San Francisco.

ABAG's transportation committee, headed by Supervisor John F. McInnis of San Rafael, met last night at the Blue Dolfin in San Leandro to discuss a letter from Gordon C. Luce, secretary to the Business and Transportation Agency of California. Luce asked ABAG to consider the "mode of transportation, alternative corridors, and general design characteristics" to improve the link between the Golden Gate and the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridges.

The regional transportation committee appointed McInnis and Jack Maltester of San Leandro to meet with Luce and San Francisco officials to see what role ABAG can play.

Lizette Weiss, community relations director for ABAG, said the next meeting of the regional transportation planning committee will be held on Jan. 7, probably in San Francisco, but the location has not been set.

Two Novato Girls Report Exposure

Two incidents of indecent exposure were reported between 4:15 and 4:30 p.m. yesterday at Marion School in Novato by 15 and 17-year-old girls, police reported.

The man was described by one girl as wearing a dirty grey or brown long-sleeved coat and blue slacks. The other girl said he wore grey slacks and coat, white shirt and black tie. He was described as 26 to 28 years old, about five feet nine inches with brown hair.

Couple Held On Stolen Tools Count

A 35-year old man and his 29-year old female companion were arrested in San Rafael yesterday on suspicion of possessing property stolen in Mill Valley last month.

John Gerald Whooley and Brenda Gene Hinckley, both of the Travelers Inn, 706 Third Street, San Rafael, were booked into Marin County Jail. She was held in lieu of $2,500 bail, he is lieu of $6,250 bail, both to appear today in Marin Municipal Court. At 3:15 p.m., a patrolman saw Whooley putting tools and equipment into a pickup truck owned by Herbert H. Bess, 44, also of the Travelers Inn.

A check proved the equipment was stolen in Mill Valley last month. His companion, Miss Hinckley then told police the tools had been given to her three weeks ago for safekeeping by a man whom she met in a San Francisco bar.

Police said the tools were stolen along with a truck owned by Ronald G. Gaither of 60 Gustafson Court, Novato, which was parked in the Sabella restaurant parking lot on Nov. 11. The truck was recovered in San Francisco the following day.

More of the equipment stolen from Gaither was found in the suspects' hotel room, police said.

Reagan Promises 1970 Tax Reform

OAKLAND (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan last night predicted a program to be presented in January by his administration for a "total" overhaul of the state's tax structure. (See Bagley story, page 1.)

Reagan, addressing a Republican fund-raising dinner, said his forthcoming political campaign for reelection will center on economy in government, a continued crackdown on crime and tax reform.

The governor said his program will call for "total and revolutionary overhaul of the tax structure" and "provide real and lasting property tax relief" by shifting most of the educational costs to the state.

It's the holiday season, 1795. Jacob Beam and his family are buckboarding it around the Kentucky countryside. Chinning with the neighbors. Giving gifts. Jacob Beam is giving his closest friends a bit of himself. Some Beam Bourbon. It comes right from his own choicest grains. His own secret formula. And his secret knack for making the best-tasting, lightest Bourbon within a two days' ride. It's a rare gift, because Jacob never seems to be able to make enough to keep up with the demand.

Today, T. Jeremiah Beam, pictured here, makes Jim Beam Bourbon just like Jacob did, generations of Beams ago. And he's gift-wrapped it in a handsome holiday package. Give it to some of your friends and you'll sort of be doing what old Jacob did. You'll be giving a bit of yourself. And that's still the rarest gift of all. "World's finest Bourbon since 1795."

Alcatraz's For Sale Sign Taken Down

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Alcatraz Island is no longer for sale, at least not for the present.

A spokesman for the island's custodian the federal government's General Services Administration, broke the news to San Francisco officials yesterday in the latest development involving the former prison site in San Francisco Bay.

The island is currently occupied by a group of American Indians who landed on the island two weeks ago and claimed it for Indian use under old peace treaties.

Those who have sought to buy the island include Lamar Hunt of Texas, who offered a couple million in payment. The Indians offered $24 in beads, a deal they described as similar to the purchase of Manhattan Island from the Indians.

Thomas E. Hannon, GSA regional administrator, told the San Francisco Board of Supervisors that the island had been taken off the market.

The city had been planning to buy the former federal penitentiary in San Francisco Bay and had organized a committee to decide what to do with it.

Hannon said Interior Secretary Walter Hickel wants time to determine whether there is further federal use for the island.

If Hickel decides there is no federal use, the city probably will be given first option to buy it, said Richard Laws, the GSA's property management and disposal service regional director. No official price has been put on the island.

The Indian settlers continue making improvements on the island, located a couple of miles from the Golden Gate Bridge.

Classes have been organized in such subjects as native American studies and plumbing has been repaired.

The Indians have a gasoline operated generator which provides a limited amount of electricity.

French Act On Tipsy Driving

PARIS (AP) — Shocked by new figures on alcohol consumption, the French government has decided to define drunken driving as a blood alcohol content of .80 grams per thousand, or the equivalent of two-thirds of a bottle of cheap wine for a man and half a bottle for a woman.

The proposal announced yesterday is expected to win approval in the National Assembly, where the government has a majority, but the wine lobby probably will try to get the figure raised.

Under the present law, a policeman or a judge decides whether a driver is under the influence of alcohol or "in a state of drunkenness." One report says alcohol is a factor in one-third of all traffic accidents.

Instrument Landing Cost Under Study

County Airport manager Francis E. Torr has announced he is sounding out the Federal Aviation Agency on cost of possible installation of instrument landing facilities at Gnoss Field north of Novato.

Torr gave this report to the Marin Aviation Commission at its regular meeting Tuesday at the Civic Center.

"I've been talking with FAA for technical help on an instrument approach facility, but it's still quite preliminary," said Torr.

He also reported that Gnoss Field now has 101 airplanes based at the airport, including 89 single-engine craft and 12 twin-engine airplanes.

The Marin Aviation Commission also:

WORKSHOP — Asked the Marin County Board of Supervisors for a joint workshop meeting at 9 a.m. on Jan. 27.

COLLEGE AVAIATION — Heard from chairman David B. Vail that the College of Marin is interested in starting an aviation course as a part of the regular curriculum.

EXPANSION — Asked Torr for figures on how much revenue could be expected if Gnoss Field is expanded by purchase of 5.3 acres to the south, owned by William Wright.

The whooping crane was given its name because its loud, deep call could be heard as far as a mile away.

Fry Cook 135th Murder Victim

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco's 135th murder victim of 1969 was a fry cook whose body was found lying in a pool of blood outside a Fillmore District social club.

Police quoted witnesses yesterday as saying the victim, Gerald Alexis, 25, had won an undetermined amount of money earlier playing dominoes in the club. In a pocket, police found $1.54.

There has been no arrest.

In 1968 there were 98 homicides in this city.

ART WORK — Victoria Joyner, 12 times a grandmother, and mayor for a ninth term at Osseo, Minn., conducts business from her desk in the plating business. She had to take over after the death of her husband. (AP Wirephoto)

SUCCESS AT 64

Grandmother Named Mayor Ninth Time

OSSEO, Minn. (AP) — Five months after her husband died, Victoria Joyner was busy taking the reins of their electroplating firm when a group of businessmen approached her and one said, "We want you for mayor."

"All right," she replied.

That was in 1953. Since being elected later that year, she has been mayor of this community of 2,900 six miles northwest of Minneapolis. The 64-year-old grandmother of 12 was elected Tuesday without opposition to a ninth two-year term.

With the help of her two sons, her business has expanded. They now operate a 24-lane bowling alley and restaurant opened in 1957 and a golf course established in 1963.

"I've always been very tough," Mrs. Joyner says. "I'm not an easy-going woman.

"I can fire an employeee as easily as I hire him — if he deserves it, and after he's had his day in court."

Mrs. Joyner who has dark brown eyes and brown-gray hair says that through her life she has held a deep religious faith, a strong belief in letting people decide what they want and a drive "to do what needs doing."

"I've never been afraid of anything," she says. "God has been good to us. I've always had faith."

Most days she is at work for the city or her businesses at her office at the electroplating plant founded in 1941 by her husband, Albert. Mrs. Joyner labored with him in the new business, running machines and doing "whatever needed doing." Sons Albert and Orlyn joined the business after they were graduated from college. It is in Brooklyn Park, about a mile from Osseo.

In 1951, they opened an industrial division across the road. Among other products, cast and plated nameplates for appliances are manufactured there.

After her husband died, "I had to step in, so I did," Mrs. Joyner recalled.

The presidencies of the three firms now are rotated among the mother and sons.

"When we have family conferences, they're board of director meetings for three companies," she says, laughing.

Man Arrested In Trespassing

A 49-year old man was arrested in San Rafael yesterday on suspicion of trespassing and carrying a concealed weapon.

Eugene Leroy Striplin, 49, of no known address, was booked into Marin County Jail after Nancy Carolle Brusati told police she had seen him Tuesday in the garage at her home at 28 Tampa Drive and again yesterday at 11:45 a.m.

Police found Striplin in the Elks Club picnic grounds. He had a 15-inch machete sheathed in a scabbord on his person.

Striplin was released on his own recognizance and is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Wednesday.

Antimilitary Time Asked Of Radio, TV

BERKELEY (UPI) — Three San Francisco Bay Area antiwar groups today asked radio and television stations which broadcast armed forces recruiting advertisements to offer equal time for announcements opposing military service.

Attorney Donald Jelinek called on 27 Bay Area broadcasting stations to present both sides of the "controversial issue" of military service.

Congress To Open Bank Fraud Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was to begin work today to curb the illegal use of secret foreign bank accounts, an attack based in part on a multi-million-dollar swindle of the Navy — one of the biggest fraud cases ever cracked by federal authorities.

The case involved a St. Louis company and several of its officers who defrauded the Navy on more than $47 million in contracts for rocket launchers and funneled more than $4 million in overcharges and kickbacks into secret Swiss bank accounts.

In gaining evidence that led to a 30-count indictment, the Justice Department was able—for the first time in history—to crack Swiss bank secrecy.

The principal defendants included Francis N. Rosenbaum, a Washington lawyer with good social and political connections, and Andrew L. Stone, a multi-millionaire St. Louis businessman. Both pleaded guilty to several counts of the indictment.

With the other defendants, they are due for sentencing here next month before U.S. Dist. Judge Oliver Gasch. Rosenbaum and Stone each could be sentenced to 45 years in jail and fined $90,000.

N.Y. INDICTMENT

In addition, yesterday Rosenbaum was indicted in New York on perjury charges stemming from his 1966 testimony to a grand jury there which was looking into possible illegal use of secret Swiss bank accounts.

The House Banking Committee was to start today drafting legislation which would require record keeping and reporting by persons in the United States who deal with foreign banks protected by secrecy laws and by couriers who whisk satchels of secret cash from this country into the hands of discreet foreign bankers.

Records in the rocket launcher case disclose:

The conspiracy spanned a four-year period, from January 1963 to February 1967.

When it began, the Chromcraft Corp. of St. Louis had been receiving Navy contracts to manufacture 2.75-inch rocket launchers for a year. In 1963, Rosenbaum was a director of and special counsel to Chromcraft. Stone was the principal stockholder and chief executive officer.

They submitted cost estimates to the Navy for the rocket launchers, including invoices from a subcontractor, Scientific Electronics, Ltd., of Beverly Hills. The invoices were fraudulent and the Navy overpaid on the contracts for the launchers.

"DESK DRAWER"

Scientific Electronics was nothing more than a desk drawer company and never did any work for Chromcraft.

Later, Scientific was dropped and another dummy corporation, Bregman Electronics, Inc., was incorporated in New York City to continue the fraud.

In 1966, Chromcraft was merged into Alsco, Inc., an Akron, Ohio, firm. Chromcraft's St. Louis rocket launcher manufacturing operation became the Techfab Division of Alsco. Rosenbaum and Stone retained with Alsco the positions they had held with Chromcraft.

The false pricing and overpayments by the Navy continued until 1967 under this new setup.

In addition, Stone and Rosenbaum demanded and received kickbacks totaling $663,481 from Western Molded Fibre Products, Inc., of Gardena, Calif., a legitimate subcontractor first for Chromcraft then for Techfab.

The defendants channeled this money into their Swiss bank accounts. They also channeled more than $2.2 million through Scientific Electronics and nearly $1.2 million through Bregman into Swiss banks.

The Associated Press disclosed in July, 1968, that despite a grand jury probe, the Navy continued to give its rocket launcher contracts to Techfab on a sole-source basis—that is without competitive bidding.

In August, the indictment was returned and six weeks later the Navy backed away from Techfab and said all future contracts for the rocket launchers would be awarded through competitive bidding.

Two new contracts were awarded through competitive bidding earlier this year and could reduce the cost of the launchers by as much as 38 per cent.

Alsco is now under new management.

The House military operations subcommittee is scheduled to open an investigation tomorrow into the fraud surrounding the Navy's procurement of the 2.75-inch rocket launchers.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A lawsuit asking that California residents between 18 and 20 be permitted to vote was before the U. S. District Court today.

The suit was filed yesterday by attorney John R. Cosgrove in behalf of Denise Puishes, 19, a Santa Clara County resident.

Lawsuit Pair Face Charges On Baby Care

The son and daughter-in-law of a wealthy Phillippines businessman, who maintains a home in Tiburon, face charges in San Francisco after a raid on their baby-sitting agency.

The couple, Norman Aguinaldo and his wife, Julia, have been charged with operating a baby-sitting agency without a license, wilful child abuse and conspiracy.

The charges resulted from a raid Nov. 25 by San Francisco police at the couple's apartment at 66 Cleary Court. They were freed on $1,250 bail each.

Police reported the apartment was dirty and 10 babies, from 1 to 4 years of age, were left unattended in three bare, unventilated bedrooms.

Last month Aquinaldo and his wife, filed a $14 million suit against his father, Daniel P. Aguinaldo, in a family feud.

Police said the couple's baby sitting agency came under surveillance on Nov. 18 after a man reported there was nobody in attendance.

Mrs. Aguinaldo had been the baby-sitting business for more than a year and had been charging $25 to $30 a week for each child, police said.

Pessimism At NATO On Paris Talk Future

BRUSSELS (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers gloomily told the other 14 foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization today he is pessimistic about U.S. efforts to negotiate a peace with North Vietnam.

The United States, he said, is ready to negotiate everything at the Paris peace talks—except the right of the South Vietnamese people to determine their own political future. He said President Richard M. Nixon will insist on this right for the South Vietnamese in any settlement negotiated with North Vietnam.

Rogers also expressed the astonishment and shock of Nixon's administration at allegations of American atrocities in the South Vietnamese village of My Lai. His hope was that any American soldiers proven to be responsible would be brought to justice and punished. None of the other ministers thus far have commented on the atrocity subject.

In the annual survey of world affairs, Rogers announced that the Strategic Arms Limitations Talks—SALT— in Helsinki, Finland, will be interrupted in about two weeks and that the American chief representative, Gerard C. Smith, will stop by NATO's Brussels headquarters to report to the council on his way back to Washington. The Soviets are proving extremely businesslike in those talks, Rogers said.

The gist of Rogers' remarks at the closed-door session was relayed to newsmen by officials who were present.

The foreign ministers were debating the international situation, focusing on a proposal by the Soviet-led Communist powers for a conference on European security. In their Prague declaration the six Communist states called on the Western allies to attend such a parley in Helsinki by June 30, 1970.

The consensus so far among statesmen favors negotiating precise new security arrangements in Europe, but they balked at Communist terms.

Rogers, backed by Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart of Britain, cautioned his partners against hurrying into any ill-prepared parley, urging: "Let us be prudent."

The first serially published comic strip appeared in the United States in the last decade of the 19th Century.

Lodge Swan Song Lashes Hanoi Stand

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, addressing the Vietnam peace talks for the last time, said today the United States will continue to participate fully in the negotiations and to seek a compromise.

Lodge announced his resignation last month after 10 months as head of the U.S. delegation. His deputy, Philip Habib, is expected to lead the delegation until President Richard M. Nixon names a successor for Lodge.

"The United States government seeks an early negotiated settlement," Lodge told the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates at the weekly session. "It will continue to seek it.

"We remain ready for give-and-take negotiation in any meeting place. We remain ready for compromise. When you are ready, progress can be speedy."

Lodge spoke after listening to the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese denounce the United States for the alleged mass killing of civilians at My Lai by U.S. soldiers in 1968. The Viet Cong asserted U.S. and South Vietnamese troops are continuing the mass slaughter of civilians every hour.

Lodge said the other side's "obstinate" obstruction was alone responsible for the deadlock which has prevented any progress at the talks other than agreement on the shape of the table.

He again accused Hanoi and the Viet Cong of seeking to take over South Vietnam by conquest and subversion and warned that "President Nixon has set his course and will not be pressured from it."

Lodge recalled that the United States significantly reduced its troop strength in South Vietnam, and declared: "It can be flatly stated that the trend of American involvement in the war in Vietnam has been reversed.

Referring to the other side's refusal to negotiate with the Saigon government, Lodge said: "One might well ask who elected the leadership of the so called (Viet Cong) provisional revolutionary government. Where is its capital? Why are two-thirds of its regular combat forces North Vietnamese? Why is it unwilling to participate in a genuine political contest open to all on an equal basis?"

In a passage inserted in his prepared text, Lodge accused Hanoi and the Viet Cong of making "wild and inaccurate charges" concerning alleged American atrocities in Vietnam.

Referring to the My Lai massacre to which the Hanoi and Viet Cong delegates devoted large parts of their speeches, Lodge said: "An incident such as that alleged in this case is in direct violation not only of U.S. military policy, but it is also abhorrent to the conscience of all the American people.

"Whatever happened will be known because we do not conceal the truth."

"In all this, I submit, our policy is in direct contrast to your own deliberate use of terrorism as a matter of conscious policy."

Emerging from the almost six-hour meeting, Hanoi delegate Xuan Thuy said Lodge "did nothing but bring up the same old tired arguments."

Campers Lose Bargain Day Winter Rates

Beginning Jan. 1, reduced winter rates for state park campgrounds and boat launching sites will be cancelled and higher summer rates will be in effect the year-round, it was announced yesterday.

Two state parks in Marin — Mount Tamalpais and Samuel B. Taylor — will be affected by the winter rate hike, according to Robert K. Crawford, area state park manager.

Crawford said summer fees are $3.50 a day for trailer sites with utility hookups, 3 dollars for class A campsites, 2 dollars for Class B campsites, 1 dollar for Class C campsites and for boat launching facilities.

In the past, persons using the campgrounds during the winter months were charged half price, according to Crawford, who said he did not believe the increase will result in a decrease in campers.

"Our campgrounds has been filled most of the time, despite larger fees in recent years," he said. "Higher costs have not made any difference in the past."

Marin state parks unaffected because they have no overnight camping or entrance charges are: Stinson Beach, Angel Island, Tomales Bay and Marin Headlands.

The fee schedule is being standardized because of the new computer system of reserving campground spaces, William Penn Mott Jr., state parks and recreation director, said.

"With campers able to make reservations on a year-around basis now, it is necessary that a single, standard fee system also be in effect year-around," Mott said.

Smog Board Hears Of Threat In Lawsuit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The existence of all regional agencies in the State of California has been threatened by a lawsuit filed in El Dorado County against the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency.

This report was made yesterday to Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors by the district's counsel, Matthew S. Walker.

The suit filed in El Dorado challenges the state's power to delegate municipal regulatory powers to a special district.

The suit contends that the California Constitution says that the state can delegate such powers only to cities and counties, Walker said.

Walker noted the agencies threatened by the suit include the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Some local governments in the Tahoe basin oppose the creation of a regional agency or district, claiming that such a district would usurp their powers.

PETTING A DUCK that has just come out of the water can be a problem. It must be dried first, and Mrs. Carole Lester keeps a towel handy for this purpose. She dries Patsy, the heroine of her recently published book, "To Make a Duck Happy." (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

Her Book Is About Peter And Patsy

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Mrs. Carole Lester, a youthful looking grandmother who lives in Sausalito, is another woman who has started a new career after many years in another field — secretarial work.

And her two pet Pekin ducks, Patsy and Peter, are responsible, for she has just had her first book, "To Make a Duck Happy," published by Harper & Rowe.

This is not, however, Patsy's debut in print. That occurred on Dec. 23, 1957, when she was six months old, in an Independent-Journal article by the late Larry Lovett, accompanied by a picture showing Patsy modeling a jacket made for her by her mistress.

MUCH HAS happened since then, including the arrival of Peter. Though still handsome, both birds are now in advanced old age for ducks — Patsy, 12, nearly blind with cataracts, and Peter, 10, lame from an attack by a dog.

Mrs. Lester, who was secretary for many years to the superintendent of schools in Bronxville, N.Y., has held various secretarial positions since then, including one at the Presidio in San Francisco. She came to Sausalito in 1946. She lived for a number of years on an ark on the Sausalito waterfront, a setting that proved ideal for Patsy, the little duckling that was given her by a friend who won it in a raffle.

"Patsy used to watch the wild Mallards on what I called the pond, the little backwater around the ark," she says, dance. So I bought Peter for her, and after a stormy period they became a devoted pair, though each had a brief 'other duck' episode. Ducks often mate for life," Carole noted.

OVER THE NEXT 12 years Carole gathered material for her book, which is not only a captivating story for children and adults about the ducks and their Mallard friends, but also a book that will probably become a standard on the care of pet ducks.

Space does not permit a description of the ducks' surprising characteristics and human-like behavior. For that, reading the books is recommended.

"My interest in writing began when I was seven years old," Carole recalls. "I had a "and on learning their courting ways began a mating teddy bear and used to write little books for his 'library.' I didn't become seriously interested in writing until about eight years ago when I looked in women's magazines and thought, 'what tripe this is!' You shouldn't write unless you have something to say.

"The first thing I wrote was a fantasy about the different birds on the backwater around the ark. I sent it out only once, then dropped it.

"I DIDN'T BEGIN writing again," she went on, "until I started my book on the ducks two years ago. I knew no book had been written on pet ducks, and I wrote it to show what ducks are like."

Carole is very happy that her book has been getting excellent reviews, especially in the East. It has been ordered by the state of Ohio for its public schools, is now in its second printing and will be on the National Wild Life Book list for 1970.

Needless to say, she has never eaten duck since she acquired her pets, and in fact became a total vegetarian about two years ago.

"I was really thrilled," she said happily, "when Dr. Frederick Shroyer, literary editor of the Los Angeles Herald Examiner, wrote that reading my book made it impossible for him ever again to enjoy a duck dinner."

BORN IN Harrow, England, Mrs. Lester came to the United States as a child but still retains traces of her British origin in her gentle, soft-spoken manner of talking. She obtained her secretarial training at the well known Katharine Gibbs secretarial school in New York City.

Her son David lives in Palo Alto with his wife Lavonne and their two daughters, Doreen and Vikki.

The new author is presently working on fiction for children about more of the bird characters she knew when she lived on the ark in Sausalito.

PETER AND PATSY, the pet Pekin ducks of Mrs. Carole Lester, splash about happily in the pool at the Sausalito home of their owner, who has just written her first book about them. Pampered, they even had their own radio at one time.

National Costumes Influence De La Renta's Collection

By ANN HENCKEN

NEW YORK (AP) — For the woman who likes drama, Oscar de la Renta's spring collection is filled with the bright but subtle influence of national costumes from around the world.

De la Renta's collection got applause here Tuesday at the American Designer Showings for spring 1970—with plenty of sequins, Spanish shawls and Moroccan embroideries.

His organzas and foulards are light and airy, ruffled at the throat and hem and printed in floral patterns. Some glitter with "Topkapi" jeweled harem boleros and sequined flowers.

THE CAFTAN IS translated into full-length dresses with gathered skirts and embroidery on square armholes and matching shoulder purses. Many waists are sashed, while skirts break low on the hip and flare into ruffles.

Evening pants ensembles are softened by long cardigan coats or Balinese dancer overskirts. Sleeves are often billowing and open at the wrist.

Another designer to offer drama at the day's showings was Marilyn Lewis of Cardinali. She brought out full, high-belted pocket dresses in popcorn cotton —long jackets over pants and pleated skirts in "computer" plaids—a white, two-piece "slashed" pants ensemble with the blouse material breaking into very wide "fringe" above the waist. The Cardinali idea is to design year-round, easy-to-care-for clothes with a fresh, uncrumpled elegant look.

SOME THIRTY designers were represented at a showing of fabrics from Galey and Lord, a division of Burlington Industries. There were Giorgio di Sant "Angelo's pleated plaids, Donald Brooks' red poplin raincoats worn with Peter Max painted stockings. Gayle Kirkpatrick's red and white seersucker pinafores and Geoffrey Bene's beige and black, front-belted poplin coats.

Baking Soda

Tests show that smudges on a car windshield cut night driving visibility by 50 per cent and cause extreme eye fatigue. Each time a driver passes an oncoming car, his irises are forced to make four to five adjustments. To clean windshields of bug splatters and other hazards, applying baking soda dry with a damp sponge, rinse and wipe dry. Baking soda also will erase tar without harming the paint finish on a car's body.

Reception Honors Kirk Malan Allens

By MOLLY MARIN

A reception was held for Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Malan Allen of Ogden, Utah, on Friday night in the cultural hall of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Novato.

In the receiving line with the couple who were married Nov. 8 in Salt Lake City were the best man, Larry Wissbaum of Denver, Colo.; bridesmaids, Ann Williams of Salt Lake City, sister of the bride; and Ann Ekman of Novato; and the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Williams of Salt Lake City; the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley M. Allen of Novato; and his grandmother, Mrs. Delia Malan of Ogden.

Mrs. Allen is the former Sally Christina Williams of Salt Lake City. Kirk was graduated from Novato High School and is now attending Weber State College in Ogden.

KAREN EVANS is honoring Jean Hinkley at a bridal shower tonight at the Kent Woodlands home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans.

The dinner for 10 is for the future bride of John Howe. The couple will be married Dec. 27 at St. John's Church in Ross. Jean is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hinkley of Kentfield.

THE 15TH ANNUAL Florence Avenue Block Christmas Party is planned for Dec. 20 on the San Anselmo street, where neighbors will gather at 7:30 p.m.

Christmas carols will be sung around a pot bellied stove while the children await the arrival of Santa Claus (Gene Pollman). Refreshments will be served around a Christmas tree decorated by the children.

Should Children Join Holiday Dinner Table?

AP Newsfeature

Should children eat holiday dinners at a separate table?

This is a question that plagues many mothers during the Christmas season, and unfortunately there is no pat answer.

Ideally, says the Good Housekeeping Institute, children who are old enough should eat their meals with adults during the holidays since they are traditionally a family time and often the only occasion when relatives gather together.

ALLOWING CHILDREN to eat at the same table not only gives them a chance to be with seldom-seen relatives, but it also eliminates many cooking and serving problems. If children eat before the adults, keeping the turkey and vegetables fresh and warm until the adults are ready to sit down can be a problem. Keeping meats and gravy at room temperature after serving may promote bacterial growth, which can cause food poisoning. So, if at all possible serve adults and children at the same time.

After a busy day of opening and playing with new presents, and greeting favorite relatives, children are likely to work up an appetite sooner than adults. If you plan to feed the whole family at once, make sure the children have a large breakfast or lunch, whichever precedes the dinner to keep them from clamoring to be fed until the adults are ready to eat.

When it is impossible to feed the whole family together — perhaps you don't have the room or the table space — don't worry about it. Youngsters will not feel cheated or deprived if parents explain why they are eating at a separate table. However, when a large age gap exists between the youngsters — for example, one or two are teenagrs and the others are 7 to 8 — let the teen-agers eat with the adults. Otherwise, they may feel slighted.

LARGE FAMILY dinners can put a strain on the supply of dinnerware. If you don't have enough, give the children holiday-decorated paper plates, plastic tableware and paper napkins.

These are tears.

One day back in 1960, we remember seeing three of them. But not since. Mostly nice big smiles are what we see around our place. On our salesgirls. And our wrapping girls. On our buyers. And their assistants. On our customers, too. Who very much approve both our clothes and our clothes philosophy. (Which is that every woman is a different message and therefore requires a different combination of clothes.) And our attitude. (Which is nice and un-pushy and helpful without being motherly.) If you'd like a very happy store that specializes in customers of the same, see us. The only place we believe in tears is at the movies.

See our fashions modeled informally at Holiday Inn every Tuesday luncheon.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

College Education Is Available For Those Willing To Look

DEAR HELEN:

I would like to tell "No Room At The 'In'" that a college education is available to all qualified high school graduates, if they're willing to look. True some states have a shortage, but there are hundreds of openings in private colleges throughout the country. Many offer scholarships, work grants and loans.

While California and eastern state colleges and universities seem filled to overflowing, many states in between will accept students for a comparatively small out-of-state tuition.

I know. I started college with $36 and ended up with eight years of higher education, six of them outside of my own state. — J. P. R.

DEAR HELEN:

There is plenty of room for part-time study in most colleges. From part-time, it is easy for proven students to enter the junior or senior level where there is more room because of drop-outs. — ONE WHO COMMUTED AND GRADUATED

DEAR HELEN:

There is a computerized service for grade C students, and "No Room" can find out about it by asking his high school counselor. We used it and our mail was flooded with information about colleges with openings. Some of these were waiting for accreditation, some were expensive, but there is room. And many of these colleges offered federal and state loans, to be paid at low interest after graduation. — C.C.

DEAR HELEN:

I am twelve and one-half years old and in grade eight. My problem is that my old lady is a pain in the neck. I have a skimpy 75 cents a week allowance that can't even buy two packs of cigarettes.

She is always yelling and complaining and grounding me for dumb things like staying out too late, or not eating my vegetables.

Last night she caught me smoking in my room and blew her head off. I got mad and called her an old fogey and a good for nothing bum, which made her so hot she spanked me with her hairbrush. She never did that before!

I cried and screamed and today I'm playing hookey to get even. What's wrong with smoking when she does it? Is there a state law against spanking almost-teen-agers? I've got to get even with the old fogey.

Don't give me a smart alec answer. I'm not wasting six cents for a wise crack. — MARLA

DEAR MARLA:

You just wasted six cents: Girl who calls Mother a bum, deserves the bum's brush.

(And girl who writes phony letters to columnist shouldn't be so obvious about them.) — H

DEAR HELEN:

I have blown pot about ten times. Some friends told me that they heard if you smoked, later in life this might affect your children. I have quit, but I'm worried. Does marijuana do something to the chromosomes like LSD? — E.R.

DEAR E.:

No one knows yet what marijuana does (or does not do), but if you've quit after ten joints, I'm quite sure you have nothing to worry about. — H

Don't Trust 'Old Pills'

Be wary of old medicines, suggests the Health Insurance Institute.

If they have changed color, separated or otherwise changed composition — throw them out, and not where children can get at them.

If they are in damaged or defective containers, or you're not certain of their proper use — throw them out.

Some medicines lose or gain strength when they are old. This can make them ineffective, or dangerous.

CUSTOMERS AT a Sacramento service station are surprised when they learn that Melanie Semar not only works there but is also the manager. The attractive 21-year-old blonde has been working in gas stations for more than two years and is in charge of five male attendants. In addition to the routine work, Melanie handles simple repairs and says she can tear an auto engine apart and put it back together. (AP Wirephoto)

That Girl's The Station's Boss

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The fellows who work down at the service station by Sacramento City College don't talk back to young Melanie Semar. She's the boss.

Two and a half years ago, a friend asked Melanie if she'd be interested in going to work at a service station.

"I laughed at the offer," says the pretty 21-year-old blonde. But she took it. And after working as an attendant in all the Sacramento stations of an independent oil company, she was appointed manager.

Melanie and her sister got interested in autos during high school and took an evening class in mechanics. Melanie pursued the interest at Sacramento City College.

As manager, she's in charge of five male attendants, waits on motorists and handles the books.

Her uniform when she greets customers consists of a regulation company shirt, snug blue jeans and boots.

The company will redecorate the station later this month and Melanie hopes the firm will order some slightly more feminine slacks and blouses for her.

One of Melanie's pet peeves is women who leave all the car worries to husbands.

"For instance, when I tell them they are low on oil, they say, "I'll tell my husband. He'll take care of it."

Melanie handles simple repairs as well as routine service station work and can even tear an auto engine apart and put it back together. "I've done it on both my cars and, of course, in auto shop," she said. She can change a tire in less than 15 minutes.

Melanie's hands get gritty and grimy doing all that man's work, but she has a woman's solution: "I wash dishes and that gets the dirt out from under my nails."

Jewelry Sales

Across the nation, retail jewelry store sales soared to more than $2 billion last year, nearly a 40 per cent rise since 1960. California has displaced New York as a leader in jewelry store sales and in the number of stores doing $1 million or more worth of business in a year. Texas is running third.

Bailey Says Mood Nude Photography Is Work

LONDON EXPRESS SERVICE

LONDON — "I'm interested in what can be done with beautiful bodies", said David Bailey.

He was speaking photographically.

The 30-year-old cockney photographer who helped to shape and record the London scene of the swinging 60's, is experimenting between fashion assignments in, what for him, is a totally new real.

He's photographing nudes. Mood nudes, he calls them and insists: "It's definitely work and not play."

"I'm not interested in nudes in that playboy sense — all those great blockbusters, in smooth penthouse build ups with light falling across nipples in just the hight spot."

As far as his mood nudes are concerned, Bailey isn't much interested in magazine work at all.

"I'm more interested in the photographic than the strictly mammalian aspect", he says. "I 'm passionately interested technically."

Bailey uses fashion models — "That's my particular scene and I see no reason to step outside it".

He has found while experimenting that a good deal of his models don't strip well.

"They're curiously, even cunningly, shy", he says.

"The physical qualities that make for a successful and beautiful model aren't always the qualities of a beautiful body".

But Bailey is dedicated to find the right combination of body, model and setting for the mood nudes that could become his trademark in the '70s.

"I'm an idealist and perfectionist at heart".

Weekend Shoppers Will Find Good Variety Of Seafood In Markets

WASHINGTON (UPI) —USDA's food experts report that food shoppers this weekend will find good selections in meat and poultry and in fresh fruits and vegetables in food stores and supermarkets. All areas will feature a good variety of seafood.

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys will be available in good supply, with broiler-fryers featured on USDA's plentiful foods list for December. Roasts and steaks are beef items in best supply. Ham and fresh pork roasts are apparently the most abundant in the pork line with smoked picnics and Boston butts featured in some localities. Canned Maine sardines, canned fish sticks and portions, and canned tuna are the most abundant seafood throughout the country.

Fresh vegetables in best supply are onions, potatoes, carrots and cabbage. Apples, grapefruit, oranges and bananas are the most abundant fresh fruit. Other foods on USDA's plentiful food list for December are fresh pears, dry beans, dry split peas, lentils, canned peaches, canned pears, sweet potatoes, canned tomatoes and tomato products.

In the west:

Fresh pork and beef prices are generally higher in West Coast markets.

Chicken prices are lower while turkey prices are higher. Egg prices are mixed.

Lamb, calf, veal and butter prices are unchanged from last week. Pork loins are as much as 6 cents a pound higher in Portland and 2 cents lower in Los Angeles. Smoked hams are 2 to 4 cents higher in Los Angeles and sliced and slab bacon are 1 to 3 cents higher in Los Angeles and Portland.

Beef ribs are 1 to 3 cents lower in Los Angeles and briskets are 3 cents higher in San Francisco.

Chicken fryers are 1 to 2 cents lower in Portland and Seattle and roasters are 2 cents lower in Los Angeles. Young tom turkeys are 1 to 3 cents higher in all markets except San Francisco.

Medium and small size eggs are 1 to 2 cents lower in Portland and 1 to 2 cents higher in San Francisco.

Fruits and vegetables in best supply include apples, bananas, grapefruit, oranges, cabbage, onions and potatoes.

Seafood buys to watch for in the West are sole fillets, canned tuna, Pacific oysters, rockfish fillets, cod fillets, and Pacific snapper fillets, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Look Authors Defending Their Sources

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Look Magazine attorney Charles Kenady was to go before a federal judge today to defend the right of authors Richard Carlson and Lance Brisson not to reveal the sources of their article linking San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto to Mafia figures.

Max Blecher, attorney for Alioto in his $12.5 million libel suit against the magazine, argued yesterday that U. S. District Judge Bruce Thompson of Reno must find the authors in contempt or rewrite the law of libel.

Blecher said Alioto would have no way of meeting the requirements of a libel suit before a jury if he did not get the information from Carlson and Brisson.

SANCTIFIED BY COURT

"How can we prove that an informant is reliable if we don't even know who he is?" he asked. "If the action of these authors is sanctioned by the court, it would be emasculating a law of libel."

He asked the judge to hold both authors in contempt for refusing to name their sources. The authors assert that to do so would put several of those sources in physical jeopardy.

Carlson and Brisson testified in closed court sessions Monday and Tuesday and Brisson returned to testify in yesterday morning's section.

In open afternoon proceedings, Blecher disclosed that the authors had cut out the names of most of their informants from a series of looseleaf notebooks containing their notes for the Alioto story. The judge held that this was not a separate offense, but part of the larger question of whether the authors could protect their informants.

THREE COURSES

Judge Thompson said he had three courses of action—persuasion, threat, or confinement of the authors until they change their minds and decide to answer.

"I would be turning you over to the U.S. Marshal and in effect, handing you a key to get out whenever you wanted," he told them.

He said, however, that before going through the formality of having the questions asked of them again, if that was what he decided to do, he would hear from the attorneys.

In other action, Judge Thompson set Jan. 26 for a hearing on motions for summary judgment whether the case will go to trial on its merits. If it does, April 13 was set as a "provisional" trial date.

ATTORNEY CHASTISED

The judge also chastised Blecher for violating a protective order against disclosing anything from depositions of Carlson or Brisson. Blecher had filed a motion asking that Look Magazine admit that Tommy Lee Thomas, former son-in-law of alleged Mafia leader Jimmy Fratianno, was the sole source for the story that Alioto met with Mafia members at the Nut Tree restaurant near Vacaville.

"I don't want anything more of that sort," the judge told Blecher. "It was probably done for the purpose of giving the newspapers the information."

First Hospital Visit At 91

SPENCER, W.VA. (AP) — Ott Givens of nearby Blue Creek saw a doctor this week, for the first time in his 91 years.

Givens' car was bumped in the rear by another car and he was brought to a hospital.

For the first time in his life, he said yesterday, he was examined by a physician, received an innoculation, took his first pill and saw the inside of a hospital.

The retired pipeline worker suffered only cuts on his hand and face and was sent home after treatment.

Co-Ed Tells TV Audience About Abortion At Clinic

SEATTLE (UPI)—A college senior appeared on a television broadcast last night and told how she went to a local doctor for an abortion.

The physician, Dr. A. Frans Koome, has opened a "reproduction crisis clinic" in Renton, which is a suburb of Seattle. Dr. Koome recently announced he has been doing abortions for three years and has done 140 this year.

During the interview broadcast on KING Television, the student, who said she had been aborted by Dr. Koome, was not identified.

An unidentifiable image of the girl's head showed on the screen as she answered questions.

When asked about the doctor's attitude toward finances and his over-all view of abortion, the student said "he is so dedicated that his price is unbelievably small and he does this because he wants to help the individual, not for the money and he doesn't have any doubts about his work."

She added, "he doesn't really care if he is caught because he believes in what he is doing.

The unidentified student said she was referred to Dr. Koome "by my school health center." She added that the health center had a list of several doctors who would perform abortions.

The girl said she was happy with her decision to have an abortion, and said she decided the child would be better off unborn "because I was unable to support it financially—emotionally I am unable to support it too."

Meanwhile, the chairman of the State Medical Disciplinary Board, Dr. Robert L. Hunter, said yesterday the board will look into the case of Dr. Koome.

The board has the power to revoke a physician's license for any of 14 offenses, including aiding and abetting abortion.

In another development, a group of Washington doctors and women are planning a federal suit attacking the constitutionality of the state's law forbidding abortion except in extreme cases where the health of the mother is involved.

Youngsters Get Yule Toy Shopping Spree

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 1,000 disadvantaged children were turned loose in Macy's toy department yesterday, each with a $5 bill to spend Christmas shopping. It was the 19th "Operation Happy Children" cosponsored by the department store and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The kids milled through the aisles, being entertained by Santas, clowns and a band.

Leatherneck Set To Try Politics

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Marine Sgt. C. L. Waldrep announced yesterday his candidacy for sheriff of Gaston County, and said he would campaign from Vietnam.

Waldrep, 38, who has served almost 20 years in the Marines and is nearing retirement, now is a recruiter in Gastonia, his home town. He said he has received orders to go to the West Coast to prepare to ship out for Vietnam.

"Once I am elected," he predicted, "the military will start processing me for return to the United States."

He has entered next spring's Republican primary.

Telegrams At Night Out At Hunters Point

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Western Union Telegraph Co. says it has discontinued delivering messages at night in the Hunters Point District, where the population is largely Negro.

Gerald Masters, the firm's manager here, said yesterday the deliveries were stopped because of four attacks on messengers in the past six months.

Tax Reform On List Given Legislature

Eyes dancing with visions of new laws, Marin officials yesterday paraded their annual Christmas shopping lists of goodies they want from the Legislature.

A mixed bag of about four dozen proposals by county, city and school officials was presented to Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, both R-San Rafael, in a workshop at the Civic Center.

The two legislators generally accepted the proposals with little comment, except to note occasionally that some needed "more refinement" or something else before they could be in any shape to be thrown into the bill hopper.

Also present was the field representative of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, Marion Otsea, but none of the local officials offered any ideas requiring congressional action.

Half of the shopping list was from the county supervisors, and ranged from tax reform to control of motorcycle noise. McCarthy assured the supervisors "we'll take precious care of your marvelous program and do our best." (Most of the supervisors proposals were reported in the Independent-Journal on Nov. 26.)

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales proposed giving district attorneys the power to bar defendants from repeated delays in reaching trial (For story of a delayed trial, see page 1), and imposing a mandatory 90-day jail sentence on first offenders for possession or distribution of dangerous drugs or marijuana. Present law allows judges to impose probation, a provision strongly criticized by Bales.

Bales also proposed a state statute barring nudity in public places.

County Supt. of Schools Virgil S. Hollis proposed an areawide tax in school districts contracting with his office for bus transportation, postponement beyond 1972 of mandatory unification elections in school areas which have rejected unification, more money for environmental education, and cutting the requirement to pass bond measures from two thirds to one half of the voters balloting in a bond election.

Hollis, the supervisors and several city officials joined in criticism of the state's new conflict of interest law, which after next April will require many public officials to disclose their financial interests. None specified how the law should be amended, but all said it was too broad.

Hollis said school board members should be exempted from the law.

Bagley said several legislators plan to make "corrections" in the law before it becomes effective.

Novato also offered a broad legislative program emphasizing a bill to subject mobile homes to local property taxes.

Sausalito City Mgr. George M. Patterson proposed stricter local control on the number of bars allowed, and increased license fees for bars. Sausalito's annual $11,000 take from such fees "doesn't begin to pay the cost of policing problems generated in these places," he said.

Hong Kong was the first British possession to fall to Japan in World War II.

Auto Hits Tree; Women Injured

Two women were injured yesterday at 11 a.m. when their car struck a tree on Cherry Street near Keokuk Street, Petaluma.

Glenda Faye Minnifield, 21, of 801-A Keokuk Street, and Jeanette Lomax, 17, of Santa Rosa, were treated at Petaluma General Hospital for cuts and bruises of the legs.

Petaluma police said the brakes failed on the car driven by Mrs. Minnifield and it hit the tree while rounding a curve.

DAVID HILLIARD
Jailed for Threat

Panther Jailed In Kill-Nixon Rally Remark

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Black Panther leader David Hilliard, who told a Moratorium Day rally of 100,000 persons "We will kill Richard Nixon," was arrested by Secret Service agents yesterday for threatening the life of the President.

Hilliard, 27, was immediately arraigned before U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Weigel and jailed in lieu of $30,000 bail.

With the title of Chief of Staff, Hilliard had been the top national leader of the militant Black Panther Party still free in the U.S.

OTHERS IN JAIL

Eldridge Cleaver fled the country to avoid being returned to prison for parole violation, and both Huey Newton and Bobby Seale have been jailed in connection with shooting incidents.

Hilliard, an activist on the San Francisco State College campus during student turmoil there, was arrested yesterday on a federal grand jury indictment charging him with "willfully and knowingly" making a public threat on the President.

The indictment said the Black Panther blamed Nixon for being "the man that's responsible for all the attacks upon the Black Panther Party nationally."

The statement, "We shall kill Richard Nixon," was made by Hilliard during a rally in Golden Gate Park Nov. 15. Some people in the crowd booed and others called out, peace, peace."

MORSE SPOKE

Hilliard then said, "That kind of peace allows the kind of genocide perpetrated against the Jewish people."

Other speakers at the rally included former Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon and Rev. Ralph Abernathy of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Judge Weigel set Dec. 17 as the date for a plea. Hilliard's attorney, Charles Garry, said the Panther leader was anxious to defend his remarks at the rally but was unable to make the "exorbitant ransom" demanded as bail.

Hilliard's arrest record, dating from 1962, ranges from traffic violations to assault with intent to commit murder. On Feb. 25, 1968, he was charged in Berkeley with conspiracy and carrying a loaded gun.

He was also involved in the April 6, 1968, shootout in Oakland between Panthers and police. Bobby Huttonan a 17-year-old Panther, was killed, and Cleaver was wounded in that incident.

Probation Given In Vandalism Case

Craig Q. Alger, 25, of 315 Hopper Street, Petaluma, was placed on probation for two years in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court yesterday for vandalism and resisting arrest.

Alger, who had pleaded innocent, had been found guilty by Judge Alexander J. McMahon. Included in the conditions of probation was that he move from 315 Hopper Street and find a better environment.

He was arrested Feb. 14 by Petaluma police for vandalism at the Magic Car Wash, 412 Petaluma Boulevard North.

A brother, Clifford Alger, 22, is serving a nine-month county jail sentence for assaulting a police officer in the same incident.

Mortgage Chief Sues Nixon To Keep Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Raymond H. Lapin has taken President Richard M. Nixon to court to keep his job as head of the Federal National Mortgage Association.

Lapin, who says he turned down several chances to resign with praise, filed suit in federal district court yesterday, charging Nixon's dismissal of him was made "in bad faith" and is "part of an unlawful scheme and conspiracy."

Nixon fired Lapin Tuesday for unspecified "good cause" and Lapin immediately asserted he was being dismissed to open his job as a lucrative administration patronage plum.

Lapin, a prominent Bay Area Democratic fund raiser, was named to the head the mortgage-buying agency the Johnson administration in 1967.

FNMA, known also as Fannie Mae, is a former government agency which is being converted to private ownership under terms of the 1968 housing act. Its primary job is to buy mortgages in the secondary market, thus freeing money of banks and other primary lenders for more housing loans.

Lapin contends his firing is illegal because Nixon's two-paragraph letter of dismissal did not list specific causes and he was given no opportunity to answer accusations.

High administration sources indicated yesterday the administration's defense would be primarily that Housing Secretary George Romney and the eight other Fannie Mae directors recommended unanimously that he be fired. This happened, they said, because Lapin did not coordinate his activities with Romney and the board, which is dominated by the administration.

The suit was filed against Nixon, Romney and the directors, and asks also for a finding that "good cause does not exist" for the firing.

One basic difference between Lapin and Romney, it appears, has been their view of the nature of Fannie Mae.

Lapin contends that since it split off from Romney's Department of Housing and Urban Development last year it has been properly operated as a private corporation. The administration view is that it is too tied to the government to be fully independent. All its stock is privately held, but it has a $2.25 billion Treasury guarantee—which has never been used—to insure that money it borrows will be repaid.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, echoing the views of other administration officials who declined to be named, said yesterday, "There is a need for a close working relationship that simply didn't exist."

Dairy cows are today producing more milk than ever before, It's a good thing they are, because although cow numbers in the U. S. have decreased 3.5 per cent this year, milk production will decrease only about 2 per cent — to 117 billion pounds.

Moon Dust Exposures Widespread?

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — One of the 11 persons ordered into quarantine at the Lunar Receiving Laboratory because they may have been exposed to moon dust says 30 other persons outside of quarantine could have been equally exposed.

Russell Harmon said their exposure could have come the same way as his. Another of the officials in quarantine, Dr. Robin Brett, said the number exposed and free probably was "more like 9 or 10."

Dr. W. W. Kemmerer, a physician in charge of the quarantine, said, however, that the quarantine has not been compromised.

He said a highly conservative approach "on the side of safety" had always been taken and "I do not believe we have compromised the quarantine."

Brett, Harmon and nine others were exposed Monday when they discovered a break in a rubber glove extending into a cabinet containing moon rocks. A health officer ordered the 11 into quarantine.

Harmon said he had no idea how long the glove had been defective, adding that the laboratory where it happened was one of the busiest places in the moon science building.

"The number could be fairly high with people wandering in and out all day," said Harmon. "The number is probably somewhere around 30," in addition to the 11 quarantined.

Harmon said five persons used the glove Monday, but only two—he and Brett—were quarantined.

Brett said there was no assurance the glove did not have a break in it earlier in the day.

Quarantine rules call for all persons exposed to moon dust or exposed to persons who have come in contact with the material to go into isolation.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration strictly controls the quarantine in an effort to prevent the spread of any lunar disease that might exist in the moon dust. Most scientists believe that there is no life in the lunar material.

The quarantine, said Brett, is based on "a very, very remote chance of a very, very great danger."

The Apollo 12 astronauts—Charles Conrad Jr., Richard Gordon Jr. and Alan L. Bean—talked with the Apollo 13 and Apollo 14 crews yesterday.

They were scheduled to meet with flight surgeons today for an hour's briefing.

Box Office Kayoes Cassius Clay Play

NEW YORK (AP) — "Buck White," the musical featuring former heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali, will close Saturday night after six performances, the show's management announced today.

The presentation won only one favorable review here and will sustain a loss of about $125,000.

Marijuana Constitutional Test Loses

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida's Supreme Court has rejected a college student's contention that smoking marijuana at home to satisfy "intellectual and emotional needs" was a freedom of expression protected by the First Amendment of the Constitution.

"Marijuana is a harmful mind-altering drug," the five-judge court said yesterday in a unanimous opinion. "An individual might restrict his possession of marijuana to the privacy of his home, but the effects of the drug are not so restricted."

The court said the defendant, Anthony B. Borras, 22, of Miami, must serve his sentence of eight months at hard labor for possession of marijuana.

Borras, a Florida State University student when arrested in his apartment on March 30, 1968, contended this was cruel and excessive punishment. The court said it was not.

The appeal was a broad attack on Florida's narcotic drugs law, and the public defender who represented Borras asked the court to find that marijuana posed no threat to society.

"Since marijuana, in addition to harming the individual, is a threat to society as a whole, we have no difficulty in upholding its prohibition by the state," said the court.

"Marijuana does not enjoy the protection of the First Amendment. Its use does not constitute 'private consumption of ideas or information,' " said the court.

Borras argued its possession was more akin to possession in the home of obscene materials — which the U.S. Supreme Court has held legal — than of dangerous drugs.

"Reprehensible as the possession of obscene material may be, the possession and use of marijuana poses a much greater potential threat to society," said the court.

Dominican To Present Dance-Drama

The Associated Students of Dominican College will present "The Brilliant and the Dark" in a U.S. premiere performance at 8 p.m. next Tuesday in Angelico Hall on the San Rafael campus.

More than 60 students will participate in the annual free public Christmas program.

Music is under the direction of Winifred Baker with choreography by Elizabeth Sennett of the physical education department, lighting by Masatoyo Kishi of the art department and stage production under the direction of Barbara Love, drama instructor.

When first presented in London, the dance-drama with libretto by Ursula Vaughan and music by Malcolm Williamson was described as "a tapestry of events in the lives of women during the past 6,000 years."

Continuity is provided by a choral group of embroiderers who sew the tapestry and serve as narrators. Achievements and tragedies of women such as Florence Nightingale and Edith Swan-Neck, who was present at the Battle of Hastings, are presented through music, dance and mime in a series of eight vignettes.

Among student soloists will be sopranos Sue Maraccini, Sue Soule and Elizabeth Heffernan and dancer Margaret Morgan.

The cast will also include members of the modern dance and drama classes, college choral and madrigal singers and 14 members of the Winifred Baker Chorale with soloists Jeannette Abbey, Katherine Baxter and Judy Levy.

HE TAKES A STAND

War Vet Commander Zeroes In On Alcatraz, Draft, Vietnam

By JOANNE GRANT

A MIND OF HIS OWN — Philip F. O'Brien, a spirited 79-year-old with definite opinions on most issues, voices some of them in a discussion with reporters. O'Brien, a past national commander of the Veterans of World War I Association, was in San Rafael yesterday to speak to the local barracks. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

The outspoken, sometimes fiery former national commander of the World War I Veterans Association said, "I believe in taking a stand."

And Philip F. O'Brien of Turlock promptly did just that — taking stands on such diverse topics as Alcatraz and the draft.

He spoke yesterday to the Marin Barracks of the World War I Veterans group and in an interview later, also, touching on law and order, the moratorium, veterans benefits and other topics.

But Alcatraz was his main target yesterday.

He decried the "arbitrary confiscation" of the island and commented, "I'm in sympathy with the Indians — I think they have a terrible deal.

"But I do not think we can allow anyone to confiscate property — public or private," he said.

"If they can confiscate government property, then you home is in danger," he told the audience which fairly bristled with agreement.

O'Brien, a 79-year-old veteran of action in France, said he doesn't think the government will allow the occupation indefinitely but he criticized letting it go on so long without taking action.

O'Brien vigorously approved the return to the lottery system for the draft and believes the system instituted is better than the one used in World War I because a young man is only eligible for a year today instead of the duration of the war.

The lottery system, he believes, will reduce attempts to evade the draft "because young people favor it."

He also applauded President Richard M. Nixon's denunciation of gas warfare, last used in World War I.

"We still have veterans in hospitals from the effects of poison gas in World War I," he reported.

O'Brien also supported Nixon's war policy "because he is the one we have to look to for a solution." He is disturbed, however, by the slow progress in reaching a solution.

Lack of support for the president's policy, he believes, stems chiefly from the lack of a congressional declaration of war. In World Wars I and II, that unified the nation, he said.

He did not object to the moratorium and other marches, so long as they are peaceful.

"I am absolutely against violence," he said, sliding into a plug for law and order. The subject was a major focus of his year (1967-68) as national commander, he said.

In fact, the national headquarters of the organization have been moved from Washington to Alexandria, Va., a move necessary because "one dasn't leave his apartment after 7 at night and one dasn't go out before 7 in the morning," in the capital. "This is a disgrace," he added.

Back to Vietnam, O'Brien was reluctant to comment on the alleged Pinkville Massacre because it hasn't been proved.

However, he said he doesn't believe there was an order to kill civilians in this or any other war.

O'Brien also commented on the organization's legislative program which seeks to exclude Social Security payments as income when determining pension eligibility. World War I veterans are the only ones who don't automatically receive a pension, he said.

County Library Keeps Files Of Old Newspapers

The Independent-Journal and its predecessors, which cover a span of 104 years, are available to the public on microfilm at the Marin County Library at the Civic Center, County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema announced today.

The library owns microfilms of the Marin Journal from March 18, 1865 through March 20, 1899, and for the years of 1931 and 1941.

The San Rafael Independent, established in 1900, is on microfilm for 1937 only. In 1948, the Independent bought the Journal, and the two were merged.

Microfilms of the Independent-Journal are on file from April 1949 to September 1969. Future issues are on standing order, said Bajema.

In addition, the county library has microfilms of the Marin Herald, 1923 to 1929; the San Anselmo Herald for 1921; the Baywood Press, 1948-1953. Munro-Fraser's History of Marin County, published in San Francisco in 1880, also is on microfilm in the county library.

Petaluma School Advisers Ask Liberalized Dress Rule

A liberalized dress code for Petaluma Senior High School, based only on factors of health and safety, has been recommended by a committee of students, faculty and parents.

The 15-member committee said the present code was unenforceable and had led to a series of confrontations between school administrators and students.

Although not suggesting details of the proposed code, the committee said it should be similar to the code adopted last month by the State Council of Education and agreed to by the California Teachers Association.

The plan to liberalize requirements on dress styles and hair lengths is currently under study by Dr. Dan E. Montgomery, principal, who could appoint a second committee to define what factors of health and safety should be included.

Final approval on any new dress code would rest with the Petaluma Board of Education. The board permits each school to prepare its own code and only requires that students be clean-shaven and have hair neat and trimmed.

No Charge Filed In Driving Case

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against a 36-year-old San Anselmo man arrested Tuesday on suspicion of felony drunken driving following an accident in San Rafael.

The case of Alan Dennison Cahill will be investigated further by the district attorney's office, it was reported yesterday in court.

Cahill was booked into Marin County Jail following a rearend collision at Fourth Street and Alexander Avenue in which he and two other persons were injured.

San Marin High Concert Sunday

The fall concert of the music department of San Marin High School will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at the school gymnasium in Novato.

The program will feature the 57-voice concert choir and the 44-piece concert band. Soloist Denise Woomer, a senior, will sing the soprano part in the Hairston arrangement of "Amen!" with choral background. The choir will also sing "Kyrie" by Gounod and "Blowin' in the Wind" by Dylan.

"Bravura for Trumpets" by Morrisey will be performed by Steven Salgo, Bruce Hoberg and Mark O'Connell. The band will play selections from "The Man from La Mancha" and "A Wagner Showcase", a collection from Richard Wagner's compositions, according to music director John Yardas.

Another Arson Try In Valley

A vacant Forest Knolls restaurant, long a storm center and symbol of strife in San Geronimo Valley, was the target last night of an arsonist whose attempt was foiled by a fireman returning from a fire in Lagunitas.

Robert Taverna of the Marin County Fire Department, on his way back at 4:11 a.m. from a blaze that had destroyed an abandoned camper truck, observed firelight flickering in the restaurant known variously as the Us Cafe, Country Kitchen and Shirley's Kitchen.

Two windows had been broken from the outside and in the kitchen, Taverna found a packing carton, into which paper had been stuffed and set afire. A similar fire had been set nearby. The fires were put out by Taverna and damage, estimated at about $150 by County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom, was limited to the immediate area.

EARLIER ATTACK

The restaurant, owned by Richard Green and Shirley Aguire, has been closed since Oct. 1.

It was attacked by arsonists April 21, at which time extensive damage was done, and prior to that had been the target of shotgun blasts.

The scene of Sunday rock concerts last spring and early summer, it drew neighborhood strongest indignation when loud music was played on Easter Sunday.

COULD HAVE BURNED

Underlying that controversy was tension in the valley between the long-established residents and an influx of "hip" newcomers.

Chief Bloom said that if Taverna had not happened by, the building could have been destroyed, since there are few passerby on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at that early hour to sound the alarm.

The fire in Lagunitas, which Bloom said may also have been deliberately set, destroyed a homemade camper guessed to be worth about $150 and abandoned on a lot owned by Walter M. Weaver on La Vuelta Avenue. That call came at 3:16 a.m.

Saturday Service For Ferries

Tiburon ferry service was extended to the next three Saturdays before Christmas today by the Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

Five round trips, with the first leaving Tiburon at 10 a.m. and the last leaving San Francisco at 4:45 p.m., will be scheduled.

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said the $504 cost for each Saturday probably would be covered by passenger fares. He noted that last Friday, the day after Thanksgiving, the ferry service carried 1,190 passengers, many of them shoppers.

He indicated that heavy ridership on the three Saturdays could open the door to future weekend service.

Luehring said he proposed the weekend service for Christmas shoppers because he had received a number of requests for it from Marin residents.

Sonoman Faces Check Charge

Joe Willie Andrew Cole, 47, of 560 Anson Avenue, Rohnert Park, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on an old bad check charge for which he had been sought since 1967.

Cole was arrested yesterday when police were searching for him in connection with a trespassing complaint in San Rafael. He was stopped on Highway 101 in Rohnert Park after officers discovered the old warrant was still out for him.

The case was continued until today for entry of plea.

He is accused of forging a $100 check on March 17, 1967.

Greyhound Bus Fare Increase

Greyhound bus fares in Marin and other Bay Area counties were hiked 8.75 per cent yesterday.

The increase affected commute fares and those for one-way and round trips.

Increases in the 20-ride commute book from various post in Marin and Suthern Sonoma to San Francisco included: From Mill Valley, $11.45 to $12.50; San Rafael, $12.50 to $13.60; Novato, $14.60 to $15.90, and Petaluma, $17.70 to $18.90.

TWO DRIVERS INJURED IN TWO-CAR CRASH

An emergency crew from Sears Point Raceway sprays chemicals on the burning wreckage of a small car driven by Joseph Ryan, 37, of Napa. The car collided at 9:15 a.m. today with a patrol car driven by Sonoma County Deputy Sheriff Donald Young, 24, of Santa Rosa at the intersection of Highways 37 and 121 in Sonoma County. Ryan was transferred from Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma to the Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco for treatment of unspecified injuries. Young was treated for minor injuries at Hillcrest Hospital. Heavy fog at the time of the crash limited visibility to 150 feet, the California Highway Patrol reported. (Independent-Journal photo)

LIFE TURNS COOL ON THE ROCK

Indians Plan To Resist Ouster Try

By JOANNE GRANT

If the U.S. government tries to evacuate the Indians from Alcatraz, they will resist —, but without violence, a young Indian leader declared today.

If necessary, however, "some of the people are willing to give their lives," said Dean Chavers, coordinator on the mainland for the Indians on Alcatraz.

Resistance would take the form of hiding in the dozens of places available, Chavers said. He claimed the government's boast the island could be cleared in 10 minutes is inaccurate.

But Chavers gave no indication as he spoke of KTIM's Sounding Board that he expected the Indians to be forced out.

Instead, he reported, the government has unofficially complied with one of the conditons for negotiation and is sending water to the island.

Negotiations for Indian possession of the island for a cultural center "should take less than a week," the University of California senior maintained.

Appearing with Chavers was Joan Lisetor, Independent-Journal reporter who has visited the island twice since the Nov. 20 takeover. She replaced Shirley Keith, head of the Alcatraz Relief Fund.

Miss Lisetor reported her first visit, on Nov. 22, had been chaotic, but she and others in her party had ben warmly received.

Her second visit, on Nov. 26, was to a "different world," she said. By then, she reported, the island had been organized and everyone was serving on a committee of some sort.

That time, she said, the reception was cold.

She attributed dwindling interest in shipping supplies from Sausalito the the attitude after organization. "I think their feelings have been hurt," she said of the persons who had been bringing in supplies.

Chavers commented, "It's a very touchy situation." The Indians do need help from the community but it's "the same old story," he said. "They (white people) know what is good for the Indians and they want to force it down our throats." Help without advice is what is needed, he said.

Answering a listener's question, Chavers said the most immediate physical need on the island is for heat. So far, there are just two electric heaters there, he added.

The major need is for food.

Another listener asked Chavers to compare Alcatraz with reservations and he reported most people would rather be on the island where conditions are "much better" than on reservations.

Chavers said current estimates put the cost of completely rebuilding the island at $5 million and an architect is working on plans. However, the actual cost could be much lower because many buildings are structurally sound and could remain, he said.

While the Indians plan to have the island be as self-supporting as possible, Chavers said federal Bureau of Indian Affairs funds should be put to their use.

Chavers, answering another question, reported street fighters or college radical types are not being allowed on the island. Violence is also prohibited, as are drugs and alcohol, he said.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be repeated at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Key Murder Figure: Leader Of A Clan

INDEPENDENCE (Inyo County) (AP) — Charles M. Manson, accused in mountain-desert area of rustling four-wheel-drive vehicles, has emerged as a key figure in the investigation of the killings of Sharon Tate and seven others in Los Angeles.

The bushy-haried, wild-bearded little man with piercing brown eyes has been tabbed the leader of a hippie-type roving band whose members call him "God" and "Satan" — and now two attorneys say clan members killed the actress and others.

Manson, 35, who with others is accused here of running a stolen car ring from a commune near Death Valley, sat stolidly yesterday through his preliminary hearing. After witnesses said they saw him driving stolen cars, he was held for trial.

There are no charges against Manson in Los Angeles. But two attorneys there said yesterday that a woman member of Manson's mostly female "family" told them it was some of his followers who killed Miss Tate and four others after the pregnant actress pleaded, "Let me have my baby."

The woman, Susan Denise Atkins, 21, is charged with murdering a man with whom Manson once lived. If she waives immunity to self-incrimination, a deputy district attorney says, she could become a key witness when the Los Angeles County grand jury begins a murder investigation Friday.

Shot or stabbed with Miss Tate, 26, blonde actress wife of Polish director Roman Planski, at her $200,000 home in Bel Air last Aug. 9 were Hollywood hair stylist Jay Sebring, 35, coffee heiress Abigail Folger, 26, Polish playboy Votyk Frokowsky, 37, and Steven Parent, 18, a friend of the caretaker. Stabbed fatally the next day at their Hollywood home were Leno LaBianca, 44, and his wife Rose Mary, 38 wealthy market owners.

Miss Atkins, attorneys' Paul Caruso and Richard Caballero, said she was among those who dressed in black and invaded the two death homes. But they said she was under Manson's "hypnotic spell" and "had nothing to do with the murders."

Caruso said there were three women and two men. Caballero said it was four women and one man, and said Miss Atkins told him Manson was not among them. Police say the makeup of the group was different each night.

Caruso gave this account of the killings, which he said was based on a five-hour interview with Miss Atkins:

"One man had a gun. The girls had knives. They parked the car so they could get away quickly. A man with wire cutters went up a pole and cut utility lines outside the Tate house.

"They saw Parent starting to leave. He got into his car and was shot. A man went through an open window, they opened the front door. The others went inside.

"Frokowsky was lying on the couch. Sharon Tate and Sebring were talking in her bedroom. The Folger girl was in another bedroom reading a book.

"Tate and Sebring were told to stay in the bedroom. Then they were brought out. Miss Tate became very apprehensive. She wanted to make sure her baby (she was 8½ months pregnant) was not harmed. that was virtually all she pleaded about, 'Let me have my baby.' But she was killed.

"Sebring said very little. He was killed. Frokowsky attempted to escape. As he ran through the front door he was hit on the head with a gun butt. Miss Folger handed them all the money she had, $73, and they took it and killed her and Frokowsky anyway."

The next night, picking a house at random and killing again to show they hadn't lost their nerve, Caruso said, the invaders stabbed the LaBiancas —then showered and had a snack from the ice box before leaving.

The Los Angeles Times, in an account it said was pieced together from many sources, added details:

Frokowsky was tied up but escaped and was shot in the back as he ran. Miss Folger was stabbed in the house, but ran, then was overtaken and stabbed fatally on the lawn. Miss Tate was stabbed repeatedly in the upper body.

After the killers wiped their hands on it, a bloody towel was used to write "Pig" on the front door, the towel was then placed over Sebring's head like a hood and a cord was looped around his neck and over a beam to Miss Tate's. When the group returned to a ranch commune, one reported: "We got five piggies."

Under arrest on murder warrants in the Tate case are Patricia Krenwinkel, 21, in Mobile, Ala.; Charles D. Watson, 24, in McKinney, Tex., and Linda Louise Kasabian, 19, brought here from Concord, N.H.

Police say they will seek murder indictments against the three and "five others," unidentified, from the Los Angeles County grand jury. It is to convene on the killings tomorrow and is expected to conclude its probe Monday.

Miss Atkins pleaded innocent Tuesday to a charge of murder in the killing of a Malibu musician, Gary Hinman, last July. Police say Manson lived for a time with Hinman.

A codefendant, Robert K. Beausoleil, 21, described as a Manson friend, was tried previously but the jury could not agree and a new trial was ordered.

Manson is no stranger to trouble. From followers and police came sketches of a life of problems, imprisonments, menial jobs.

A Los Angeles Times account said Manson was born to an unwed 16-year-old girl in Cincinnati, Ohio, lived with his maternal grandmother, then an aunt and uncle. He ran away from a boys' school, landed in a correctional institution and by the time he was 25 had spent 13 years in reformatories and prisons for such offenses as auto theft, forgery and transporting women across state lines for prostitution.

Out of prison on parole, he was married and fathered a son-but by the time the boy was born, he was back in jail. His wife divorced him.

In his free time behind bars he became interested in the occult. Officials termed his intelligence "superior."

Father In Slaying Hunt As 'Hippie'

LOS ANGELES (AP) -- The father of actress Sharon Tate says he resigned as an Army Intelligence lieutenant colonel and masqueraded as a hippie in a four-month search for his daughter's killers.

Youthful-looking Paul J. Tate, 46, told the Los Angeles Times he grew a mustache and beard and mingled with drug addicts, lived in communes and cautiously questioned various drifters for clues.

Tate is formerly of Fort Barry, and was special assistant to the chief of staff at Sixth Region Army Air Defense Command at Fort Baker.

Tate was interviewed yesterday as police across the country rounded up certain members of a hippie-style clan wanted in the investigation of the Aug. 9 deaths of Miss Tate and four others in her home.

"I guess I've seen just about everything in hippie communes while checking out drug angles," said the father, a 23-year Army career man who lives in suburban Palos Verdes Peninsula. "Just the same, I hope nobody prejudices the case."

He said anything he knew would be told "at the proper time" and declined to state how successful he had been on his search. But he said the arrests in the case had "taken a great weight off my mind."

We were pleasantly fascinated by the phenomenal response to our first real sale: brought in more dough in 3 days than we usually see in a month, just because we slashed prices beyond all reason. Therefore, and herewith, let it be known to all those buying presents: the ridiculous low prices on everything in the store—leather, leather accessories, natural skin area rugs, fabrics, garments, jewelry, all of it, not just clearance items.

British Official Flying To Lagon For Peace Conference

LONDON (AP) — A British official is flying to Lagos tonight to discuss possible moves toward peace in the Biafran war, the Foreign Office announced today.

A spokesman said Maurice Foley, Foreign Office minister in charge of African affairs, would also discuss relief to civilian victims of the fighting. There was no indication how long he would stay, and there was speculation he might meet with Biafran officials.

The last contract between senior British and Nigerian officials was in March when Prime Minister Harold Wilson went to Lagos in an unsuccessful attempt to bring the two warring sides together in peace talks. Since then the British have said they support efforts by the Organization of African Unity to mediate.

The Foreign Office spokesman said the Nigerian government had suggested this was a suitable time for a ministerial visitor. It is also a most advantageous time for Wilson as far as domestic politics is concerned.

The House of Commons is to debate the Nigerian situation Tuesday, and about 100 lawmakers from all parties have signed a motion calling on the government to secure a total embargo on arms deliveries to Nigeria and Biafra. Britain says it now supplies some 15 per cent of the foreign arms received by the Nigerian side.

Most Plastic Surgery For Women Under 55

MONTREAL (AP) — Dr. Jacques Papillon, a Montreal plastic surgeon, says 77 per cent of women seeking face-lifts are under 55 years of age, and 20 per cent are under 40.

Effects of the operation usually last 10 to 15 years. Complicated facial improvements may take three to five years to complete as surgery can take place only once a year to allow incision scars to heal.

Met Opera Musicians Reject Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — Metropolitan Opera musicians have rejected management's "final offer" to end a 14-week delay in the new season, but a lawyer for the opera said the union vote may pave the way for a settlement.

Members of Local 802, American Federation of Musicians, voted 54-36 last night to reject a four-year contract offer. But they voted 74-18 to accept a three-year pact with the first three years of the Met's offer.

Frederick R. Livingston, lawyer for the Met, said, "Since this is on the basis of the same figures for the first three years that we offered, I would say that if the ACMA (American Guild of Musical Artists) sees fit to do the same thing, we are ready to recommend approval by the board of directors of the Metropolitan."

The Met had told both unions Tuesday that it would not accept three-year contracts, and had refused to negotiate with the AGMA on that basis.

The AGMA members had refused to accept a four-year pact.

The Met was scheduled to open a 31-week season Sept. 15. If no settlement is reached, it would be the first time in 78 years that the Met had not performed in New York City.

Suspect Denies Stables Theft

Benjamin Ray Grodhaus, 27, of Palo Alto, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of burglarizing a Novato riding academy Nov. 26. A preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Grodhaus was arrested Monday in San Francisco after police there found him trying to pawn two saddles.

Officers said Grodhaus led them to where he had more than $1,300 worth of saddles and other riding gear stashed.

Viet Victim's Brothers Oppose Army Funeral

REDDING (AP) — Dennis Stevens didn't like the Army, his brothers say, so he wouldn't want a military funeral.

The three brothers of the 21-year-old sergeant, who was killed Nov. 14 in Vietnam, have gone to court to see that Dennis gets a private civilian funeral.

Superior Court Judge Richard Eaton issued a temporary restraining order yesterday and said he hopes to make a final decision Monday.

The suit was filed by Rodney and Dwane Stevens of Redding and Ricky Stevens, in the Army at Fort Dix, N.J.

The brothers say Dennis' legal guardians, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Stevens of Vallejo, his aunt and uncle, want a military funeral.

TV REVIEW

Jack Benny Has Bushels Of Talents

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Every time you think you've run out of things to say about Jack Benny, he comes up with something rare and memorable on his occasional television specials.

If it's not some wildly talented and funny chimpanzees, then it may be penguins on roller skates that leave him speechless and the audience paralyzed with laughter.

Last night, on his latest NBC-TV special, Jack came up with Gregory Peck in a rare video appearance, and before the evening was over, the two of them — plus George Burns — turned in a singing and dancing session that ranks with the true gems of television variety entertainment.

You should really know some behind-the-scenes names connected with Jack's specials because it is the superb taste of these people—and of the comedian—that gets stars like Peck to take a flier out of their own natural field, the movies. One thinks of other stars, such as Jimmy Stewart, who have entrusted their reputations to Jack and his people. And trust is the key word, for all through show business there is total confidence among major performers in the judgment, discretion and know-how of Jack and his staff.

Therefore: The executive producer Wednesday was Irving Fein, the producer-director Norman Abbott, and the writers—those wondrous manipulators of Jack's talent—were Al Gordon, Hal Goldman, Hilliard Marks, Sam Perrin and Hugh Ledlock Jr.

The guests, by the way, also included Eddie (Rochester) Anderson, Nancy Sinatra, and Gary Puckett and the Union Gap, a pop group. But the Peck-Benny-Burns number was what the show will be remembered for.

What they did, basically, was to come on as a trio in the old, old music hall vein. They were billed splendidly as the "Two Bushels and a Peck." And the period tone of their act was so inspired in its concept that there was no doubt it was a classic segment in every detail.

Scientific or purposeful farming of water regions has been given diverse names, including seafarming, aquaculture, aguiculture and mariculture.

TALENTED 15-YEAR-OLD

Terra Linda Student Wrapped In Music

Adam Linton is a serious young man of slight build with a brooding expression and an air of intensity which belies his age.

Adam, who is 15, is a musical prodigy who has conducted twice in public, written several compositions in classic style and who is considered to be a particularly talented violinist.

"Adam is one of those rare persons who are born musical and who need only the equipment to express their musical abilities," says Adam's teacher, Wynn Westover of Sausalito, a private tutor and instructor at the College of Marin.

Of himself, Adam says simply, "I enjoy my music, particularly playing the violin."

He has enjoyed his music ever since he was a small child, according to his mother, Mrs. Stuart Linton of 122 Surrey Place, Terra Linda. She remembers that when Adam was in nursery school he chose to listen to classical music.

When he was 10, Adam auditioned for Westover and "it was apparent immediately that Adam had musical talent," Westover says.

He then began studying in a broad program of musical training which includes playing the violin, conducting music theory and composition.

It was as part of his studies that he composed the several trios, a quartet and "a few small pieces" for the violin. Presently, he is working on arrangements of piano compositions for woodwinds.

The two concerts at which he conducted were also part of Adam's studies. In the first concert, held in March 1968, Adam conducted Handel's "Andante" at the San Francisco Senior Citizens Center. And, in April of this year, he conducted the Westover chamber orchestra playing Massenet's "Meditation" at the special memorial concert for Martin Luther King at Nourse Auditorium in San Francisco.

Flashing one of his rare, charming smiles, Adam admits he was "a little nervous" during the two concerts. "Actually, I had the proper amount of nervousness . . . to perform well," Adam explains.

Although he enjoyed conducting before an audience, Adam says he doesn't want to play the violin "before others" until "I'm really good."

Adam also has been taking the Trinity College of London music examinations, held annually in San Francisco, and has scored 100 per cent in the first two grades and 95 per cent in the third grade level.

When he graduates from high school — presently he is a sophomore at Terra Linda High School — he hopes to attend a local college while still continuing his studies.

There is no doubt in Adam's mind that he will pursue a professional career as a musician. But, he thinks now he will play the violin rather than conduct.

He is realistic about the effort it will take to accomplish his goal, explaining, "It will take me 10 more years to become an able player and more than that to become accomplished."

YOUTHFUL MUSICIAN — Fifteen-year-old musician Adam Linton, though well launched toward a career in music, sees years of hard work and study ahead. Experts say he has the talent to see him through. (Independent-Journal photo)

Youth Found Guilty Of $50 Heroin Sale

A jury of seven men and five women in Marin Superior Court deliberated only about 25 minutes yesterday before finding Mathew Michael Letsos, 19, of Fairfax, guilty of selling a narcotics agent $50 worth of heroine last May.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Jan. 9.

Letsos is the brother of James Michael Letsos, 21, who was found dead in his Sausalito apartment Sept. 10. An autopsy showed that he died of drowning in a shower where he had been placed by roommates when he became unconscious after a heroin injection.

The younger brother was arrested after the death in a coincidental action by drug agents who charged that he had sold heroin three times to undercover agents. The youth still faces two sale charges in San Francisco, where he is accused of selling $350 worth of heroin on April 28 and one ounce of the narcotic on Sept. 10 for $750.

Letsos' court-appointed attorney, Charles L. Convis, said yesterday in court that he hopes the youth will be committed to the California Rehabilitation Center for narcotics addiction treatment.

Juvenile Court May Get Case

The case of John Keats Thomson Jr., 19, of San Rafael, was referred to probation officials yesterday for possible transferral to Marin Juvenile Court.

He was told to return to municipal court Dec. 17 to find out if he will be tried as a juvenile.

Thomas, who is accused of possessing marijuana, was arrested Nov. 19 on Tiburon Boulevard when deputies stopped his car because it had only one headlight. The deputies said they found butts of what appeared to be marijuana in the car.

Marx Loses Wife And One Million

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Groucho Marx' third wife won a divorce and a $1 million settlement after she said Groucho grouched about her cooking.

"He said he was thinking of trading me in for a new cook — and a new wife," said brunette Eden Marie Marx, 38, a former model

Marx, 78, did not attend the hearing yesterday in Santa Monica Superior Court at which his wife since 1954 was given: $210,000 alimony over seven years whether she remarries or not; $337,000 from her husband's NBC television contract; half the profits from the sale of their $35,000 home; stocks and bonds and another home in Palm Springs. Mrs. Marx estimated her husband's net worth at $3 million.

Islands Brace For More Big Windy Rains

HONOLULU (UPI) — Sea swells up to 40 feet driven by gale force winds today raced toward the Hawaiian Islands. The weather bureau warned of another onslaught of dangerous surf.

The bureau in a special bulletin issued last night said the high waves were backed by a wind from the northwest at 15 to 25 miles per hour, tending to drive the surf.

It urged that every precaution be taken in preparation for "this dangerous situation."

The giant waves, some as high as 50 feet, began Monday night, forcing more than 1,000 residents along northern shores of the islands to flee their homes.

Two persons were missing, a third man died of a heart attack after helping with nightlong rescue operations, and public officials estimated property damage at more than $1 million throughout the state.

The new storm, 1,100 miles away, generated winds up to 69 miles an hour and produced massive sea swells. But the weather bureau said it was not as powerful as the Monday storm which launched the initial rampage of surf.

14-Pound Boy Born In Orange

ORANGE (UPI)—A 33-year-old woman gave birth yesterday to a 14-pound 9-ounce boy described as the largest baby ever born at Orange County Medical Center.

The baby, 24 1-2 inches long, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stepanenko.

Mrs. Geraldine Geehan, nursing supervisor, said a child this size born today is a medical rarity.

The mother and child were in fine condition.

Marin Students Win English Test Honors

Four high school seniors in Marin have been named national winners and one a runner-up in the 1969 achievement awards competition of the National Council of Teachers of English.

Eight hundred seventy-two winners and 872 runners-up were chosen from 8,000 entrants nation-wide, with 38 winners and 38 runners-up in California.

Winners are David Page and Jeff Ilse, both of Terra Linda High School, Cynthia Strauss of San Domenico School and Don L. Daglow of San Rafael High School. Dena Goodman of Tamalpais High School was named a runner-up.

Entrants were tested last spring on their writing ability, general English knowledge and skill, and literary awareness.

Names of award winners are sent to all college admissions officers and college English department chairman in the nation, and the national council recommends scholarships for award winners who need assistance.

Finley Starts Pennant Plan—Gets Felipe Alou

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Felipe Alou's return to the West Coast and the New York homecoming of Joe Foy — key moves in a pair of inter-league trades at baseball's winter meetings—stepped up travel plans for Oakland's Charlie Finley and the world champion Mets.

The Athletics obtained Alou, a gifted but aging outfielder who began his 12-year National League career in San Francisco, from the Atlanta Braves yesterday in a straight swap for 24-year-old pitcher Jim Nash.

Moments earlier the Mets announced they had landed third baseman Foy, a native New Yorker, in a 2-for-1 deal that sent young outfielder Amos Otis, a former "untouchable," and pitching prospect Bob Johnson to the Kansas City Royals.

Kansas City also purchased five Met Farmhands in a separate transaction and the Detroit Tigers swapped pitchers with Montreal, getting Jerry Robertson for Joe Sparma, as trading picked up after three uneventful days at nearby Fort Lauderdale.

The acquisition of Alou, 34, marked the first step in a three-stage trading program Finley hopes will launch the A's toward the American League West Division title in 1970.

"We feel we have a chance to go all the way next year if we get a little help in the outfield, relief pitching and catching," said the Athletics owner who hopes to fill the latter two needs before the meetings wind up Saturday.

"We're aware of Alou's age, but if this means the difference between winning our division and finishing second next year, then it's a darn good trade."

Alou was slowed by injuries last year, but still batted .282 in 129 games. The hustling Dominican, with a lifetime batting mark of .290, has been named to three N.L. All-Star squads.

"It's always tough to trade a ballplayer like Alou," said Paul Richards, the Braves' general manager. "Age was a factor, but our need for another pitcher was the basic thing."

Nash, the A.L. Rookie of the Year in 1966 after a brilliant 12-1 record with the Kansas City A's, won 12 and 13 games the following two seasons, then slipped to 8-8 last year.

He joined left-hander Larry Jaster, acquired from Montreal Tuesday for right-hander Jim Britton, in the Braves' wigwam.

Mill Valley Tribute To Golfing Veteran

Mill Valley's sporty nine-hole municipal golf course just hasn't been the same for several months now.

Oh, the post card scenery is still there and everything is as green as usual. It's still bird-chirping, leaves-rustling, brook-murmering peaceful.

But, there has been quite a void at the southern Marin course. Like Liberace with a missing front tooth, Sinatra with laryngitis, Doda with a half-tank of silicone.

Yep, Old Bill Rees has been quite noticeable by his absence. A retired banker originally from Chicago, Rees was a fixture at the muni links, for longer than most of his friends can remember, until earlier this year when he upped and moved to Ohio.

And, his buddies in the local men's golf club have missed him dearly. It wasn't that he was such a hot golfer, far from it, as his 25 handicap shows. But is was just good to see him, to be around him, says Syl G. Auteri of Mill Valley.

Three Holes-In-One

"He was a permanent fixture around here," said Auteri. "Te served our club in various offices and committees. Also, he's scored three aces down here to highlight his golf activities. But, the big thing about Bill was not his championship but his companionship."

Well, the Mill Valley golfers have done something to at least temporarily fill the gap. They've raised enough loot to fly Rees back to Marin this month and keep him around here for a couple of weeks and, of course, to hit a few, for he is still a golf addict.

Highlight of the reunion, said Auteri, will be a testimonial dinner for Rees at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, San Rafael, on the evening of Dec. 18. Anyone who'd like to pay tribute to Rees can make reservations through Auteri or MVGC president Keeler Nash at the muni golf clubhouse. Women welcome, too.

Dec. 18 is a good date for this testimonial. It will be old duffer Bill Rees' 90th birthday.

Another Sports Buff

AND NOW we present another sports Buff, this one of the football species.

His name is Merlin C. Roberts of San Rafael, a carpenter, who is all fired up over the Camellia Bowl in Sacramento on Dec. 13.

For Roberts, the game between North Dakota State and U. of Montana is a natural. A Dream Bowl.

You see, Roberts is a native of North Dakota who grew up in Missoula, Montana. Wrapping up these sentimental associations in one feature at nearby Sacramento is, to Roberts, like getting a package from home. You'd better believe he'll be there.

Roberts, who has lived in San Rafael for 25 years, admits that in additon to the perfect combination of Camellia Bowl rivals he is a football nut.

"My wife's always giving me hell for watching games on TV all day," he laughs. "As a kid in Missoula I used to watch the Grizzlies play every Saturday, but I haven't seen them in 35 years. I can remember a player named Wild Bill Kelly, a big star there in 1927. They've had some pretty good teams at Montana over the years, but I can't remember one like the 10-0 record they've had this year."

Rooting For Grizzlies?

I forgot to ask him who he'd be rooting for, but I have a hunch it'll be the Grizzlies, with Bill Hickerson of San Anselmo at middle linebacker.

SAL BANDO, third baseman for the Oakland A's, will join KYA disc jockeys on the radio station's barnstorming basketball team when it plays the Terra Linda High School faculty Saturday night, 8 o'clock, at the Terra Linda gymnasium.

Terra Linda's lineup will include Bob Corley, Barry Amsden, Don Rodrigo, Ted Freeman, Hank Yamagata and others. Proceeds will go to the Terra Linda Senior Ball.

Seals Again Lose To St. Louis Blues

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Oakland Seals may someday beat the St. Louis Blues.

The Seals returned home today after losing their 10th straight National Hockey League game to tough Blues, 3-1 last night before 15,706.

The Seals have never beaten the West Division leaders in NHL play.

Phil Goyette sent the Blues on their way to their eighth straight victory at home against West Division clubs by scoring at 12:27 of the opening period.

Red Berenson made it 2-0 for St. Louis a minute later and Frank St. Marseille made it 3-0 at 12:54 of the second period.

Ted Hampson tallied Oakland's lone goal at 13:30 of the second period.

The Seals take tonight off before meeting the Philadelphia Flyers tomorrow night in the Oakland Coliseum.

THE VIKING BIG GUYS

Minnesota Vikings' defensive front four gets ready to go through some maneuvers during practice session. From left are Carl Eller (6-6, 225 pounds), Gary Larsen (6-5, 255), Alan Page (6-4, 250) and Jim Marshall (6-3, 248). They will be going against the Los Angeles Rams, who also feel they have a pretty fair front four, Sunday in a key National Football League game. The Vikings are the champs of the Central Division, and the Rams are putting up an 11-0 streak.

ESPECIALLY CERRUDO

Pros Watch McGowan

MIAMI (AP) — Jack McGowan, a little-known veteran on the tour, hasn't had so much attention since he blew a critical putt that cost him the title in the Texas Open at San Antonio early this year.

"I'm the guy they're talking about," he admitted today before teeing off in the first round of the $125,000 Danny Thomas-Diplomat Open Golf Tournament.

He was the 60th man on the official list of season money winners going into this, the last official stop on the PGA tour.

TARGET

And since 60 is the cut-off spot for exemptions, he's the target for his fellow pros — especially Ron Cerrudo — who are gunning for that coveted position.

Most of the attention in the tournament will be centered on the big guns—Arnold Palmer, Frank Beard, Dave Hill, Orville Moody, George Archer—in their quest for the top spot.

But the other struggle, that for positions around No. 60, will occupy a large portion of the pros.

It is vitally important to them. If they make the top 60, they are exempt from qualifying for next year's events. If they don't make it—and aren't otherwise qualified—they will have to compete on Mondays for spots in the tournament field.

Those qualifying events often are called the "suicide open," with an average of about 200 players competing for 20 spots.

McGowan, a 38-year-old veteran, is the key man at No. 60. He has $27,640 in official money.

Tony Jacklin, the British Open champ, is next at $27,540, but isn't competing here and can't make it. Neither can Johnny Pott, next at 62nd, also among the missing.

That leaves the best chance to Cerrudo, a former winner, who is 63rd at $27,023. (Cerrudo lives in Napa, and his parents live in San Rafael.)

Doug Sanders, who has won 18 tour events but has had his troubles this year, follows, but must finish fifth or better to have a chance. He has only $24,299—more than $3,000 back.

About 20 new names are scattered through the list, a tribute to the caliber of young players coming on the tour. But with that many new ones, a flock of regulars are in danger.

IN DANGER

They include Billy Maxwell, Lou Graham, Terry Wilcox, Kermit Zarley, Rocky Thompson, Chuck Courtney, Jacky Cupit, Mason Rudolph and Mike Hill.

A large number of others aren't in the top 60 but have lifetime exemptions — a sore point with the younger players—as former PGA or U.S. open champions.

That group includes Al Geiberger, Lionel Hebert, Dow Finsterwald, Dave Marr and Bob Rosburg.

Baseball Fans Might Vote For All-Stars Next Year

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has indicated that All-Star game balloting will be returned to the fans in 1970.

"We are trying to devise a way to permit the fans to vote for the All-Star teams again," the commissioner said yesterday after an informal session with major league club owners at the winter meetings.

"We are at a pretty well progressed stage on the matter and I am confident it can be done in 1970.

Fans selected the All-Star squad until a Cincinnati radio station managed a 1956 voting coup that resulted in the naming of seven Reds to the National League starting team. The following year, the voting was turned over to the players themselves.

"There is no objection to the players voting or to the kind of teams they select," Kuhn said. "But if you give it to the fans, you give them the enjoyment of participation."

The proposed change does not require approval of the owners. "This is the commissioner's game," Kuhn said.

S.F. Cagers Turn Back Tamalpais

Lincoln High School Mustangs of San Francisco had a slow start and finish, but did enough damage in between to defeat Tamalpais, 67-57, yesterday in an inter-league basketball game at San Francisco.

Tam, which now has a 1-1 won-lost record, was led by Ken Gommeringer's 14 points and Bill Secor's 13 rebounds.

San Diego St. Coach Praises Boston Foes

SAN DIEGO (AP)—"Football is an emotional game," says Don Coryell. That's at least partly why he believes his San Diego State Aztecs will have plenty of opponent in the Boston University Terriers.

The Aztecs, 10-0 in their first season of university football competition, used to cherish their meetings with so-called major football schools. Now they meet the college-division Terriers, 9-1, Saturday in the Pasadena Bowl.

"They're in the position we wanted to be," said Coryell, noting the obvious: the Terriers will be fired up.

The Terriers, despite being runners-up to Penn State in balloting for the Lambert Trophy, symbol of Eastern football supremacy, have nothing to lose and everything to gain by meeting the higher-classed Aztecs.

Coryell frowns when he hears someone question the quality of Boston University football.

"Look at one reel of film, just one reel of film, before you write anything derogatory about Boston," Coryell tells sportswriters.

"Their defense is big, about 238 pounds up front. We thought, 'good, they're fat guys and we'll block 'em easily.'

"But we looked at films," he said, "and they have some great players on the field.

GEORGE LEE:

Slow Teams Are Losers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — if you slow down in the National Basketball Association, you're going to lose, says coach George Lee of the San Francisco Warriors.

The Warriors beat the Detroit Pistons Tuesday night but the Pistons won last night, 106-102 as Howard Komives hit four free throws in the final minute.

"We were a step slower than last night," said Lee. "It was a bitter game to lose because we have to count on beating teams like Detroit."

The Warriors, now 12-12, rest tonight before entertaining the San Diego Rockets tomorrow night at the Cow Palace. Detroit is now 9-14.

The Warriors led by 11 points in the first half but faded in the third period when Detroit went ahead by nine.

The Warriors pulled back on top at 81-80 on two free throws by Dave Gambee. But the Pistons went ahead to stay with three minutes left on two free throws by Erwin Mueller. Komives' charity shots clinched it.

Eddie Miles paced Detroit with 29 points and teammate Jimmy Walker added 22. The Warriors' Jeff Mullins led all scorers with 31, including 19 in the first half. Nate Thurmond tossed in 20.

Stein Wins All-American Mention

Drake High School graduate Karl Stein of San Anselmo, who set a Big Sky Conference record with 11 pass interceptions in 10 games for undefeated University of Montana Grizzlies, has won honorable mention on the Little All-America football squad selected today by the Associated Press.

Stein was an All-Marin County Athletic League end at Drake and later starred for two seasons at College of Marin until he transferred to Montana this year. He was an all-conference selection at Marin in 1967 and 1968.

He is a junior at Montana, majoring in art.

49ers Working On Defense

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers concentrated on offense yesterday in preparation for Saturday's National Football League contest against the Chicago Bears.

Coach Dick Nolan noted that the Bears, only 1-10 for the season, are third in the NFL on defense.

Strong safety Mel Phillips ran a little on his sprained right knee but remained a doubtful starter against the Bears.

Phillips' place on the 49er defensive team will be taken by Alvin Randolph if the knee still hurts Friday, Nolan said.

Gridders Left Photog Behind

Not until the Ducks boarded their plane at Spokane, 75 miles away, did someone realize their photographer was missing.

New Marin Sport Event Calls For Many Talents

By GARY TISCHLER

Water Polo is apparently here to stay in the Marin County Athletic League.

True, it may never draw 5,000 screaming, or gurgling fans per match, nor will it get a foolhardy kid a fat bonus from panting scouts, but it is as much a part of the league as everything from soccer to football.

Part of the essential problems of the sport is of course that nobody seems to know quite what it is. Or care, at least not yet. It has no lasting legends to recall, no records one can recite by a stove, no pictures of flashy-teethed heroes hanging on the wall. The only name with any kind of durability in the sport's rather long (circa 1870) history is a fellow listed as M. Pauliquen, a Parisian who holds the honor of being the waterlogged fellow who remained underwater, against his will, for six minutes, 29 and four-fifths seconds, which puts him right in a class with Wrong-Way Corrigan.

NO JOKE

Yet, here is the sport, being played by novices in a high school league, out of season, weather-wise. It is easy enough to say that it's all wet, or wonder if you play it with a mallet and a seashorse, but on examination it refuses to be a big joke.

Each sport has its own physical mystique — the last ten yards of a football field, the empty reaches of centerfield, the pressure density around the basket, the panting homestretch of a track or the virginal, green yards off a tee. In water polo, it is strictly water, not placid lake water, but a churning pool that seems to be inhabitated by ravenous piranhas.

IT'S COLD

If you come newly-baked to the sport as a spectator, you don't know quite what to do. Tuesday's MCAL match between Terra Linda and Novato High School, won by Terra Linda, 17-6, was probably not typical of what usually goes on at one of these things, or so people tell me.

It was, first of all, deathly quiet and cold. Not very many people as yet show up for these things. Some pom-pon girls stood around, wringing their hands, looking as if they didn't know whether to yell or throw a life raft.

There are the players themselves, in their lean swimming trunks and goose bumps, their protective hats that look like a misplaced bikini, seven players on each side standing in the shallow ends of the pool by the goal. Two referees are there with blue and white flags to designate fouls and ball possession. A scattering of fans and Redwood team members ar here to watch future opponents.

FIVE THINGS

Bill Purcell, the youngish coach of the Redwood team, whose Giants stood heads above everyone else last year, says that it takes five things to make a good water polo player: endurance, agility, swimming ability, ball handling and sheer strength.

It seems to be one of the few sports that require a multitude of talents. Swimming alone will not get you by. You need the gut of a linebacker, the touch of Oscar Robertson and super lungs. And, what it comes down to, is a lot of heart.

There are four periods of action, and there is no place to hide, no time outs for orange juice, no way to crawl into a dark corner to take a deep breath.

UNDER WATER

Like football, the game has an air of subdued violence about it, but you never quite notice it. Most of the mayhem goes on under water. Anyone that has a fixation about not letting other people play with the ball is likely to drown and become a human Tresher. The man with the ball is fair game for just about anything.

Yet, there is, when it's done right, a beautiful flow to the game, like salmon going upstream in unison. A water version of a fast break is nice to watch, sharks converging on the net, the goalie standing there like the last man at Little Big Horn

Pilots, Nats Swap Hurlers; Lanier's Dad A Manager

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Seattle Pilots and Washington Senators exchanged pitchers today with left-handed George Brunet going to the Senators for right-hander Dave Baldwin.

Burnet, who split the 1969 season between California and Seattle had an 8-12 won-lost record and a 4.45 earned run average. He is 34 years old and has been in the majors, on and off, since 1956.

Baldwin, 31, had a 2-4 record in 43 games with the Seantors and a 4.03 earned run mark as a relief specialist.

MAX LANIER, former major league pitcher, was named yesterday manager of Detroit's farm club at Rocky Mount, N.C. in the Class A Carolina League.

Lanier, father of Hal Lanier, the San Francisco Giants' shortstop, managed in the Giants' organization briefly but has been out of baseball because of a heart condition since June, 1968.

"He gives us what we needed most without disturbing the balance of the club," said Mets skipper Gil Hodges. "We got him to play third base, but he can play other positions, like shortstop and outfield, too."

Otis, 22, was considered the Mets' center fielder of the future before the start of last season. A multi-player trade with Atlanta for Joe Torre was killed when New York General Manager Johnny Murphy declared Otis an "untouchable."

But Tommie Agee nailed down the center field spot with a remarkable comeback, boosting his average to .271—54 points over the previous year—and the "untouchable" became expendable.

"We weren't too sure of Agee last year at this time, but I think he proved himself," Murphy explained. "Trading Otis now isn't the kind of gamble it would have been then."

Otis batted .325 in 78 games with the Mets' Tidewater farm in the International League but just .151 in 48 with the parent club. Johnson, a 26-year-old right-hander, had a combined 13-5 record with Tidewater and Memphis. He made two late-season appearances for the Mets without a decision.

Another Heavyweight Champion To Emerge

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The head of the new North American Boxing Federation says Saturday's Sonny Liston-Leotis Martin fight "might provide the platform to clear up the muddled heavyweight situation."

Bill Houston of Oakland, president of the NABF and chairman of the California Athletic Commission, made the comment yesterday in announcing the federation would recognize the winner of the fight as the North American Heavyweight champion.

STATES

The states aligned with the recently formed NABF are California, Nevada, Arizona, Washington, Illinois, Missouri, West Virginia and Kentucky. The Mexican Boxing Federation is a member and there is an associate membership in Hawaii.

An NABF spokesman said the idea will be to determine North American champions who should then be able to fight champions of other major areas such as Europe and the Orient, to arrive at a true world champion.

The decision to grant recognition to the winner of the Liston-Martin fight doesn't actually further confuse the already fuzzy heavyweight title situation as might initially seem.

ELLIS

At present, Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., is recognized by the World Boxing Association as the champion. But several states and some foreign commissions consider Joe Frazier of Philadelphia to be the champ.

"We want to emphasize that this is a recognition of the North American continent champion only, not the world championship," said Houston, explaining the decision followed a poll of the championship and executive committees and the general membership.

"The grace period for Ellis to defend his WBA title against the No. 1 contender has long expired, and Joe Frazier, we are told, is anxious to clear up the picture," Houston said.

CONTINENT

"So perhaps all parties and participants involved will use the NABF as a means of truly determining the best heavyweight boxer, at least on the North American continent, and subsequent world title."

Houston said the NABF had planned "to publish out initial ratings in the first quarter of 1970. But everyone was in agreement that we had to start somewhere and, with Liston and Martin both highly ranked by all other federations and associations, this recognition would be favorably received."

Notre Dame has beaten Army's football team 27 times while losing only eight times. Four games ended in ties.

Outfielder Rick Reichartdt led the California Angeles in driving in runs last season with 68. He also led the team in homers with 13.

San Rafael A Threat For Basketball Title

(Eighth in a series on Marin County high school basketball prospects.)

Everybody's pointing the finger at San Rafael High School's basketball team.

The Bulldogs, according to some coaches, stand to be the team with the best chance to give Redwood a run for its money in the Marin County Athletic League race.

San Rafael was one of four teams in a hot race for the crown last year, and the Bulldogs were the only team to beat the Giants, in the league opener. They have several people, but not the height, off that team coming back.

Potentially, they have one of the finest shooters and scorers in the league back in Bruce Nave, a starter last year who's already proved in a pair of games that he's ready to do the job this year. He's hit for 59 points in two games so far.

Also returning is Lowell Widmer, who is small, but steady, a good defensive player and a quick guard.

There's also Bruce D'Ambra, a natural basketball player and good forward, who is still out from a football injury, but is expected back by the time league competition starts in January.

Some of the newcomers who are going tao have to help are Tony Nathe, Allan Rossi and Chris Bonner.

Six-foot-six Don Duryee will probably provide the missing rebound link which the Bulldogs lost with the graduation of Phil Sleezer, Roger Thomas and Ray Taylor. Duryee grabbed 20 rebounds in a 52-50 win over Galileo of San Francisco, Friday.

Brett Tovani, the junior varsity coach is currently coaching the varsity, too, until Mike Diaz recovers from injuries suffered in a car accident.

Be Sure Bindings Work; Your Safety Is At Stake

These days, there is no excuse for anyone to ski without using reliable release bindings; there are so many good ones available. Some people call these safety bindings, but they are not necessarily safe. If they are not adjusted properly, they can release inadvertently — when you don't expect it — and you can be hurt.

Very early in my racing career, I learned to check my bindings very closely and regularly. I had had the misfortune not to be able to finish races because my bindings released when they shouldn't have. Tremendous twisting forces are involved in making a fast, precise slalom turn.

TWIST

In today's illustration, you can see how my whole body is beginning to twist to my left, while my skis are still turning to my right. If my bindings were not adjusted properly, I could twist out of them, fall and, at the very least, lose the race!

Train yourself to check your bindings regularly — ideally, every time you put on your skis. Otherwise, at least check them before each day of skiing. Check for equal right and left release. If the toe unit of your binding is mounted crooked by as little as 1/16 of an inch, or if the notches on your boot are not equal, the bindings will not release equally to the left and to the right. You'll come out too easily on one side and, thinking they're set too loose, you'll tighten up on the adjustment screw. This may make release to the other side impossible. You're in for trouble!

CHECKED

And coming out of a binding when you don't want to can be almost as dangerous. In fact, do yourself a favor — have your bindings checked by a simple machine which is carried by most shops which seriously specialize in skiing equipment.

Yankees Promote Nine Youngsters

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees have added nine farm club prospects to their 40-man roster which will report to Manager Ralph Houk at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., next spring.

One of the newcomers is Larry Gowell of Auburn, Me., who last season led the Florida State League with 16 victories and 217 strikeouts in 198 innings.

Proficiency Ski Tests Offered To The Public

Far West Ski Association has set a goal of giving 35,000 proficiency ski tests to the public this season, according to Col. Fraser E. West, San Francisco business executive and chairman of the FWSA Proficiency Ski Program.

The program, according to West, is open to all skiers — novice to expert — regardless of affiliation. This year for the first time membership in the Far West Ski Association is not required to take any of the tests.

Skiers passing any of the tests are eligible for red, white and blue enamel shield pins which are worn on ski sweaters or parkas and denotes skiing ability. All tests are conducted and administered by professional certified ski instructors.

Further details on the proficiency program, or where tests are given, may be obtained by writing or telephoning the Far West Ski Association, 812 Howard Street, San Francisco, 94104.

SKIERS are having a rough time trying to find some snow this year. Normally Thanksgiving weekend is the start of ski season in Northern California, but it's different this year.

"We've had Palm Springs weather for the last four or five days," complains Jim Perkins, manager of the Squaw Valley Inn west of Lake Tahoe.

But Ski Incline resort manager Wes Howell is not as optimistic. "Generally, Thanksgiving is more wishful thinking than skiing," he contends.

In the 1934 Rose Bowl game Columbia turned in one of the biggest upsets in the classic by beating Stanford 7-0 on a touchdown by Al Barabas.

Big 'O' Now No. 3 Scorer

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oscar Robertson tossed in 36 points and moved into the third spot among all-time scorers in National Basketball Association last night but the Big O's heroics were in vain as the Seattle SuperSonics downed the Cincinnati Royals 118-117.

In other games Boston whipped Baltimore 113-105, San Diego bombed Chicago 146-131 and Detroit squeezed past San Francisco, 106-102.

ABA SCORES

In the American Basketball Association Kentucky beat Dallas 123-109, Indiana stopped Miami, 126-117, Washington topped Denver 99-87 and New York tripped Los Angeles 108-97.

Robertson, who has now scored 20,881 career NBA points, moved ahead of Bob Petit, former St. Louis Hawks star on the all-time list. Petit had 20,880 points. Wilt Chamberlain and Los Angeles teammate Elgin Baylor remain 1-2 on the list.

The Big O led a futile final period charge as the Royals gained a 112-112 tie with Robertson hitting for eight points. But a pair of free throws by Seattle's Bob Boozer gave the Sonics a 118-115 lead and a basket at the buzzer by Tom Van Arsdale was not enough.

HANG ON

Boston got 31 points from Larry Siegfried and 27 from John Havlicek as the Celtics opened up an 18-point lead before intermission and hung on for their victory. Gus Johnson led the Bullets with 26 points.

Don Kojis exploded for 40 points and the Rockets ran away from Chicago in the second half. Kojis hit on 17 of 19 shots from the field. Elvin Hayes added 30 more for the Rockets while Clem Haskins had 26 for the Bulls.

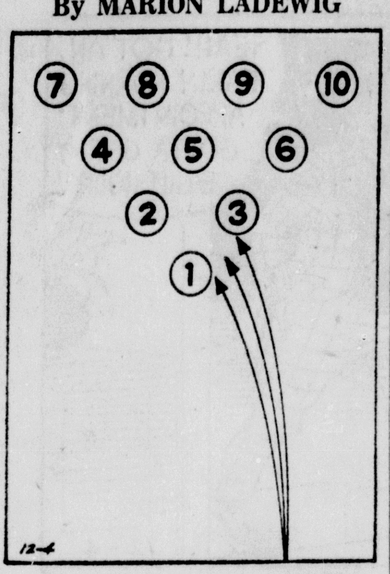
BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



If you're wondering, ladies, why the hook ball is the best one to roll, here's the reason. The hook gives the bowler a bigger 1-3 pocket to hit. More tolerance from a less-than-perfect hit is given. High hits (closer to the head pin) and thin hits (closer to the 3-pin) have a better chance of striking than a straight or curve ball.

Stanford Outguns San Jose

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

There's no place like home—at least for a basketball team.

After losing their opener in far off Utah, the Stanford Indians returned to their home court last night to entertain highly-touted San Jose State.

The Indians zoomed to a 45-28 halftime lead and breezed in with an 84-72 victory over the Spartans. Dennis O'Neill had 19, flashy soph guard Claude Terry added 16, and Fred Green 15.

Coby Dietrick had 15 for the Spartans, who hit only 10 of 38 first half shots.

Explosive Offense For West All-Stars

Perfect passing and running balance in a million dollar backfield should make the West a top heavy favorite over the East in the 45th East-West Shrine charity classic Dec. 27 at Stanford Stadium.

Imagine having not one but two superb quarterbacks like San Diego State's Dennis Shaw and North Texas State's Steve Ramsey. Together, Shaw and Ramsey have passed for 5,716 yards and 70 touchdowns this season.

THAT SOUNDS incredible but the statistics are there in the record books. Shaw's passing yardage was 3,124, including 45 TDs, nine in one game for a National Collegiate Athletic Association record. Ramsey passed for 2,637 yards and 25 TDs.

Oklahoma's Steve Owens, winner of the Heisman Trophy, Colorado's Bob Anderson, UCLA's Greg Jones, Stanford's Bubba Brown, California's Gary Fowler and Arizona State's Art Malone will provide the running balance for the West's passing game.

IDAHO'S JERRY Hendren, who caught 95 passes for 12 touchdowns and a NCAA record this year, and UCLA's George Farmer who also is a fine pass catcher, will be primary receivers for Shaw and Ramsey.

Before the week is out the full West team should be announced but the way it now is shaping up it could be the best to represent the West in many years.

Owens, of course, is the big muscle man in the West backfield. During his three seasons at Oklahoma Owens set five NCAA records, eight Big Eight Conference records and 15 school marks. In 905 carries over the three year span he amassed 3,867 yards and 56 touchdowns. He wound up his collegiate career like the champ he is, carrying 55 times for 261 yards and two touchdowns against Oklahoma State last week.

ANDERSON AND Jones are a couple of capable ball carriers themselves. Jones piled up 761 yards this season for UCLA, plus 10 touchdowns. Anderson's contribution to Colorado's success was approximately 1,000 yards and 17 touchdowns.

While Farmer's pass receiving for UCLA did not approach Hendren's spectacular performance for Idaho, Farmer caught 36 passes for 651 yards and four touchdowns.

With such passing, running and receiving talent, the West should put on a spectacular show.

ANNOUNCING THE
BRIDGESTONE SUPER SPEED RADIAL

Designed to give your car a smoother, more quiet ride!!
PLUS MUCH MORE MILEAGE
GUARANTEED TO WEAR 30,000 MILES

The greatest quality we have ever seen short of the MICHELIN X—far better tread wear than GLASS BELTED—and far better performance.

HERE'S WHY:

Tires get their treadwear from the sturdiness of their casing (most people think it's from the rubber and they are wrong). Radials get far greater mileage yet — by further wrapping the casing under the tread and around the tire — making the tire sturdier yet. It's at THIS POINT the great wear is separated from the SO-SO wear — the Polyglas and Fiberglas belted tires wear SO-SO to BAD because there is no thickness to their belting. This is why the MICHELIN X RADIAL TIRE wears so long and performs so well—'cause it's belted with 3 thick belts of STEEL. BRIDGESTONE RADIALS will outwear all competition save MICHELIN because for domestic cars its tread has 6 plies wrapped around to give great tread stability and sturdiness. That's why BRIDGESTONE then will wear so well — and folks it's as simple as that — Tread Stabilbity — long wear. The more you are able to squeeze the tread of a tire together with your hands the less tread wear you are going to get. We at CAIN'S would love to have you squeeze our tires.

"Hi! Boy or girl?"

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, Dec. 4, the 338th day of 1969 with 27 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1918, President Woodrow Wilson sailed for France to attend the peace conference at Versailles.

In 1942, President Franklin Roosevelt ordered the liquidation of the Works Progress Administration, created in 1935 to provide work for the unemployed.

In 1946, the United Mine Workers of America was fined $3.5 million for refusing to call off a 17-day strike.

In 1965, America's Gemini 7 spaceship was hurled into orbit on a successful 14-day voyage around the earth. On Dec. 15, Gemini 7 and Gemini 6 made their historic rendezvous in space and orbited the earth only yards apart.

A thought for the day: President George Washington said, "There can be no greater error than to expect or calculate upon favors from nation to nation."

Red Cross Workers To Fly To Hawaii

A Red Cross worker from Mill Valley is scheduled to fly to Honolulu tomorrow to aid the Hawaii Red Cross Chapter in assistance to families who suffered losses when giant waves battered Oahu Island Tuesday.

Evelyn Maley of 508 Andrea Lane, deputy director of disaster services for the Red Cross western area, and Stanley Young of Walnut Creek, a building adviser, will make the trip, the Red Cross reported yesterday.

HOW TO PLAY BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When Using Compound Finesse You First Lose Preliminary One

In the ordinary finesse you play a card that will either win or lose, depending on whether or not a missing high card is in favorable position.

In a more advanced kind of finesse, sometimes called a "compound" finesse, you begin by losing a preliminary finesse. Later on, if luck is with you, there will be time to try an ordinary finesse that is made possible by your earlier play.

The compound finesse is illustrated in the play of the clubs of today's hand.

Opening lead — ♡ K

West leads the king of hearts, and East overtakes with the ace and returns a heart to the jack. West continues with a third heart, and South ruffs.

South can easily win all the spades and diamonds, but he must limit the loss in clubs to one trick.

NORMAL PLAY

The normal play would be to lead a club to dummy's ace and return a club to the queen, but South knows that this plan will not work: West is sure to have the king of clubs to bolster up his sketchy overcall of two hearts.

The situation is hopeless if West has three or more clubs headed by the king.

South must hope that West has the singleton or doubleton king of clubs. It is not enough, however, to lead the ace of clubs and then play low clubs from both hands to let West take the king.

East would still get a club trick with the jack or 10. South can solve the problem by means of a compound finesse.

DRAWS TRUMPS

South draws trumps and leads a low club from his hand.

When West plays low, declarer tries a finesse with dummy's eight of clubs.

This preliminary finesse loses to the 10, and back comes a diamond to the ace. South leads another low club, capturing West's king.

The lead is now in dummy, and a club return allows South to finesse with the Q-9 behind East's jack.

South makes his contract likewise if West has K-J or K-10 of clubs, by allowing West to win the first club trick with the jack or 10.

South then leads a club to the ace and is in position to finesse through East.

If West has the singleton king of clubs, dummy's ace captures it; and a low club return from dummy then limits East to one club trick.

INVESTING

Record Level Bond Yields Continuing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 69, retired and would like to invest $5,000 in good bonds. How are they purchased and at what cost? How long must they be held? — C. O.

A. Bonds can be purchased through your broker's bond department. In buying small amounts there is usually a fee of $5-$10 per bond. As to the duration of this type of commitment, it varies, depending on the maturity date. Although bonds are traded on the open market, if interest rates continue to soar, you could realize a capital loss by selling prior to maturity. For that reason, short-term bonds — under 10 years — are better suited to your needs.

Household Finance 8¾'s of 1975 are selling at a premium to yield about 8.5 per cent. This single A-rated issue would fit your situation. Another possibility would be six and nine-month agency notes recently issued by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank and Banks for Co-Operatives, both bearing 8.45 per cent interest rates. Purchase of these $5,000 notes could be arranged through a local Federal Reserve System Bank.

Q. I expect to have some additional money for investment. My portfolio consists of American Telephone, General Telephone, General Electric, New England Electric, Texaco and Union Carbide. Should I add to these holdings or purchase something else? At my age — in my 70s — I am more interested in safety and yield than in growth. — D. C.

A. Developments in three of your holdings have created attractive buying opportunities. The reduction in Telephone's long-distance rates, which at first glance appears negative, will probably result, as it did in late 1967, in an increase in toll use. In 1968 toll revenues were up 10 per cent.

Closing Rally Cuts Wall Street Losses

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock market averages finished mixed today as a result of a strong comeback late in the session. Trading was brisk.

Of the 1,624 issues crossing the tape, 744 declined and 617 advanced.

A turnover of around 13 million shares was running ahead of yesterday's pace.

Analysts said much of the initial selling was a further reaction to the fall through 800, long regarded as a key support area.

Newton Zinder, analyst for the E.F. Hutton brokerage, said yesterday's slide in the Dow Jones Index was a psychological blow to many investors, but he felt the market was deeply oversold and due for a snapback soon.

Among the day's most active issues were Ryder System, which expected a 20 per cent rise in per share earnings in 1970, Engelhard Minerals, American Telephone, Hammond Corp. Texaco, and Polaroid.

AT&T closed at 50-3-8 off 1-8, and Texaco was unchanged at 28 3-4.

Electronics, broadly lower early in the session, ranged to more than 2 points higher, while oils also showed scattered strength. IBM gained 1 7-8, closing at 357, and Xerox was up 1-2 to 106 1-2.

Ross Department Store To Have A Branch In Novato

A new department store will open in Novato about the middle of next year.

Hoytt Enterprises, developer of the Downtown Novato Shopping Center on Grant Avenue, has negotiated with Ross Department Stores of San Bruno to occupy a new one-story and mezzanine building with over 20,000 square feet, designed by Hammarberg and Herman of Oakland.

Gerald Hoytt said plans for the building are nearly completed and construction should get under way in a few weeks. He set late spring as the time for completion, but William Isaacson, head of Ross Department Stores believes there will not be an opening before mid-summer. The Novato store will employ 30 to 40 people.

Ross specializes in men's, women's and children's clothing and in San Bruno maintains establishments on each side of San Mateo Avenue. Another store is located in the Linda Mar Shopping Center, Pacifica. The firm has been in business about 11 years.

JARO R. STEPHAN of Corte Madera will be manager of the new W. and J. Sloane store in the Northgate Mall when this store opens sometime in January.

A Marin resident for the past seven years, he has held the positions of director of the design studio at Sloane's San Francisco store and manager of the Walnut Creek store. In addition to managing the new Northgate store he will also hold the post of interior design director.

President Lends Prestige To Special-Interest Bill

There is schizophrenia in the Nixon administration regarding the nation's press.

We do not refer to the criticism of the press by Vice President Agnew. That, we understand, has the full approval of his boss in the White House. And it has been joined by Atty. Gen. John M. Mitchell.

The schizophrenia exists over a bill which would exempt newspaper "joint operations" from the anti-trust laws. The White House, it was disclosed at a House subcommittee hearing, approved the bill. The Justice Department — headed by Attorney General Mitchell — opposes it.

WE AGREE with the Justice Department.

The bill, called the "Newspaper Preservation Act," was introduced as result of an antimonoply suit brought by the Justice Department itself. The suit was brought as a test case against the morning Arizona Star and evening Tucson Citizen in Tucson, Ariz. These newspapers are corporately separate, but jointly own a production company, Tucson Newspapers, Inc., which prints both papers and operates their business and circulation departments. Tucson is one of 22 cities where allegedly competing newspapers have such joint arrangements, San Francisco being another.

The government's suit against the Tucson papers was fought all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, which ruled that the arrangement constituted an illegal combination in restraint of trade and must be broken up.

The "Newspaper Preservation Act" was then introduced to legalize what the Supreme Court had declared illegal, by exempting such arrangements from the anti-trust laws. It has been approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee and by an anti-trust subcommittee of the House. It was before the latter that President Nixon's support was made known.

NEWSPAPERS GUARD jealously the freedom guaranteed them by the Constitution. They are ever watchful against attempts at government control that might stifle free competition or free dissent. It is well that they are.

But newspapers cannot in conscience insist on such freedoms and at the same time seek special legal protection of monopoly in their own ranks. It is blatant hypocrisy for a newspaper to inveigh against government control and against industrial monopoly while seeking legal favoritism to sanction monopoly of the press.

Most of the newspapers in the United States want no part of the "Newspaper Preservation Act." It is being pushed by the owners of the 22 joint-operation companies, all of which may face the same prosecution as did the Tucson newspapers. They have put protection of their own businesses above the ideal of the freedom of the press.

THE BILL would permit such joint operations only where a newspaper "is in probable danger of failure, or appears unlikely to remain or become a financially sound institution."

That makes it no more just. Should similar legislation be enacted in every competitive field, nothing worth mentioning would be left of the anti-trust laws.

It is disheartening to see the President of the United States lending his support to such obviously special-interest legislation.

The Wet And Cloudy Years

A friend of ours who is quite an amateur botanist tells us the past three winters have been unusually wet and unusually cloudy. The result has been that many trees and shrubs in low-lying places have died.

Some have died from fungus diseases of the roots. Others seem to have died from physiological drought, caused when the water around roots becomes quite acid.

Most plants need a brief period of "dry feet." Unlike humans, they don't get colds or pneumonia. But they get just as sick.

Anyone who has lost shrubs or trees in Marin can find solace in the fact he has lots of company.

Who says we haven't integratel our multi-ethnic society? The California Bakery in San Rafael has cookies called "Scandinavian Florentines."

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Auto License Time Reveals Helplessness Of Many Citizens

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It seems rather ironic, as well as frustrating, that the state of California spends literally millions of dollars every year on the state's educational system, yet has not as yet educated the citizen sufficiently to handle some of the necessary business of living.

This observation comes from reading a press release issued by Verne Orr, director of the state Department of Motor Vehicles, who faces his annual task of re-registering some 13 million automobiles by Feb. 4, 1970.

REGISTRATION time, he said, "is a time of trouble for countless vehicle owners.

"Tens of thousands of notices will be returned to the department, undeliverable because the vehicle owners have forgotten to notify both the department and the post office where they moved."

The department had notices in the mail at the end of November, thus allowing a two-month period for renewals rather than the one month which has been customary.

BUT THE CHANGES of address are not the only obstacles to carrying out the renewal period with a minimum of confusion.

In spite of a clear warning stating "if you no longer own this vehicle, destroy this card," Orr says thousands of people will pay registration fees for automobiles they no longer own!

And other thousands, he said, will discover they still technically own a vehicle they no longer have because the new owner never reported the purchase to the department.

ORR OFFERED the following advice for recipients of the 1970 renewal statements:

"If you still have the vehicle, but anything on the statement no longer reflects the true situation, such as the owner's name, address, or the identity of license number on the vehicle, bring the statement to the nearest DMV office with all documents to explain the discrepancy, and do this early.

"If you accept the statement as correct, it can be mailed to DMV in Sacramento with your check or bank draft made out in the exact amount of the billing. Better yet, get in the 'express' line at your local DMV office, and walk out with your 1970 sticker, the color of which is a bold orange."

It's a pitiful reflection on our educational system that it cannot prepare young people to handle automobile registrations, which have been under way for more than two generations.

Inaccuracy Laid To Indian Story

I have just read Joan Lisetor's article "Indians Adamant: Alcatraz Is Theirs." It is the worst piece of yellow journalism I have seen in a long time, and reading such one-sided and distorted reporting is to me, worse than having no news at all. In a story rating a red headline, your reporter saw fit to interview irresponsible kids writing slogans on walls, but not to interview: (1) anyone from GSA which controls the island, (2), the Department of the Interior which has designs on the island, (3). the U.S. Coast Guard which provided transportation for U.S. deputy marshalls or (4) the U.S. marshall's office.

Having been personally involved in this breach since the beginning, I can only say that your paper is dreadfully misinformed. While most reporters and supplies went ashore at the dock, in daylight, and with the government's blessing, your reporter preferred to play "Cowboys and Indians" in the middle of the night, climbing ladders taken off of the island's fire truck.

If your reporting in this article, on which I have personal knowledge, is so inaccurate, I can only assume it is in other articles; therefore, please cancel my subscription effective at the end of the current billing period.

College Foundation Efforts Discouraged

Approximately five years ago a group of interested people formed the College of Marin Foundation. We realized that far too many students enrolled at the college were capable of college work, but could not afford some of the basic expenses.

The foundation members desired to assist deserving students, those who were serious and needed a helping hand, not a handout. The handful of dedicated foundation board members have given "untold hours" at early morning meetings and late evening meetings working on ways to raise funds for the worthy students. I can assure the people of Marin County no group has been more dedicated and impartial.

The foundation has a scholarship and loan awards committee, to my knowledge the only such lay committee within the California Junior college system. The funds that are raised by the foundation are awarded to students only after many hours of "serious evaluation"; every application that is received is reviewed and every dollar available is stretched as far as possible.

You can well imagine the many discouraging responses when soliciting such funds. We have literally begged in order to raise the needed money, and that need has been mounting year after year. It is espicially disheartening to find that well-meaning people are willing to penalize the truly deserving students because of a few dissidents. . .

Something Better Than Ferry Needed

As a commuter to San Francisco every day, I feel I must protest the plight of us who must travel to the Big City. Now the commute fares have been raised again, the third time I might add in one year. Greyhound wants out. They say they are not making enough money. (Well, who is? I'm not either!)

When the strike was on, there we were, the faithful, waiting for our buses. You see, most of us prefer the bus to driving, or else we wouldn't be taking it every day. We can nap, read, or just watch the scenery. Plus the expense of driving, not to mention parking, would be too much for some of us. And what about the people who don't own cars? What do they do?

The Tiburon Ferry would not do a lot of us any good, me for one. I don't get off work until 4:45 p.m. According to their schedule I would have to wait until 5:30, and then get into Tiburon at 6:05, get into my car, get out into the traffic and be lucky if I got home by 7 p.m.

If Grehound wants out, as they seem to, there had bettter be something better for the majority of us than the Tiburon Ferry.

Strike Threat Not Over Pay Issue

Our attention is called to your editorial of Nov. 15 re: "Professionals" in the health, education and welfare fields. There is a serious misstatement of fact concerning Marin welfare workers, which we feel must be corrected so as not to mislead your readers as to actual events in negotiating the '69-'70 contract between Social Workers Union, Local 535 and the County of Marin.

You state Marin welfare workers "threatened to strike" and "to leave their charges untended and unassisted until their own pocketbooks were first fattened."

The fact is that strike consideration was based almost wholly on lowering of caseloads — not pay. This writer, as negotiations chairman of the Probation Workers Union chapter, personally knows such as fact, because our chapter voted overwhelmingly to support the Social Workers chapter in their insistence on decent professional caseload standards. It so happens that our chapter's bargaining efforts for months were also concentrated on our No. 1 objective for '69-'70 of reduced caseloads — not pay. . .

To be sure our chapters did emphasize pay in the first contract of '68-'69. We make no apologies whatsoever for this. However, at no time did we ever consider strike on that issue at that time. Entirely contrary to your whole editorial diatribe on "hypocritical" professionals, our strike threat this year was to raise professional standards. By such action we were in fact facing possible loss of pay in the risk of strike!. . .

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A FATHER marched his four children up to the ticket booth of a theater running a big hit picture and asked, "What's the price for the cheapest seats?" "They're all the same," he was told. "Three bucks apiece." "Well, how much for the kids?" he persisted. "No reduction," was the answer. "Three bucks a ticket." "funny," mused the father. "Airlines only charge half fare for children." "Okay," nodded the ticket seller. "Put the kids on a plane!"

'Bring Us Together' Promise Unfilled As Year Nears End

WASHINGTON — Bring us together. That promise in Richard Nixon's campaign more than any other held out the hope of an interval of good will, or relative quiet and lowered voices after the Johnsonian storm and strife.

The promise, as the end of the first year nears, has not been born out. For reasons of which many are beyond President Nixon's control, the need for a unifying force is greater than it was when he took office in January.

THE REJECTION of the President's nominee to the Supreme Court, Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., was a severe blow to what the President has repeatedly said was his constitutional prerogative. It was a blow, too, to his relationship with a Congress which, for the first time in well over a century, confronted an incoming president with control by the opposing party. The bitter aftertaste will last for a long time both with those in the White House who fought unsuccessfully to put the nomination over and with the Republicans who resisted that pressure and are now under the frowning disapproval of the Nixon team.

While it was a blow, the fate of the Haynsworth nomination seems to this observer to be an opportunity to bind up the wounds and encourage the conviction of national unity. The President can nominate another southerner with a conservative outlook, as he has indicated he will do. Without the shadow of conflict of interest and in the wake of the Haynsworth quarrel, the nominee would almost beyond question be confirmed.

THERE IS, however, a different course which could cool the emotions stirred by the controversy and help to take the court out of the partisan political arena. It has been forgotten that shortly after his inauguration the President speaking to employees of the State Department, said they should not be surprised if their secretary, William P. Rogers should become chief justice of the United States, as had happened to three of his predecessors.

Rogers is an eminently qualified lawyer who has repeatedly shown his skill in human relations. His political stance is best described as moderate. Rogers' nomination to fill the vacancy on the court could not be faulted.

That this will happen, it is hardly necessary to add, is most unlikely.

IN THIS FIRST year, the parochialism of the Nixon administration has at times been all too evident.

Whether it is the "southern strategy" and the influence of Sen. Strom Thurmond as a reward for the 87 southern and border state electoral votes that put Mr. Nixon in the White House, the weight is heavily on the side of the South and the West and ideologically in the right wing of the party. This may be sound politics but it is a questionable tactic in bringing us together.

Next year Nelson Rockefeller may run for an unprecedented fourth term as governor of New York. The reports from both his friends and his critics is that he is reluctant to devote another four years to the legislature and the squabbles between New York City and upstate Republicans.

As part of the Nixon administration he would move the party nearer the center. His extensive background in foreign policy, defense, and health and welfare would add dimension to a cabinet lacking in luster. Bringing us together is more than rhetoric.

Chaos Prevails In Italian Government And Labor

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In Italy, it seems, everybody has been talking but nobody has been listening. The result is continuing chaos on both the political and industrial fronts.

The Christian Democrats rule the country by virtue of a weak minority government which is not expected to stay in power beyond spring. The Christian Democrats, Italy's largest political party, are split into half a dozen factions.

So are the Socialists who participated with the Christian Democrats in Italy's latest experiment with center/left governments until the fall of the coalition last July. The Socialists now officially are split into two parties.

Even the Italian Communists, whose party is the largest outside Communist block nations, are split between the parliamentarians aligned with Moscow and other groups labelled as "Guevarras," pro-Chinese" and "Maoist."

THERE EVEN is an uneasy feeling that a coup is not impossible, either military or civilian and going either to right or left, but, in any case, extremist.

The labor front is just as chaotic.

As November came to a close, 100,000 urban transport workers just had returned to work, when 10's of thousands of striking metal workers snarled Rome traffic with a march through the streets.

It was a peaceful demonstration but in other Italian cities there has been violence.

In Milan a policeman died after being struck by a piece of metal pipe and "law and order" factions clashed with workers and students demanding overthrow of the government.

IN THE FIRST 10 months of 1969, it is estimated that the Italian economy lost more than $1.5 billion as result of strikes of which no end is yet in sight.

The paralyzing strikes have run the full course of Italian industry, from newspapers to the giant Fiat automobile works.

The issues are wages, better housing and an increased workers' share in the country's economy which has been booming ahead at the rate of about 8 per cent per year.

Workers complain that even with raises the gains quickly are wiped out by increases in the costs of such essentials as milk and butter .

IN GENERAL, the workers are demanding a reduction in the work week to 40 hours and wage increases of about 25 per cent, a pattern set in a recent government agreement with employees of the state - owned railroad.

The government also has set aside nearly $2 billion for construction of low-rent housing. But impatient workers, thousands of them imported to the industrial north from the poverty-ridden south, fear they never will see it. Meanwhile, money is flowing from the country out of fear that in the next government, Communists will share the power.

Legend Being Born In Marin—With, As Usual, Some Inaccuracies

We may be witnessing the birth of a legend in our own time. As with most legends, time is encrusting the real event with the barnacles of what people want to think happened.

Time and the legend are being helped, too, by San Francisco's Sunday newspaper, which this week published a story of Marty Kent Jones of Kentfield, who led last spring's revolt against the bulldozers on Tamalpais Creek.

There are two pictures—one of Mrs. Jones as she was arrested in Tam Creek, another of her standing by a concrete-lined flood control channel.

The channel, sterile concrete, is flanked by a barren dirt service road; the trees are gone and fence posts line the top of the channel.

ONLY ONE THING is wrong: it isn't Tamalpais Creek. The photographer posed Mrs. Jones beside Corte Madera Creek, half a mile from Tam Creek. The Corte Madera Creek flood control channel is much bigger and much more striking—even though it is mentioned only once in the accompanying article.

The article errs, too. It describes Mrs. Jones' fight against the Tam Creek project, her arrest and the strikers' "subsequent hours behind bars."

As I-J readers may remember, no one arrested that day spent a minute in jail. They were accorded meticulously polite treatment, without being fingerprinted or "mugged" during booking at the sheriff's office. Their inconvenience was limited to waiting for attorneys and bail to arrive.

Mrs. Jones isn't to blame for these alterations of the truth—the reporter and photographer are. But with the cause of conservation gaining strength daily, it seems accuracy would serve better than specious dramatization.

ONE OF SAN ANSELMO'S landmarks disappeared last week, bulldozed at the orders of City Hall—Hansen Falls, the art nouveau residence of the late Mathew Hansen, the "poet of Miracle Mile."

Hansen, who wrote five books of verse, died at 95 in October last year, and his home at 210 Red Hill Avenue fell vacant. He was a landscape gardener until he retired in 1954, and on his steep lot he built a series of waterfalls, stone facing and fantastic ornamentation, capped by a 20-foot waterfall he finished when he was 90.

Hansen spent his last years in a convalescent home, and the house and landscaping on Red Hill Avenue went to seed quickly.

While no one paid rent, the house often served as a haven for hippies, who slept there and left with daylight. "Condemned" signs didn't keep them away.

With no maintenance, no utilities, and people using it, the house was a hazard. It was damaged by fire once. So the city ordered it razed, and last week the machinery moved in and took it down. In the process, they wiped out about all of Hansen's landscaping and rockwork as well, because the lot is too small and too steep for a bulldozer to tiptoe around such things.

PROSPECTS for new construction on the site aren't promising. City Hall says the lot is zoned for a duplex, but there isn't room for the required four off-street parking spaces if a duplex were built. It's probably too expensive a site for a single-family house, so owner Harry Heifetz may just let it sit.

It's too bad. Hansen Falls was no Taj Mahal, but it was reminiscent of the Watts Towers, or Gaudi's architecture in Barcelona, and some of us will miss it.

ART BUCHWALD

Intimate Glimpse Of Hectic Life Of Attorney General And His Wife

WASHINGTON — All of Washington is talking about Atty. Gen. John Mitchell's wife, Martha. Mrs. Mitchell has made almost as big a splash as Vice President Spiro Agnew, with such remarks on TV as the one that her husband would like to trade some American liberals for some Russian Communists.

She also told Time magazine's Dean Fischer, "Any time you get somebody marching in the streets, it's catering to revolution. . . . My family worked for everything. We even had a deed from the king of England for property in South Carolina. Now these jerks come along and try to give it to the Communists. . . ."

Commenting on life in Washington, she said, "It's quite a comedown in many ways. We're not living on the same means we had in Rye, N.Y. I think the government should give us free housing. We'll be happy to go back and make some money."

MRS. MITCHELL in her TV broadcasts and interviews has given us an insight into a cabinet officer's life that we never had before, and I can imagine what happens when the Mitchells return home in the evening to their posh apartment at the Watergate in the Foggy Bottom part of Washington.

The attorney general enters first and checks all the closets.

"There's none in here."

Mrs. Mitchell looks under the bed. "There's none here."

They both look in the laundry room. "There's none here," the attorney general says.

MRS. MITCHELL sighs, "Oh, John, can't you do something about the liberals, so we don't have to go through this every night?"

"I'm trying, Martha. I'm working on a list of liberals to exchange for Communists with the Soviet Union. Once we get it drawn up, we'll present it to Russians at the Salt talks in Helsinki."

"Good," Mrs. Mitchell replies. "I'd rather have out-and-out Communists in this country than people with Marxist ideas who won't admit their true colors."

"Well, let's go to bed, Martha."

"SUPPOSE THEY march tonight?" Mrs. Mitchell says.

"I don't think they will. The Justice Department would have let me know if they had any plans. We should be able to get a good night's sleep."

"How do we know they're not in the lobby waiting for us to go to bed?"

"Don't you remember? I checked the lobby before I came up. There isn't a liberal in the entire Watergate complex."

"IF THEY ONLY gave us a free house, we could electrify the fence."

"Martha, you shouldn't fret."

"Why shouldn't I? This place is costing us a pretty packet and it's certainly a comedown from Rye, N.Y. Why don't we go back and make some money, John?"

"We will, Martha, but there is important work to be done. Do you know I managed to keep a Marxist Belgian professor from entering the United States last week, over the objections of the secretary of state?"

"I'm so proud of you, John. Have you done anything yet about the 55 senators who voted against Judge Haynsworth?"

"I've got everyone at Justice working on it now. We think we may be able to prove a conspiracy between the mobilization organizers, the Eastern Liberal Establishment, Joan Baez and the senators who voted against Haynsworth."

"THAT WOULD BE wonderful. John, did you hear something in the bathroom?"

"The water's running. Stay back, Martha."

The attorney general goes into the bathroom and comes out whitefaced.

"It's John Kenneth Galbraith. He's taking a shower!"

"I knew it," Martha cries. "I told you we should have never come to Washington."

Immediately upon returning from her coronation, Queen Victoria is reported to have doffed her ceremonial robes — to give her dog a bath.

COLLEGE OF MARIN

Round Scheduled On Better Image

College of Marin leaders and Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner will meet the public Tuesday in an effort by the college to improve its communication with the public.

The meeting will be the first in a series of informal planning sessions, acting President-Supt. Louis H. Herkenhoff said.

The meeting is to start at 8 p.m. in Olney Hall with Gardiner addressing the audience. The audience will then divide into small discussion groups in classrooms throughout the campus.

The college, Herkenhoff said, "must involve all interested members of the community in decision making. Many of us are seriously concerned that we may not be hearing enough of what is being said in the community, and that our voices may not be reaching the community."

The best way to give the community and students a voice in setting academic and administrative policies, Herkenhoff said, "is through face-to-face contact in the form of orderly small group discussions."

Student representatives, faculty, Herkenhoff and Dean of Students Irwin P. Diamond have planned the meeting with Lothar Salin, San Rafael printer and parks and recreation commissioner, Joe H. Stewart, Joe H. Stewart Jr., Donald A. Beacock, and Kent O. Seymour, all real estate executives, and Richard Nave, college alumnus and member of the Marin Property Owners Association.

Each discussion group will have a moderator and a secretary to record the comments. The comments will be studied at college staff meetings for solutions to problems presented.

Sonoma State Play Due Third Weekend

Repertory West's production of "Period of Adjustment" has been extended a third weekend at Sonoma State College.

The play was given last weekend and will also be performed today, tomorrow and Saturday and next weekend on Dec. 12 and 13. Performances start at 8:30 p.m. in the student lounge adjacent to the bookstore.

Press Will Tour Hall Of Justice Before Inaugural

Newspapers, radio and television representatives will get a special tour of the new $11.8 million Hall of Justice at the Marin Civic Center at 2 p.m. Monday, Assistant County Administrator John F. Barrows has announced.

The press tour will start at the main lobby (south arch) of the new building, with architect Aaron Green in charge. The purpose of the special tour is to give news media a chance to describe the new structure in pictures and print before the public open house set for 10 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 13.

"The Hall of Justice is finally completed and ready for occupancy," said Barrows. "County government offices will begin moving into the building next Monday."

The entire moving process is expected to continue through the end of this month.

Apartments Are Going Up

Construction is under way on the first 117 units of a 358-unit apartment cluster in Larkspur, city officials have announced.

Pell Development Company started construction in November on 84 units to cost $840,000, after beginning work in October on 33 apartments at a cost of $380,000. The development will be called Skylark Apartments.

The construction will be in two phases, with 192 apartments in the first phase and 166 in the second. The entire development will overlook Corte Madera Creek and Greenbrae from a hilltop west of Magnolia Avenue on Skylark Drive.

Architect for the project is Hooper, Olmsted and Emmons of San Francisco.

Union Complains To Federal Board

Charges that the Independent-Journal has discharged an employee for union activities and that it has failed "to bargain in good faith" with representatives of the International Typographical Union have been filed with the National Labor Relations Board in San Francisco.

Paul McCarthy, board field representative, said the charges, filed by the San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 on Nov. 21, are under private investigation by the board's examiners. The investigation is scheduled to be completed by Dec. 21.

Bird Search In Himalayas To Be Related

An expedition to the Himalayas in search of rare birds and rhododendron forests will be described by L. Martin Griffin Jr. when the Marin Audubon Society meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Ross Grammar School.

Griffin, chairman of Audubon Canyon Ranch, went to Nepal last spring with Howard B. Allen, president of the Marin Audubon Society, and with Robert Fleming of Katmandu were able to enter border areas previously closed to visitors. They saw more than 100 species of birds in the high-altitude terrain.
